CONVENTION FEATURES.

THE MOST INTERESTING POINTS ABOUT THE C. E.'S PROGRAMME.

Dwight L. Moody Will Start Preparatory Services Sunday Afternoon—The Convention One Round of Good Things.

Among the many lasting impressions which will follow the Christian Endeavor convention to be held in this city next week, will be the work of the Plainfield 1896 Committee of which so much has been heard from time to time. E. E. Anthony is the chairman of this most excellent committee, and that all have worked hard and persistently cannot be denied. Everything possible has been looked after so that there will be no hitch or mistake. There are a number of people who will like to know about some of the best things on the programme, and as it would be impossible for everybody to have a programme, this opportunity is taken to give the readers of The Daily Press an idea of what the convention will do.

Next Saturday night at 7:45 Dwight L. Moody will open services of a preparatory nature. He will be assisted by F. H. Burke, the musical director, of Chicago, and a large chorus-choir. The next meeting will be held in what is to be known as Convention Hall on Watchung avenue Sunday afternoon at 4:15 o'clock. Sunday evening another meeting will be held at the same place at 7:45 o'clock. On Monday and Tuesday afternoons the meetings will be held in the Trinity Reformed and Crescent Avenue churches. In the evenings the services will be held at Convention Hall. Wednesday morning at 11 o'clock and in the afternoon at 2 o'clock there will be conferences of evangelistic workers at the First Presbyterian church. The same afternoon at 4 o'clock Mr. Moody will conduct a service at the above church and in the evening at the First Baptist church.

Wednesday evening at 7:30 the great convention will be opened. State President Rev. J. Clement French will preside. There will be addresses of welcome by Mayor Gilbert, of this city, Mayor Hegeman, of the borough, Rev. Cornelius Schench and E. E. Anthony. The response and annual address will be made by President French. The opening sermon will be delivered by Rev. T. Dewitt Talmage, D. D., of Washington. Thursday morning at 6:45 a sunrise prayer meeting will be held at Trinity Reformed church. At 11 o'clock the same morning, at Convention Hall, Mr. Moody will tell "How Endeavorers can reach people who do not go to church." Thursday afternoon a missionary session will be held at 2:15 at Convention Hall. Some of the speakers will be Miss Alice Spangenberg, Rev. Cortland Myers, D. D., of Brooklyn, and several workers from foreign fields. At 4 o'clock that afternoon Rev. B. B. Tyler, D. D., of New York, will conduct a service at the First M. E. church. In the evening at 7:30 at Convention Hall a good citizenship meeting will be held, to be addressed by Rev. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon. His excellency, John W. Griggs, Governor of New Jersey, and Rev. A. C. Dixon, of Brooklyn. Rutgers College Glee Club will also appear at this meeting. Thursday evening at 7:45 Mr. Moody will conduct a service at the First Baptist church. A World Wide Endeavor session will be held at the same time at Convention Hall, when addresses will be made by Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, of Moorestown, Rev. A. C. Dixon, of Brooklyn; Rev. E. Ryerson Young, of Toronto; Miss Margaret Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon; and Frederick D. Green, of VanArmenia.

Friday morning another sunrise meeting will be held at the Seventh Day Baptist church. The general session will be held at Convention Hall at 9 o'clock, when a number of papers will be presented, and there will be brief addresses by theological students, also addresses by Rev. Isaac J. Lansing, of Boston, and Wm. Shaw, Treasurer of the United Society of Christian Endeavor. Friday afternoon, at 2 o'clock, the Junior Workers' session will be held at Convention Hall. The speakers will be Rev. A. W. Spooner, of Camden, Rev. I. Whitcomb Brougher, of Patterson. A Junior Christian Endeavor parade will be seen at 3 o'clock.

A half hour later in the Convention Hall a Juniors' service will be held. There will be speakers of prominence including Rev. Mr. Spooner, Rev. C. H. Tyndall, and Rev. W. R. Ackert, of Hoboken. At the same time the Senior society will hold committee conferences in the various churches, also denominational rallies.

The closing and consecration services will be held in the Crescent Avenue church and Convention Hall at 7:30, Friday evening. At the same time Rev. B. B. Tyler, will make an address in the First Baptist church. Mr. Moody will speak at Convention Hall, while Rev. Mr. Jones, of Bayonne; Rev. Mr. Riggs, of New Brunswick, and Wm. Shaw, of Boston, will speak at the Crescent avenue church.

GOLF A POPULAR GAME

LADIES ARE BECOMING QUITE EXPERT ON THE LINKS.

Councilman Fisk Has Offered a Silver Cup for the Handicap Junior Contest—The Course is in Fine Condition.

Golf is fast becoming one of the leading sports of Plainfield's young people. But the younger set are not the only ones that are taking up the game. Many of the older members of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club are now becoming quite proficient in the art of driving the ball over the club's links. The new clubhouse is an added attraction at the links, and every fine day sees quite a number trying their skill. The gentler sex is quite often represented, for a number of Plainfield's fair ladies have learned the game and are now able to make things lively for some of their companions of the sterner sex.

Golf is a game that can be played all the year round, and so, as the summer declines, the interest does not appear to wane in the least. The team will continue to play with outside clubs. On Saturday a team representing the Morristown Field Club will meet the Plainfield golfers on the links in this city. For Oct. 17th a game has been scheduled with the New Brunswick Golf Club on the latter's grounds.

The junior members of the club have taken up the game, and for their benefit and encouragement Councilman Charles J. Fisk has offered a silver cup as a prize in a handicap junior tournament. Saturday, Oct. 10th, is the date set for the playing of that tournament, and on October 24th, the club championship will be played for.

The links are in excellent condition and the greens as smooth as could be desired. The mole, the great enemy of the green keeper, occasionally invades the smooth turf, but an active campaign will be started against him and continued until he is exterminated.

CARNIVAL PRIZES IN SIGHT.

The General Committee Decided to Distribute Them Next Week.

The prize winners at the recent daylight Bicycle Carnival will receive their prizes next week without fail, for last evening the general committee met for the last time and settled up all accounts and adjourned sine die. SILVER HOSE CART HOME AGAIN.

Returns From the Factory a Glittering Piece of Work.

The beautiful and costly Alert Hose Company's silver mounted hose carriage, which has been in Fitzgibbom and Crisp's factory at Trenton, undergoing repairs on account of its being in the Fisk fire here some months ago, and which has been in the factory for the past six weeks, arrived home on a flat car at one o'clock this morning. The car was sidetracked in the rear of the old freight house, and many of the commuters and others on the early trains stopped to get a glimpse of Plainfield's silver carriage. P. A. Harrison accompanied the carriage here from Trenton, and sat on the car all the way in transit and until moving, so there could be no possible chance of disfiguring or mulitating the valuable piece of work.

When the train pulled out of Bound Brook, however, three or four suspicious looking characters attempted to board the car, to steal, as they said, a ride to Plainfield. But Mr. Harrison told them that the car was in his charge for the time being at least, and they were summarily bounced.

Look Here, Boys.

It is earnestly desired that all boys who intend joining the Boys Club will be present at the new quarters on Sycamore street tomorrow evening. At that time boys can arrange to become members of the club.

SIR KNIGHTS SEE THE CITY IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE.

THE VISITORS RECEIVED BY TRINITY COMMANDERY AS THEY ARRIVED.

The Air a Trifle Cool, But Still It Is Good Parade Weather—Inspected in Front of the Revere House at 2 o'Clock—Reception in the Asylum After the Parade—Addresses by Grand Officers.

Rousing strains of music float in from every side, strangers clad in showy uniform pass by and there is a holiday air that reaches everywhere. The Knights Templars have come. For several days the city has been preparing to receive the members of that well-known Masonic order and today they hold they are holding their State Field Day.

The city has assumed a gay and cheerful appearance. The stores are decorated, so are the hotels and the private residences, for everyboby is willing to do honor to the Sir Knights. Not only have the different commanderies temporarily swelled the population of the city, but their families, many of them, have come, and then there is a crowd of visitors who have come to see the parade.

The day is a beautiful one, a better one could not be wished, clear but not cool enough to be uncomfortable. The recent storm has left the streets in excellent shape and the visitors will be given a chance to see Plainfield at its best. The people of this city have turned out to see the Sir Knights in parade and if they are not amply satisfied with their reception it will be, indeed, surprising.

Every detail for the care of the visitors had been made before today and no expense was spared to look after them in a right royal manner. The triumphal arch was complete in its place across Park avenue near Front street and looks very handsome in its artistic dress in the colors of the order, black and white, and the insignia of the order hung from the center.

The city is now in possession of these Sir Knights, whose handsome black uniforms, with gold and silver decorations and bright accoutrements, give them a very marshal appearance. Some wear the plain fatigue caps, while others wear the full dress chappeau with the long white plume. They are a solid-looking lot of men, some old men, others young stalwart fellows, but substantial and intellectual looking.

ARRIVAL AND RECEPTION.

The Visiting Commanderies Welcomed by the Plainfield Knights.

Although next to the youngest of all the commanderies in the State, Trinity has been chosen as host for the annual field day of the Knights Templar. And the members had plenty to do in receiving and looking after the visitors. A detachment of the commandery in fatigue uniform, commanded by Captain-General Walter H. Freeman, met at the asylum in the Babcock building this morning and marched to the North Avenue station accompanied by the Plainfield Cornet Band. Here Eminent Sir Knight W. H. Sebring, Past Commander B. F. Coriell, Eminent Sir Knight D. F. Adams and Sir Knight J. H. H. Pollion were on duty ready to receive the guests.

The first commandery to arrive was the Corson Commandery, of Asbury Park, accompanied by a band of Newark, at about ten o'clock. They fell in line, about forty of them, and with banners flying and plumes waving, were escorted to their headquartear at the Hotel Tuileries by a detail commanded by Past Commander B. F. Coriell. The detail consisted of Sir Knights F. A. Dunham, F. K. VanAnken, J. A. Smith, Nathan Robins, Frank Kinsman and Hugh Knox.

The De Molay Commandery, of Washington, arrived ten munites later with the Washington Band and was met by Sir Knight O. T. Waring and Sir Knight J. J. Pollion, who commanded the escorting detail and escorted the visitors to their headquarters at the City Hotel. This deteil was composed of T. H. Keller, F. A. Pope, Jr., E. H. Cleveley, F. O. Herring, Henry Woodland, A. F. Brokaw, and J. Ringleman. About forty of the Washington Sir Knights were in line.

They were just marching away from the station when a special train of five cars arrived bringing the Sir Knights of the Damascus Commandery, of Newark, and the Melita Commandery of Paterson, and the members of Voss' First Regiment Band, of Newark. With them came the families of many of the Sir Knights. Past Commander B. F. Coriell and Sir Knight J. J. H. Poillon received them and escorted them, accompanied by Captain General Freeman and a detail from the Trinity Commandery, up Park avenue to their headquarters at the Revere House. They numbered altogether nearly 150 Sir Knights.

The Hugh DePayne Commandery, of Jersey City, with about twenty-five Sir Knights, arrived half an hour later and was escorted by a detail of the home commandery and the Plainfield Cornet Band to their headquarters at the City Hotel.

While all the commanderies were the guests of the Plainfield Sir Knights, they had especially invited the Clinton Commandery, of Brooklyn, and the Temple Commandery, of Metuchen. These two commanderies, numbering about 100 Sir Knights in all, were received by Commander Jacob Kirkner and Sir Knight J. J. Poillon and escorted to the corner of North and Watchung avenues, where Superintendent Adelman of the Street Railway had placed two open cars at the disposal of the Sir Knights and they were conveyed to the Somerset street terminus, where stages carried them up to the Mountain Park Inn. There dinner was served.

St. John's Commandery, of Elizabeth, arrived shortly before 1 o'clock. Their headquarters were at the Asylum in the Babcock building.

THE DECORATIONS.

The Whole Town is in Holiday Attire in Honor of the Event.

The invitation of the Knight Templars to decorate was well responded to by Plainfield's business men and yesterday the city began to assume a festal appearance. Last evening and this morning all was activity among the decorators and the business section is now a mass of red, white, blue and black, in all combinations and variations, while banners wave and everything has a holiday appearance.

The Hotel Grenada is decorated the most elaborately of any building on North avenue. Rosettes of American and tri colored flags cover the railings to the two balconies while small flags hang from convient points. Among the other business men on North avenue to decorate are A. D. Mallinson, W. D. Thickston, R. O. Howell, Hillier & Co., Chas. H. Lyman, Van Buren & Timpson, E. H. Clevely, H. E. Rider, Woolston & Buckle, W. J. Ford, Eli Odam, Dan Roberts, McVey's restaurant, Smalley Brothers, Warnock's bakery, Addis & Son, L. Paoli & Son, J. W. VanSickle, A. Lusarde, and A. Titsworth & Co., and and the Daily Press.

On Park avenue, there are a number of handsome decorations. The front of the Revere House is almost hidden under a tasteful arrangement of draped American and tri colored flags, while black and white bunting is artistically placed here and there. Streamers of the National colors are intermingled while a shield surrounded by small flags hangs over the entrance. The City Hotel is transformed in appearance. Bunting and flags are draped and festooned about the walls and balconies with red, white and blue streamers here and there, while the Park avenue entrance is surrounded by flags and surmounted by a decorated shield. The Codington building opposite is decorated in a similar manner with large flags draped from the cornice. Marsh, Ayers & Company's building is also of the same style. P. M. Demarest & Son's store is very prettily dressed out in red, white and blue. The windows are half-covered with the tri-colored tissue paper rope, while long streamers of colored bunting are stretched from the top of the building to the first floor. Rosettes of bunting are placed around and above the windows.

Findlay has an emblematic sign of the Knights Templar suspended over Second street by streamers of varied colored bunting.

Among the other decorators on Park avenue are J. M. Harper, G. V. W. Moy, A. M. Runyon & Son, Geo. W. Rockfellow, F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company, C. M. Thorpe, V. W. Nash, F. W. Dunn, Miss A. E. Lincoln, Armstrong's pharmacy, L. A. Hummer, G. Pack, James Dunn, John Rafferty, Rising Sun Brewing Company's saloon, M. C. Dobbins, Ed Maynard, L. Moraller & Son, E. M. Laing, Marky's bakery, John Tier, B. R. Force, Geo. Kesselring, J. R. Blair, F. G. Hui, E. M. Estil, Alex. Willeck, Asa Collier and James Ross.

On Front street the principal dec-

NOT IDENTIFIED AS YET.

THE BODY FOUND AT FANWOOD STILL REMAINS A MYSTERY.

A Number of People Who Have Missing Relatives Have Come Here Only to Go Away Without Identifying the Unknown.

The body of the unknown man found at Fanwood several days ago is still at Undertaker Casey's morgue, awaiting identification, and unless some one comes forward and claims the body, it will probably be interred within forty-eight hours. Undertaker Casey is simply awaiting the decision of the County Physician.

Several persons called at the morgue yesterday and were shown the remains but none of them could identify the body. One middle aged German woman from Jersey City Heights, who said that her husband had been missing for nine months, called at the undertaker's rooms, and was shown the corpse, but she could not identify it as that of her husband. She said that while suffering from an aggravated attack of the grip, he had wandered away from home, and had never returned.

Relatives of a missing man named Barnum, a sign writer in New York, having read of the mysterious case, came out yesterday and went to the morgue, but they, too, were unable to identify the dead man. They said he was an experienced painter, earned $100 a month, and had been missing for some time. When others were told of the height and general appearance of the man when in life, they went away feeling assured that the man was none of their kin.

And so the mystery deepens instead of its being unraveled. Yet County Physician Westcott and the authorities in this and other cities are exerting themselves to establish identification, if possible.

UNION COUNTY CONVENTIONS.

Republican Committee Names the Dates—Sound Money Democrats to Organize.

The Union County Republican Executive Committee has selected Oct. 22d for holding the county convention to nominate candidates for Senator and Sheriff and also three Assemblymen. The convention will be held in the Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, where the Congress district convention will be held Oct. 8th. The primaries for the latter will be held on Oct. 5th, and for the county convention on October 19th.

The committee has decided that all primaries should in the future be held at the same hour and same night throughout the county.

The Gold Standard Democrats of Elizabeth have issued a call for a meeting tonight at the Kean building to lay out a plan of campaign and form an organization. The call is signed by ex-County Clerk Henry R. Cannon, Comptroller Albert B. Carton, ex-City Treasurer John W. Whelan, Arthur T. Pendleton, Wm. Birnie, Jr., Frederick J. Blatz and Thos. B. Budd, for many years chairman of the Democratic executive committee of the county.

Knocked Down by a Carriage.

Mrs. Skinner, an aged woman, living at the corner of West Second street and Madison avenue, was knocked down this morning by a passing carriage at the corner of Front street and Park avenue, while attempting to cross the street. She was picked up by James Nolan, of Hillside avenue, and taken to J. J. Kenney's shoe store, where she was taken care of. Later she was removed to the home of her son, Robert Skinner, on Spooner avenue. Mrs. Skinner complained of pains in her side, which no doubt resulted from the accident, but her injuries are not considered serious.

High Winds at Dunellen.

The extraordinary high winds which prevailed about two o'clock yesterday morning, was the cause of blowing out the northwest end of Taylor's hotel stables at Dunellen. The entire front of the building was blown out and the heavy timbers fell with a crash that could be heard two blocks away. Yet Theodore NanNest, the hostler, who was sleeping in his room in the upper story, never heard the racket, and was surprised when getting up next morning to see the entire front of the building out.

A Large Corset Purchase.

Edward White has bought at auction the best part of the stock of the celebrated S. C. corsets. He bought them at one-third their regular price and will sell them at the same rate. The S. C. corsets are one of the best manufactured. Sale commences tomorrow morning.

THE FIREMEN'S PARADE

THE LINE OF MARCH AND OTHER DETAILS DECIDED UPON.

The Parade to Start at 2 o'Clock in the Afternoon, After Which Will Come an Exhibition Run and a Bountiful Repast

The committee having in charge the firemen's celebration to be held in Plainfield on Saturday met last evening and and arranged all details for the event, including the order of marching and the line of march. The committee and sub committees have all worked in harmony and with great success and there is not the slightest reason why the affair should not be complete in every particular. This is the first time in several years that Plainfield has arranged a firemen's celebration, and all should help as much as possible in making it a success.

Below will be found the line of march and the order of the marching:

Form on North avenue 2 p. m. sharp, right resting on Watchung avenue to Seventh street. Pass reviewing stand at Casino to Central avenue, to Front street to Grove street, to Lincoln place, to Somerset street, to Front street, to Park avenue, to Crescent avenue, where a double review will take place, to Watchung avenue, to Cycle Academy, where a collation will be served, at which time a welcome address will be given by His Honor Mayor Alexander Gilbert, also an address by His Honor Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., of North Plainfield, and others. About 4:30 p. m. box No. 25, corner of Watchung avenue and Seventh street, will be pulled for a department exhibition run. It is hoped that all citizens on the line of march will extend a hearty welcome and will decorate freely. At the Casino the parade will be reviewed by the Mayor and city officials and the Mayor and borough officials of North Plainfield.

Pulled the String and Onions Flew Out.

A rather unique and up-to-date entertainment was given at the residence of Mr. and Mrs. E. H. Ladd, on Franklin place, last evening, the occasion being Mr. Ladd's birthday celebration. During the evening Mr. and Mrs. F. H. Andrews, Mr. and Mrs. William Pinto and Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Barrows all arrived in farmers' costumes, carrying Jack-o'-lanterns, and during their stay Mr. Ladd was presented with a well-arranged basket of vegetables. One of the lady guests also brought along a "Jack Horner pie," artistically decorated with ribbons and whatnot. When the ribbons were pulled there was a general disclosure of and a fine display of vegetables of various sizes and shapes. On the whole the evening was most enjoyably spent, and it is unnecessary to state that the refreshments were of the highest order.

More Charges Against Edwards.

C. A. P. Edwards, late agent in Union County for Horace Waters & Co., piano manufacturers in New York City, was rearrested yesterday morning at Elizabeth on four additional charges of embezzlement made against him by the firm. The amount involved in the complaint is $189. He pleaded not guilty and was locked up until he could obtain bail. Edwards was arrested a couple of weeks ago on two charges made by the firm, the amount involved at that time being $369. The investigation of his books and accounts is still in progress. Alderman VanVoorhis and William H. Reynolds are his bondsmen on the former complaints.

ROYAL HYPOCHONDRIACS.

Two Women Who Imagine They Are Dying of Consumption.

Much has been heard about the delicate state of health of the crown princess of Sweden, who for three years has been reported in the last stage of consumption. It has even been proclaimed at the beginning of each winter that she could not possibly live through it. It is somewhat startling, therefore, to learn that a consultation of the most eminent German, Swedish and French specialists, assembled for the purpose at Baden-Baden, has resulted in a definite decision that there is nothing on earth the matter with the princess save a nervous ailment of a hypochondriac character, almost identical with that from which her mother-in-law, the queen of Sweden, is suffering. These great medical authorities have at length decided that her throat and lungs are in an absolutely healthy condition; that the physicians who have been humoring her firm convictions that she was dying of tuberculosis and treating her for that ailment have been culpable of preferring to court the favor of their royal patient rather than to give an honest diagnosis, and that there was no reason whatever for her passing her winters in a hot climate, such as that of Cairo, Biskra in Algiers, and in Sicily, as she has hitherto been in the habit of doing.

All this must be exceedingly mortifying to the relatives of the princess, all the more when they recall to mind the fuss made about her, especially when traveling. The young lady has insisted on being conveyed to and from her railway carriage in a litter, apparently in an almost unconscious condition. It remains to be seen what the worthy Swedes will say to this. They have hitherto been content to dispense with the princess' presence at Stockholm on the understanding that the condition of her lungs did not admit of her living there. Married in 1881, she has scarcely spent more than eight months in Sweden in as many years, and inasmuch as the queen, like herself, imagines herself to be dying, the Swedish court has remained to all intents and purposes without any lady at its head, the only other one of King Oscar's sons who is married being his second, who contracted a morganatic alliance. The worst feature of the whole affair is that the crown princess has been content to live almost permanently apart from her three little boys, the eldest 12 and the youngest six years old, who stays permanently with their father, the crown prince, in Sweden, among the people over whom the eldest of them is eventually to reign.

The funny point in all this is that the Swedes have undergone almost identically the same experience with their queen, who has been a confirmed hypochondriac for years, and has imagined herself into a state of debility from which she will probably never recover. For years she consulted the leading specialists of Europe, but only two, Dr. Metzgar, of Amsterdam and Wiesbaden, and Dr. Friederichs, of Heidelberg, had the courage to tell her that her malady was of a purely imaginary character, and that if she was suffering from anything it was merely from the medicines given her by her complaisant physicians, who had found it worth their while to humor her belief that she was a consumptive.

There are, of course, many hypochondriacs of this kind—people who are convinced that they are suffering from every malady under the sun—and one of the most eminent and famous specialists in diseases of the chest in London openly confessed on one occasion that at least 80 per cent. of the great ladies thronging his waiting-room were afflicted with purely imaginary complaints. "It would not do, however, to tell them so. If I were to do this they would merely go to some other physician and complain everywhere of me as incapable of undertaking their case."

It is all the more astonishing that the crown princess of Sweden should have turned out thus, as she has received a most thorough and sensible education, her mother, the grand duchess of Baden, only daughter of old Emperor William, being one of the most shrewd, unaffected and kind-hearted women in Europe, and most deservedly popular.—N. Y. Tribune.

Back to Town.

And now they're flocking homeward
From mountain and from sea—
The pretty girls, the witty girls,
The girls of high degree;
The girls who flirted day and night;
The girls demure and shy,
Who thought flirtation wasn't right—
When no young man was nigh.

They all are flocking homeward,
To theater and ball,
To cloaks and gloves and other loves
Which come with frosty fall.
They're summer girls no longer now—
They'll never be again,
For summer girls are sure, somehow,
To marry winter men!

The Home Coming.

In glad green fields sweet bells are ringing:
In woodlands dim a thrush is singing.
And fountains at thy feet are springing.

In vine-clad cots the lights are shining,
Where rise no songs of sad repining,
And roses for thy rest are twining.

And one awaits thy kiss—thy greeting:
Thy heart her dear name is repeating
And times thy footsteps with its beating.

Sweet is thy toil—thy strong endeavor,
And neither life nor death shall sever
Thy heart from love that lives forever!

EFFORTS OF THE POETS.

Evening Song.

When all the weary flowers,
Worn out with sunlit hours,
Droop o'er the garden beds
Their little sleepy heads,
The dewy dusk on quiet wings comes stealing;
And, as the night descends,
The shadows troop like friends
To bring them healing.

So, weary of the light
Of Life too full and bright,
We long for night to fall
To wrap us from it all;
Then death on dewy wings draws near and holds us,
And, like a kind friend come
To children far from home,
With love enfolds us.

But when the night is done,
Fresh to the morning sun,
Their little faces yet
With night's soft dewdrops wet
The flowers awake to the new day's new graces,
And we—ah! shall we, too,
Turn to a day-dawn new
Our, tear-wet faces?

—Pall Mall Gazette.

An Autumn Night.

Some things are good on autumn nights,
When with the storm the forest fights,
And in the room the heaped hearth lights
Old-fashioned press and rafter:
Plump chestnuts hissing in the heat,
A mug of cider, sharp and sweet,
And at your side a face petite
With lips of laughter.

Upon the roof the rolling rain,
And, tapping at the window-pane,
The wind, that seems a witch's cane
That summons spells together:
A hand within your own awhile,
A mouth reflecting back your smile,
And eyes, two stars, whose beams exile
All thoughts of weather.

And, while the wind lulls, still to sit
And watch her fire-lit needles flit
A knittin' and to feel her knit
Your very heartstrings in it;
Then, the old clock ticks, 'tis late,
To rise, and at the door to wait
Three words, or at the garden gate
A kissing minute.

A Song of the Fields.

The reapers—they are singing in the fields of golden grain,
And a merry song is ringing o'er the mountain and the plain:
And it's ho! for love and living, since no blessing He denies,
And the sweetest song's thanksgiving from the glad earth to the skies!

The reapers—they are singing; for the harvest smiles to God,
Where His heavenly benediction gave the color to the clod;
There is a gladness in the morning; there is gladness in the night;
For the corn is hanging heavy and the cotton fields are white.

The reapers—they are singing: for the summer days are past,
And toil is crowned with plenty, and sweet reward at last;
And it's ho! for love and living, for no blessing He denies;
And songs of sweet thanksgiving go in music to the skies!

—F. L. Stanton, in Atlanta Constitution.

Canoeing.

The white clouds race across the blue;
The white foam flecks the bay;
Who would not float and follow, lads,
As fast and far as they!
Off coats and kneel, alert to meet
Each impulse gay or grave,
And cleave a rippling line of light
Athwart the wind and wave!

Sometimes the idle paddle owns
The sheltered inlet's charms;
Sometimes the urgent rapid strains
Against our tireless arms;
Sometimes through drowsy afternoons
Those river reaches gleam
Wherever weary willows nod
And whisper in their dream.

And though, the dreaded portage past,
Our camp-fire gilds the brakes,
We scarcely fall asleep before
A fresh, new morning wakes.
Push off, then! Leave this gray old earth
To milder men than we,
Full brothers of the open sky,
Near kinsmen to the sea!

—Walter L. Sawyer, in Youth's Companion.

Cheer Up.

Cheer up, ye toilers of the earth,
And pray, peruse my rhyme;
The millionaire can only eat
One dinner at a time!

One bed a night alone can rest
That form we envy so,
And just one journey at a time
Is all that he can go!

His clothes and hats and shoes may be
Superb beyond compare;
But just one set of each at once
Is all that he can wear.

There are so many, many things
His money cannot buy
And when he's ill, he's just as ill
As either you or I.

—N. Y. Recorder.

The Introspective Scorcher.

I am the scorcher!
Please observe
The curve
That appertains unto my spine!
With head ducked low
I go
O'er man and beast, and woe
Unto the thing
That fails to scamper when I ting-a-ling!
Let people jaw
And go to law
To try to check my gait,
If that's their game!
I hate
To kill folks, but I'll do it just the same,
I guess,
Unless
They clear the track for me;
Because, you see,
I am the scorcher, full of zeal,
And just the thing I look like on the wheel!

—Cleveland Leader.

Inventor of the Treadmill.

The treadwheel, or treadmill, as it is usually termed, its purpose generally having been for grinding corn or turning machinery, was the invention of Mr. Cubitt, an engineer of Lowestoft, England, the notion of such a piece of mechanism owing its conception to an accident.—Chicago Tribune.

—How contemptibly men kick and wrangle over a dollar, and how magnificently they throw it away!

INVENTIVE THIEVES.

How They Took a Bicycle from Its Owner on a Bet.

According to this story, taken from the New York Herald, the bicycle thief is inventive this year. A young man was practicing circles in front of his house when two fellows stopped on the pavement to admire him. One of them asked how much the wheel weighed, and the young man said it weighed 22 pounds.

The smaller of the two said that was too light, and that he believed in wheels weighing at least 30 pounds. Also, he mentioned that he once came in first in a ten-mile race and rode a wheel weighing 38 pounds. At this the larger of the strangers laughed derisively and said:

"What do you know about wheels?"

"Why, I've ridden more wheels than you ever saw," replied the other.

"I don't believe you can ride at all."

"I'll bet you five dollars I can. Let me show him on your wheel. I won't hurt it."

He could ride all right. He wobbled slowly on the wheel for a short distance, and then swished around the corner and was away like the wind.

"You'd better run after that fellow," said the stranger. "I don't know him."

The owner of the wheel set off, but the short stranger must have been a mile away by that time. Then when the owner came back the big stranger had also gone.

Poker Terms.

"Twins, your majesty," announced the nurse, "and both girls."

The king started violently. "Well, that beats me!" he exclaimed, with emotion.—Detroit Tribune.

5 Sores

In combination, proportion and process Hood's Sarsaparilla is peculiar to itself, and unequalled in true merit.

No other medicine ever possessed so much curative power, or reached such enormous sales, or made such wonderful cures, as Hood's Sarsaparilla.

It is undoubtedly the best medicine ever made to purify, vitalize and enrich the blood.

That is the secret of its success.

Read this statement:

"When my son was 7 years of age, he had rheumatic fever and acute rheumatism, which settled in his left hip. He was so sick that no one thought there was any help for him. Five sores broke out on his thigh, which the doctor said were sores. We had three different doctors. Pieces of bone came out of the sores. The last doctor said the leg would have to be cut open and the bone scraped, before he could get well. Howard became so low that he would eat nothing, and one doctor said there was no chance for him.

"One day, a newspaper recommending Hood's Sarsaparilla was left at our door. We decided to try this medicine. Howard commenced taking it the last of February, after having been sick for a year and a half. He hadn't taken it a week before I saw that his appetite began to improve, and then he gained rapidly. I gave him five bottles, when the sores were all healed and they never broke out again. The crutches he had used for four years were laid aside, as he had no further use for them. I give all the credit to Hood's Sarsaparilla." MRS. ADA L. MOODY, Fay Street, Lynn, Mass.

One Minute Late

It makes no difference whether you were one minute or one hour late, if you missed the train. Better get there on time, even if you have to wait. One hour early is better than one minute late. Delay costs thousands of lives each year. "Neglected colds" is the beginning of the story; and consumption is the end. Few remedies, and but little of them, cure in the beginning. Later, many remedies long continued, and tedious journeys, too frequently end in disappointment.

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites soothes the cough, heals the inflamed membranes, and restores the parts to a healthy condition. This it does promptly and permanently, if taken in time. One bottle does more now than five would accomplish later on. If weak, pale, and thin, Scott's Emulsion will give you strength, color, and flesh.

Does It

—you do—we do. When we enter a room we immediately glance at the wall paper. We do it instinctively, for while the wall decoration is seemingly insignificant and unobtrusive, it lays the foundation for the beauty of the room. With inartistic paper you may work forever, and there will be something wrong about the rooms. While the right paper, well, it will almost furnish an empty room. TO REGULATE HORSESHOEING.

A Board of Examiners Appointed Under the New New York Law.

Albany, Oct 1.—Gov. Morton has appointed a board to have charge of the examination of horseshoers in cities of over 50,000 inhabitants. The law under which the examiners were appointed was introduced and passed at the last session of the legislature by assemblyman Daniel Finn of New York. Hereafter no person shall practice horseshoeing as a master or journeyman horseshoer in any city having a population of 50,000 or more, unless he is duly registered in a book kept for that purpose in the office of the county clerk. No person shall be entitled to register as master or journeyman horseshoer without presenting a certificate of satisfactory examination before the board of examiners and whose qualifications for examination shall be that he has served an apprenticeship at horseshoeing for at least three years.

HABITUAL MORPHINE USER.

The Mysterious American Woman in Vienna Submits to Tracheotomy.

Vienna, Oct. 1.—Constance Elroy, the American woman who on Monday visited the American consulate here in great distress and was induced by Consul General Judd and his wife to remain as their guest until her circumstances should improve, and who after retiring for the night was discovered to have taken a large dose of morphine, has undergone the operation of tracheotomy. She says she is a close friend of the wife of a government official at Washington and admits that she is an habitual user of morphine. On Monday she received a letter from her husband, which excited her greatly, and it is surmised that this fact may have had some connection with her taking the dose of morphine which nearly proved fatal.

AWFUL ATTEMPT AT SUICIDE.

An Asbury Park Man Beats His Face with a Monkey Wrench.

Asbury Park, N. J., Oct. 1.—Jerome R. Muddell, captain of company A, Third New Jersey regiment, attempted suicide yesterday afternoon by beating in his face with a monkey wrench which he found in his barn. He was discovered by one of his neighbors, who took the weapon from him. Muddell was carried to his home in a serious condition and attended by five physicians. For several weeks Muddell has been acting queerly, but it was not thought that he would attempt suicide. He is collector and treasurer of Bradley Beach, treasurer of the Firemen's Relief association and a member of the board of education of Neptune township.

MURDERED BY BRIGANDS.

Fate of Two Men in Bulgaria Because a Big Ransom Was Not Forthcoming.

Vienna, Oct. 1.—Advices received here from Belgrade say that a brother of the Austrian consul at Seres, Macedonia, who was carried of by a band of Bulgarian brigands some two weeks ago, with a wealthy Greek landed proprietor and others, has been murdered with four of his companions because the ransom of $50,000 demanded by the brigands as the price of their liberty was not forthcoming. At one time it was reported that it was the Austrian consul himself who had been kidnapped. This rumor was contradicted some time ago.

Inter-State Fair at Trenton.

Trenton, Oct. 1.—To-day is "Politicians Day" at the inter-state fair and a great crowd is in attendance. Garrett A. Hobart, the republican candidate for vice-president, is on hand, but will not make any speech. The original intention of having Mr. Bryan was abandoned because Mr. Bryan's itinerary prevented his attending conveniently. Twenty-five thousand persons were in attendance yesterday. It was "Farmers' Day," and the rural element was well represented. The racing was good.

Bohemian Coal Miners' Strike.

Prague, Oct. 1.—A serious strike is in progress throughout the coal regions of northern Bohemia, due to the incitement of anarchists. A band of about fifty strikers has been marching from pit to pit at Bruex, forcing the miners to stop work, and at Ossegg and elsewhere the strikers are smashing windows or doing other damage, besides intimidating the miners. The managers of the miners have asked for military protection.

SOUDAN CAMPAIGN

No Advance South of Dongola To Be Made This Year.

THE PROVINCE WILL BE HELD

Stragetic Points To Be Permanently Strengthened and Gunboats Will Patrol the River—Other Improvements To Be Pushed.

London, Oct. 1.—It is semi-officially announced that no advance of the Anglo-Egyptian expedition south of Dongola is contemplated during 1895. The whole province of Dongola will be held, and Korti and El Dabbeh, strategic points south of and on the road to Dongola, will be permanently garrisoned, and gunboats will patrol the river. The province of Dongola will be reorganized. British-Egyptian administrators will be appointed, a police force will be established, only British troops with machine guns and gunners will be kept to the front, the railway will be completed to Kaibar, at the last cataract north of Dongola, and the work will be done under the supervision of British engineers. It is explained that further advance at present is impossible owing to the condition of the Egyptian finances. The Chronicle says that the ministerial committee of national defence has been summoned to London for the end of the week to consider affairs connected with the Soudan. It is probable that Field Marshal Wolseley, commander-in-chief of the army, will be in attendance.

ENTERTAINED THE CHAMPIONS.

The Baltimore Team Dined and Given a Benefit Performance Last Night.

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—The champion baseball team had a busy day and a benefit last night. The boys returned early in the morning from a barnstorming tour in Pennsylvania, and played an exhibition game of ball with the Catonsville County club at the Casino grounds yesterday afternoon. The team was entertained at dinner at the club house, and then went to their benefit performance at Ford's opera house. Mr. Ford dedicated his house for the night to the pennant winners and arranged an attractive programme. A big crowd assembled. The performance included a song of "How they won the pennant," and stereopticon views of each player in uniform and in characteristic position. To-day the first temple cup game will be played.

Fatal Theater Fire and Panic.

Aberdeen, Oct. 1.—During the progress of the performance in the People's Palace Variety in this city last evening a fire broke out and the audience was thrown into a panic and made a rush for the exits. A number of those present were seriously burned, and others were crushed by the wild endeavors of the frantic crowd to reach the street. At least forty persons were injured, four of them fatally. Several persons are reported to be missing. The building was completely gutted by the flames.

Will Not Use Meyers Ballot Machines.

Mt. Vernon, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The common council of this city held a special meeting last night and on advice of corporation counsel David Switts decided not to use the Meyers ballot machine at the national election in November. The corporation counsel decided that the machine would invalidate the election, as the law gives the voter the right to vote for or against any elector, or for any person he may choose for any office. This cannot be done with the ballot machines.

Designated as Associate Justice.

Albany, Oct. 1.—Gov. Morton has designated Justice George B. Bradley of Corning, N. Y., as associate justice of the appellate division, supreme court, in the second judicial department, in the place made vacant by the death of Justice Calvin E. Pratt. During Justice Pratt's illness and since his death the place has been occupied by Justice Morgan J. O'Brien of New York city, under a temporary designation.

Grain Riots in India.

Bombay, Oct. 1.—A serious condition of affairs exists in the provinces of northern and central India on account of the continued drought. Grain riots have taken place in several centres, and further trouble is apprehended. The authorities have taken every precaution to suppress disorder, and are taking all the steps available to relieve the distress existing.

Wants Damages for False Imprisonment.

Providence, Oct. 1.—George Cherterman, the New York clubman, has brought suit for $10,000 against Chief of Polic Champlin of Narragansett Pier for false imprisonment. He was arrested September 3 on the complaint of William J. Conley, who charged him with larceny of two notes. He was discharged at Jefferson Market court for lack of evidence.

Off on a Hobo Trip for a Wager.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 1.—A young lad, Herman Arnold, left for Washington yesterday on a wager to go and return in sixteen days, but to start without a penny. He left via the ferries for New London, and first earned his fare by selling some song books. He bears a note from Col. Loder of Fort Adams to the war department.

Another Rains Special Agent.

Albany, Oct. 1.—State Excise Commissioner Lyman has appointed C. Alward Manchester of Aurora as a special excise agent under the Raines law.

Internal Revenue Receipts.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The receipts from internal revenue yesterday were $249,509; from customs, $515,520, and miscellaneous, $22,167.

WELCOME, SIR KNIGHTS.

Today, Plainfield is the Mecca to which the members of a noble organization—a scion of one which has survived scourges, wars and the ills to which the human race has been heir to from the time that Solomon reigned—have wended their way. We welcome the Sir Knights Templars of New Jersey to Plainfield, not in the mere perfunctory spirit of performing an act of hospitality due to all visitors, but we extend a warm welcome in the sense that it is an extraordinary and distinguished honor and privilege to entertain men whose purposes in banding together are those of brotherly love, the same as led the most Noble of All Men to sacrifice Himself upon the cross. Man's good will towards man is what sets all the world akin, and this is why the Masonic order and all its auxiliary branches—like the Knights Templar—continues to minister unto the needs of their brothers century after century, and will continue to do so until Gabriel blows his trumpet. But what brings the Sir Knights here today is to enjoy their annual Field Day, which is to be reviewed in parade uniforms by their superior officers, to renew acquaintances with one another and have a generally social time. The day is beautiful—full of sunshine and warmth—and The Press trusts that they may depart from our beautiful city with feelings that we have done what we could to make their visit a pleasant one.

THE NEW JOURNALISM.

In the arrest for allowing his chickens to trespass in the cornfields of a neighbor and the incarceration in the county jail for his inability to pay a judgment of $1 for damages, the New York Journal found a fine morsel of gossip and sensation in the case of Carl Bierstetter, the Scotch Plains German, whose trials and tribulations were told of in The Daily Press last night. As soon as this circumstance received the attention of the Journal, a reporter was immediately dispatched to Elizabeth, with the immense wealth of Mr. Hearst behind him, to release the old man from his imprisonment and to usher him back to his moaning and sorrowing wife. Incidentally, the cruel process of New Jersey's justice was observed and dilated upon in harsh terms by the reporter. Suffice to say, however, The Journal paid the old man's fine, returned him to his fireside, and last, but not least, profited to the extent of a two-column story and a column of illustrations with which to entertain its 470,000 readers. It made a good story, anyway, and was dirt cheap at $4.97, the amount of the fine and costs, which The Journal paid.

KEEP TO THE RIGHT.

The unwritten law of the road, "Keep to the right," has had a strong affirmation by Judge Cox, of Indianapolis, in a decision that a man driving a horse on the left side of the road who ran into a young man riding a bicycle on the right side, of course, was responsible for the accident. The man who drives on the wrong side of the road is presumed by Judge Cox to be guilty of an intention to commit assault and battery. The same guilty intention is ascribed by the Judge to bicyclers riding on the sidewalk. He does so entirely at his own risk, Judge Cox says, and in case of collision must be held guilty of intentional assault and battery. This, of course, is in addition to the penalty of riding a vehicle on a sidewalk, as it must not be presumed that Indianapolis tolerates wheels on the sidewalks.

ABOUT MR. WILLEY.

Freeman O. Willey, who is liable to be nominated at Elizabeth today as the Democratic candidate for Congress from the Eighth district, is a Wisconsin man, and it was in the Badger State that he secured the title of Judge. He is now a resident of Orange, and is enthusiastic in the advocacy of free silver. He has even gone so far as to write a book on the financial question, and has quietly informed his friends that he thinks he can give Congressman Fowler, who will be renominated by the Republicans, a hot race.

CONVENTION IN THE THIRD.

The Democratic Third Congressional district convention will be held in Somerville Saturday, October 10th. The Democratic primaries for the election of delegates will be held Friday, October 9th.

TEMPLARS OF LIBERTY.

Another Secret Organization Started in this City.

Plainfield Temple, No. 6, Templars of Liberty of America, was organized last Thursday evening in Red Men's hall by Grand Templar Perceval and Grand Recorder J. McClurg, of New York. The new lodge starts out with a membership of fourteen. The officers elected are as follows: Worthy Templar, Robert Laramore; Worthy Vice Templar, Adam G. Nicholson; Worthy Recorder, J. B. Martin; Worthy Financial Recorder, James Davis; Worthy Marshal, Thomas Cundy; Worthy Inside Guard, Geo. Leland; Worthy Chaplain, Samuel Smith.

A regular meeting will be held this evening in Red Men's hall at which time several new members will be ceived.

To Equip the Wheelmen's Club-house.

A special meeting of the Board of Governors of the Crescent Wheelmen was held in the club-house last evening to consider the matter of making appropriations for furnishing the rooms, running expenses, etc. President Teel was in the chair. The house is at present in need of more chairs and carpets, and a sufficient amount was appropriated for use by the house committee to meet contingent expenses. The full board was present and the exact amount, which is not stated, it is thought, will fully cover the cost of all.

Fell From the Town Hall.

Ellis Carmon, son of William Carman, the Dunellen butcher, was climbing about the new town hall building yesterday afternoon, at 5 o'clock when he stumbled and fell over a door sill and fractured his left arm in two places. The injured lad was taken home and medical aid summoned.

Greater Power for Transit.

Several of the old street railway cars have only single motors, and they will soon be supplied with double motors. The work will probably commence next week.

Mr. and Mrs. C. W. Riker, of Newark, returned home yesterday after spending the summer pleasantly at the Mountain Park Inn.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

Make Two Cakes

One with Cleveland's baking powder, the second with any other.

Note the difference. The Cleveland cake is fine grained, keeps its natural moisture and flavor; "the other" is coarse grained, as if the sugar were too coarse, soon dries out and becomes husky.

Cleveland's leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Superintendent Strong, of the M. E. Sunday school, is going to Boston.

William Lee arrived home last evening from Paterson, where he has been visiting his mother, who is ill.

A sociable was held at the residence of Rev. Mr. Angleman, Tuesday evening, which was participated in by many of the church-going people.

An agent for the Kickapoo Indian Tribe was in town yesterday and engaged Excelsior Hall for a ten-days stay for his "Wah Hooes." They will sing, dance and tell of the medical properties of a certain medicine.

Thomas M. Paff, Sr., yesterday completed a new 60-foot culvert in front of his place of business. This will allow the water to run into the creek, whereas heretofore it has backed up in front of his store and became stagnant.

Judge Clark says the article about the man being committed to the county jail on account of a $1 fine is erroneous. The man was given from Saturday until Tuesday to pay the $1 fine and costs, but this he refused to do and said he preferred going to jail. The man could have easily raised the money, he said.

DUNELLEN.

Miss Annie Trimmer is entertaining company from New York city.

Mrs. George Gary, of Changewater, is visiting the family of Mr. Roulston, of West Front street.

Miss Katie Karl, of Jefferson avenue, has been visiting among Plainfield friends for a day or two.

Mrs. John Matthews has returned to Brooklyn after a pleasant visit with Mr. and Mrs. Chas. Dickason.

A force of carpenters have been put to work putting in a new front with rolling doors in Taylor's Hotel stables.

Edward Teale and W. H. Carman are going to the wilds of Pennsylvania on October 17th for a few days' sport, divided between hunting and fishing.

The day switchman at Dunellen has been there for the past nine years, and during that time he has only had seven days off, and all of these were on Sunday.

Al Randolph, Wm. Terry, Dr. Nelson, Frank VanHise and Adam Dealaman are anticipating a hunting tour to Pike county, Pa., on October 15th. They expect to be gone for a week.

C. E. Enander, whose father met such a tragic death on the rails a few weeks ago, is settling up the shoe business, and is considering the advisability of changing his place of residence.

The new "City Hall," when completed and paid for, will have cost the taxpayers, it is said, $1 640. But part of this amount will revert to the borough from rentals, etc.

About a dozen young men and women from New Market are planning a chestnutting party to the mountains and Washington Rock on Sunday next. They are anticipating a heavy frost or two before then to open the burs.

Building Contractor Kitchen has a large force of men at work on the new town hall, getting it enclosed before rain or cold weather sets in. The town officials, it is said, are also quietly planning a little "blow out" when the new building is completed.

Thus far this season but little talk has been indulged in concerning a bowling team at Dunellen for this winter. Taylor's alleys are in first class shape and will doubtless be well patronized by individual bowlers. The alleys are classed among the finest in the State, and in the winter time they are largely patronized by Plainfield bowlers.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disasgreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 113 West Front street

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup, Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

FANWOOD.

The dance given in the Fanwood club-house last evening was a success. Prof. O'Reilly's orchestra furnished the music for dancing, which continued until 2 o'clock this morning, when some of the guests started for home in carriages while others waited for the early morning train. Another dance is to be given in the club house next week by Mr. Allen, of Scotch Plains.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. James Stryker, of the West End, is confined to her home by illness.

Mrs. William Richards, of Somerville, is the guest of Plainfield relatives.

Miss Catherine Webster, of East Second street, is home again from her trip to Santa Barbara, Cal.

Walter Stewart, of West Seventh street, is detained at home from business by a very severe cold.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

—The entertainment of the Daughters of Rebecca has been postponed until the last meeting in October.

—Some of the decorations on the Central cafe caught fire this morning and caused considerable excitement for a short time.

—H. C. Rider, 147 North avenue, has just received a large consignment of imported golf clubs for both ladies and gentlemen, which he would be pleased to have golf players inspect.

COST HIM NOTHING.

Some of the Things That Are Furnished the President.

The following is a fair idea of the many incidentals that come free to a president: Every bit of linen, bedding, towels and such things are furnished. He is shaved by the white house barber, says Harper's Round Table. His table is spread with the finest, daintiest damask, set with the most exquisite china, and bountifully supplied with flowers from the white house conservatories. If he sends a telegram, it is done from an instrument in the white house, for which the government pays. His stationary, postage, etc., cost him nothing. Should he desire a game of billiards, there is a beautiful table at hand; or if he wants to take a drive, his stables, which the government pays the rent for and takes care of, are amply equipped. When he enters his business office, a man is stationed at the door to open and close it; and a private secretary, to whom the government pays a salary of $5,000 a year, assists him with his correspondence. The services of a typewriter are also furnished. He is protected from the curious by a number of private watchmen. Should he want a cruise, a magnificent steamship from the navy is placed at his disposal.

There are many other things that cost him nothing, such as the culinary arrangements, his steward, who does the marketing, the many delicacies sent him by enterprising firms. This, by the way, is a sort of nuisance, for it seems to be the desire of every manufacturer of some new eatable or drinkable to get it into the white house. Things of value that find their way there are never accepted.

GREAT DESTRUCTION

Only Ruin Marks the Storm's Path in Pennsylvania.

NIGHT OF TERROR FOR MANY PEOPLE

Mine Property Destroyed and Homes and Factories Wrecked or Damaged---A Million Dollar Bridge Carried Away---Railroads Washed Out.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—From many parts of the state belated reports telling of the great destruction wrought by the fierce storm of Wednesday night and yesterday morning are now coming in. The destruction at many points is far greater than was at first believed, and the loss will run into the hundreds of thousands. At Harrisburg the scene was one of demolition and destruction. The mark of the whirlwind that passed over that city will not be effaced in a month or a year. As the storm increased in fury there were scores of people in the city who went to their cellars and prayed that the fate of St. Lous might not be in store for Harrisburg. There were thousands who sat shuddering until morning waiting for the fury of the wind and rain to abate. At 12:40 a ball of fire, to observers as large as a September sun, flashed out into the blackness from the southwest, and hung for a full minute in the angry heaven. Those who saw it say that it died away slowly. After this the worst was over. Trees were uprooted and blown down, houses unroofed, sign boards demolished and the streets were filled with debris. There was hardly an avenue or a street that was not filled with tree limbs and wreckage.

Damage on Gettysburg Field.

The storm in Adams county did tremendous damage to houses, barns, timber and fencing, but no casualties are reported. On the Gettysburg Battle field, the national cemetery suffered very severely. Round Top and Culps Hill are a mass of broken trees and the new iron observatory on Cemetery Ridge was injured. The monument of the Sixty-sixth Ohio regiment was completely overturned.

Houses and Barns Wrecked.

At Lebanon later reports show that the damage by the storm was far greater than at first supposed. In addition to the round house of the Lebanon & Cornwall Railroad company being demolished, that of the Cornwall railroad met with a similar fate. The losses sustained by these two companies will run into the thousands of dollars. The United Brethren church at Annville was wrecked and the Sunnyside mills were unroofed. A part of the roof of the United Brethren church in Lebanon was carried away as well as those of the dwellings of Joseph Strohman and F. H. Fertiff. At the Iron City brewery the boiler and engine houses were levelled to the ground, the top of the steeple of Salem Lutheran church was broken. The old brick furnace at North Lebanon, used for storage purposes, is a mass of ruins. Wilson Christman and his family, residing near Copps' rolling mill, had a most thrilling escape. They had just left the house when one of the walls collapsed filling their sleeping apartments with a mass of brick and mortar. The steeple of the Reformed church at Jonestown was blown away and the steeple of the Suedburg church was twisted out of shape. The roundhouse at Tremont was wrecked and several engines damaged. As far as can be learned no one was seriously injured, but the oldest people say they never experienced anything like it. It was a night of terror.

Coal Company's Heavy Loss.

At Shamokin buildings were destroyed and property of every description laid waste for miles. The heaviest loser is the Patterson Coal company, whose colliery is situated at Natalie, a mining village situated six miles east of this city. Fourteen houses were totally destroyed, seven by fire and seven by the storm. The stables connected with the colliery were blown down and thirty mules killed outright. The breaker was almost entirely demolished, causing a loss of over $60,000 to the Patterson Coal company. John Chalmers was fatally injured and Mrs. Savineski had a limb fractured tryiug to rescue her baby, which was fatally injured and has since died. At Deiblers Station the United Brethren church was totally destroyed by the storm.

Penn Road Badly Crippled.

General Superintendent Sheppard of the Pennsylvania railroad, whose office is at Altoona, says the road has suffered great damage at many points and that trains will be more or less delayed for several day. The greatest single loss to the Pennsylvania Railrail company is the bridge across the Susquehanna river at Columbia, nothing being left of it but the piers, the iron span in the middle, and the first span at each end. The bridge was a mile and a quarter long, and was said to be the longest covered bridge in the world. It cost $1,000,000 and was built in 1869. Columbia appears to have suffered more than any other section of the county. The people became terror-stricken and left the upper stories of their homes until the storm subsided. The damage in the borough is estimated at $500,000, and the streets were filled with parts of the wrecked buildings. Not one of the many big manufacturing plants along the river escaped injury. The wrecked bridge, which was lifted bodily from its piers, lies in the river above the piers. The terrific force of the storm at Columbia is shown by the fact that timbers of the bridge were carried by the wind up as far as the tunnel on the Pennsylvania railroad, a full mile away Reports from the surrounding country are very distressing, but no loss of life has been reported.

SEES SPECTRAL DOG.

Clergyman Has Some Queer Experiences with a Canine Ghost.

This is the story of a spectral dog. A clergyman of the Church of England, educated at Oxford and a man of remarkably acute and powerful understanding, one evening recently was returning from church and was surprised several times to hear short, quick breathing beside him as of an animal spent with running. As no living thing was visible he stood quietly looking about for an explanation, when he saw the dim outline of a shadowy dog at his side, gazing into his face with lack-luster eyes.

Waving his stick, he struck at his unwelcome attendant, but the blow met with no resistance in the anatomy of the canine goblin, passing airily through the body. The clergyman proceeded hastily on his way, keeping a watchful eye on the phantom, which trotted contentedly along with him as he walked. He remarked that in size and shape it was like a Newfoundland dog, but of a dull blue color. Perfectly assured that it was an optical delusion, he nevertheless hailed the sight of an approaching vehicle with inexpressible relief and begged a ride home. On looking back he saw the specter leaping along in the wake of the wagon.

Arrived home a fit of shivering bore out his excuse of sickness and he did not mention the circumstance that evening, thinking it merely a hallucination. But when he retired he was terrorized with a sensation as of a large dog jumping on the bed and stretching itself across his feet. Bathed in cold sweat and with his heart thumping to suffocation, he fled from the room, conscious that the blue, indistinct form was squatting composedly on his haunches, watching him the while, and roused a servant, whom he dispatched for a physician. The strangest part of this uncanny experience is that no physical derangement could be found to account for the specter, which appeared to him on two subsequent occasions in the same shape.

SONGS FOR GOPHERS.

How Florida Land Turtles Are Lured Out of Their Homes.

W. H. Gilbert, locksmith, astronomer, fisherman, scientist, hunter and capitalist, of Jacksonville, Fla., is a great fancier of gopher meat, and has thought of many ways of catching the game.

Some time ago he learned that there was a family living in the northwestern part of the country which boasted of young men who could "sing" gophers out of their holes. He traveled many miles to ascertain if the report was really true.

The young men were reluctant at first to give an exhibition that might reveal their secret, but Mr. Gilbert had a number of pursuasives along, and finally they consented.

The young men equipped themselves with a gunnysack and a pointd stick about five feet long. A half mile from the house, in the wiregrass of the rolling pine land, they found the hole of a gopher. They covered the entrance of his tunnel with a sack, and planted the stick over the tunnel. Then all the men lay down about 20 feet away, and one of them sang.

In a half hour the sack was seen to move slightly, whereupon one of the young men jumped up quickly and ran to the stick, which he pressed deeply into the ground, cutting off the gopher's retreat. The other reached his hand into the hole and brought out a big gopher, which was made into a delicious stew for their dinner. Mr. Gilbert, discoursing on the incident, says:

"I have since learned that the Mexicans, who are very fond of gophers, pursue this method, except that they do not sing. The singing is entirely superfluous. Curiosity is what kills the gopher, as it has killed the historic cat. The animal evidently is curious to learn what it is that has darkened the threshold of his abode, and comes forth to see. The stick does the rest. I have tried the same plan myself, and very successfully."

Toy Shetland Pony.

At St. Joseph, Mich., Capt. Langley has a Shetland pony colt which weighs just 23 pounds, hardly as much as a good fat black and tan dog.

WRITERS OF VERSE AND PROSE.

Dr. Jameson is said to be occupying his time in prison in compiling an account of his connection with the Transvaal raid.

Another legacy of 100,000 francs has been left to the French academy, the income of which must be awarded to authors of moral works.

Traine left a lot of manuscript poetry, now in the possession of M. de Heredia, of the French academy, who, in justice to the historian, will allow no one to read it.

The prize of $100 for the best poem to be read at the opening of the centennial exposition of Tennessee, has been awarded to Mrs. Virginia Fraser Boyle, of Memphis.

In fear, apparently, that his fame will soon pass away, some of Robert Louis Stevenson's admirers are already urging that his statue be set up in Edinburgh.

Henri Rochefort's autobiography has just been completed in five volumes in French. The author is now at work on the two-volume English edition, specially edited by him and translated for Anglo-Saxon readers.

The account by Dr. Donaldson Smith, the American traveler, of his recent explorations in Africa, will bear the title "Through Unknown African Countries," and will be profusely illustrated from the author's own photographs.

STYLES IN HATS AND GOWNS.

A new waist has the yoke made of narrow, close puffing. The lower portion of the waist has the effect of the material being wound around the waist, the end being fastened with rosette bows on one side of the front.

The sailor hat seems never to go out of style. It has been remarked, however, that many sailor hats are used for bicycle and yachting purposes. Sailor hats are also profusely trimmed with ribbons and flowers and worn on dressy occasions.

Poke bonnets are assuredly coming into fashion and some of the autumn styles are extravagantly pretty. They are made of rough straw in dark colors, and are trimmed with satin ribbon and plumes after the manner of those seen in old pictures.

A novelty collar is of satin in two colors. The outside is dark and elaborately braided; the inside is of some light, becoming tint. A very full ruffle is box-plaited and stands up about the throat, the inside being of satin, the outside covered with braiding.

A stylish waist has the collar and very short jacket fronts made of close braiding. These fronts extend only to the sleeves and under-arm seams. The sleeves are close fitting, with row upon row of braiding. Over the close sleeves are deep loops of the material, which is gathered in at the tops of the shoulders.

SCIENTIFIC GLEANINGS.

Argon has at last been combined with water by Prof. Villard, of the Paris École Normale. It requires a pressure of 200 atmospheres to do so.

A method of nickeling wood has been devised by the German chemist Langbein, the wood being covered by a thin coating of metal by either dry or wet process.

Prof. Norton, of the Massachusetts Institute of Technology, has succeeded in getting Roentgen photographs of the liver, heart and lungs sufficiently plain to admit of medical examination.

A French chemist has made a blue soap which will render unnecessary the bluing in the laundry. In ordinary soap he incorporates a solution of anilin green in strong acetic acid. The alkali of the soap converts the green into blue.

FROM GAY PARIS.

Part of the Boulevard de Vaugirard in Paris has been rechristened Boulevard Pasteur.

Next year is the centennial of the stove-pipe hat, which first came into common use in Paris in 1797.

Horseless carriages are admitted to all the privileges of the ordinary Paris fiacre by a recent decision of the prefect of the Seine.

Paris swells are wearing the Mores hat this fall. It is a broad-brimmed gray felt, such as the marquis wore when he was killed by the Tuaregs.

A Change of View.

"Want to go home, Charlie? Why, my dear little boy, I thought you told me yesterday that you thought the farm was the only place to live?"

"W-well, I dud-did," sobbed Charlie. "But to-to-day I—"

"Well, go on, little man. What did you do?"

"To-to-to-day I sus-sat dud-d-d-down on a pup-pitchfork!"—Harper's Round Table.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

New Fall Suitings and Trouserings.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

LOSS AT WASHINGTON

Details of the Damage Wrought at the Capital by the Storm.

GOVERNMENT PROPERTY NOT SPARED

The President's Summer Home Suffers—Churches and Theatres Damaged and Historic Trees Uprooted—Two Persons Killed at Georgetown.

Washington, Oct. 1.—A careful investigation of the work of the West Indian tornado in this city shows that it respected neither official nor diplomatic proprieties. It ripped off some of the coping of the White House and laid low most of the historic trees in the White House grounds, including the elm tree which Lincoln planted, and this gave the relic fanatics a fruitful field for their operation. It carried away part of the roof of the state department, where the official documents are stored, but fortunately left them uninjured. The costly roof of the patent office, constructed after the fire there some years ago, was rolled up and distributed all around the neighborhood and skylights half an inch thick were remorselessly beaten in. The naval observatory and in fact pretty well every other public building was more or less damaged. Diplomatic residences were not spared. That of the French minister was left roofless, and even the substantially built embassy of Great Britain suffered the loss of the portico, under which the British ambassador was accustomed to sit in the summer evening, and receive his friends. Churches and theatres suffered alike. The slate roof of the Church of the Covenant, where President Harrison used to worship, was blown down. Still more disastrous was the fate of the New York Presbyterian church, which Mr. Bryan recently attended, sitting in Lincoln's pew. The whole tower of the edifice was reduced to matchwood, and persons in search of souvenirs had no difficulty in obtaining them. Nearly every other church in the city suffered more or less, and their antipodes, the theatres, were equally visited. The tower of the Grand Opera house, formerly Albaugh's, was blown to pieces. There was no loss of life in Washington, though a list of twenty-four persons seriously injured by falling branches and crumbling walls is given out by the hospitals. The total destruction of property in Washington city by the storm is estimated at nearly half a million dollars. In Alexandria, the Virginian suburb of Washington, the damage done by the storm is estimated at not less than $100,000, and two lives were lost. The killed are Mrs. Louisa Nolt and William Dunlap Stewart, crushed to death by falling walls. Nearly 200 houses were badly damaged.

The President's House Damaged.

President Cleveland's surburban home at Woodley, near the city, which has been left in charge of servants since the president and his family went away to Massachusetts, caught the full fury of the gale. Roof and rafters were carried away and landed two yards distant, where they were intermingled with the ruins of a windmill which had supplied water to the country seat of John R. McLean, adjoing the president's property. Portions of Mr. McLean's stables, which stood on a slight bluff adjoining the president's grounds and which, from their exposed position, were quite a feature in the landscape, were intermingled in the general mix up.

FOURTEEN DEAD AT SAVANNAH.

Loss by the Storm in Georgia More Than One Million Dollars.

Savannah, Ga., Oct. 1.—Forty-eight hours have elapsed since the West Indian cyclone swept this part of Georgia, leaving death and ruin in its path, and communication with many districts in this locality has not yet been restored. In this county alone latest estimates place the damage at about $1,000,000. Few houses in Savannah escaped without some damage and from the surrounding country comes similar stories of destruction. The death list so far stands at fourteen and it is feared that the fatalities on the island near the coast may be greater. The injured have all been removed to hospitals or their homes. Three are fatally injured and will die. The steamer Gov. Safford, which left Beaufort, S. C., went ashore at Daufuskie island and is lying one hundred yards high and dry inland. Much anxiety is felt for the tug Cynthia, which left here before the storm with a barge in tow for Brunswick. The loss of small sailing vessels is heavy. Upwards of twenty are reported ashore in the marshes and creeks and on the beach at the mouth of the river. The full extent of the damage and loss of life will not be known for several days. The damage on the South Carolina coast is believed to be heavy, but, so far, little loss of life is reported. The work of clearing away the wreckage from the streets of this city went on at night and to-day most of the streets are passable. The parks are pitiable sights. The loss to the electric lines is estimated at $100,000. The damage to the railroads will foot up over $250,000. The wreckage of the Plant system passenger depot and the Goergia & Alabama railroad freight warehouses has been partially cleared away, so that the yards and tracks are passable and trains are running on time. Lighthouse Keeper Evans reached the city on a boat late last night with the first news from Tybee island at the mouth of the Savannah river. The storm there was severe. All of the hotels are damaged and the pavilions of the Hotel Tybee and South End hotel, both large structures, were carried away.

30 OR 40 PEOPLE KILLED.

A Hurricane Cuts Through Florida and Causes Great Damage.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 1.—The Constitution has received a dispatch from Jacksonville, Fla., saying that a hurricane cut through that state late last night and that thirty or forty people were killed. Several school houses were wrecked and children were the greatest victims. The dispatch adds that twenty or thirty towns were wiped out of existence.

THE VENEZUELAN DISPUTE.

Report from London That a Satisfactory Settlement Has Been Reached.

London, Oct. 1.—The Chronicle in a leading article says: "We have reason to believe that a satisfactory settlement has been arrived at of the Venezuelan question and that an arbitration treaty is imminent." The wording of the foregoing does not suggest that the statement is inspired. Everybody believes that the boundary dispute will be settled, but such steps will not be taken pending the report of the American Venezuelan commission. Only the permanent officials of the foreign and colonial offices are on duty in those departments at the present time and they will act in merely routine matters until the return of the ministers. Lord Salisbury is too busy with Turkey now to attend to Venezuela even if Secretary Olney should press the Venezuela matter. No such action on the part of Mr. Olney is expected at present, however, as it would be a slight to President Cleveland's commission.

MACHINERY FOR RUSSIA.

An Entire Plant for the Building of Locomotives Shipped from Philadelphia.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—An entire locomotive building plant, valued at $375,000, has been shipped to St. Petersburg, Russia, on the British steamer Laleham. The plant is owned by the Russian-American company, and is to be erected at Nijni-Novgorod, the commercial centre of the interior of the Russian empire. The plant will be operated in connection with the car and steam-boiler manufactory at Sarmova. In addition to this the pipe plant of Morris, Tasker & Co. of this city, will soon leave on the British steamer Henley for Novorossick, on the Black sea. A number of men from this country will go to Russia to start the works.

40,000 MORE TROOPS FOR CUBA.

Spain Will Also Send Additional Forces to the Philippine Islands.

Madrid, Oct. 1.—The government has decided to send 40,000 more troops to Cuba to reinforce the Spanish army on the island, and also to strengthen the forces in Porto Rico and the Philippine islands with 2,000 and 3,000 men respectively. A free pardon has been offered to all who have evaded service in the army, upon provision that they return and complete their terms of service. Advices from Havana say the insurgents have executed the rebel Rodrguez by hanging. The reason for the act is not stated.

BRYAN IN WEST VIRGINIA.

Railroad Washouts Will Necessitate Several Changes in His Itinerary.

Grafton, W. Va., Oct. 1.—It was 11:10 o'clock last night before William J. Bryan arrived here, the delay being caused by the numerous washouts on the railroads, caused by yesterday morning's storm. It is likely that his itinerary through this state will be subject to some changes on account of the storm. He made several speeches yesterday and was met by a big crowd on his arrival here.

An Appeal to Massachusetts Charity.

Boston, Oct. 1.—Mrs. Susan Fessenden, president of the Massachusetts Women's Christian Temperance union, has received a cablegram from Miss Frances Willard desiring Massachusettes to entertain thirty Armenians until work can be found. Miss Willard in her cable message said: "These poor people are dying in Marseilles."

Football Season at Yale Opened.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The football season was opened at Yale yesterday afternoon with Amherst as a visiting attraction. The Massachusetts team gave Yale a hard argument, allowing the blue only two touchdowns the first and none the second half, the final score being Yale, 12; Amherst, 0.

Tandem Hour Record Broken.

London, Oct. 1.—At the new Crystal Palace track yesterday the bicyclists McFregor and Nelson beat the tandem hour record, covering 31 miles and 610 yards. The distance from the twenty-fourth mile to the finish was also covered in less than previous record time.

Fourth-class Postmasters Named.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The following fourth-class postmasters have just been appointed: Maryland—J. C. Campbell at Campbell. New Jersey—J. C. Duick at Montgomery. Pennsylvania—N. Pearson at Peeley. Vermont—D. E. Parkhurst at Sharon.

Steinert Violin Scholarships.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—The Steinert violin scholarships at Yale have been awarded. The winners were Miss Emma Spieska of Hartford and Miss Belle M. Sigourney of Bristol. Both showed exceptional talent.

Dramatic News Suspends Publication.

New York, Oct. 1.—The New York Dramatic News has suspended publication. Leander Richardson, its editor, says that the suspension is due to his inability to make collections of money due him.

The Hamburg Dock Strike Over.

Hamburg, Oct. 1.—The 500 dock laborers who went out on strike Monday have resumed work, a compromise arrangement favorable to the strikers having been reached.

MORRISON'S ARREST

Two Warrants Served on Rensselaer County's Treasurer.

CHARGED WITH STEALING $248,671

He Is Ill and Is Guarded at His Home by an Officer—The Arrest at This Time Came as a Surprise to His Friends.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 1.—The arrest yesterday afternoon of George H. Morrison, county treasurer of Rensselaer county, on the charge of embezzlement, came somewhat as a surprise to his friends, as it was generally understood from the action of the supervisors in demanding an additional bond of $100,000 to be furnished within twenty days under penalty of forfeiture of office, that criminal proceeding would not be instituted before the expiration of that time. Morrison was really arrested on two warrants. The first was obtained by the finance committee of the board of supervisors and charged felony. A warrant was also sworn out by district attorney officer Maher, charging grand larceny. The two warrants were given to officers who arrived at the residence of Mr. Morrison about the same time. Chief Detective Condon and Officer Maher left this city at 3:15 o'clock to arrest Mr. Morrison at his home in Lansingburg. At 3:20 o'clock Deputy Sheriff Loomis started on the same errand to take Mr. Morrison into custody on complaint of the chairman of the finance committee, Melvin R. Millius. When Deputy Sheriff Loomis reached the Morrison residence Chief Condon and Officer Maher had just arrived and were standing at Mr. Morrison's bedroom door. Dr. F. J. Tompkins, the family physician, and Senator Nussbaum of Albany, Mr. Morrison's attorney, were in the room with him. Chief Detective Condon was then left in charge of Mr. Morrison. In relation to the warrant issued to district attorney's officer Maher, Mr. Millius, chairman of the finance committee of the board of supervisors, said: "District Attorney Kelly was invited to act with the finance committee and the committee was to furnish him with information for the securing of a warrant at 3 o'clock. The district attorney agreed to act with and assist the committee, and was to be at Judge Griffith's office at the hour I mentioned. All the information he had he got from the committee, and now he has his own officers swear out a warrant on our statement instead of coming and acting promptly with us as arranged. Mr. Ingalls prepared the complaint, which was verified by me, and we were waiting for the district attorney when the information came to us that the district attorney had secured a warrant on the information of his officer. The information on which the warrant sworn out by Mr. Mellius was issued accuses Morrison of appropriating to his own use, or to the use of some other person, without authori- of law $248,671.90.

GETTYSBURG BATTLEFIELD.

Additional Tracts of Land for the Reservation Sought by the Government.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—The United States government has filed a petition in the United States circuit court here asking in behalf of the United States to have condemned five additional tracts of land in Cumberland township, Adams county, needed in preserving the Gettysburg battlefield. The tracts were occupied by the infantry, cavalry and artillery on the 1st, 2d and 3d days of July, 1863. The tracts of land are deemed necessary by the secretary of war for the preservation and marking of the lines of battle of the union and confederate armies at Gettysburg, and of opening, improving and repairing necessary roads and avenues on the battlefield.

Cranberry Crop Will Be Small.

Springfield, Mass., Oct. 1.—The American Agriculturist in its issue of this week will say: With the exception of two years ago, the cranberry crop of 1896 is the smallest in the past eleven years and is only half that of the bumper crop of '93, New Jersey's portion being almost a complete failure. The loss in crop yield falls almost altogether on New Jersey. New England will this season furnish by far the bulk of the merchantable berries. In New Jersey everything points to a yield of merchantable fruit for the entire state of less than 90,000 bushels compared with 210,000 in '95.

Death of Dr. George D. Cox.

Philadelphia, Oct. 1.—Dr. George D. Cox, the veteran journalist, romancer, translator and literateur, is dead of consumption of the throat at his home in this city. Dr. Cox's wife and daughter survive. He was born in Burlington, N. J., in 1843. He came to Philadelphia as a boy and his whole life work has had journalism or literature for its scene. As dramatic critic and dramatic editor he has been connected with most of the prominent papers of this city.

Kept the Money; Returned the Checks.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 1.—Henry T. Clark, collector for Peck & Bishop, ticket and baggage agents of this city, took with him $1,400 in checks and money when he disappeared a week ago. Yesterday $800 in checks were returned to the firm by mail. Neither the police nor firm will say whence the checks came.

Free Silver Advocate Nominated.

Baltimore, Oct. 1.—Thomas C. Weeks has been nominated for congress by the democrats of the Third congressional district to succeed Harry Welles Rusk, who has represented the district at Washington since 1886. Mr. Weeks was one of the first men in the state to advocate the free coinage of silver.

WHIST.

Gloom reigns supreme in the Orange Whist Club. It was not so a little while back. Then the rooms were filled with light and brightness. Elastic footsteps trod the floor, and songs of gladness filled the air; but now, alas! all this is gone, and in its place is darkness. The Silver Cup is gone—that emblem of fond hopes shining future and past success. The silver trophy of the New Jersey Whist Association for which the clubs are fighting for possession is again at Plainfield in the hands of those veteran players, Howell, Rogers, Townsend and McCutchen, of the Park Club. They came to East Orange last Friday night and removed it from its long resting place, the rooms of the Orange Whist Club, and this is why the gloom is over the Orange players, and nothing more. Herring, Wallis, Hirshfield and Rodman represented the Orange Whist Club in this battle at the whist table, but they were not able to withstand the tactics of the Plainfield players and were beaten by a margin of twelve trickss. Three rounds were played of ten hands each. The Park Club gained three tricks in the first, five in the second and four in the third, and then raised the cup with tender hands and conveyed it to its present resting place in Plainfield. In about two weeks the North End Club will send a team to Plainfield to try and bring the trophy home with them.—Newark News.

CHANGE AT FIRE HEADQUARTERS.

The Chief's Wagon Now Quartered There With a Special Driver.

A new order of things has been introduced at fire headquarters which will increase the efficiency of the department. Heretofore Chief Doane's horse and wagon has been kept at Roberts' livery stable. Now the rig is kept at headquarters. The new arrangement went into effect Tuesday afternoon and was so decided at a meeting of the fire committee Monday evening. The committee also purchased a horse of Mr. Roberts, which is now being trained to the gong. The services of James Bailey have been secured as driver for the chief. The wagon formerly used and which is now being fitted with rubber tires will be ready by Saturday and will take part in the parade. Another wagon is now being temporarily used.

Master and Dog at Home.

Dr. Stewart O. Hector, of Rahway, the eccentric physician who disappeared from his home last week and was found at Taylor's Hotel, Jersey City, guarded by his big St. Bernard dog, returned home last evening. His wife joined him Tuesday evening, and finally persuaded him to accompany her. The doctor, his wife and the faithful St. Bernard then took the train for Rahway.

Room for Overflow Meetings.

At a meeting of the Executive Committee of the W. C. T. U., held yesterday it was decided not to hold any temperance meetings in their rooms on October 4th and 11th, but they will offer their rooms for overflow meetings of the convention to be held here at that time, also a light lunch may be had during the three days of the convention in the above rooms.

orators were Powelson & Jones, Bamberger, the Hotel Tuilleries, McVoy, Dunavan, the American Steam Laundry, Mrs. Adams, Whitney, Dime Savings Bank, Jaquet, Moore's market, A. M. Griffen, Central cafe, J. J. Kenney, J. P. Laire, Shaw's pharmacy, Hallock, Boehm, Lederer, J. A. Smith & Brother, J. V. Berkaw, Smith's saloon, William Newcorn, New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Company, Northern Pacific Tea Company, U. B. Crane, George Voehl, Edward White, Randolph's pharmacy, Ulrich & Blatz, Grand Union Tea Company, W. H. Sebring, Kersting & Klinsman, A. G. Vogeler, Fred Endress, Frank Linke, Harry Werner, Putnam & DeGraw, S. Scheuer & Company, W. Schloss, O. M. Dunham, the postoffice, Love Brothers, Jos. Gavett, G. Q. Packer, F. S. Taylor, Van Fleet, Keller, L. L. Manning.

On West Seventh street, the most elaborate decoration is at the home of Mr. Hubbard where the emblems of the Knight are displayed and large flags are prettily festooned about the front of the porch. At nearly every house large American flags are used. Another choice decoration is at the home of Jacob Kirkner where the colors and emblems of the order are arranged to good advantage. Similar decorations are used at the homes of Dr. Davis and Dr. Fritts on Park avenue.

The Country clubhouse is attractively decorated with American flags. In the borough the principal decorations are at the Park Club where a profusion of American flags are displayed, and in Washington Park where the homes of the Councilmen and prominent citizens are neatly trimmed with the National colors.

On Somerset street the chief decoration is at Blimm's Hotel. The whole front of the building is gaily festooned with flags. At the Crescent Hotel the display is neat and attractive. In all, the people in general have given the visitors a cordial welcome by decorating their homes as prettily as possible considering the peculiar colors and emblems of the order.

AT HEADQUARTERS.

THE PARADE.

The Knights Marching Over the Line As Published in The Press.

As this paper goes to press the parade is marching over the line published yesterday, after having been inspected by the Grand Officers. They will be reviewed from the stand at the corner of Front street and Park avenue.

Afterwards they will divest themselves of their paraphernalia and attend the reception in the Asylum in the Babcock building. Tomorrow's Press will have a full acconnt of the closing featurers of the day.

The success of an affair depends, of course, on those in charge and Plainfield is extremely lucky in having very efficient committees in charge of the Field Day. The committee of arrangements consists of Sir Knights Asa Collier, O. T. Waring, W. R. Codington, H. M. Stockton and J. W. Murray, Sr. The reception committee consists of Eminent Sir Knigh W. H. Sebring, Past Commander Bt F. Coriell, Eminent Sir Knight D. C. Adams, Sir Knight J. J. H. Poillon. The committee on decorations consisted of H. W. Marshall.

A Quiet Wedding.

VISITING KNIGHTS TEMPLARS ROYALLY ENTERTAINED.

Tables Loaded Down With Good Things to Satisfy the Inner Man After the Fatigue of the March.

Plainfield has again assumed its wonted quiet, but only for today, however, as the firemen promise to make things lively tomorrow. The last waving white plume vanished last evening, either on some departing train or to some safe place, while its owner returns to the regular costume of this civilized world. The gorgeous Knights Templar in his showy uniform of black and white has disappeared, and in his place may be found some quiet appearing citizen ready to do his share in the routine of duty. The martial music, that stirs the blood and makes the feet unwittingly keep time, that too, is gone, but Plainfield is to hear more tomorrow.

The long talked of State Field Day of the Knights Templars is over, and it may be well accounted a success. The holding of the Field Day exercises yesterday was rather unfortunate in several ways, as there were two counter attractions, a big day at the inter-State fair at Trenton and the firemen's parade at Easton, and a number of the commanderies did not turn out for that reason. The ranks of those that did come were slightly thinned out for the same reason. The Field Day with its parade was a success, however. The Sir Knights were entertained most royally, and every thing passed off in the best way imaginable.

There was a surprised lot of men when all was over. Many of them came with the idea that Plainfield was a country town of perhaps five thousand inhabitants, and that if they marched a half mile in any direction they would come out in a cornfield. But oh, how mistaken they were. The handsome residences and elegant roads surprised them, but when they reached the Masonic headquarters in the Babcock building and realized their extent and beauty, their astonishment turned to stupefaction, as Plainfield has one of the finest lodge rooms in the State, and even some Plainfielders would be surprised by a glance into these rooms.

The story of the arrival of the Sir Knights was told in yesterday's Daily Press, and the paper appeared in the streets as the paraders were marching along the line of march.

The headquarters of the Grand Commandery was at the Revere House, and in front of that hotel on Park avenue the Sir Knights gathered yesterday afternoon for their annual parade. The commanderies were ordered to be ready for dress parade at 2:15 o'clock, and it was but a very few minutes after that time that the Sir Knights had all marched up to the designated place. They came with banners waving and the inspiring strains of the brass band sounded from all sides. The people flowed in that direction too, on foot, awheel and in carriages until Park avenue, with all its wideness, was crowded. There was a goodly sprinkling of strangers in the crowd but many of the faces were familiar. The small boy was there in all his glory, for the public schools had only had one session on account of the parade, and his pride rose twenty degrees as he planted himself by the side of some imposing Sir Knight and sturdily plodded forward with the procession. The band and especially the bass drum was an unfailing source of interest to him, and each musician had a score of young admirers who watched him with awe and admiration from afar.

The Sir Knights did certainly make a pretty appearance in their black uniform with silver trimmings and accoutrements, and their black chapeaus with the white plume. They were a good looking set of men and they kept very good line. They marched in a column of threes, most of the way, but several of the commanderies, including Trinity, formed the cross, which had a fine effect. The Damascus Commandery appeared to be the best drilled of all in fancy tactics, for they performed several quite intricate manœuvres.

There was some little delay at the start, and it was not until 2:45 o'clock that the Sir Knights were lined up in single rank along Park avenue for the dress parade. Trinity Commandery had the right of line with her special guests, Temple Commandery, of Metuchen, and Clinton Commandery, of New York, and then came the other commanderies in order of their establishment. In the centre of the long line of Sir Knights were gathered the standards of the different commanderies, and that of the grand commandery of the State. Opposite them were the grand officers bunched together. The line was at attention and all was

UNAPPRECIATED TALENT

PLAINFIELD PEOPLE DIDN'T TURN OUT TO SEE NEGRO MINSTRELSY.

So the Woods & Curtis Colored Minstrels Ran Short of Funds—Their Landlady Suffered In Consequence—A Coat Missing

Plainfield has again turned the cold shoulder to an entertainment designed to catch the popular eye and put the good money of Plainfield's citizens in the pockets of a wandering colored minstrel troupe. They came here after a prosperous season, so they said, at Coney Island, and engaged the Jersey Cycle Academy. There were nine of them, although the show bills stated that Woods & Curtis' minstrels consisted of eighteen persons.

Their first appearance was to have been Wednesday night but the crowd did not surge into the building and fight for the seats as expected and as the minstrels were not performing for love they adjourned until last night when they hoped for an audience. But the latter came not and the troupe declared Plainfield slow and then quit.

Like the rest of the human race, they had to eat and sleep, so they took up their temporary abode in the little restaurant on Madison avenue, formerly run by Johnson and now by a colored woman named Fannie Wilson. She had several other lodgers and one of them had a coat. And after the arrival of the world famed minstrels, that coat disappeared. Thereupon the indignant lodger informed his landlady that he wanted his coat by Sunday or an entire new suit of clothes.

Terrified by such a threat, Miss Wilson appealed to the police and to Justice Mosher. The former came around last night and investigated, but never a coat answering the description could they find. Justice Mosher issued a search-warrant when she appeared before him, but it was not needed. "The Favorites of Coney Island" left their boarding place this morning somewhat in debt, but said that the money could be collected from a man at the Jersey Cycle Academy. Constable Rockafellow went to see about it, only to find them gone from there. They said that they will play at the Drake Opera House, Elizabeth, next week. Poor Elizabeth, it is hoped that she will know a good thing.

Constable Rockafellow afterwards found Messrs. Woods & Curtis and they settled.

TO PARADE IN THE BOROUGH.

Every Detail Now Settled for the Big Time Tomorrow.

The fact that the general committee in charge of the firemen's parade arranged to have the parade go over into North Plainfield has won for them hearty commendation on the part of the boroughites, who are so seldom recognized. The committee were a unit in deciding that part of the programme as well as all other portions. Especially praiseworthy were the members of Warren Engine Company, who acknowledge the honor extended to them and the borough.

The committee will not hold any more meetings, as everything has now been arranged for tomorrow's celebration. In addition to the Plainfield Cornet Band and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, there will be bands from New Brunswick and Raritan. The New York Volunteers will bring a band and drum corps with them, and thus Plainfield will have the pleasure of listening to some more good music.

It has been found advisable to alter the order of marching and line of march for the parade. The committee herewith gives the line of march as follows:

Form on North avenue 2 p. m. sharp, right resting on Watchung avenue to Seventh street. Pass reviewing stand at Casino to Central avenue, to Front street to Grove street, to Lincoln place, to Somerset street, to Front street, to Central avenue, to Second street, to Watchung avenue, to Front street, to Park avenue, to Crescent avenue, to Watchung avenue, to Cycle Academy.

The order of marching decided upon is as follows:

Police.
Marshal.
Reception Committee.
Band.
Veteran Firemen's Association of New York.
Band.
Plainfield Fire Department.
Gazelle Hose Company, No. 1.
Chemical Engine.
Hose Co. No. 2.
Engine Company, No. 2.
Band.
Zephyr Hook and Ladder Co.
Alert Hose Co.
Independent Hook and Ladder Co.
Drum Corps.
Warren Engine Company.
Band.
Exempt Firemen's Association of Plainfield, with silver hose carriage.

—Tomorrow morning Dr. Lewis will give a review of his pastorate in Plainfield since 1880; 10:30; Seventh-day Baptist church.

HOWLED FOR FARMER JIM

BUT MR. MARTINE WOULDN'T ACCEPT THE NOMINATION.

The Farmer Orator Stirred the Delegates to the Wildest Kind of Enthusiasm—F. O. Willey the Congressional Nominee.

The Eighth Congressional District Democratic Convention, held at Elizabeth yesterday afternoon, was the liveliest that has taken place in that city since John T. Dunn was nominated for Congress in 1892. The great central figure that dominated everything else was the picturesque personality of James E. Martine, the farmer orator, who never had such a task in his life as to keep the convention from making him a candidate. Martine plainly did not want it, but the delegates yelled for him just the same.

Mr. Martine had a conference at the Sheridan House prior to the convention with Freeman O. Willey, of Orange, who was just as anxious to grasp the prize as Martine was to refuse it. The Union county man pledged himself to Wiley that he would not oppose his candidacy.

Mr. Martine was chosen chairman, and made an impassioned speech, which provoked wild enthusiasm. He bitterly assailed the Republican party, and when he finished the convention was all ready to make him the nominee. Mr. Martine, however, was true to his promise, and despite a scene of almost riotous tumult, he was obstinate and would not permit the use of his name.

The Bayonne delegation jumped on their chairs and howled for him, while Elizabeth's and part of South Orange's delegates followed suit.

Martine pounded the desk and shouted: "I don't want it! Let me off, I say! I know your generous heart, but I love my party more than myself. I cannot be your candidate. I'll work for the party, but I can't take the nomination."

Even this appeal would have failed had not Timothy Barrett, of South Orange, taken the floor, and, after singing the praises of Martine, declared that if he would stick South Orange would would stand by him.

"But since he won't" he added, "why, take him at his word. He has too often led in forlorn hopes, but never realized anything."

A delegate shouted: "But he will now!"

Mr. Barrett, continuing, said: "The Hon. Freeman O Wifley has occupied the bench of the Wisconsin court and is an author and economist. We ask you to support Willey."

Then there was another uproar One of the Bayonne delegates shouted: "Willey wants too much for a stranger. Why, he has only been in New Jersey a couple of years!"

Capt. Page called on the Bayonne delegates who favored Martine to stand up. Most of them did so.

Terence McDonald, of Bayonne, asked that Martine, being a candidate, be retired as a presiding officer, and the vice president take his place.

Mr. Martine replied: "I am not a coward. I can stand defeat, but I will not take the nomination."

H. C. Page, of Bayonne, then strode to the front and shouted: "Martine must stand! He is the peer of any one. Willey is comparatively unknown, but we know Jim Martine and want him."

The roll-call proceeded, and when it was seen that Willey was getting most of the votes Freeholder Noah Woodruff, of Union, moved to make the nomination of Freeman O. Willey unanimous.

A committee found the candidate nervously pacing the floor in his room at the Sheridan House. He was brought before the convention and his speech of acceptance made a favorable impression. He told the reporters afterwards that he was fifty-seven years old, born in New Hampshire and migrated to Minnesota in 1880. He was for a short time a surrogate by appointment in one of the counties there. He has lived in New Jersey a little over three years and has a wife and four daughters, two of whom are married. He is the author of a book on political economy, which he claims has attained quite a circulation in the west. He professes to be one of the pioneers in the free-silver movement and declared he would give Congressman Fowler all the chance he wanted to debate the issues of the campaign with him before the people of the district.

Candidate Willey is a pleasant-featured, rather dignified man of medium height. Two of his daughters were the only women at the convention.

Candidate Willey signed his nomination papers before leaving Elizabeth.

DEMOCRATS HOPEFUL.

NEWARK CHOSEN AS THE HEADQUARTERS OF THE STATE COMMITTEE.

A Canvass of the State Being Made and an Energetic Campaign is Planned—Chairman Price is in Charge of the Affairs.

Newark has been selected as the headquarters for the State Democratic Committee of New Jersey, and the first meeting was held Wednesday afternoon in the Jeffersonian club house in West Park street.

Every county in the state with one exception was represented, and the first regular business was the announcement by Chairman E. L. Price of the following Executive Committee: Johnston Cornish, of Warren, chairman; Louise F. Braun, of Passaic; Harry B. Paul, of Camdem; David S. Crater, of Monmouth; James W. Lanning, of Mercer; William D. Daly, of Hudson, and William D. Wolfskeil, of Union.

This committee will meet at State Headquarters daily from now until election day, and it will have virtual charge of the campaign, subject to the approval of the General Committee. Former Senator Kays, of Sussex county, was among the non-members who were present. He gave a glowing account of what Sussex will do and said it would be in line for Augustus W. Cutler and the entire ticket in the Fourth Congressional district. Johnston Cornish declared Warren will give a plurality of 2,000 for the entire ticket. Encouraging reports were heard from other parts of the State, and Secretary Devereux announced that he has offers of services from 300 speakers and a list of 400 regularly organized clubs.

Partial reports of a thorough canvass of the State, which is being made, were said to show that old line Democrats by the hundred who have not voted in years, will vote far Bryan and Sewall in November. An energetic campaign plan will be carried out, and the matter of raising funds for election expenses was discussed. Chairman Price declared that if the reports of the present are half realized on election day the Democrats will carry the State and elect seven Representatives, five State Senators and a safe majority of Assemblymen.

Senator Daly declared for a Bryan and Sewall plurality of at least 10,000 in Hudson county. Wolfskeil, of Union, said his county is all right, and W. B. Pugh, the new Bergen county man, said that the defecton of former Senator Winton and others will not materially affect the party in Bergen. Senator Smith was not mentioned during the meeting. Most of those present declined to talk of his position.

"Mr. Smith has the right to think and talk as he feels disposed as an individual," said Senator Kuhl. "But he is a politician who has been more signally honored than any other man in the State by the Democratic party. An ordinary mortal would feel grateful for the treatment which he received, but I am inclined to believe that he is more than ordinary, or at least that he regards himself as such. A sense of decency would have impelled Mr. Smith to be on hand to receive Mr. Bryan when he arrived in Newark."

Secretaries Devereux and Naar will be at the Newark headquarters until election day.

Admired the Postoffice.

Among the Sir Knights who visited Plainfield yesterday were Postmaster J. B. Dawes and General Delivery Clerk William McKinney, of Washington, this State. During their short stay they were the guests of Postmaster Hetfield, who took pride in showing them the interior workings of the postoffice. Postmaster Dawes was loud in his praise of the bicycle delivery, which has not yet been adopted in his city, but which will be considered in the near future.

Hackman Barry Exonerated.

Charles Barry, the hackman who was arrested several days ago on complaint of William Drake for leaving his horse's head and soliciting patronage at the curb, claims that he is unfairly accused. He has received a volantary letter, he states, that proves his innocence. It runs as follows:

As we heard that hackmen are going to make a complaint against Chas. Barry we are witness to prove he did not ask us to ride at all. We asked him.

The Dam Will Be Built.

The Somerset County Board of Chosen Freeholders met at Washingtonville yesterday, and inspected the site for the proposed ice pond and dam. While no papers were signed the Board practically gave their consent to the company to build the pond and dam by telling them to go ahead. No excellent reason could be offered why the permission should not be granted, hence the action of the board.

FOR SAKE OF CHARITY.

THE RELIEF ASSOCIATION'S ANNUAL MEETING HELD THIS MORNING.

Officers Chosen For the Ensuing Year—A Woodyard to be Established to Give Employment to the Needy.

The annual meeting of the Board of Managers of the Plainfield Relief Association was held in the Y. M. C. A. hall this morning, Mrs. L. V. F. Randolph presiding and Mrs. Brooks recording the proceedings.

Included in the routine of business was the report from the secretary, stating that this is the eighteenth year of the society's existence. The society moved into its present quarters on March 1st last, and there is still an indebtedness of $600 on the premises. Eighty-six persons were given assistance during the winter, fifty-four Thanksgiving dinners were provided, and assistance was rendered to others in various ways. The receipt of twenty-five tons of coal from Chas. J. Fisk and five tons more from Ivins & Co., was gratefully acknowledged. In the past six months $60 has been realized from the sale of articles made by the association.

The coming winter there is to be established a wood yard with sawing apparatus, where the needy can find employment. J. P. Laire has generously donated saws, axes, and other necessary tools

The report of the treasurer showed the total receipts to be $1,079.03; expenditures, $1,078; leaving a balance of $1.03 in the treasury, with the September bills not yet settled.

The donations from individuals have been few and far between, and what is now needed is second hand clothing, remnants of cotton and woolen and other materials which can be made up into warm and comfortable winter clothing.

The following officers were elected for the ensuing term; President, Mrs. L V. F. Randolph; Vice-President, Mrs. J. K. Myers; Secretary, Mrs. Charles E. Brooks; Treasurer, Mrs. H. P. Reynolds.

The following ladies were elected the Board of Managers: Mrs. D. J. Yerkes, Mrs. Samuel Huntington, Mrs. Joseph Myers, Mrs. M. W. Tyler, Mrs. C. E. Ryder, Mrs. Alexander Gilbert, Mrs. Charles Fisk, Mrs. E. L. Suffern, Mrs. S. P. Simpson, Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, Mrs. J. E. Tracy, Mrs. H. P. Reynolds, Mrs. B. J. Shreve, Mrs. H. M. Maxson and Mrs. James R. Joy.

Messrs. M W. Tyler and Rowland Cox were named as the auditing committee.

The matter of changing the constitution so as to increase the Board of Managers was considered at some length, but no definite action was taken regarding it.

Certain doctors were scored for not reporting cases of scarlet fever and other contagious diseases, and the attention of the Board of Health was respectfully called to the matter.

Miss Tweedy spoke of the necessity of having assisting visitors to visit the homes of the poor and sick, and suggested that each member invite a friend to assist in the work.

Considerable discussion also followed on the subject of a depleted treasury, but no definite action was taken in the matter.

LUNCH BOX SOCIABLE.

John Hand Camp, Sons of Veterans, Inaugurate Their Social Season.

The Grand Army rooms were filled last evening with G. A. R. men, their families and friends, who had gathered to join in the festivities of a lunch box social, arranged by John Hand Camp, No 28, Sons of Veterans. Captain Sutton was master of ceremonies and he filled the position with credit. A short and excellent programme was rendered, consisting of a piano duet by the Misses Graves, a recitation by Anna Haffner, and vocal solos by Ethel Reynolds. Comrade V. W. Nash was then called npon and he related in an interesting manner something regarding his recent trip to St. Paul. Continuing the programme, Miss Florence Dodge gave a recitation and vocal solos were given by Miss Jomini. This concluded the programme and the lunch boxes were then auctioned off by V. W. Nash. The bidding was lively and prices ranging from 35 to 50 cents were secured for the boxes. After each person had obtained their partner, the balance of the evening was passed in eating and sociability. The Sons of Veterans will receive as profit about $10, which he placed in the Camp's treasury.

GOLD MEN ARGUMENTS.

ATTENDANCE INCREASING AT THE SEMI-WEEKLY MEETINGS.

E. C. Perkins Insists That Bryan and His Followers Have a Dogma the Results of which They Do Not Realize if They Win.

The attendance at the National Democratic Association meeting held in the West End last evening, was very much larger than on any previous evenings. Lawyer Edward C. Perkins, of Central avenue, was the speaker and he was introduced by President Atterbury. Mr. Perkins selected a text from the Bible, the substance of which is that silver was nothing accounted for in the old days. He spoke in part as follows:

"We have the privilege of choosing for our familie's sake what is best, and at present our best judgment is called into action. The present political question is nothing to enthuse one. It is more a question of honor, and there are certain principles we can understand. We all know what 16 to 1 means. The Irishman's definition was that it was the same as nothing to 8. Bryan and his followers tell you what they will do, but they don't reason it out. They tell you that our country will be more prosperous than ever, but they don't prove how it will be accomplished. They attack everybody, even to the Supreme Court.

"The foundation of Bryan's remarks is that there is not money enough to go around, when the fact is that at present there is more money per capita than ever before, about $21 to each person. People won't invest their money unless they can see it coming back to them with interest. The present lack of confidence is what causes the hard times. You cannot make a thing worth more than it can be sold for. Countries who have a silver basis, go it alone on that basis, for gold will not be used. With such a condition of affairs here, prices would eventually adjust themselves as best they could. They would naturally rise. It is far easier to effect a change in prices than in wages. The one question of honor, right and principle is now paramount. A Hebrew was asked recently "who is Bryan?" He replied "why, Bryan is a great man. He is going to cause the United States to fail and then pay off 53 cent dollars." The usual informal discussion by those present followed Mr. Perkins' remarks, which was conducted by Mr. Atterbury. A vote was taken similar to the one taken last Tuesday evening and the result was: Bryan, 12; McKinley, 10; Palmer, 9; Matchett 1. Mr. Atterbury announced that the next meeting would be held Tuesday evening, October 13th. No meeting will be held next week on account of the Christian Endeavor convention.

IN AID OF A CHURCH.

Mt. Zion Members Conduct a Pleasant and Profitable Affair.

The interior of Mt. Zion A. M. E. church, of West Fourth street, was prettily decorated with flags, Chinese lanterns and paper aprons last evening, on the occasion of the apron and necktie sociable given for the benefit of the church. The receipts at the door were quite large, and this together with the sale of fruit, cake and candy will net a snug little sum for Pastor Grove's church and his good work.

The committee of arrangements was made up of the following: Nixon Morris, Peter Simmons, George Peterson, Mrs. Georgiana Hayward, Miss Jennie Curtis and Mrs. Katie Washington, and those who presided at the several tables were: The Misses Mattie and Lottie Johnson, Ada Woods and Bertha Gibson.

Wheel and Trolley Car Collide.

Henry Benerenis, of Kensington avenue, had his wheel smashed yesterday afternoon while he received sundry cuts in a collision with a trolley car. He was riding beside the car near the corner of Watchung avenue and East Front street, and started to pass it when he slipped and fell directly into it. He luckily escaped with cuts on the head and knee. The motorman was entirely free from all blame.

Junior Endeavor Officers.

The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of Trinity Reformed church elected the following officers yesterday afternoon: President, Grace Emmons; first vice-president, Lizzie Denckleau; second vice-president, Everett Reighton; third vice-president, Hattie Randall; recording secretary, Martha Anthony; corresponding secretary, Grace Ten Eyck; treasurer, Lucy Coriell.

POLITICAL CANVASS

What the Presidential Nominees Are Doing To-day.

MAJOR M'KINLEY RECEIVING CALLERS

Preparing Speeches and Attending to His Correspondence---Mr. Bryan Making Addresses in the South---Big Reception at Wheeling.

Canton, O., Oct. 2.—The weather this morning is cold and cloudy, but the indications point to it clearing up during the afternoon. Only two delegations of visitors are scheduled for to-day, an Italian club of Chicago and farmers of the West Virginia peninsula. Major McKinley's mail this morning contained several more encouraging messages from the west, one from a personal acquaintance in Indiana assuring him that there was no doubt about him carrying the Hoosier state by a safe majority. Communications from the New York and Chicago headquarters were gone over and some little correspondence gotten out of the way, and then Major McKinley got to work preparing several speeches which he expects to deliver to-morrow. Saturday will probably be another big day for Canton and the republican nominee, as there are a number of delegations booked to arrive. Among them are the following: Citizens of Venango county, Pa.; Commercial Travelers' Sound Money club of Mansfield, O.; the Wheelmen's McKinley and Hobart clubs of the United States; Bohemian-American Republican clubs of Cleveland; Sunday Creek valley (Ohio) coal miners; republican clubs of Harrisburg, Pa. If the weather is favorable fully 10,000 strangers are expected tomorrow. A message has been received by Major McKinley from Chicago stating that arrangements are making for an excursion to Canton of college McKinley clubs, probably on the 17th inst. It is to be a general pilgrimage of college republicans and trains are expected to reach Canton at the same hour from all points. Yesterday, the weather being inclement, McKinley addressed the two visiting delegations at the Tabernacle. The last visitors came from Springfield, O. After the speech-making T. J. Thomas presented Major McKinley with a gold horseshoe, the receipt of which was acknowledged by the nominee. Mr. Thomas presented Gen. Harrison with a horseshoe of his own fashioning in 1888.

TO SPEAK IN INDIANA.

Mr. Bryan's Itinerary for Next Week in the Hoosier State.

Chicago, Oct. 2.—Mr. Bryan is to speak in Indiana next week, and his schedule has been arranged as follows: Tuesday, Oct. 6—Jeffersonville, 6:45 a. m.; New Alban, 8:30 a. m.; Scottsburg, 9:14 a. m. to 9:55; Seymour, 9:55 to 10:20; Columbus, 10:55 to 11:25; Franklin, 11:50 to 12:10, Indianapolis, arrive 12:50. The committee has arranged for meetings in Indianapolis both afternoon and evening. Wednesday, Oct. 7—Leave Indianapolis 8:30 a. m., arrive Noblesville 9:40, leave 9:50; Tipton, 10:15 to 10:40; Kokomo, 11:05 to 12:05; Logansport, 12:40 to 2:20; Wynamac, 3:15 to 3:40; North Judson, stop fifteen minutes; Crown Point, 5:20 to 5:50. Hammond, night meeting. A special train has been secured for this trip, and speakers of national reputation will be left at each place where a stop is made to continue the meeting after Mr. Bryan's departure.

Mr. Bryan's Journey Through the South.

Wheeling, W. Va., Oct. 2.—After speaking to a large gathering here last night, excursionists from all surrounding points being present, Wm. J. Bryan left at midnight on his special train for Charleston, where he is to speak this morning. One of the pleasing incidents yesterday occurred at Parkersburg. Just before Mr. Bryan's train drew out of the depot a bevy of pretty young women boarded the "Governor McCorkle," the democratic nominee's private car, and were presented to Mr. Bryan. He told them that this was the twelfth anniversary of his marriage and ninth anniversary of his arrival in Nebraska, and all the young women clapped their hands and gave three cheers for Mrs. Bryan. Mr. Bryan said that he regretted very much that he was not able to celebrate the day at his home.

Russia and France Back of Turkey.

Berlin, Oct 2.—A Constantinople dispatch to the Tageblatt says that the Ihdam, a journal of the Turkish government, publishes an inspired statement that France and Russia are resolved to maintain the integrity of Turkey and the status quo in the east. It declares that Austria concurs in this line of policy.

Failed to Break the Record.

Boston, Oct. 2.—At Readville yesterday afternoon B. J. Wefers, the sprinter, made an attempt to break the record for a 300-yards dash thirty seconds, but failed, covering the distance in 31 4-5 seconds.

Cable Between New York and Turks Island

Fort Monroe, Va., Oct. 2.—The French steamer Seine has arrived in Hampton Roads for coal. She has eleven hundred miles of cable on board, which she will lay between New York and Turks Island.

Nominated for State Senator.

Freehold, N. J., Oct. 2.—The Monmouth county democratic convention yesterday afternoon nominated W. R. Stevens of Eatontown for state senator. Sentiment was strongly in favor of the Chicago platform.

May Strike Next Monday.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 2.—The weavers at the Stevens mills have voted to strike next Monday unless several grievances are adjusted.

BILIOUS PILLIOUSNESS.

WHY SOME BILIOUS PEOPLE TAKE PILLS AND OTHERS DON'T.

Biliousness is much misunderstood. So many people have it, that 'tis worth understanding, the more so as it is easy enough, if you begin right.

Liver secretes a fluid called bile. Bile goes to the intestines, where it performs important work in digestion. Sometimes bile passages in liver get clogged. This is biliousness.

"Pilliousness" is the idea that by taking a pill which stimulates the liver, we may cure biliousness. It is only an idea.

Pill taking relieves but does not cure it. The cure can only come through the stomach.

Why?

Biliousness is caused by the poison of undigested food, irritating the liver. To cure biliousness, these poisons must be got out of the stomach. The only sure way to do this is with Shaker Digestive Cordial.

Shaker Digestive Cordial is a pleasant tonic aid to digestion, prepared from roots, herbs and wine by the Shakers of Mount Lebanon. It helps the stomach to digest its food, and sweeps out of the system all dangerous poisons.

In this way it cures biliousness headache, nausea, dizziness, bad taste, stomachache, fever, flatulence, constipation, loss of appetite, etc., when other remedies only give temporary relief. All druggists. Ten cents for a trial bottle.

HEN FIGHTS A HORSE.

An Odd Encounter Recently Witnessed Down in Maine.

A Dexter (Me.) gentleman claims to have seen a battle between a horse and a hen recently. More oddly matched contestants can scarcely be thought of. Into a neighbor's orchard, where a horse was feeding, an old hen led her flock of chicks. Just what began the fuss the gentleman did not see, but probably the chicks made themselves too familiar with the horse's feet. The horse began kicking at the old hen with all its might, and with the prospect that if he could only hit her once, poultry would take a sudden rise in her vicinity. The pluck of the hen was something wonderful. The chicks scudded out of the way, but their mother fluffed out her feathers, and ran her neck out straight before her, and darted for the horse's heels whenever they struck the ground. She pecked viciously at them, but the odds were against her, as the heels were pretty sure to be missing by the time she got a blow well aimed. The horse labored under the same difficulty. He would look back for the hen, and take aim at her, and she would change base before the cyclone struck. For much fuss and effort and little effect the battle furnished a unique spectacle. Both sides quieted down after a time, and the old hen marched off with her chicks clucking vociferously, which was doubtless her way of impressing them with the fact that she "was not afraid of the biggest horse in Trotterdom."

Pays Taxes with Wolf Scalps.

Charles Bryant, of Nevada, Ia., is a good hunter who pays his taxes with wolf scalps, wolf scalps being legal tender to the extent of two dollars each. The other day he found a hole in which were 11 wolf pups. He says it was the largest litter he ever got in Iowa. He thinks the wolves were hybrids, a cross between a big timber wolf and a coyote, which is possible, but improbable.

MECHANICAL INSECTS.

There is an English insect something like our bee, except that it is a rich violet in color, which well deserves its name of carpenter bee. By the aid of a chisel provided by nature this bee excavates a home in any piece of timber that suits its purpose.

Not only do wasps make paper, but even cardboard. In South America there is a species of wasp that manufactures a cardboard so smooth and firm that it may be written or drawn upon, and it is in one way superior to the article made by man, as it is waterproof.

Some large beetles are as good as circular saws. They seize a branch or twig with their deeply-toothed jaws and whirl around and around until the twig is sawed off. They have been known to saw a twig as large as an ordinary walking-stick in this manner.

There are other insects that use saws which are much better made, finished and sharpened than the finest ones of steel. With these the little workers undertake jobs that, proportionately, no man would dream of attempting. The saw-fly, which owns the neatest instrument of this sort, cuts a perfect groove in wood.

is careful work. Decripit aged drugs won't do. They must be young and feesh—full of life and strength for the sick.
They must be pure and they must be carefully put together. Too much of this and not enough of that, won't do. We make a specialty of putting up prescriptions—we can do it better than the man who doesn't make a specialty of it. If you want careful, thoughtful work, come to—

ONE OF THE MANY TESTIMONIALS:

Mrs. E. E. Waldron, who conducts the ladies' shampooing parlors at 504 Watchung avenue, says of Randolph's Quinine and Glycerine Hair Tonic that she uses it exclusively in her massage and shampoo treatments, and it is the only tonic she can recommend to prevent the hair from falling out and to thoroughly eradicate dandruff. Mrs. Waldron has had considerable experience in the treatment of the scalp, and feels that she cannot praise Randolph's tonic to highly.

Every One
Does It

—you do—we do. When we enter a room we immediately glance at the wall paper. We do it instinctively, for while the wall decoration is seemingly insignificant and unobtrusive, it lays the foundation for the beauty of the room. With inartistic paper you may work forever, and there will be something wrong about the rooms. While the right paper, well, it will almost furnish an empty room. No where else will you find so much beauty for so little money as here. Painter's supplies. Discount to the trade.

RELEASED IRISH PRISONERS.

Asquith Denies That They Were Mistreated While in Confinement.

London, Oct. 2.—The Right Hon. Herbert Asquith, who was home secretary in Lord Rosebery's cabinet, made a speech last night at Leven, Scotland. During the course of his remarks he referred to the recent release of the dynamiters Daly, Whitehead and Gallagher, whose cases had come before him while he was home secretary, but whose release he refused to consent to. He said he implicitly accepted the government's statement that the dynamiters had been liberated solely on account of their bad health, but speaking with the fullest knowledge and sense of responsibility he emphatically denied that they had been treated in prison with exceptional severity. Moreover, when he quitted office there was no ground, according to the rules governing the exercise of clemency, to justify the liberation of a single one of the prisoners.

COYLIE'S SUSPENSION.

The Young Jockey Was Disciplined for Betting on the Races.

New York, Oct. 2.—Mr. Belmont, the president of the Jocky club, is the first officer to break the silence of that body with reference to its recent findings concerning irregular practices. There has been much curiosity as to why Jockey Coylie should have been suspended. When asked about it Mr. Belmont said: "Coylie has been disciplined for betting. The amount bet was insignificant in itself, but he is a young lad, and it was deemed important to teach him at the outset of his career that no rule of a jockey club is a dead letter. The lesson taught him may be a warning to others. No jockey can bet except through the owner of the horse he rides. He does otherwise at his peril, and the consequence is certain exile. This proof may not always be instanteously available, but when it comes punishment will follow."

Death of Rev. Benj. Phelps.

Rockville, Conn., Oct. 2.—Rev. Benjamin Phelps, the oldest member of the Southern New England conference, died yesterday at his home in Vernon, aged 86. He was the father of Charles Phelps of this city, republican candidate for secretary of state. He had been a member of the conference sixty-four years and was chaplain and librarian of the Connecticut state prison from 1859 to 1871. His wife, aged 84, is seriously ill, and is expected to live only a few hours.

Reduced Fares for Union Veteran League.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Through the efforts of the local committee on transportation of the Union Veteran league the Trunk Line association has made a reduction of one-third fare from the original rate to be paid for the round trip to the national encampment, to be held in this city on the 14th to the 17th of this month. This makes it one fare for the round trip, instead of one fare and a third, as fixed by the national commandery.

Comparative Census of the World.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Carroll D. Wright, commissioner of labor, in charge of the eleventh census, has submitted his annual report as census commissioner, its most interesting feature being a statement that a committee has been appointed, consisting of representatives of the various governments, to take a comparative census of every country some time during the year 1900.

Prince of Naples' Coming Marriage.

Rome, Oct. 2.—The marriage of the Prince of Naples, the heir to the throne of Italy, and Princess Helene of Montenego will, it is officially announced, take place on October 24. It is stated that the civil marriage will be conducted at the quirinal, the royal palace, while the religious ceremony will be performed at the Church of St. Mary of the Angels.

Gray Speaks for Gold Democrats.

Wilmington, Del. Oct. 2. — Senator Gray delivered his first address of the campaign last evening at the ratification meeting of the Gold league, which nominated Palmer and Buckner electors and Thomas F. Bayard, Jr., for congress. The audience of about 1,000 paid marked attention to his remarks.

UNCLE SAM'S DEBTS

An Increase During the Month of September of $1,806,034.

TOTAL OBLIGATIONS, $1,221,457,685

Decrease of Non-Interest Bearing Debt Nearly $400,000, and Cash in the Treasury Fell Off $2,191,945—Increase in Gold Coin.

Washington, Oct. 1.—The debt statement just issued shows a net increase in the public debt less cash in the treasury during September of $1,806,034.93. The non-interest bearing debt decreased $385,910.50, and cash in the treasury decreased $2,191,945.43. The balances of the several classes of debt at the close of business September 30 were: Interest bearing debt, $847,364,260; debt on which interest has ceased since maturity, $1,621,790.26; debt bearing no interest, $372,471,635.64; total, $1,221,457,635.90. The certificates and treasury notes offset by an equal amount of cash in the treasury out standing at the end of the month were: $564,534,323, an increase of $867,310. The total cash in the treasury was $849,642,772.44. The gold reserve was $100,000,000. Net cash balance, $141,154,455.10. In the month there was an increase in gold coin and bars of $22,946,111.12. The total at the close of the month being $162,771,311.21. Of silver bars there was a decrease of $3,200,856.57. Of the surplus there was in national bank depositaries $16,583,237.91, against $16,619,914.95 at the end of the previous month.

TORPEDO BOAT NO. 3 LAUNCHED

Expected That She Will Make the Remarkable Speed of 24 1-2 Knots.

Baltimore, Oct. 2.—The first of the three torpedo boats which have for several months been under construction at the Columbian Iron works for the United States navy was launched yesterday afternoon, in the presence of a large crowd. The unusual feature was the absence of government officials. The navy was represented only by the constructors delegated to superintend the building of the vessels. The new boat will be known as torpedo boat No. 3, pending a decision as to the advisability of naming the vessels after a man, as in the case of the Cushing and Ericcson. The vessel just launched was built for the attainment of great speed, as will be her consorts. She will be required to attain a speed of 24 1-2 knots an hour and maintain that remarkable pace two consecutive hours. Should she be unable to do it the builders must pay a penalty. No premium, however, will be allowed in case the speed is exceeded, as in the case of the cruisers built by the Columbian company. No. 3, when completed, will cost about $100,000. She is of the turtle-back patern and will be heavily armored.

MORRISON STILL IN JAIL.

Rensselaer County's Treasurer Unable To Secure $200,000 Bail.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 2.—George H. Morrison, the defaulting county treasurer, who was committed to jail yesterday in default of $200,000 bail, was still locked up this morning, being as yet unable to find bondsmen.

John D. Hart's Arrest.

Philadelphia, Oct. 2.—John D. Hart, the head of the Hart Steamship line of this city, who was arrested Wednesday on the charge of engaging in a Cuban filibustering expedition on the steamer Laurada, and who was held in $1,000 bail by United States Commissioner Edmunds, appeared before that official yesterday afternoon for a hearing. George W. Cowley, the colored seaman of the Laurada, who made the complaint against Hart, was examined, and after several other witnesses had testified, the hearing was continued until to-day.

British Guiana's Gold Output Increasing.

Colon, Colombia, Oct. 2.—Advices received here from British Guiana are to the effect that the yield of gold in that country is steadily increasing and mining property is rising in value. Shares in the Harima mine of the par value of $5 dollars are now selling at $15, and a further advance in value is expected. The greater portion of the gold producing territory is within the domain claimed by Venezuela.

Killed in Sight of His Home.

Bowie, Md., Oct. 2.—Benjamin Rome, business manager and a member of the firm of J. L. Eldaritch & Co., who have numerous stores in Prince George county, the head of which is located here, was run over and killed by an engine on the Pennsylvania road in sight of his home last evening. Mrs. Rome went into convulsions, and is now in a critical condition.

Nominated by Gold Democrats

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Robert L. Drummond, ex-republican district-attorney of Cayuga county, is the nominee of the democratic party and populists for congress in the twenty-eighth district. The national democracy, or sound money democrats, met yesterday and nominated Judge Mason of Ontario county for congress in this district.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $123,951,642. The interruption of telegraphic connections with New York prevented any telegram being received from there this morning giving the gold withdrawals.

Bartlett Re nominated for Congress.

New York, Oct. 2.—The New York state democracy of the Seventh congressional district last night unanimously nominated Franklin L. Bartlett for re-election to congress.

MR. HANCE A CANDIDATE.

Hiram O. Hance, of North Plainfield, is said to be a candidate for the Democratic Congressional nomination in the Third district. Mr. Hance is a young lawyer with a growing practice and is a popular and clever gentleman. The convention is to be held at Somerville, Saturday, October 10th.

Hon. A. B. Cook is much talked of as a possible Shrievalty nominee on the Democratic ticket this fall

MISSIONS AT HOME.

Mrs. S. A. Struthers Describes the Pioneer Work in This City.

An interesting meeting of the Woman's Association of the Congregational church was held yesterday in the church parlors. The association was organized last week, and this was the first meeting with a prepared programme.

The women of the church met at 2:30 and spent an hour or more in missionary sewing. Mrs. Souther, chairman of the missionary committee, then took the presiding officer's chair, and an interesting programme was given, the subject being "Sunday-school Work." After Scripture reading and prayer, Mrs. Souther read a paper giving an account of the Sunday-school work done by the various Congregational mission boards. A bright song was sung by four young members of the Sunday-school, then Mrs. C. L. Goodrich told of Sunday-school work in Oregon. Another song followed, after which Mrs. Struthers described the pioneer Sunday-school work done in Plainfield, the starting of Bethel and Hope chapels, an especially interesting subject to Plainfield workers. Miss F. F. Clark read an account of the beginnings and work of Monroe Avenue chapel, which was also listened to with much interest. The exercises were concluded by the singing of a hymn, and an informal tea followed, Mrs. Gambling presiding at the tea table, assisted by Mrs. Goodrich and three of the young women of the church.

An Accident at Dunellen.

Fred Boice, the driver of a milk wagon, whose place is south from New Market, met with a serious accident yesterday forenoon. He was driving along the road leading from Dunellen to New Market, when the king bolt broke and the front axle and wheels were drawn from under the wagon, allowing the body to fall on the ground. Boice either fell or was dragged from the wagon, and in falling he struck on his left hand breaking the arm at the wrist Dr. Brakely attended the patient and set the broken bone, and the patient is recovering rapidly.

Talked on Sound Money.

The Rev. P. S. Gibson, pastor of Mount Olive Baptist church, went to Somerville on Wednesday evening and delivered an address before the colored Republican club in that place. The meeting was held in the Republican wigwam and it was largely attended. Dr. Gibson directed his charge in favor of sound money—and plenty of it, too—both in the people's pockets and on the collection plates. The doctor was frequently interrupted with loud and continued applause, and his remarks left a very favorable impression upon the minds of his hearers.

Seeing is Believing.

One of the Knights Templars who came out here to participate in the parade yesterday, was very favorably impressed with the beauty of Plainfield. He said he had always been led to suppose that Plainfield was a stuffy little place, with muddy streets, and that one could walk over the entire place in half an hour. That same man said at the station last evening that he was going to bring his wife out here and look around for a house.

Arranging for Their Anniversary.

The regular monthly meeting of the Gesang and Turn Verein was held last evening. Arrangements for the tenth anniversary on October 19 were completed, and it was decided to open the clubhouse in the afternoon of that day for bowling and other contests. It was also decided that the society should hold no more outings on the mountains this fall.

—Preparatory service this evening in the Trinity Reformed church at 8 o'clock.

DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve is an antiseptic, soothing and healing application for burns, scalds, cuts, bruises, etc., and cures piles like magic. It instantly stops pain. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

ENDED WITH A BANQUET.

silent. A bugle call sounded from the head of the line and then came a burst of music as the Plainfield Cornet Band struck up and started from its position at the extreme right of the line and marched down the long line of glittering knights and then back again.

Open carriages were driven up and most of the grand officers were seated in them and then the regular parade began.

At the head of the column came a platoon of Plainfield's "finest." Sergeant Kiely commanded the detachment of policemen while Roundsman Frederickson marched on the right. Next in line was the Plainfield Cornet Band. Then came the Grand Captain General, Eminent Sir P. McGill, well mounted on a charger from which he directed the movements of the column. Five open landaus followed with most of the grand officers of this State and their guests, the grand officers of New York, while the remainder, the younger men, marched together close behind. The grand officers of the Grand Commandery of New Jersey present here were:

Acting Grand Commander, Very Eminent Sir John E. Rowe; Grand Generalissamo, Eminent Sir W. H. Sebring; Grand Senior Warden, Eminent Sir W. B. Pugh; Grand Junior Warden, Eminent Sir J. Davidson; Recorder, Right Eminent Sir C. Bechtel; Treasurer, F. Weise; Grand Prelate, Eminent Sir George Maddock; Grand Standard Bearer, Eminent Sir Daniel Demarest; Grand Sword Bearer, Eminent Sir D. C. Adams, M. D.; Grand Warden, Eminent Sir J. Sheriff; Past Grand Commanders, Right Eminent Sirs J. E. Fulper, L. L. Greer, Isaac S. Roberts, A. D. Winfield and Edward Mills; Past Grand Captain General, Eminent Sir J. N. Alstrom; and Past Grand Prelate, Eminent Sir Thomas Godson.

The grand officers of the Grand Commandery of New York present were: Grand Commander, Right Eminent Sir John A. Mapes; Deputy Grand Commander, Very Eminent Sir Arthur McArthur; Grand Generalissimo, Eminent Sir George Nicholson; Grand Sword Bearer, Eminent Sir W. J. Maxwell; Past Grand Commander, Right Eminent Sir John H. Bonning; and Eminent Sir J. F. Valentine, M. D., of St. Elmo Commandery.

The Trinity Commandery, No. 18, of this city, had the position of honor at the right of the line. Eminent Commander Jacob Kirkner led, while Captain-General Walter H. Freeman directed the movements of the fifty-local Sir Knights and their twenty visitors from Temple Commandery, No. 18, of Metuchen, that marched with them. Their other special guests, the members of Clinton Commandery, of New York, marched next and were distinguished by their white plumes. They had forty swords in line and were commanded by Eminent Sir John C. Reid. Twenty Sir Knights of Hugh De Payen Commandery, of Jersey City, were in line under their officers, Eminent Commander Bertholf and Captain-General Westell.

The blue uniforms with yellow trimming of Voss' First Regiment Band preceded the Damascus Commandery, No. 5, of Newark. A well-drilled commandery they were and they also had the most in line, sixty-six swords. Eminent Commander L. D. Crans and Captain General Dawson were in command.

More music followed then in the shape of the Washington Band that came with DeMolay Commandery, No. 6, of Washington and that commandery followed the musicians, forty swords strong, headed by Eminent Commander Daues and Captain General Smith.

Then came the St. John's Commandery, No. 9, of Elizabeth with thirty-five swords in line and commanded by Eminent Commander Park and Captain General Shepard. Next was Melita Commandery, No. 13, of Paterson, with Eminent Commander Levie and Captain General Stenton, in the lead. Garrett A. Hobart, Republican candidate for vice-president, is a member of this commandery but was not present.

Last in line was Carson Commandery, No. 14, Eminent Commander Bennett, Captain General Parsons, with forty swords and preceded by Voss' band.

The line of march, advertised in the Daily Press, was followed out and the grand officers reviewed the column on West Front street from the reviewing stand erected for the occasion across Madison avenue from the Babcock building.

After their parade Trinity Commandery and her guests marched back to the Babcock building and spent the rest of the time in the Masonic headquarters. Tables groaned beneath the load of a sumptuous banquet in the banquet room and here the local Sir Knights and guests satisfied the inner man.

Mind as well as body was provided for and the grand organ in the lodge room sent forth sweet music under the touch of W. E. MacClymont. Then Elmer E. Runyon sang "Love's Nocturne" most acceptably in his fine tenor voice and B. T. Barnes gave the famous bass solo from "Robin Hood," "The Armorer's Song." Together Mr. Runyon and Mr. Barnes sang a very pretty duet, "I come." A general reception followed and all the visitors were looked after by the local Sir Knights, who certainly know how to entertain.

The visitors were all presented with souviner badges while freshly cut flowers were lavishly distributed among the Sir Knights and their ladies, quite a number of whom attended the reception in the Masonic rooms.

Great credit is due to those who arranged the field day.

The committee of arrangements consisted of Sir Knights Asa Collier, O. T. Waring, W. R. Codington, H. M. Stockton and J. W. Murray, Sr. The reception committee consited of Eminent Sir Knight W. H. Sebring, Past Commander B. F. Coriell, Eminent Sir Knight D. C. Adams, Sir Knight J. J. H. Poillon. The committee on decorations consisted of H. W. Marshall

Quite a number of distinguished men were included among the visiting Sir Knights. Among them was Col. Fleming, of Essex Troop, Orange, who came with Carson Commandery. Among the guests of Trinity Commandery were Sir Knights from Kansas, Illinos, Missouri, Maryland, and Virginia.

Sent it to His Mother in Germany

Mr. Jacob Esbensen, who is in the employ of the Chicago Lumber Co., at DesMoines, Iowa, says: "I have just sent some medicine back to my mother in the old country, that I know from personal use to be the best medicine in the world for rheumatism, having used it in my family for several years. It is called Chamberlain's Pain Balm. It always does the work." 50 cent, bottles for sale by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

DUNELLEN.

Messrs. R. B. Titsworth, Harry Boice, Benjamin Carpenter, Bert Apgar, Elin Palmborg, Miss Maude Titsworth, Miss Anna Starker and Miss Della Dunn are rehearsing with the Christian Endeavor choir of Plainfield for the convention services.

The Misses Maier are visiting Plainfield friends for a few days.

Mrs. Joseph Maier and Mrs. Wm. Connolly were in Bound Brook yesterday to attend the funeral of the late Valentine Boone, who died at Harris' Lane on Tuesday. Interment was made in St. Mary's cemetery, Plainfield.

Contractor John Kitchen, of Plainfield, will have the new town hall enclosed by or before the end of the week. Then the lathers and plasterers will go to work and the interior will, it is thought, be ready for occupancy in less than three weeks.

Nearly enough money has been subscribed to purchase the Democratic flag, which is to be unfurled next week. The balance will be forthcoming at an early date.

Court Dunellen, No. 1123, I. O. F., on Wednesday night paid to Mrs. John Taylor the $1,000 death benefit, that being the amount of her husband's insurance in the order. The claim was paid in something like ten days after it was sent in.

R. J. Swackhamer is tearing down his barn on Church street, preparatory to erecting a cosy new structure on the lot.

A Tribute to the Late E. N. Erickson.

At a meeting of the vestry of Grace P. E. church, Plainfield, held on Tuesday evening, September 29th, 1896, it was resolved to put on record a tribute to the memory of E. N. Erickson, who was for many years a member of this corporation and treasurer of the parish. All who knew Mr. Erickson have united in bearing witness to the faithfulness, zeal and perseverance with which he performed all the duties to which he was called. It was one of the principles, which he had taken for the guidance of his conduct in life, that "the office should seek the man and not the man the office" This he often quoted. In accordance with this principle he never pushed himself into any prominent position; but whenever chosen to take any share in public affairs he gave himself with a fidelity that never grew weary to the discharge of all the duties that were laid upon him. And so in his home, in his church, in his business, in the Board of Governors of Muhlenberg Hospital and in the Common Council he has left an imperishable impress of the conscientious performance of duty, which will be of great value to his children and to all who are called to any public office. It was further resolved that this memorial minute be entered on the record book of the vestry, that a copy be sent to the family of Mr. Erickson and that it be published in the city papers. [Signed]

E. M. Rodman, Rector.

His Grip Saved Him.

People have been known to die from the grip, but "Bob" Johnson's grip saved him from perhaps fatal injury at Dunellen on Wednesday. Bob is a colored man. He was carrying brick and mortar up a 25-foot ladder at the home of Fireman Tonzo. Just as he alighted from the top rung the scaffolding shifted. Bob grasped the leader on the edge of the roof and he held fast until rescued.

—S. D. Frazee has been engaged to furnish music for the Red Men's dance at High Bridge on the evening of October 24.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disasgreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

In a recent letter to the manufacturers Mr. W. F. Benjamin, editor of the Spectator, Rushford, N. Y., says: "It may be a pleasure to you to know the high esteem in which Chamberlain's medicines are held by the people of your own state, where they must be best known. An aunt of mine, who resides at Dexter, Iowa, was about to visit me a few years since, and before leaving home wrote me, asking if they were sold here, stating if they were not she would bring a quantity with her, as she did not like to be without them." The medicines referred to are Chamberlain's Cough Remedy, famous for its cures of colds and croup; Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism, lame back, pains in the side and chest, and Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy for bowel complaints. These medicines have been in constant use in Iowa for almost a quarter of a century. The people have learned that they are articles of great worth and merit, and unequaled by any other. They are for sale here by T. S. Armstrong druggist.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Daisy Sheppard, of West Front street, is detained at home by illness.

Roundsman Mattox, who has been seriously ill, was able to sit up yesterday for the first.

The Misses Saxton, of East Fourth street, entertained friends from out of town yesterday.

Charles Foster, foreman of the Pond Tool Works, returned this week from a pleasant vacation.

Mrs. William C. Ayers, of West Second street, is visiting her son, Frank Baynon, of East Orange.

Miss Piker, of Arlington, who has been visiting Plainfield relatives, returned home last evening.

Mr. and Mrs. J. F. Garretson, of Central avenue, entertained relatives from Somerville yesterday.

D. H. Thickston and wife arrived home from Bellmar Wednesday, where they have been for a summer outing.

L. C. Batson, of West Front street, shipping clerk at the Pond Tool Works, returned yesterday from his vacation.

Robert Trewin, formerly of this city, but late of Belmar, has again taken up his residence in this city at the home of his mother, 428 Orchard place.

Miss Mamie Thixton, of Louisville, Ky., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs D. H. Thickston, of Central avenue. Miss Thixton is a society reporter on the Louisville Courier-Journal, and has written many stories for Northern papers.

Charles Gould and Edward Terry, clerks at Hummer's market on Park avenue, yesterday held a chicken-picking match in the rear of the store. Terry plucked his barnyard pheasant in just fifteen seconds, while Gould took over twenty-five seconds.

William Klapper, of Hempstead, L. I., was in town yesterday visiting Mr. and Mrs. Theodore Kurzhals. Thirteen years ago he worked here as a barber for George Kesselring, and since then he has only visited Plainfield on two or three different occasions.

Mrs. H. A. Adams, of Lansingburgh, N. Y., a cousin of Mrs. Charles H. Schermerhorn, of West Front street, Miss Florence Allen, of the same place, have arrived in town to attend the Christian Endeavor convention next week. Mrs. Adams is visiting Mrs. Schermerhorn, and Miss Allen is visiting her aunt, Mrs. Neal, of West Front street.

Silk Mills Destroyed by Fire.

The silk factory located at Sterling, six miles from this city, was totally destroyed by fire at an early hour this morning. Flames were discoverd in the carpentry room at 2 a. m., but the limited fire fighting facilities that the village possesses prevented their extinguishment and in a short time the large building was one mass of fire. The mill employed about 150 hands at present and in good time gave work to 300 people. The loss will probably amount to $200,000. It is owned by H. Alfred Streuli, of Prospect avenue, this city.

—This evening, at the First Presbyterian church, services preparatory to communion will be held.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

—Charles Woolston, of Fairview avenue, in company with some of his friends was driving along West Front street yesterday afternoon, when one of the hind wheels of the wagon collapsed. The vehicle came down with much force, but fortunately the occupants were not injured, and the horse being gentle, did not attempt to run away. The wagon was taken to a shop to be repaired, the horse was taken home, and the young people walked the rest of the afternoon.

Went Over for a Week.

In the Somerset county court this morning the liquor license applications of George Sisser and J. H. Graceley, of North Plainfield, were laid over for another week. A large number of Plainfielders were in court. It is though that Graceley's application will be granted, but Sisser's will probably be refused.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

GAVE UP HIS OFFICE

United States District Attorney Lassiter Forced To Resign.

WAS TOO ACTIVE IN POLITICS

Is Chairman of a West Virginia Democratic Committee—Differed with Attorney-General Harmon and Surrenders His Position.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Francis R. Lassiter, United States district attorney for the eastern district of Virginia, has resigned as a result of a disagreement with Attorney General Harmon as to the extent that a government official could engage in active political work. Mr. Lassiter is chairman of the democratic committee at Petersburg, Va., and presided over the meeting there when addressed by Mr. Bryan. The attorney general took the ground that such active participation in politics did not comport with a judicial officer of the government, and so informed Mr. Lassiter. As Mr. Lassiter disagreed with the attorney-general, Mr. Harmon followed up a private conversation with Mr. Lassiter by letter, in which he said: "Whatever rule may prevail in other departments, it is well settled in this, as stated in my letter, that there is an impropriety in officers like you acting as committeemen to manage and conduct political campaigns. The reasons are so manifest that they should not require more than a mere suggestion. The same reasons which are universally held to preclude judges from active participation in political campaigns apply, though perhaps in somewhat less degree, to all officers concerned in the administration of justice. As United States attorney you determine whom to prosecute and whom not to prosecute. You conduct or recommend the discontinuance of prosecutions already commenced. You have admission to the grand jury room, and indictments are found or refused largely upon your advice. If I concede that you are, as you to-day claimed to be, one of those rare men who are beyond the reach of unconscious operation of such feelings, still the general conference of the community in your conduct as a public officer of justice, is at least at risk if, while holding that office, you so engage in the exciting and often bitter political campaigns in which the entire community is ranged on one side or the other." Rather than give up active participation in politics upon receipt of the letter of Mr. Harmon, Mr. Lassiter tendered his resignation, which was promptly accepted.

CANADIAN PACIFIC STRIKE.

No Trains Moving Regularly and the Road Badly Crippled.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—No trains are moving regularly on the Canadian Pacific this morning except between Toronto and this city. There is talk of a compromise being effected between the strikers and the railroad officials. Rumors of sympathetic strikes of other branches of the trainmen's union still are rife. The situation is serious. The road is using every inducement to hire operators to take the places of the strikers, but experiences great difficulty in getting competent men. At this season of the year the grain movement from Manitoba is considerable, and the Canadia Pacific has an unusual volume of freight business.

Spain Trying to Stop Emigration.

Madrid, Oct. 2.—The government is taking energetic measures to stop the emigration of lower and middle class families to which belong young men liable to military service. The government has learned that several thousand young men have gone to South America, France and Algeria because they were unable to pay the $400 necessary to redeem themselves from serving with the army in Cuba. Eighteen thousand out of 80,000 men bought immunity in 1895, and there is evidence that fully as many have purchased exemption thus far this year.

Movements of Naval Vessels.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The navy department has received a cablegram from Admiral Selfridge at Genoa announcing that the San Francisco had joined the Minneapolis at that port, and a telegram was received from Capt. Strong of the practice ship Essex telling of the vessel's arrival at New York after being at sea from Sag Harbor since Sept. 26.

Flood in the Potomac.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Advices from points on the Potomac river report an extensive, if not alarming, rise in the river at all points above Washington. At Harpers Ferry a rise of thirty-one feet above low water mark is noted, and a continual rise seems to follow. Flood river signals are displayed along the river front.

The Eastern Question.

London, Oct. 2.—The Vienna correspondent of the Daily Mail telegraphs that the powers have agreed upon a pacific settlement of the eastern question which is honorable to all parties. He adds that the agreement amply guarantees the future security of the Armenians.

The Austrian Budget.

Vienna, Oct. 2.—The budget for 1897 was presented yesterday in the lower house of the reichsrath. It provides for expenditures to the amount of 692,161,183 florins (about $235,350,000). The estimated revenue is 692,703,950 florins.

Spain Orders More Rifles.

Berlin, Oct. 2.—The Spanish government has ordered 60,000 rifles from the Loewe's, a German firm of small arms manufacturers. The weapons are to be delivered in December.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

CHEAP BICYCLES.

A French Invention Which Sells for a Quarter.

It is Hardly Up to Our American Machine, However—It is Thought It May Affect the Price of Bicycles the World Over.

A business has just been started in Paris which may affect the price of bicycles all over the world. It undoubtedly will, if the claims made by the champions of the new undertaking prove true. Cheap bicycles, so cheap that the mention of the sum takes one's breath away, are to be the product of this new business or factory.

Wooden bicycles were offered for sale in Paris some time ago at the unheard-of price of 26 sous each. Henri de Parville, scientific editor of the Journal des Debats, was musing over this strange fact, when one day he received a letter informing him that a very useful bicycle could be made for two sous, which are equivalent to a couple of cents of American money. A bicycle for a couple of cents! Just think of it! A few days later Paul Clerc, the writer of the letter, showed M. de Parville his two-cent bicycle. It was simply composed of a couple of pieces of wood taken from an old box and two cents' worth of iron.

It was, in other words, a rough specimen of the primitive velocipede, as invented by Baron de Drais in 1818. The component parts of this machine were a rough wooden framework and two wooden wheels of equal size.

M. Clerc's idea is to place on the market machines fashioned after this old model, but with all feasible and inexpensive improvements. The machines will have neither pedals nor intricate mechanism of any kind. They will be composed simply of a wooden framework, two wooden wheels and a saddle. They will be known, not as bicycles, but as celerets.

It is not expected that the celerets will supersede the regular bicycles, but it is considered certain that thousands who cannot afford to buy bicycles will buy celerets. A first-class bicycle costs $100 or more; a first-class celeret can be bought for one dollar or two dollars, and one of an inferior grade can be purchased as low as 25 cents. Nay, there is no reason why a handy man or boy should not make a celeret for himself, in which case the only outlay necessary would be a couple of cents for iron.

And in regard to the utility of the celeret Baron de Drais said many years ago: "On a good road my machine can travel at the rate of two leagues, and even four leagues, an hour, and when going down hill its speed is greater than that of a galloping horse." Perhaps the baron bragged. The celert may not go quite as fast as he claims. Still, it can be made to go fast, and with little effort. The rider is really walking, while in a sitting posture, and is far less likely to become fatigued than if he were running in the ordinary manner. Progress is made by touching the ground alternately with the right and left foot. The machine, once set in motion in this manner, goes along steadily, and the speed at times is so great that the rider has no need to propel himself with his feet.

"Put pneumatic tires and other modern improvements on a celeret," says M. Clerc, "and there is no reason why it should not go almost as fast as a bicycle."

He also says confidently that a man can travel a long distance on a celeret and feel hardly the least fatigue at the end of his journey. He accounts for this fact on the ground that none of the energy spent on propelling the machine is wasted, and that the amount of energy required to travel a long journey is much less than might be expected.

M. Clerc sees clearly that it will be no easy task to make the celerets popular. When their prototypes, the draisennes, were invented, at the beginning of the century, the few persons who ventured to use them in France were unmercifully caricatured. In England the machines became more popular, but there, too, their riders were ridiculed. We all know how long it has taken the modern bicycle to win its present high position. M. Clerc, however, is confident of success.

"According to him," says the Journal des Debats, "thousands can derive benefit from a machine like this, which costs almost nothing, which travels as fast as a trotting horse, and which can be ridden by anyone without the slightest danger of falling off. How many young people would use it for amusement and health, and also for the purpose of learning how to ride the regular bicycle? Workingmen could ride to their business on celerets, children could go to school on them, peasants could ride to market on them, and even business men could use them to save time. So light could they be made that riders could easily carry them under their arms, if necessary."

Analyzed thoroughly, then, M. Clerc's idea is philanthropic. He wants to furnish workingmen and the poor generally, who cannot afford to buy bicycles, with machines that for all practical purposes will prove quite as serviceable to them as any bicycle.—N. Y. Herald.

She Had a Reason, Too.

He thought to test her affection as he took her little hand in his and looked fondly into her eyes.

"If you had your choice," he said, "would you prefer to have an engagement ring or a bicycle?"

For fully three minutes she said nothing, but he could see that a fearful struggle was taking place within her. Finally she spoke.

"All else being equal," she said, "I would prefer an engagement ring, but—"

"My darling! My own!" he cried.

"Now, don't be so sudden," she protested. "I said all else being equal, but it isn't. Would an engagement ring give me a license to wear bloomers? Well, I guess not. Trot out the wheel."—Chicago Post.

BAY STATE REPUBLICANS.

Resume of the Proceedings of Yesterday's Convention at Boston.

Boston, Oct. 2.—The Massachusetts republican convention in Music hall, yesterday, 1,810 delegates present, nominated acting governor Roger Wolcott for governor by acclamation and W. Murray Crane of Dalton on the first ballot for lieutenant governor. His only opponent was Col. Samuel Winslow of Worcester, and the vote stood: Crane, 1,347; Winslow, 538. The following state officers were renominated by acclamation: W. M. Olin of Boston, secretary of state; E. P. Shaw of Newburyport, treasurer and receiver general; John W. Kimball of Fitchburg, auditor; Hosea M. Knowlton of New Bedford, attorney general. The platform endorses the resolutions of the St. Louis convention, declares for a sound monetary system, a stable monetary unit and a scrupulous observance in the letter and spirit of every public obligation; the enactment of tariff laws which will provide revenue adequate for the payment of the national expenditures and gradual reduction of the national debt, promote the policy of reciprocity, protect American industries and American workmen and preserve our own markets to our own workmen; the rigid enforcement of existing laws in restriction of immigration. Laws for the promotion of temperance and the regulation of the liquor traffic are favored. The Chicago platform is denounced, particularly the free coinage plank and the denial of the supremacy of the national laws. George W. Lyman was temporary chairman and representative W. D. Draper of Hopedale permanent chairman.

KATE FIELD'S WILL.

The Estate of the Late Authoress Valued at $14,000.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The will of the late Kate Field, the authoress, who died in Honolulu last May, and whose remains, at her expressed request, are to be cremated, has just been offered for probate in the orphans' court of this city. The real property of Miss Field's is estimated at $12,000 and the personal property at $2,000. The surviving relatives named in the petition are Grace Riddle of San Francisco, Henry Sedley and Mary Sedley Smith of New York city, Edward Riddle of Manitoba, George Riddle, Elizabeth C. Riddle and Cora Riddle of Cambridge, Mass., and Kate Willcox of New Orleans.

Final Test of the Massachusetts.

Washington, Oct. 2.—Orders have been issued for the final trial and inspection at sea of the battleship Massachusetts. She will leave Hampton Roads October 10 and be taken to sea, where she will be driven at full speed for forty-eight hours. Her big guns will be fired, and she will be put through all the extreme tests of actual service. If no fault is found with the ship, her builders will receive the $76,000 reserved by the government pending the trial.

Four Chinamen Barrred Out.

Montreal, Oct. 2.—Four Chinamen who arrived by the steamship Scotsman from Liverpool yesterday were not allowed to land, as they had no papers to show that they were British subjects as they claimed, nor did they have $50 apiece with which to pay the tax. The steamship company was given an option to pay the tax or take them back, and chose the latter.

Cuban Messengers Arrested at Kingston.

Kingston, Jamaica, Oct. 2.—Several Cuban officers conveying important dispatches to be cabled hence to the junta in New York have arrived here. They attempted to land surreptitiously, but were detected and placed under arrest for violating the quarantine laws. The papers in their possession were taken from them by the authorities.

Many Conductors Asked To Resign.

Houston, Tex., Oct. 2.—Although no official notifications have yet been made, it is understood that all but three of the Houston & Texas railroad's conductors have been asked to resign. The exact nature of the charges cannot be learned. The men said to have been discharged refuse to either deny or affirm the report.

For a Speechmaking Campaign.

Chicago, Oct. 1.—The anti-silver democracy managers are getting things in shape for an active speechmaking campaign. Secretary Carlisle, Postmaster General Wilson, Secretary Morton and ex-Gov. Roswell P. Flower will be asked to speak under national democratic auspices.

Has Too Many Wives.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Nathan C. Beeder is under arrest in this city charged with bigamy. He has two, and possibly three, wives, his last being Miss Nellie Randall, the 18-year-old daughter of a Westfield widow. He was in company with here when arrested here.

Ten Eyck Defeats Whitehead.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 2.—The match race between Joe Whitehead, national amateur rowing champion, and young Ten Eyck of Worcester, over a one-mile and a half course with a turn, yesterday afternoon, was won by Ten Eyck by over a length.

Both Principals Killed in a Duel.

Nominated for Congress.

Newburgh, N. Y., Oct. 2.—The national democrats of the Seventeenth district have nominated Robert A. Weidenmann of Rockland county for congress.

STORM DEVASTATION

Loss of Life in Florida Will Not Fall Below Fifty.

LATER REPORTS MAY SWELL THE LIST

The Path of the Wind Was Narrow, But the Destruction Was Complete—Details from Some of the Stricken Localities Not Yet Received.

Savanah, Ga., Oct. 2.—Telegraphic communication between Savannah and Florida is not fully re-established since the hurricane snapped the wires. Former advices which had reached here of the storm's work in Florida cover the state pretty fully, but have come by mail. Enough has been received to make it certain that the loss of life will not fall below fifty, and accurate reports may swell these figures. No estimate can be made of the property loss but it is very large. Although a large area seems to have been affected in a greater or less degree by what might be called the edges of the storm, its path across the state was a narrow one. The hurricane struck Florida at Cedar Keys, about 100 miles southwest of Jacksonville, and swept over about twenty-five towns, and at these points the fatalities occurred. After practically wiping out Cedar Keys the fearfull West Indian visitor moved northeasterly, striking Willistown, a small town, where eleven houses were blown down; one person was killed here and several so badly hurt that some of them will die. Near here is a large turpentine farm where state convicts are employed. Twenty of these men were huddled together in a cabin. A heavy tree was blown across the cabin and six of the convicts were crushed to death. In Alachua county the storm did terrible damage. In Gainesville the Methodist church and about twenty residences and business houses were destroyed, and while a number of people were hurt, no fatalities are reported. At La Crosse fifteen buildings were destroyed. The Rev. W. A. Barr, Mrs. F. F. McIntosh and her child were killed. Near there four laborers who were in a cabin at a turpentine farm were crushed by falling trees. Newberry, in West Alachua, was totally wrecked. C. J. Eastlin, Mrs. Nancy Moss, Frank Olmstead and David Jones were killed.

Several Towns Almost Destroyed.

At Gracy, a small place, twelve houses were blown down and a woman was killed. At Lake Butler, Bradford county, Mrs. C. H. Harkey and Mrs. J. M. Fitch and her infant were fatally hurt. At this place the wind blew to pieces two cars loaded with bricks, and a negro, who was some yards away, was killed by being struck by one of the flying bricks. On Judge Richard's turpentine farm four convicts were killed by falling trees. In Baker county four towns were almost totally destroyed. They are McKenny, Sanderson, Glen St. Mary and Olustee. No one was killed outright in these towns, but many were injured, among whom were Mrs. C. S. Richardson, James McAlpin and North Webster, all of whom will die. At Live Oak the destruction is complete, but no loss of life is reported. Near Welberne the house of Amos White was destroyed and two of his children were killed. At Lake City eight business houses and thirteen other buildings were destroyed. Mrs. Sarah Fletcher and two boys were killed, and Dora Jennings, Samuel Hudson and Jonas Mabrey were fatally injured. Six persons were reported killed at Fort White, in Columbiana county, but no names are given.

Jacksonville Escaped.

The hurricane passed over Duval county, stirking the edges of Jacksonville, but doing little damage. There was no loss of life. Just north of here, however, in Nassau county, considerable destruction is reported. Five children were killed in the wreck of a schoolhouse. Miss Stewart, the teacher, had her arm broken. Lila Rails, a 12-year-old girl, was killed at her home, her mother being fatally injured. Harry Johnson was also killed. At Hillyards another schoolhouse was wrecked and four children were killed. At Kings Ferry Andrew Johnson, Moses Lassiter, Simon Henderson, May Jones and a child were killed. Three sailors were killed on schooners that were loading lumber at Kings Ferry. Across the line in Georgia the devastation was continued. At Folston, which is near the Okefenokee swamp, the schoolhouse was wrecked and four children killed. Several casualties are reported in Camden county Ga. The storm continued on its way to Brunswick and Savannah.

More Presidential Postoffices.

Washington, Oct. 2.—The president has appointed Francis F. Claussen, of Louisiana, assayer of the mint at New Orleans. Also the following postmasters: Ole G. Vinzent at Berkeley, Cal.; John Hormstein at Boone, Ia.; Robert M. Porter at Williamston, Mass., and John L. Brooks at Georgetown, Tex. Forty-nine fourth-class postoffices yesterday became presidential. All the occupants are reappointed except at Richmond Hill, N. Y., where John A. Homeyer was appointed.

Russian Fleet Near the Bosphorus.

London, Oct. 2.—The Chronicle will to-day publish a dispatch from Berlin saying that the Russian Black sea fleet is cruising forty-five miles northwest of the Bosphorus, and that it is in constant communication with the lighthouse at Kila, thirty miles east of the Bosphorus.

Killed by a Train.

Elmira, N. Y., Oct. 2.—Joseph Hulick, aged 60 years, was struck and killed by an Erie switch engine at 6 o'clock last night. He leaves a wife and daughter.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Frank Milligan, of West Fourth street, has purchased a World road racer from Sandford Robinson.

Miss Freeman, of Watchung avenue, enjoys riding a new wheel, recently purchased.

While riding his wheel at a high rate of speed, Wednesday night, a boy named Milligan ran into a wagon and thoroughly wrecked his front wheel. No other injury resulted.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Y. M. C. A. team will play its first game tomorrow afternoon on the Y. M. C. A. grounds with the San Remo football club, of New York. The game is called for 3:30 o'clock. Admission is twenty-five cents. The team had a very successful practice last evening.

Plainfield's Model Police.

The Broadway Squad of Plainfield's finest policemen, headed by Sergeant Kiely presented a fine appearance in advance of the Knights Templar parade, yesterday. The squad gave an exhibition drill at the coner of Park avenue and Seventh just previous to the starting of the procession and all through the line of march they marked with the neatness and precision of a regimental officer. The training and drilling which Councilman Barrows has brought to bear upon the members of the force has been prolific of much good, and this fact is acknowledged by the members themselves and the citizens in general. Yesterday the gallant squad was frequently applauded for their manly appearance and general deportment. Chief Grant and Sergeant Kielly are to be congratulated upon having such a fine force of men to preside over.

Stopped Work on the Freight House.

The work of removing the freight house has today been necessarily retarded, by transfering the carpenters to West Bergen, where their services were required to complete an important job. The men were called from their work here at 7:30 o'clock this morning and started at once for West Bergen. This will in all probability delay the removal of the first section of the old building, on Sunday next, as was originally intended. The present structure has stood where it now is for from eighteen to twenty years past.

A Collision.

Car No. 7 of the street railway service was coming up under the Watchung avenue railroad bridge about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon, and one of the Plainfield Ice Cold and Storage Company's heavy ice wagons turned into that thoroughfare at the same time. The wagon struck the fender of the car and knocked it out of plumb. At the Dunellen end of the route the fender was taken off and straightened out. No particular damage was done.

Waylaid on Cottage Place.

Charles Manning, a helper on Farlee's express wagon, was walking along Cottage place on his way home about 9:30 o'clock last evening, when a tall and muscular-appearing man stopped him and asked some suspicious questions. Charley was frightened, of course, but he couldn't run, and after a little parleying with the man he was to go on his way. A special officer was notified, but no arrest was made.

Republican Mass Meeting Tonight.

The weather promises to be pleasant for this evening and a big crowd is expected at the meeting to be held by the Republicans this evening at Music Hall at 8 o'clock. Two excellent speakers, Hon. Frank Plumley, ex-United States District Attorney of Vermont, and Hon. J. W. Gleed, of Topeka, Kansas, have been secured and some interesting addresses may be looked for.

SHE HOLDS THE RECORD.

Woman Who Passes Most of Her Life in Prison.

She Has Been "Taken Up" by the Chicago Police Something Like Seven Hundred Times in the Past Twenty-Five Years.

Last Monday noon, when the usual collection of offenders against the law left the Chicago avenue station for the Bridewell, Lizzie Brown, so says the Chicago Tribune, went with them. It was not an unusual experience for her, and it caused no surprise to the police, the Bridewell officials or to Lizzie herself. In fact, it was accepted as a matter of course, for much of Lizzie's life has been spent within the walls of that recuperative resort. Like the man in the song, who had been "arrested one t'ousand times," she had made a record for herself, probably the high record of its sort in Chicago. In the last 25 years she has been "taken up" a number of times, approximately estimated at 700.

She is not, however, a dangerous offender. She is the enemy of no one but herself. For it is the wine cup, or, to be more exact, the thick-bottomed liquor glass, that causes her frequent sojourns within the walls of the Chicago hospital for the morally diseased. She is a victim of the trouble familiarly known as "the recurrent jag." Monday marked the close of what was, for her, an unusually long period of enjoyment of the delights of freedom. One week had elapsed since she had seen the inside of the police station.

Lizzie Brown is a "character," and, as is the case with most characters of the sort, the part of her life which has not come under the direct notice of the police is in a great measure unknown. So far as the police know, she has no home except the bridewell and the Chicago avenue station. Her days of freedom are spent, first in acquiring the necessary capital for the establishment of a genial state of intoxication, and then in establishing that state. Food troubles her little; it is "the drink" that is her chief end in work. She claims to be a scrubwoman, and for a time was employed at the Polk street station. Later she transferred her labors to the North side, and did the same work at the Chicago avenue station. The police do not know where she works now during the brief times in which she accumulates the wherewithal for indulging a spree, but she seems always to be able in one way or another to get hold of a supply of "the crature." She was born in Ireland, but has spent nearly the whole of her life in Chicago, and is 62 years old.

Lizzie is known to nearly everyone on the Chicago police force. Almost every night she does not spend in the bridewell is passed in a police station. Sometimes she is picked up on the street by good-natured officers and taken in until she recovers from the effects of the liquor. Often she appears at the station of her own accord, and her arrest is similar to that of the man in one of J. M. Barrie's stories, who sent word to the police that at a certain hour he would be passing a certain place, acting upon which information, the officers skillfully apprehended him. Her arrest on Monday was of the latter sort. She appeared at the station, penniless, but bearing the marks of the recent possession of money in a rolling gait and a thick speech, and announced that she was ready to "go out." She was stowed away in a cell, and when her turn came Justice Kersten, as usual, granted her request.

Tuesday, at the bridewell, she was still so much under the influence of liquor as to prevent her talking correctly. She sat perfectly still while a sketch was made of her, and asked whether it was a good likeness, but except for a few mumbled sentences, which it was impossible to catch, she would say nothing else. Superintendent Crawford says she is the quietest and best prisoner he has ever had in the bridewell, and she has surely given him chance to form an opinion. She was among the first load of prisoners ever taken to the place, and since 1871, when this occurred, has been a steady frequenter of the prison. She has never been under discipline, and has never been reprimanded. Her present stay is to last 23 days.

In appearance Lizzie does not in the least resemble the figure naturally called to mind when one speaks of an habitual drunkard. Her hair does not hang about her face in unkempt locks, nor either is her face haggard or bloated. She has much the look of a hard-working housewife. She is tall and stout, and dresses neatly and cleanly. Her gray hair is brushed back from her forehead, and she looks younger rather than older than her 60-odd years.

Beds Are Scarce in Russia.

Beds are quite an innovation in Russia, and many well-to-do houses are still unprovided with them. Peasants sleep on the top of their ovens; middle-class people and servants roll themselves up in the sheepskins and lie down near the stoves; soldiers rest upon wooden cots without bedding, and it is only within the last few years that students in schools have been allowed beds.

SCORCHER AT THREE.

Youngest Bicycle Rider in the United States Astonishes Chicago.

The youngest bicycle rider in the world lives in Chicago. He is Anson Clark, son of Dr. P. L. Clark, and he is just two years and ten months old.

This tiny fellow began his wheeling career three months ago. After four lessons he rode with ease and assurance. To-day he is an expert in the full meaning of the term.

Master Clark is the wonder of all who watch his performances. He has the most perfect control of his wheel, and the latter is a marvel of minute mechanism. The machine was made especially for the baby rider, the model, detail and workmanship being an exact copy of a standard high-grade bicycle.

The wheels of the midget vehicle are 14 inches in diameter. The frame is black enameled. Every piece of metal in the machine is of the best quality. In all probability it is the smallest practical bicycle in the world.

Master Anson has never received a serious fall during his experience on the road. He is disposed, however, to believe that the right of way belongs exclusively to him, although he yields gracefully when it is absolutely necessary to do so. He is a familiar object on the Chicago cycle paths and boulevards, and is generally seen in company with his father, who is a six-footer and an enthusiastic wheelman. The contrast of these two riders spinning along side by side is both interesting and amusing.

Only five weeks ago Master Anson was permitted to discard his baby kilts for a fine pair of knickerbockers, and now he is as proud of his appearance a-wheel as the veriest roadster. He has wonderful powers of endurance for such a wee lad, and has frequently set the pace for riders five times his age.

As might naturally be supposed, it is difficult for his parents to restrain his ardor and passion for "scorching," and though it is not likely that he will run a child's risk to the vehicles and pedestrians that cross his path, it is not unlikely for a child of Master Anson's years to disable himself through an excursion on his wheel.

Personally the boy is very bright and has gained an extended reputation for his pluck at the age. That he will do credit to a wheel in one of the very first classes on a wheel day after watching his father stride his bicycle and hearing the latter talk about racing the smart man in which he pedals along the cycle path.

Child Marriages in India.

In India there are 100,000 boys and 527,000 girls under the age of 14 who are legally married, while 8,600 boys and 24,000 girls who have not attained the age of four are under marriage bonds as arranged by their parents.

RAIDED THE APPLEJACK.

REVENUE OFFICERS CLOSE UP THE DISTILLERY OF JOHN LAMBERT.

Uncle Sam's Officials Pounce Upon the Places Where Jersey Lightning is Distilled—Refuse to Disclose the Charges.

'Twas a strange scene there in the damp, dark storeroom under John Lambert's distillery yesterday afternoon. The over-hanging clouds made the day seem dark and dreary, and the weather-stained splintered board walls of that old distillery looked gloomier than ever down in the hollow. The rough board door of the storeroom was open and four men could be seen moving about among the casks that nearly covered the floor. The dim light revealed but little of the bare interior with the still assuming grotesque figures in the background. Three of the men were in their shirt sleeves and were busy sampling and testing the contents of the casks. The fourth was recording the results of the tests. Over in one corner by the only window, a small and high one at that, sat an old gray-haired man whose face was half-hidden under an old slouch hat. It was the owner of the still and he watched the operations of the visitors very keenly.

The visitors were the United States revenue officers and they had raided his place.

John Lambert is well known in Plainfield as the proprietor of a distillery and cider mill located near Willow Grove, about three miles south of Plainfield. Freeholder Simeon Lambert, his father, ran the distillery before him, for the place is an old one dating back nearly a century. Every year thousands of gallons of apple whiskey or "Jersey Lightning," as it is some times called, are turned out from there, and John Lambert has been a prosperous man since he came into possession.

Hearing of a rumor that a raid was contemplated yesterday afternoon, a Daily Press reporter visited the old distillery at that time, and came upon the scene above described. Deputy United States Revenue Collector James J. Brennan, of Elizabeth, headed the party of raiders, and he was accompanied by Revenue Inspector John Sinsel, of New York, Revenue Guager John V. Diefenthaler, of Newark, and Special Officer James J. Carey, of Elizabeth. Every cask was carefully tested, and the officers laughed and joked as they stumbled about the mouldy floor in the faint light while examining the casks of liquor.

They received The Daily Press reporter politely, but refused to divulge the object of their visit further than to say that they had seized the entire stock of liquors and closed the distillery for a time.

Mr. Lambert is stone deaf, and although worth m ny thousands of dollars, he looks more like a farm hand than a well-to do business man. To interview him it was necessary to write the questions which the reporter did after the party had left the distillery.

"Why are they here, can you tell me?" wrote the reporter on his note book. The gaunt grey bearded distiller shook his head and exclaimed, "They've seized all my liquor. They think I'm a perfect devil!"

"Why?" asked the interviewer.

"I know nothing about it," declared Mr. Lambert.

"What do they claim is the matter with the liquor? continued the reporter. "I don't know, I have no idea, reiterated the old man, and despite other questions on the same line, he denied all knowledge, of anything irregular, or even knowing why the raid was made. In his conversation with the raiders, however, he seemed to know something about it, and when they showed him the result of their tests, he declared that their instruments were incorrect, and that they were defrauding him.

The officers had driven over from the Fanwood station, about two miles away, and as the shadows lengthened they packed up their instruments, closed the distillery and fastened it securely, leaving special Officer Carey to stand guard until their return. Arrangements were made at the Lambert farmhouse whereby he was to be given board and lodging.

Rumor has it that the cause of the raid is that Lambert has been selling ungaged liquor and making false reports to the government officers.

Another more modern one, also belonging to Mr. Lambert, is located on the other side of the road. Both of these distilleries are less than one-fourth of a mile from the Willow Grove chapel.

ON THE CAMPAIGN ISSUES

REPUBLICANS HOLD A SECOND MASS MEETING IN MUSIC HALL.

Mayor Gilbert Presided and Introduced the Speakers With a Few Remarks on the Money Question—Two Speakers.

The Plainfield Republicans seem to have inherited Plainfield's hoodoo, for rain greeted their mass meeting at Music Hall last evening for the second time. The audience was fair in size, however, and quite enthusiastic while the speakers proved interesting.

Assemblyman W. R. Codington called the meeting to order and introduced Mayor Alexander Gilbert as chairman of the meeting. The other officers of the meeting were: Vice-Presidents—James T. Closson, Chas. Hyde, E. D. Murphy, William M. Sandford, L. V. F. Randolph, Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., Walter Scott, J. B. Coward, C. B. Corwin, George H. Goddard, O. T. Waring, E. L. Finch, William Stockton, E. T. Barrows, Lemuel W. Serrell, E. E. Anthony, William Westphal, J. H. Leggett, F. B. Marsh, W. S. Angleman, H. N. Spencer, Stephen Cahoone, L. N. Lovell, Dr. E. W. Hedges, F. O. Herring, J. W. Reinhart, J. K. Myers, S. A. Cruikshank, H. B. Newhall. Marion S. Ackerman, E. B. Clark, Howard Fleming, J. Evarts Tracy, J. T. Baker, J. W. Murray, John Abbott, Andrew McCardell, H. A. Weber, Abram Angleman, R. A. Meeker, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., and John Goodwin; secretaries—Harry Patton, William C. Kinney, Elwin R. Leland and George W. Cole.

Mayor Gilbert referred to the campaign as one of education, and said that he wished to contribute his share by giving a few facts about money. The best money, he said, was that which will purchase the most and hold its value through all the vicissitudes of the market, and gold was the only one that answered those requirements at present. He then introduced Hon. J. W. Gleed, of Topeka, Kan., one of the speakers of the evening.

Mr. Gleed told how the Democratic party had been in power for the last four years and how last May it was everywhere conceded that the next President would be a Republican. The Democratic officeholders of the south, he said, would not give up their positions without a struggle and so two-thirds of the Democratic party surrendered their time-honored principles and joined the Populists. There was no need, he declared, to name the mistakes the Democrats had made, they did that themselves in their platform, and then he took up the different platforms and discussed them and their salient points. Bryan, he stated, had one foot on the Populist platform, and the Populists claim that he rests the heaviest there, and the other foot on the Democratic platform. He read aloud the Populist platform and declared that the latter party did not believe in intrinsic value of the currency, but in a real fiat currency.

"They believe," he exclaimed, "that the government should spit on a chip and make it legal tender to pay debts and thus stop the taxing of the people." A few words on the free silver platform of the Democrats and the "sound money" platform of the Republicans followed.

The subject of his next remarks was free silver and what it means. According to the free silver man, he said, all troubles, including the poverty of Lazarus, were due to the crime of '73, when silver was demonitized and all wrongs would be righted by the re-establishment of the white metal. The real meaning of it, he went on to say, was that the value of the dollar would be cut in two. Every economic writer in the country says that free coinage means a 50 cent dollar.

He continued his remarks by saying that nobody believes 16 ounces of silver equal 1 ounce of gold. The world's estimate of the ratio, formed after long consideration and practical experience, is 32 to 1, and Bryan thinks, he remarked, that he is going to change all that by being elected president and signing a bill. He then drew several comparisons from history. In answer to Bryan's declarations that he was going to raise the price of silver by increasing the demand for it, he cited the effect of the Bland bill and the Sherman purchasing bill, each of which increased the demand and yet the price fell.

He next considered the effects of a fifty cent dollar. It would mean, he said, the cutting in two of the price of labor, as all authorities agree. It would not only cut the present wages but the past savings.

Two of Bryan's arguments against the gold standard for the people were

THE FIRE LADDIES OF OLD

THE VETERANS OF NEW YORK WELCOMED BY THE EXEMPTS.

The City Decorated in Their Honor.—Made a Fine Appearance on Parade.—A Banquet and Speechmaking Follow.

The brave old fire ladies are here and Plainfield has thrown open wide her gates to receive them. The city never looked more festive and the citizens have done themselves proud in welcoming the Veteran Firemen's Association of New York.

They arrived from Easton on a special train about 12:15, and were met at the station by the reception committee, composed of D. W. Littell, E. M. Laing, Aug. Saltzman, and Edward "Old Harmony," one of Plainfield's first engines.

Vermeule, and given a hearty welcome. The Veterans were accompained by their own fife and drum corps, Krink's brass band of New York, and they brought their old double-decker hand engine which has a history.

The engine was used at Alexandria, Va., at the outbreak of the late Civil Gazelle's first engine.

War, and was purchased afterward by the New York Association. It is very valuable, as the oil paintings on it are worth about $25,000.

The visitors were escorted by Assistant Chief James Martin of the Plainfield department and the reception committee to fire headquarters where they passed the time until the hour of parade. At 2 o'clock the line of march was formed and followed out as published in yesterday's Daily Press. Among the distinguished visitors with the veterans are the following officers: President, Richard Cullen; First Vice-President, Isaac Evans; Second Vice-President, D. J. Bradley; Financial Secretary, T. Cornelius; Treasurer, J. H. Waydell; Board of Directors, J. Coppa, I. R. Varian, P. Kemmer, R. Mount, J. Riddle, J. Kneale, J. Nelson, Andrew Walsh and J. Strauss; Foreman, J. H. Brill; Assistant Foreman, C. E. Kemp; Sergeant at Arms, I. A. Bush.

Chief Doane.

A person of note is Amos Vertzan the well-known impersonator of Uncle Sam.

In all there are about 125 Veterans present and they are a fine looking body of men, all of whom have won many laurels during their service. As they passed along the line of march they were loudly cheered by the crowds, and the Plainfield and North Plainfield department came in for a large share of commendation. The New Brunswick and Raritan bands arrived early and they together with the Independent Fife and Drum Corps and the New York music, gave an abundance of fine music.

After the parade fire alarm box No. 25 was pulled for an exhibition and the Plainfield department gave an unexcelled showing both for time and appearance. A banquet was served afterward at the Cycle Academy where speeches were made by prominent officials and firemen.

The handsome silver hose carriage of Alert Hose Company was this morning uncovered in Terrill and Cole's stables, where many persons called to view the new looking vehicle. Every one was of the opinion that "its a dandy," and in the parade this afternoon, it was the most attractive and costly apparatus in the line.

BROTHERS AT LEGAL WAR

JAMES BRENNAN ACCUSED HIS TWO BROTHERS OF MISBEHAVIOR.

But He Imbibed Too Freely Before the Trial and Went to Jail Himself While the Defendants Were Released.

Brother was arrayed against brother in the city court this morning, that is, they were in name, for one failed to put in an appearance at court for obvious reasons. On Monday, September 21st, James Brennan made a complaint against his two brothers, Thos. and John, for being disorderly and using profane language, and the trial was set down last Saturday and adjourned then until today. The Brennan's, or at least James, lives on Randolph road, while his two brothers are in his employ. James claims, in a truly brotherly spirit, that they shirk work, disobey his orders, swear and misbehave themselves generally, while Thomas and John declare that brother James is a hard master and that he has an unpleasant habit of cheating them out of their fair earnings.

By different paths the brothers came to town this morning. Now James evidently fell into bad company for sometime before court opened, he was considerably intoxicated. He grew worse rapidly until he reached a state of paralysis caused by too much liquor. Patrolman McCue found Brennan's horse and carriage on South Second street and took to Robert's stable for safe keeping and soon landed Brennan himself in the lockup to recover from the effects of his spree.

When City Judge DeMeza heard why the complainant did'nt appear he dismissed the charge against Thomas and John.

ENDEAVOR OFFICERS.

Young Christians of City Churches Select New Leaders for the Year.

The Christian Endeavor society of the Congregational church held a business meeting last evening and elected the officers for the next half year besides hearing the reports of the different committees regarding the work of the last quarter. Progress was shown in the various branches of work but the summer season had, of course, been comparatively dull. The treasurer reported a good balance in the treasury and a substantial amount was appropriated for the expenses of the coming Christian Endeavor convention. The election of officers resulted as follows: President, Harold W. Tomlinson; vice-president, Miss Adeline B. Parsons; secretary, Charles Bellenap; treasurer, Miss Winckler. The chairman of committees were selected as follows: Prayer meeting committee, Miss Eda Beekman; lookout committee, Miss J. Louise Jenkins; missionary committee Miss Anna E. Manletelow; social committee, Miss Julia Bellenap; music committee, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux; Flower committee, Miss Mary V. Chase; good literature, Miss Clara Shepherd.

The nominating committee of the Christian Endeavor society of Trinity Reformed church presented their choice for officers of the society, at a special business meeting last evening, and their report was received with thanks and the names suggested by them for officers for the ensuing year, were unanimously chosen, viz: President, Alfred K. Willett; first vice-president, Fred E. Smith; second vice-president, Miss Mabel Wilson; corresponding secretary, Miss Mabel A. Woodruff; recording secretary, Miss Grace Berg; treasurer, Fred Ross. Six new members joined the society at the meeting last evening.

New Members to be Elected.

The trustees of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will hold their October meeting on Monday evening at the residence of the president, George P. Mellick, of 312 LaGrande avenue, at which time there will also be a number of new members elected.

THE BOROUGH COUNCIL.

A PROTEST FILED AGAINST THE BUILDING OF THE DAM.

Referred to a Committee to Investigate and Report—New Street to be Opened—Many Small Matters Were Looked After.

When the regular October meeting of the Borough Council was called to order last evening by Mayor Hegeman, Councilmen Valiant, Woolston and MacLaughlin answered to the roll call. Mr. Peck came in a few minutes later. After the reading of the minutes Clerk Arnold presented his monthly financial statement as follows:

	Balance.	Deficit'
Borough	$ 986.54
Fire Department		$85.41
Lights	825.52
Roads	773.71
Poor		380.99
	$2,585.77	$466.40
	466.40
Total balance	$2,119.37

The clerk reported that $115 had been collected from fines, licenses, etc.

J. F. Wilson in a petition asked the Council to lay a crosswalk at Duer street and Greenbrook road, and the matter was referred to the street committee, as was also a petition from J. P. Humble, S. B. Joseph and others, complaining about certain property owners on Manning avenue building over the set line along that avenue. Samuel Titus and others petitioned for a crosswalk at the corner of Somerset street and Manning avenue, and the matter was placed in the hands of the street committee for consideration. A petition signed by Corra Ryno and other residents of Coddington avenue asked that electric lights be placed on the above avenue. The fire, water and lamps committee will consider the matter and report. N. B. Smalley and John Herman in a communication stated that a new street, from Somerset street to the Herman property, and from Regent street to Mountain avenue, had been opened and graded according to law, and they dedicated the same to the borough. The new street had been termed Whitewood avenue, and they asked the Council to accept the same. The request was referred to the street committee.

A lengthy protest against the construction of an ice pond and dam at Washingtonville was received from A. E. Faber, Jr., and other residents of the borough, who claim that it would be a dangerous thing for the borough. The laws and ordinance committee will look after the matter and report, though it is not very clear where their jurisdiction in the matter comes in.

J. B. Mills and others asked for a crosswalk on Allen place at its intersection with Fairview avenue. It was referred to the street committee and later the request was granted.

Mr. Peck brought up the petition received at the last meeting, which asked that electric lights be placed on Mountain avenue from Farragut to Leland avenues and to the bridge. He then stated that the committee had not yet ascertained how many lamps were required, though they were decided that lights were needed. In consequence they asked that the petition be referred with power, which was done.

Mr. Woolston reported that the expenses for street work last month was $123.38 and that crosswalks had been laid on Grove street, Craig place, Grand street and Rockview avenue.

Mr. MacLaughlin then reported concerning an assessors' map which has been under consideration for some time. He said that F. A. Dunham would furnish complete maps of the borough, comprising five sections, for the sum of $30 a section, and the street committee recommended that the same be purchased. Later Mr. MacLaughlin offered a resolution that the Mayor and Council enter into an agreement with F. A. Dunham for the purchase of such maps, the same to cost not over $30 a section. By mutual consent the resolution was laid on the table for one week, when more members would be present.

Mr. Peck then offered two resolutions, which were adopted. One was that the Council secure a loan of $1,000 and the same be charged to the fire department account. The other one was the action of Warren Engine Company in elecing Alonzo Brokaw, and Jacob Sheppard to membership be confirmed. The Council then adjourned for one week.

The Judge Jumped.

City Judge DeMeza was driving to Somerville yesterday with a friend named Keiderling, when his horse became frightened at a passing car near the Evona Station, and the animal plunged and attempted to runaway. The Judge held fast to the reins and seeing that the animal was getting the better of him, jumped from the wagon and caught the horse by the head. In jumping Judge DeMeza wrenched his ankle, so that today he is quite plain.

HIS FAREWELL SERMON.

DR. LEWIS REVIEWS HIS CHURCH WORK IN THIS CITY.

He Has Aimed to Preach Practical Rather Than Theoretical Religion—His Success Has Been By Co-operation of Parishoners.

A representative of the Press has gathered a few facts from Dr. Lewis' sermon of this morning. The doctor has been pastor of the Seventh-day Baptist Church in this city sixteen years and a half. In addition to his work as pastor he has done a large amount of literary work as author, editor, newspaper and magazine writer. He has also lectured on Christ's history and Homileties, by correspondence at Alfred University, Alfred, N. Y., for several years.

He has written five books since coming here, three of which are published by the American Sabbath Tract Society of this city, one by D. Appleton & Co., and one by Geo. P. Putnam's Sons, of New York. His editorial and book work since 1882 is equal to thirty 12mo books of 300 pages each.

He has preached about a thousand sermons, aside from miscellaneous addresses; has baptized sixty-four into the church, and buried fifty-six from it. In closing his sermon the doctor said that he had desired to teach practical rather than speculative truths. That he had aimed to lead people to embody Christiany into life and not to theorize about it. He had preached with the future in view as well as the present. Much interest was manifested in the sermon.

The attachment between the Doctor and his church is very strong. His church has done much to second his literary work by way of furloughs and otherwise.

CHICKS, PIGEONS AND CATS.

Annual Exhibition of the Garden State Poultry and Pigeon Association.

The second annual show of the Garden State Poultry and Pigeon Association will be held in the Jersey Cycle Academy, in this city, on December 2d to 5th inclusive, and will afford the citizens of Plainfield and surrounding country an opportunity to see one of the finest displays of poultry, pigeons, cats and pet stock ever shown in this part of the country, as some of the best breeders have entered. There will also be incubators in operation daily, hatching the downy little fellows, and this will be a very attractive feature of the show.

The Asscciation has a number of valuable silver cups, the most prominent of which is the Shelton trophy, offered in the Plymouth Rocks' class, and should draw an entry well worth seeing. They also offer a silver cup each for the best display of poultry, pigeons and cats.

The judges of poultry are: George O. Brown, of Baltimore; F. B Zimmer, of Gloversville, N. Y. and T. F. McGrew, of New York.

The pigeon judges are: W. J. Stanton, of Jersey City, John Glasgow, of Mahwah, N. J.

The cat and pet stock departments will be under the supervision of T. Farrer Rackhaur, of East Orange, which is an assurance that entire satisfaction will be given. The entry fees in all departments and class will be $1 and the premiums, $3 and $1. The premium list will be ready November 1st, and can be had by addressing the secretary, C. W. Johnson, Cranford. W. J. Andrus, of Hackensack, will superintend the show.

Dunellen's Fire Election.

The annual election of officers for the Dunellen Fire Department, was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms on Thursday evening, with 33 members in attendance. Previous to the election a short business session was held, with President George Day in the chair. The following officers were elected: President, George Day; Secretary, Walter Apgar; Treasurer, William Wyckoff. A. S. Giles was elected assistant chief to succeed Paul Reusch; John Merchrode was elected to the position of foreman of ladders and his assistant is C. Ryno. For the chemical engine Joseph Myers was chosen as foreman and Arthur Giddis, assistant; foreman of the pumping engine, Charles Wyhosky; assistant, Walter G. Runyon; investigating committee, John Logan, John Peters and Arthur Giddis. The matter of having a "house warming" when the new house is completed, was discussed in private and most of the members it is said sanctioned the project.

—The election of officers in the Christian Endeavor society of the Crescent Avenue church was postponed last evening for two weeks and the consecration meeting held.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

WATSON WILL STICK

Denied That He Intends To Withdraw from the Ticket.

POPULIST LEADERS ARE RETICENT

Carlisle Declines To Meet Blackburn in Debate in Kentucky---Gorman Will Stump Maryland and Probably New York for Bryan.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 3.—John Cunningham, the populist state chairman, after a conference with Thomas E. Watson, says, "You can state there is nothing in the report that Mr. Watson will come down. If he did Mr. Bryan's case would be hopeless. Without Mr. Watson on the ticket the populists would see the democrats in a warmer place before they would vote the ticket."

Populist Leaders Reticent.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Senator Marion Butler of North Carolina, chairman of the people's party, absolutely declines to express any opinion in respect to Mr. Watson's alleged purpose to retire from the populist ticket as nominee for vice-president. The secretaries of the populist and silverite committees respectively, when seen on the subject by a United Associated Presses representative, were equally non-committal. Each answered in a set form, "I have nothing to say on the subject." According to information published here, no effort is now being made to have either Watson or Sewall withdraw. It is regarded as too late for any new move in the adjustment of the vice-presidential candidacy. The democrats and populists, it is said, have perfected fusion in all the states where they regard fusion as desirable, except in West Virginia. This, the managers believe, disposes of the question of adjusting the vice-presidency.

CARLISLE DECLINES.

Will Not Meet Senator Blackburn in Debate in Kentucky.

Washington, Oct. 3.—P. P. Johnson of Louisville, chairman of the state democratic executive committee, recently wrote to Secretary Carlisle requesting, in the name of the democracy of Kentucky, that he divide time with Senator Blackburn in any canvass he might make in that state in favor of Palmer and Buckner. Mr. Johnson said he preferred the request at the instance of Senator Blackburn. Secretary Carlisle has replied as follows: "P. P. Johnson, Esq., Louisville, Ky. My Dear Sir—Your favor of Sept. 29 asking a division of time with Hon. J. S. C. Blackburn at all the appointments I may make to speak in Kentucky is this moment received, and the request is respectfully declined. J. G. CARLISLE."

Finley for Watson or Sewall's Place.

Columbus, O., Oct. 3.—A plan is on foot here to have Gen. E. B. Finley of Bucyrus, O., put on the national ticket for vice-president, in case both Sewall and Watson retire, as it is said they are likely to do. Finley has always been a free silver advocate, and was one of the delegates-at-large to the late Chicago convention. He has been a member of congress, and under Gov. Hoadley was adjutant-general of the state.

Senator Gorman To Stump for Bryan.

Baltimore, Oct. 3.—The statement that Senator Gorman would take the stump in Mr. Bryan's interest was confirmed this morning by chairman Harry Welles Rusk of the democratic city executive committee. He said that the senator would make a thorough canvass of Maryland, paying especial attention to the counties. It was also stated that Senator Gorman may make a few speeches in New York state.

Nominations Certified.

Albany, Oct. 3.—The following certificates of nomination were filed yesterday with the secretary of state: The republican state electors; the populist state ticket and electors; the prohibition state ticket and electors-at-large. Congressman Black, republican candidate for governor, filed his nomination together with a declination of his renomination for congress in the Rensselaer-Columbia district.

Informal Dinner at Mr. Hobart's Home.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 3.—There was an informal dinner at Hon. Garret A. Hobart's home last night. The guests were Mark Hanna, John Y. Foster, Gen. Powell Clayton, Gov. Griggs, Franklin Murphy, Hobart Tuttle, Joseph H. Manley of Maine, and Osborne Scott of the republican national executive committee.

Bissell Law Frm Dissolves.

Buffalo, Oct. 3.—The firm of Bissell, Sicard, Bissell & Carey has been dissolved, Wilson S. Bissell, ex-postmaster-general, and M. C. Carey organizing a firm of their own. The change is merely a business one and the best of feeling prevails between all of the members.

Navy Eligible List Extended.

Washington, Oct. 3.—President Cleveland has signed an executive order which places certain enlisted men of the navy, heretofore known as "writers," in the direct line of promotion to permanent ratings by extending the grade of yeomen.

Gen. Harmon Goes to Cincinnati.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Attorney-General Harmon left here last evening for Cincinnati, where he attends a banquet to-night to be given in honor of Associate Justice Harlan of the supreme court. He will return here next week.

Tin-plate Works To Resume.

Harrisburg, Pa., Oct. 3.—Operations will be resumed at the Lalance Grosjean Tin-plate works Monday, giving employment to 200 men. The plant has been idle several months.

THE STORM AT SAVANNAH.

Thrilling Tales of Havoc Wrought Told by a Ship's Captain.

New York, Oct. 3.—Capt. Frederick Smith of the steamship Nacoochee, just arrived from Savannah, tells a number of thrilling tales of the havoc wrought by the recent storm. "The worst of the storm," said he, "was on Tuesday afternoon. We were tied to our pier in the Savannah river, and although our mooring held others gave way all around us. By dinner time at least fifty vessels had broken away and were adrift on a frightful sea. Six steam and sailing vessels were wrecked immediately astern of us. Further down the stream I saw at least ten more steamships at the mercy of the tempest. A Norwegian bark called the Rosensius broke from her moorings and capsized in the middle of the river, one man going to his death. From the deck of my vessel we could see the roofs of churches, schools, private houses and hospitals flying through the air." Rufus S. Moxon, a merchant from Boston, who was on the Nacoochee, told of a thrilling ride on a wild Texan pony through forty miles of swamp lands to Savannah. He said that all along the route trees were uprooted and fell across the track. For seven hours he rode furiously, dodging death at every turn, and when finally he was out of danger the brave little pony, that had taken all the obstacle jumps superbly and to which he really owed his life, dropped dead from exhaustion and fright.

D. L. & W. ROAD MULCTED.

Must Pay Over Six Hundred Dollars for Refusing To Sell 1,000-Mile Books.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 3.—John E. Holmes of this city has secured a judgment against the Delaware, Lackawana & Western Railroad company for refusing to issue him 1,000-mile books on demand at ticket offices, under the act of 1896. He applied at ten offices and was refused. He then brought an action in the supreme court to recover ten penalties. Justice Bradley appointed Willard H. Reed of this city to take testimony. The defense appeared but did not file an answer to the complaint. Judgment was entered in the Steuben county clere's office for $537.96 for the first ten penalties and $87.96 for other penalties by default.

UPON RUSSIA'S ADVICE.

Turkey Preparing a Fleet for the Protection of the Dardanelles.

Constantinople, Oct. 3.—An irade just issued orders the formation of a flotilla of ten torpedo boats for the defense of the straits of the Dardanelles. This action is the result of the recommendations of Gen. Tchikatchoff, the Russian officer who recently inspected the forts of the Dardanelles. Letters received from Kharput confirm the reports of the recent massacres at Egin, and estimate the number of killed at 2,000. Great excitement has been caused at Galata by the action of a Turkish officer who paraded the streets, brandishing his sabre, abusing the Armenians and declaring that they ought to be killed.

DISTRESS IN LABRADOR.

The Fishery a Complete Failure---Emigration Increasing.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 3.—The Labrador mail steamer just arrived here brings reports confirming the statement that the fishery is a complete failure. Hundreds of vessels have returned with poor fares. Emigration is increasing. The critical character of the situation is intensified by the fact that Portugal is differentiating in favor of Norwegian codfish to the detriment of the Newfoundland and Labrador product. The duty imposed on the latter is twenty cents per quintal higher than on the Norwegian fish. Only three laden vessels have left Labrador so far, against twenty-four at the corresponding period last year.

THE MADAGASCAR TROUBLE.

Antananarivo in a State of Siege---French Troops Attacked.

London, Oct. 3.—A dispatch from Paris to the Daily News says that word has been received there that Gen. Gallieni has arrived at Antananarivo and has proclaimed a state of siege. The insurgent natives attacked him in the forest while he was on his way to the capital and killed three of his attendants.

Russia After More American Machinery.

Chester, Pa., Oct. 3.—The Russian government is negotiating for the purchase of the machinery of the Wellman Steel works. The price offered is $86,175. The negotiations have been secretly pending for three weeks. The concern is in the hands of a receiver and is under the supervision of the court. There is no opposition on the part of the present owners of the bonded interest, as the price is more than ample.

Tunnel Company Consolidation.

Albany, Oct. 3.—The Central Tunnel Railway company, and the New York & New Jersey Tunnel company and the Terminal Underground Railroad company have filed papers of consolidation here under the name of the Underground Railway company of New York city, with a capital stock of $5,000,000.

New Bicycle Record.

Denver, Oct. 3.—On a soft track, wet in places, Clint R. Coulter lowered the world's record for an unpaced mile yesterday afternoon, making the distance in 1:59 1-5, which is 1 1-5 seconds under all previous records. He rode a patent rachet-geared wheel with four sprockets, the gear being 97.

Cavalry Officer's Resignation Accepted.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The president has accepted the resignation of second lieutenant William G. Fitzgerald, 7th cavalry, to take effect Sept 30, 1896.

OLDEST KNOWN BIRD.

Prof. F. G. Seeley Tells of It in a Recent Publication.

"The Solenhofen slate of Bavaria," writes Prof. H. G. Seely in his recent little volume, "The Story of the Earth in Past Ages," "makes known numerous insects and other forms of terrestrial life of this period, including the oldest known bird.

"A bird is known by its feathers; though there is no reason why the covering to the skin should not be as variable in this group of animals as among reptiles or mammals. It is, therefore, remarkable that the oldest-known bird, the archaeopteryx, has feathers as well developed as in the existing representatives of the class and similarly arranged. The animal is an elegant, slender bird, which is chiefly remarkable for showing teeth in the jaws. About 12, short and conical, occur on each side of the upper jaw.

"The bird was larger than the robin in its body and had a tail of which there was a bony core some six inches in length. The wings were quite as well developed as the legs and there are some evidences that the former could be applied to the ground as are the fore legs of quadrupeds, although the feathers show the wings to have been constructed on the same plan as the birds of to-day.

"The Solenhofen stone, in which so many of the remains of fishes, reptiles and insects are found, is the same as that used for lithographic purposes, being of exceeding close texture and of remarkable smoothness when prepared for its work."

Women

Who are nervous, weak, worn out with local troubles find pure blood, nerve strength, and perfect health in Hood's Sarsaparilla.

We do not say the above to raise false hope. It has been the experience of many, very many women in those intensely trying periods which demand and consume so much force — those special physical trials we delicately indicate by merely using the words — Maid, Mother, Matron.

Like a confidential friend we suggest the use of Hood's Sarsaparilla, a reliable blood purifier and tonic; it has helped many others and will help you.

"I was in poor health five years, broken down in strength, and appetite all gone. Local troubles and other weaknesses intensified my misery. Nervous sick dizziness, heartburn and pains in my back made me think I should never be well again. A friend prevailed upon me to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. I soon began to improve and in six months it restored me to better health than for years. I have found Hood's Sarsaparilla a grand medicine for all troubles peculiar to

Headaches

My Sex

I am now strong and healthy and can do a good day's work. I stand by Hood's Sarsaparilla, for it cured me after other medicines failed." MRS. LUE DIER, Carlinville, Illinois.

Shake it off

The general belief among doctors is that consumption itself is very rarely inherited. But the belief is becoming stronger that the tendency to consumption is very generally transmitted from parent to child. If there has been consumption in the family, each member should take special care to prepare the system against it. Live out doors; keep the body well nourished; and treat the first indication of failing health.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is a fat-producing food and nerve-tonic. Its use is followed by improved nutrition, richer blood, stronger nerves and a more healthy action of all the organs. It strengthens the power of the body to resist disease. If you have inherited a tendency to weak lungs, shake it off.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

Put up in 50 cent and $1.00 sizes. The small size may be enough to cure your cough or help your baby. All druggists.

Our Kitchen

No kitchen is kept cleaner than the premises devoted to the manufacture of NONE SUCH Mince Meat. No housewife can be more fastidious in the matter of preparing food than we are in the selection and preparation of the materials of which it is made. The cleaning of the currants (for one thing) is more thoroughly done by means of perfected appliances, than it would be possible to do it by hand.

Its cleanliness, purity, wholesomeness and deliciousness are good reasons for using NONE SUCH Mince Meat. The best reason is its saving—of time, of hard work, of money. A ten cent package affords you two large pies, without trouble to you beyond the making of the crust. Makes just as good fruit cake and fruit pudding as it does mince pie. Sold everywhere. Be sure and get the genuine.

FIRST GAME FOR THE ORIOLES.

Defeat the Clevelands in the Opening of the Temple Cup Series.

Baltimore, Oct. 3.—The first game of the Temple cup series of 1896 was played at Union park, and after a remarkably brilliant exhibition, placed to the credit of the champions by the score of 7 to 1. The weather conditions were most favorable, but only 3,995 paid their entrance fee to the grounds. The small crowd was the only feature to mar the otherwise pretty autumnal picture. The 1894 and 1895 pennants graced either end of the grandstand, while the brand new flag of 1896 floated lazily from the centre field flagstaff. Capt. Tebeau sprained his back badly while at the bat in the second inning and retired from the game. He suffered intensely, and may not play again for some days. McGraw also left the game in its early stage. He was not strong enough to stand the nerve-racking strain. Jennings was frequently cheered for his brilliant fielding and heavy batting. He made the only error charged to Baltimore, but redeemed himself in the same inning by assisting in a dazzling double-play. The Baltimoreans played with confidence and dash and in two innings hammered the great Young freely. Five scattered hits was Cleveland's total. Two of them, a single and double, came in the eighth inning and gave the Spiders their only run.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET.

The Philadelphians Develop a Surprise in the Final Game with the Australians.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The third and last game of the series of the cricket matches between the Australian team and an eleven representing Philadelphia, began yesterday afternoon on the Marion Cricket club grounds, and when play ceased for the day the outlook for the victory was more favorable for the home players than the most hopeful of their adherents dared expect. For the third time Capt. Trott won the toss and sent his men into bat. When the last Australian had been disposed of the small total of 121 runs for the inning had been made, the smallest score made in an inning by either side in the present series of matches. Capt. Patterson started the Philadelphians' inning, and when stumps were drawn for the night they were still at bat with a score of 28 and 33 respectively, which, with four extras, brings the home team's total yesterday for no loss to 65 runs.

GREAT FIRE AT JACMEL.

It Raged for Three Days and Caused a Loss of About $5,000,000.

Quarantine, S. I., Oct. 3.—The steamship Andes, which arrived last evening from Jamaican ports, brings news of the great fire which destroyed two-thirds of the town of Jacmel, on Sept. 19, 20 and 21. The fire originated on the hill near the cathedral and completely destroyed that edifice. The flames burned all the houses and stores between the hill and the sea. No water could be obtained at any time during the fire, which raged from Saturday morning until Tuesday night, when the Andes left. On that night the fire was still smoldering. The loss sustained is estimated at $5,000,000. The fire is supposed to be the work of an incendiary. Great destruction prevails, and it is fortunate that the Andes had a large cargo from New York for that place. This was landed to relieve distress and commanded a ready sale.

Executive Clemency Refused.

Washington, Oct. 3.—In denying the application made for the pardon of Irving A. Pulse, sentenced in northern Illinois to one year and five months' imprisonment for embezzling postal and money order funds while postmaster at Glen Ellyn, Ill., the president says: "The embezzlement of government funds by postmasters is so common that I do not feel that I ought to interfere with the lenient sentence imposed by the court. I believe that any deliberate embezzlement of public money by a postmaster is lightly punished by one year's imprisonment."

In Collision at Sea.

London, Oct. 3.—The American bark W. B. Flint, which sailed from New York August 15 for East London, has put into Bahia and reports having been in collision at sea with an unknown vessel. The fate of the latter is not known. The W. B. Flint sustained no damage.

...D STILL COMING IN

...2,000,000 Received at New York or Due To-day.

$1,000,000 ALSO EXPECTED AT BOSTON

The New York Life Insurance Company Deposits an Additional $186,000 at the Sub-Treasury—More Still in Sight and Contracted For.

New York, Oct. 3.—The New York Life Insurance company has just deposited $186,000 in gold in the sub-treasury in exchange for United States notes, the treasury's gold reserve being correspondingly increased. This gold was received from London and was part of a balance the insurance company had to its credit in London, and like a previous transaction of the kind, amounting to $500,000, the company had the money sent over here, and so no exchange transaction resulted therefrom. A dispatch from Boston received in Wall street announced that the Cunard steamship, due to arrive in that city to-day, has $1,000,000 gold on board for Kidder, Peabody & Co. This is in addition to $1,000,000 previously received by that firm in the same way, direct from England in two sums of $500,000 each. The steamship Augusta Victoria brought in $1,500,000 consigned to Lazard Freres, and the steamship La Bourgogne, due to-morrow, has $600,000 gold on board for the same firm. The steamship Campania has $100,000 gold on board consigned to the Produce Exchange bank. These amounts will bring the total receipts of gold on this movement up to a little more than $42,000,000, with more still in sight and contracted for.

THE ALLEGED DYNAMITE PLOT.

Edward J. Ivory Again Remanded by the Bow Street Court for a Week.

London, Oct. 3—Edward J. Ivory, alias Edward Bell, the saloonkeeper of York and alleged dynamite conspirator, was brought up again yesterday at Bow Street police court, but the treasury department was not represented by counsel, and he was again remanded for a week. His counsel asked to be informed how the case against his client was to be proceeded with, but the magistrate said he was unable to give the information requested. Counsel for the prisoner said that the charge of conspiracy brought against Bell would be abandoned and that it was possible that a charge of "aiding and abetting" in a conspiracy will be substituted.

TO READJUST WAGES.

Big Steel Works To Prepare a New Scale for 1897.

Pittsburg, Oct. 3.—Notices have been posted at the Homestead mill and the Edgar Thomson works at Braddock of the Carnegie Steel company notifying the thousands of employes of an adjustment of the tonnage men to take effect on January 1. Under the scale agreement both sides must give ninety days notice of any changes desired in the wages. The men are satisfied with a continuance of the present rates. They are not making any objection to the proposition to readjust the wages, and will not unless there is a serious cut in the pay they now receive, and this is not at all likely.

Steuben County's Centennial Celebration.

Bath, N. Y., Oct. 3.—The centennial of Steuben county was celebrated here yesterday in connection with the county fair. Twenty thousand people were present. Rev. L. M. Miller of Ogdensburg delivered the opening address, and Hon. J. D. Kernan of New York the address at the unveiling of the monument to the pioneers of Steuben county. An old-fashioned dinner was served to seventy of the oldest inhabitants.

Efforts for a Murderer's Pardon.

Albany, Oct. 3.—District attorney John R. Fellows of New York was among the callers at the executive chamber yesterday. He left with Col. Cole, Gov. Morton's private secretary, a recommendation that clemency be exercised by the governor in the case of Daniel T. Donovan, who was sentenced in 1884 to state prison for life for the killing of a man named Rainer in a saloon in New York city.

An Accused Murderer Dies in Prison.

Tunkhannock, Pa., Oct. 3.—Ferdinand Comptuvier, who has been confined in the jail at this place since July 4 for the murder of Benjamin Carter of Auburn, Susquehanna county, which occurred at Skinner's Eddy, this county, on the night of July 3, died in prison last evening, after a sickness of four days. He was to have been tried at the November term of court.

Football This Afternoon.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—The Pennsylvania football team will have its first hard game of the season this afternoon, when they will have for their opponents the strong Bucknell eleven of Lewisburg. Bucknell made quite a reputation last season when they defeated the Carlisle Indian eleven 18—4. Yale only beating the Indians by a similar score.

Entrance Examinations at Wesleyan.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 3.—Entrance examinations closed at Wesleyan last evening. The freshman class will, when all arrive, as their work does not begin till Monday, number 125, of whom thirty are women. Many advanced students have entered. The college will have over 300.

Reward for Mary Hoffman's Assailant.

Winsted, Conn., Oct. 3.—The town authorities have offered a reward of $100 for the apprehension and conviction of the assailant of Mary Hoffman, who was bound and beaten by a burglar last month. The father of the girl offers an additional $50.

THE BUTTON CRAZE.

No craze has swept over this country in recent years more novel or more indulged in than the button craze. There is no need nowadays for the game of "Button, button, who'se got the button," because almost everybody has got a button, or a dozen for that matter. In Hoboken, however, the commission of Public Instruction has issued an edict that the button craze must be stifled. They attention was called to a button craze existing among the school children by teachers who objected to the buttons partly because of the suggestiveness of some of the inscriptions and partly because the boys and girls neglected their lessons in comparing qualities, quantities and styles of badges. They examined some of the mottoes, and concluded that such inscriptions as "Set 'Em Up Again," "You Make Me Tired," "I'm Somewhat of a Liar Myself," "If You Love Me Grin," and "I'm Out for a Good time," were not the best things in the world for school children to think about. Consequently they ordered the principals to direct their pupils to abstain from wearing all such buttons in or about the schools.

THE GREAT CONVENTION.

Preliminary Meeting of Dwight L. Moody Commence Tonight.

The first of D. L. Moody's popular, gospel services will be held this evening at 7:45 in the First Baptist Church. On Sunday he will conduct services in the Convention Hall at 4:15 and 7:45. Also popular gospel services at 4 o'clock Monday afternoon in the Trinity Reformed Church, and at 7:45 in the Convention Hall; Tuesday afternoon at 4 o'clock in the Crescent Avenue Church and at 7:45 in Convention Hall; Wednesday afternoon at 4 in the First Presbyterian Church, and at 7:45 in the First Baptist Church. All the foregoing will be conducted by D. L. Moody and will be open to everybody.

To the sessions of the Convention in Convention Hall on Wednesday evening, Thursday morning, afternoon and evening, and Friday morning, afternoon and evening, admission prior to one half hour after opening of session will be by delegates badge only. In case of need on Wednesday evening, an overflow meeting will be held in the Crescent Avenue Church, a programme of special interest being in readiness.

For Thursday and Friday, the following services open to all are announced: Thursday at 4 p. m., leader to be announced, in the M. E. Church; gospel service led by D. L. Moody, at 7:45 Thursday evening in the First Baptist Church; also at the same hour, a World Wide Endeavor service in the Crescent Avenue Church, with addresses by Rev. E. Ryerson Young, Jr., A. A., of Toronto, Canada, Miss Margaret Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon, and Mr. Frederick D. Green, M. A, of Van, Armenia, illustrated by stereopticon, and probably Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Brooklyn; Friday at 7:45 in the First Baptirt Church, gospel service led by some prominent evangelist; also at the same hour in the Crescent Avenue Church, a consecration meeting with Rev. Chas. H. Jones, D. D., of Bayonne, presiding, and a sermon by Rev. James F. Riggs, D. D., of New Brunswick, and the closing consecration service conducted by Mr. Wm. Shaw, Treasurer of United Society of C. E., Boston, Mass.

Sunday-School Convention.

Wednesday and Thursday of next week are the days and dates decided upon for the convention of the Sunday-schools included in the Newark District of the A. M. E. churches. Delegates will be present from all of the churches in the district, and many of the ablest Sunday-school workers in the State will take part in the proceedings.

A Junior Epworth League.

A Junior Epworth League was organized yesterday afternoon at Grace M. E. church with sixty-three members. Officers were not elected and matter was deferred until the next meeting. The members decided to take part next Friday afternoon in the Junior Christian Endeavor parade.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

ENDED WITH A BANQUET.

that the poor did not wish what the rich wish and that it is an English institution. He showed such logic to be absurd by some very humorous examples. Bryan says that the United States is powerful enough to establish a system of currency of its own but, he continued, the United States is not strong enough to ignore all the civilized nations of the globe.

Hon. Frank Plumley, ex-District Attorney of Vermont, was quite an eloquent speaker but he did not advance as many arguments as the first speaker and his remarks were rather on the sensational order and brought forth great enthusiasm among his hearers. He compared the present time with the time of the Civil War and said that, as then, all the patriots of both parties were coming to the front to save the country. He told very gracefully how the workingman had been hoodwinked by the Democrats into adopting a false policy and how capital and labor were now to unite in defeating the free silver tyrant and building up the country.

The music was furnished by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps.

AT HYMEN'S SHRINE.

Ernest T. Hand to Take a Wife at Scotch Plains This Evening.

The marriage of Miss Maria Eleanor Dodd, daughter of ex-Chief of Police Charles W. Dodd, of West Fifth street, and Ernest T. Hand, of Fanwood, will be celebrated in the Scotch Plains Baptist church this evening at 9 o'clock. The officiating clergyman will be Rev. Mr. Braker, pastor of the church. The bridemaid will be Miss Sarah Hand, sister of the groom, and Thomas Hanna, a cousin of the bride, will be the best man. The wedding will be a quiet one, after which Mr. and Mrs. Hand will leave for Philadelphia. On their return they will reside at Westfield where the groom has furnished a house on Broad street.

The groom, who is well known as "Baron" Hand, was formerly a cycle racer, and a member of the Spalding team. Last Saturday he rode a tandem with Thomas Cuming at the National meet held in this city.

SHOT A STRANGER.

Colored Bootblack Tries to Kill a Man to Whom He Had Not Talked.

Frank Severick, a bootblack at Westfield, visited this city yesterday morning, and boarded train No. 10 at 2:07 p. m., to go home. He refused to pay his fare and was put off the train at Elizabeth. After the train pulled out of the Elizabeth station, Severick turned and asked a United States Express messenger where his bundle was. The messenger said that he did not know, and this seemed to anger the bootblack. He walked a few steps and then suddenly drew a revolver from his pocket and aimed it at Frank Eckhart, the mail messenger for the Central railroad. He fired three shots at him, two taking effect. Sevrick threw his revolver away and started to run down the track, but he was captured by Baggagemaster Sees. As soon as the police arrived he was arrested and locked up. Eckhart was removed to the Elizabeth General Hospital, where it is thought that he will recover.

In the Cyclone.

Samuel Boss, of Central avenue, arrived home this morning from an extended trip through the South. Last Tuesday Mr. Boss was at Gettysburg, when the cyclone struck that place. He says the damage to property was something terrible. A large soldiers' monument was completely demolished. At Columbia, Pa., a railroad bridge over a mile in length was entirely carried away, and Mr. Boss, with the other passengers, were taken across the river in boats.

Mayor Hegeman is Fair.

The thoughtfulness of Mayor Hegeman, of the borough, was clearly evinced at the Council meeting last evening. When His Honor entered the room his eyes greeted two large pictures of McKinley and Hobart, which hung on the wall. Mr. Hegeman at once thought they were out of place, because the council room is rented by both Republicans and Democrats, and that it wss not the proper thing.

—Miss Bainbridge will teach the lesson before the Primary Teachers Union on Monday October 5th in Y. M. C. A. Hall. A full attendance of members is desired as an election of officers will follow the lesson.

Since 1861 I have been a great sufferer from catarrh. I tried Ely's Cream Balm and to all appearances am cured. Terrible headaches from which I had long suffered are gone.—W. J. Hitchcock, late Major U. S. Vol. and A. A. Gen., Buffalo, N. Y.

Epworth League Business.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. church held a business meeting last evening in Vincent chapel. It was decided to continue the Sunday evening devotional meetings at 7 o'clock to last until 7:30 o'clock. The meetings will begin promptly on time. Badges and programmes for the Christian Endeavor convention were given out. It was decided to give a sociable on the third Friday in October. A social period followed the meeting. The attendance was quite large.

Fell From the Second Story.

Louis Randolph, one of the porters at the City Hotel, had an exciting experience this morning that he is not likely to forget for some time. He was assisting in the decoration of the building from a second-story window when he slipped and fell on the wooden platform over the area-way. Luckily he landed on his feet and escaped serious injury.

Promised to do the Right Thing.

The trial of Chas. Frey was to come up in the city court this morning for non-support, but his wife told Judge DeMeza that Frey had promised to support her and now had a job, so proceedings were suspended.

Still Unidiutified.

The remains of the dead man found at Fanwood several days ago are still held at P. Casey's morgue awaiting identification or orders from County Physician Westcott.

—Four medical and surgical cases have been received at the hospital since yesterday.

—The Parsons-Springs breech of promise case was adjourned yesterday to next Wednesday morning.

—The cases against Charles Barry, Sigmund Frucht and Thomas Marley, were adjourned for one week in the city court this morning.

—A "Home Coming" service will be held by the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church tomorrow afternoon when the school will return to the old order and hold the session in the afternoon.

Miss Margret Veghte, of Roselle, who has been visiting her cousin, Miss Mabel Schenck, of East Second street, returned home this morning.

Mrs. George Thatcher has given up housekeeping and is now stopping at the Hotel Grenada. Plainfield's only George Thatcher will arrive in town tomorrow.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S Armstrong, druggist.

HOT FIGHT IN CUBA

Maceo's Forces Attacked by Spanish Troops Under Hernandez.

BOTH SIDES SUFFERED BIG LOSSES

The Insurgents Said To Have Been Forced To Retire Several Times, But They Fought Heroically---News via Madrid.

Madrid, Oct. 3.—A dispatch from Havana, tells of a severe engagement between Spanish troops and Maceo's forces last Tuesday. The dispatch follows: Gen. Melguizo, supported by the columns of troops commanded by Cols. Hernandez, Frances and Romero, left Mantua, province of Pinar del Rio, during the morning of Tuesday last in order to attack the insurgents under Antonia Maceo. The Hernandez column, proceeding in the direction of Tumbas de Torino, after an hour's march engaged Maceo's forces and dislodged them from their positions. Continuing the advance, Col. Hernandez at 1:30 p. m. again met the enemy. By this time the insurgents had concentrated their forces and a severe fight, which last until night, began. The Spanish troops advanced foot by foot, and again dislodged the insurgents. The operations were conducted during a heavy downpour of rain, which considerably hindered the advance. The troops pushed forward on the following morning and were met by four cannon shots at short range from an insurgent position. The insurgents were again driven backwards, and the troops camped in the rebels' positions, but left them later in order to carry back the wounded and secure provisions and ammunition. The column of troops commanded by Col. Frances entered Manajal and engaged the insurgent forces commanded by Perico, Diaz, Payaso and others, dislodging them at the point of the bayonet, and compelling the rebels to fly in all directions. During the two engagements the insurgents left eighty men killed and a quantity of arms and ammunition on the fields and retired with over 200 wounded. On the side of the Spaniards eleven men were killed, and Major Yzquierdo, Capt. Cabanas and eighty-six privates were wounded. Of the Spanish wounded, thirty-one men are in a serious condition.

Fired on by a Spanish Gunboat.

Galveston, Tex., Oct. 3.—Capt. Rosmussen, who arrived here last evening with the Norwegian steamship Gyler, reported to Consul Adone that he left Cienfuegos, Cuba, at 4 p. m. Aug 29, for Porto Rico. Four hours later a Spanish gunboat was sighted. An hour later the gunboat fired a shot over the Gyler amidships, close to the smokestack. The vessel was stopped and boarded by an officer and ten men. The Spaniard, after examining the ship's papers, apologized and left, saying he mistook the Gyler for a filibustering vessel.

Cuban Sympathizers Again Active.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Great activity is being again displayed by Cuban sympathizers in this country and to such an extent as to thoroughly arouse the Spanish minister. He has requested the government to keep an alert outlook for the Three Friends, the Commodore and the Dauntless, suspected of fitting out for a filibustering expeditions.

SPANISH CONSUL ATTACKED.

A Fight with Cuban Sympathizers at Jacksonville Which May Cause Trouble.

Philadelphia, Oct. 3.—A story reaches here from Jacksonville, Fla., which, if true, may still further complicate the relations between this country and Spain. The story is to the effect that a fight occurred there Thursday between a party of Cuban sympathizers and the Spanish consul there and some Pinkerton detectives, in which the latter party was worsted. The Spanish consul and the detectives were observing the movements of the Cubans. The Cubans discovered the espionage they were under and a fight took place. As no deadlier wepons than fists were used there were no fatalities. The consul communicated the affair to the Spanish minister at Washington and the latter is said to have made a demand upon President Cleveland for reparation for the assault upon the Spanish consul.

Money in Circulation.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The treasury circulation statement just issued places the aggregate of all kinds of money in circulation October 1 in the United States at $1,852,302,289, or an increase during September of $43,132,625. The per capita circulation is stated at $22.95. The statement increases the gold coin issued or in "general stock" from $270,557,083 on September 1, to $600,544,227 on October 1.

Stormy Voyage of the Assyrian.

Halifax, Oct. 3.—The Allan line steamer Assyrian, just arrived here from Liverpool, had a very stormy passage. The weather during the entire voyage was a series of gales and at times she made no more three knots an hour. The water poured over her from all sides and last Thursday and Friday nothing could be done on board. Thursday an enormous iceberg was passed.

Treasury Gold.

Washington, Oct. 3.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $123,785,561. The withdrawals of Thursday and Friday at New York were $238,553.

PRAISE FROM PULPITS.

Distinguished Clergymen Recommend People to Use Dr. Greene's Nervura.

Grand Army Chaplain Buffum, Missionary to India Miller, Presiding Elder Walker, Praise Nervura. The Best Medicine You Can Take.

REV. E. J. MILLER, MISSIONARY TO INDIA.

There is nothing in the world so good to take to make you well and strong as Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. Testimonials by thousands from all classes of people have been published, showing its marvelous effects in making the sick well, the weak strong, and now our clergymen have become interested and for the people's good urge them to use this wonderful cure, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy, in order to get well, for they are convinced that it is the most valuable medicine in the world to-day.

Rev. E. J. Miller, of Albion, N. Y., the eminent divine, who represents the Boston Tremont Temple Society as missionary to India, was broken down with overwork, liver trouble and malaria, and is now on vacation, in search of health, has found both health and strength in the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura. He says:

"I returned to America broken in health, with a bad catarrh, neuralgia and stomach and liver trouble. The whole top of my head felt numb, so that at times I was robbed of my thinking powers, and could not do any work with ease. Having consulted a number of doctors and taken their medicines, I received no relief whatever.

"I was induced to try Dr. Greene's Nervura, which worked like a charm and produced the longed-for results. My head and whole system is now clean from catarrh, neuralgia and fever. I can now study and do my work with satisfaction. In fact, I feel like a new man in health and strength.

"I therefore feel it my duty and great pleasure to recommend this excellent remedy, Dr. Greene's Nervura, which certainly has done so much for me."

Rev. F. H. Buffum, of Winchester, N. H., who is Grand Army Chaplain for New Hampshire, says:

"The remedial effect of Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy on the weaknesses and nervous prostration of my wife, was so positive and speedy that we can heartily testify to its undoubted merits."

Presiding Elder Rev. J. W. Walker, of Fort Dodge, Iowa; Rev. C. D. R. Meacham, pastor Baptist Church, Townsend, Vt.; Rev. G. L. Wells, of Hardwick, Vt.; Rev. Henry Langford, of Weston, W. Va., and many other well-known ministers of the Gospel in all parts of the country, all of whom have been cured by this great remedy, enthusiastically urge the people to use Dr. Greene's Nervura by all means, if they wish to be sure of a cure, for health and strength always follow its use.

Remember that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is no common patent medicine, but the prescription of one of our best-known physicians, the discovery of Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, hence the medicine is of necessity perfectly adapted to cure. Dr. Greene also can be consulted free, personally or by letter, in regard to any case.

STYLISH.

Every hat will outwear the style it embodies, look new when the change of fashion retires it, and make the buyer congratulate himself for having purchased it.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

Still Continues!
Our Big Sale
Of Jelliff & Co. Stock

—New Jersey's never had better chance to get splendidly built furniture at small prices—we promised to sell this stock at 75 per cent. less than actual cost of making—we're doing it, and if you'll but glance at the line our words will be proven. Every piece is hand built and bears reduced price tag in plain figures. Limited space prevents list of prices—here's an idea of what stock contains:

Walnut, Mahogany, Curly Birch, Maple and Oak Bedroom Suits.

Marble Top Bureaus with large mirrors, Chiffonniers, Hall Stands, Shaving Stands, Side Tables.

Parlor Suits and Extension Tables in Mahogany and Walnut.

Fancy Chairs in great variety, Cribs, Bedsteads, Sideboards, etc., etc.

To make this sale a "money saver" our entire regular stock has been put at specially low prices to keep company with above. Here's an instance in carpets alone:

50 rolls Moquettes at 90c a yard.

50 rolls Velvets at 75c a yard.

50 rolls Body Brussels at 85c a yard.

50 rolls Tapestry at 55c a yard.

100 rolls All-Wool Ingrain, 49c a yard.

100 rolls Ingrain at 25c a yard.

Portland Ranges are never reduced—they sell quicker than we can get them.

IMPORTANT: Credit will be given on all these goods at marked prices, bicycles excepted.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

The Basin Disk-Boat.

The new disk steamship, the invention of M. Bazin, was launched at St. Denis dockyard. Admiral Coulombeaud, who has a high repute among French naval authorities, is said to be a firm believer in the possibilities of this new invention, and he has computed that only one-twenty-eighth of the power required to drive an ordinary boat is needed for a Bazin craft of the same size and speed. The diskboat of M. Bazin is by no means the first attempt to apply the roller principle to navigation, but heretofore the rollers have been made to perform the duty of paddle-wheels, or propellers; in the new boat they are merely devices to overcome friction, and the report of M. Bazin's experiments indicate that he has been markedly successful.

FANCIES OF THE AUTUMN MAID.

She Will Exercise Individual Taste in Choosing Her Frocks.

With the coming of September and the oyster the summer girl has laid away her laced and ribboned frocks of organdie, and like diaphanous material, folded up her rose and cream Dresden silk petticoats, consigned her gayly beflowered hats to their bandboxes, and transformed herself into a demure autumn maid. And she is queen.

Her robes of state are varied, for it is the day of individual taste, but whether the autumn girl appears on the golf links at Wheaton or on the tennis grounds at Kenwood, she is seen in the trimmest and cockiest of frocks and hats, and is "chic" from crown to toe.

It is easier to tell what she will not wear than what she will. The prophecies of the autumn styles are careful as yet, because fashion is such a capricious thing the prophets are finding their position a trying one. It seems to be settled that all the modifications possible in the big sleeves are to be introduced, and the sleeve shown most frequently so far is a long, rather close one, not skin tight, but a little wrinkled, with all sorts of puffs and plaits to reconcile the friends of the big sleeve to its gradual passing.

Until now Dame Fashion has relegated the wear of the shirt waist to the summer months, but this year the autumn girl has had her own sweet way in this, as in many other matters, and the coming fall and winter will see her and her pet shirt waist almost as close companions as in the summer time.

It may be made of corduroy, smoke-colored being the favorite, or Persian figured velvet, or any of the new heavy loosely woven novelty goods, but the autumn girl observes an unwritten law which says it must be worn with white collars and cuffs.—Chicago Tribune.

"Upsettin'."

A party of tourists were out riding in Kansas one afternoon, when they came to an old house in the dooryard of which were some peach trees loaded with magnificent yellow peaches.

"Let's see if we can't buy some," said one of the party, and he agreed to go to the door and ask for a basket of the peaches.

A wiry, active little woman came to the door.

"Howdy do!" she said, cheerily. "Hot an' dusty, ain't it? We need rain terribly. 'Scuse the looks o' my house. We're all in a clutter here now. I don't keep my house in such a muss as this all the time, I kin tell ye, but the fact is we're all upset to-day. To come right out and tell the honest truth, my ole man went an' committed suicide right after breakfast, an' it's kind o' upset things gen'rally, an' when it comes to a suicide, it's a good deal more so.

"I never was quite so upset. If he'd only be consid'rate enough to choose some other day but a Monday, when I have got both bakin' an' washin' on hand. Some peaches? Oh, help yourselves to all you want. I'd go out an' pick 'em for you if he hadn't cut up this hangin' himself caper. It's terrible upsettin' all round."—N. Y. World.

Headaches from Eye Strain.

Dr. S. Weir Mitchell says there are many headaches which are due directly to disorders of the refractive or accommodative apparatus of the eyes. In some instances the brain symptom is often the most prominent, and sometimes the sole prominent symptom of the eye troubles, so that while there may be no pain or sense of fatigue in the eye, the strain with which it is used may be interpreted solely by occipital or frontal headache. The long continuance of eye troubles may be the unsuspected source of insomnia, vertigo, nausea and general failure of health. In many cases the eye trouble becomes suddenly mischievous, owing to some failure of the general health, or to increased sensitiveness of the brain from moral or mental causes.—Medical News

WELL-SOLD SNAPPING TURTLE

It Led a Country Lad to Wall Street Matrimony and Affluence.

"I would not have minded John's action on the floor the other day," said a broker to a party of friends, "if he had not used such a tone of suspicion when he demanded more margin on certain stocks that I had with him in a loan."

"It's only his way, Charlie," said a hearer; "he didn't mean to injure you at all."

"Possibly he did not," said the first speaker. "It may have been due to the training that old Dutch banker, ——, gave him, and his innate desire to let nothing escape.

"When he and I were boys," Charlie continued, "I spent several summers on his father's farm out in Jersey. It was there that he met his partner, and there is a curious little story connected with their first business transaction—one in which he 'did' the old fellow, but at the same time endeared himself to him.

"John and I had been fishing, and among other things had caught a snapping turtle that weighed about 20 pounds. We were carrying the snapper home tied to a stick, one having hold of each end of it, when we met the banker driving along in a buggy to his summer home.

"Our catch presented a good appearance, and the old fellow stopped to inquire about it, as he had never seen so large a turtle before, except in the market. He asked what we were going to do with it, and we told him what delicious soup it would make. At once he wanted it, and offered 50 cents for it. I was for accepting the 50 cents, but not so John. He felt that he had a customer and held out for one dollar—and he got it.

"Old —— was a little afraid of the snapper's jaws, but John and I bridled the turtle by passing a bit of fishing line around it and between its jaws—and so tied its head well back under its shell. We then received our silver dollar, tossed the snapper under the seat of the old man's buggy and he drove off with it.

"As he did so I started on toward home, but John sat down by the roadside.

"'What are you waiting for?' I said

"'The snapper,' said John.

"'It's gone,' said I.

"'Mebbe it is, and mebbe it ain't. Wait a minute and watch the old man,' said he.

"And, sure enough, before the old man had gone half a mile we heard him yell and then saw him jump from his buggy.

"John rolled on the grass and laughed nearly as loudly as the old man had yelled.

"Picking himself up, he said: 'Let's go get our snapper.'

"I'd rather have the dollar," I said.

"What's the matter with having both?" he replied, and tossing me the dollar and telling me to remain where I was, he started up the road after the old man, who was afraid to go near his buggy, for the snapper had bitten through its bridle, and nipped the old man's shins, and had taken undisputed possession of the buggy.

"He found the old fellow in a state of consternation—swearing at the snapper in the most expressive German at his command, and rubbing his shins at the same time.

"What you sell me, de devil?" asked the old man.

"No, a nice, fat, juicy snapper," said John, "and I sold him too cheaply, too. He'll make delicious soup, and plenty of it."

"Donnerwetter! soup! I'll haf no soup. Gif me my toller and take de brute."

"I haven't your dollar. Charley has it back there in the road. Take the snapper to him and I guess he'll give you the dollar."

"Me! Me take dat eatin' ting! I vouldn't get into that puggy now for a quarter each vay. Get 'im out, and keep the toller."

"It was like rolling off a log for John to take a stick, prod the snapper, and jerk him to the ground as soon as he had fastened his jaws upon it. Old Dutchy, as we called him, jumped into his buggy as soon as the snapper reached the ground and drove hurriedly away.

"Of course I rejoined John and we soon had his snappership swinging from our stick. We walked home in triumph with the dollar in one pocket and the snapper, metaphorically, in the other. Our joke was too good to keep, and that night we related it to all who visited the mill.

"The old man bore us no ill will, but still he never wanted to buy any more of our 'schnappers,' although he occasionally stopped to look at them, from the seat of his buggy, when he met us carrying them home.

"John and I were sitting on the mill steps one evening when the old man drove up. He stopped, asked John to ride with him, and together they drove off. They were gone about an hour. That night John said: 'I'm going to be a banker.'

"You—going to be a banker—what nonsense!" I exclaimed.

"'Nonsense or not; it's a fact. The old man to-night asked me to take a position with him. I told him I knew nothing of the business, and would be a failure.'

"'You be a failure!' he said. 'You who haf solt me a schnapper and haf got my toller and my schnapper! Dot is too funny. You come vit me. I vant you, and some day I put you on the exchange. You judge human nature, and you know animal nature—de bulls and de bears is de place for you.'

"John went with the old man, and ever since has had the dollar in one hand and the snapper on the stick in the other. He married the old man's daughter, got into the firm, and now owns the whole concern. If he ever gets a coat of arms the device should be a 'schnapper' rampant on a field of green, with, possibly, a silver dollar in the 'schnapper's' ' " —N. Y. Times

HARD ON THE ROCKS

Grounding of the Steamer Roman Off George's Island, Boston.

HEAVILY LOADED WITH FREIGHT

Efforts of Tugs To Drag Her Off Proved Unavailing — Work of Lightering the Cargo Continued Throughout the Night.

Boston, Oct. 3.—The big four-masted British steamship Roman, which went hard aground on the south side of Georges' island last evening, was still fast on the rocks this morning, and the indications were that she would not be floated before late this evening at the earliest. The Roman left the Hoosac dock at 4:30 o'clock heavily laden for Liverpool. She rolled perceptibly as she made her way down through the intricate ship channel past the wreck of the Venitian. At 5:20 o'clock, when nearly abreast of Bug light, in some unaccountable way, the steamer veered to the right and her bows swung into the shallow water, taking ground heavily on the rocky bottom. The ships engines were at once reversed and an effort made to back her off. This proved futile, and the steamer's whistle sounded to attract the attention of the tug Triton, which was coming through the narrows with a barge in tow. Anchoring the barge the tug went immediately to the steamer's assistance and pushed against the Roman's bow in a vain endeavor to get her afloat. The tide was within two hours of flood and it was confidently expected that when the tide reached its full the steamer would come off unharmed and proceed on her passage. At 7:15, when the tide was at its height, the tugs Tritan, Nathaniel P. Doane and Camilla made a united effort to push the ship into deep water, without moving the big hull an inch. It was then seen that the cattle and a considerable portion of the cargo could be successfully floated. Accordingly arrangements were perfected to send several lighters and a gang of longshoremen and carpenters down to the steamer. The Roman was in charge of pilot Frank Fowler, who is one of the oldest and most efficient pilots in the Boston service. The steamer carries a crew of about fifty men all told. The Roman has a cargo of about 3,700 tons dead weight, including 1,000 tierces lard, 1,700 bales cotton, 9,818 barrels apples, 250 tons logs and lumber, 1,800 quarters of fresh beef, 50 tons finished leather, 100 packages domestics, besides a quantity of machinery, woodenware and miscellaneous merchandise and 330 head of cattle. Late last night five lighters were dispatched to the stranded vessel and a diver was also sent to make a careful examination of the steamer's bottom. The Roman's bow is about two feet out of water, and she has a decided list to port. The work of removing part of the cargo was carried on all night and more is being taken out this morning.

MORRISON RESIGNS HIS OFFICE.

A Shortage of $245,000 So Far Disclosed. Prominent People May Be Implicated.

Troy, N. Y., Oct. 3.—County treasurer George H. Morrison has resigned his position of county treasurer in response to the request of the Rensselaer county board of supervisors. The finance committee of the board and the expert accountants report that there is a deficiency in the county funds of $245,000. Only $1,800 had been deposited in the defunct national bank by the county treasurer. It was shown that he drew out $10,000 the second day after he took possession of the office and $20,000 two days later. An effort will be made to find the vouchers, which, it is thought, will implicate prominent people.

THESSALYNIANS REVOLT.

Six Thousand Men Armed and Ready To Join the Movement Against Turkey.

Athens, Oct. 3.—The inhabitants of the Greek province of Thessaly, which was a Turkish possession prior to 1881, are pushing forward with great enthusiasm the Macedonion movement, looking to the severance of that territory from Turkish rule. Upwards of 6,000 men have already been armed and drilled in readiness to cross the border and assist the Macedonians in the spring, unless the situation in Macedonia shall in the meantime be greatly improved.

Senator Voorhees Not Ill.

Washington, Oct. 3.—Senator Voorhees' son and private secretary, James Paxton Voorhees, who resides in this city, says that the statements telegraphed from Terra Haute as to his father being very ill at Mackinaw, Ind., are entirely unfounded. He states that his father is now at his home in Terre Haute, and that he received a telegram from there this morning that he was "in excellent condition," having been much benefited by his three months' stay at Mackinaw.

Archbishop Martinelli Arrives.

New York, Oct. 3.—Archbishop Martinelli, Cardinal Satolli's successor as papal ablegate to the United States, arrived last night on the Campania and was taken off at Quarantine early this morning by a party of distinguished Catholic clergy who went down the bay to meet him.

The Benedicts at Gray Gables.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Oct. 3.—The steam yacht Oneida arrived here early yesterday. Commodore Benedict and family are visiting President and Mrs. Cleveland.

Canadian Pacific Strike.

Montreal, Oct. 3.—There is little change in the strike situation on the Canadian Pacifice railway. The officials claim the company is winning.

Hackmen All Right.

The four hackmen, John Keeley Michael Higgins, Thomas Burns and John Lynch were all released by City Judge DeMeza, who dismissed the complaint against them. It was proved that the line in the pavement that they advanced beyond was merely put there for their convenience, but it was more than the required distance, thirty feet from the curb.

Hon. James E. Martine will attend the Democratic banner raising and political meeting at Perth Amboy on Monday evening next.

HE SAT ON THE BABY.

A New York Lawyer Forgot That He Was a Proud Papa.

Mr. D—— is an extensive real estate owner in one of the suburbs of New York, says the New York Times. He is also an insurance agent and a general adviser on matters of law and equity and, in addition to all this, he is the proud father of a three-weeks-old baby. The other day Mrs. D—— took the little treasure into the parlor and, after a half hour's cooing, lulled it to sleep. Then she laid the child on a sofa with a pillow at its feet, darkened the room and went about her household duties, just as any good housewife would. All this time Mr. D—— was busy in the garden. Presently a neighbor happened along and stopped for Mr. D——'s opinion on a law matter and was invited into the darkened parlor. The visitor went straight for the sofa. He could see the pillow, but did not observe the child. He was adjusting the pillow to make a nice comfortable seat, but Mr. D—— insisted that he should sit in the big arm-chair, a sort of seat of honor for all guests. He acquiesced and Mr. D—— took his seat on the pillow.

About this time Mrs. D——, whose maternal instinct had asserted itself, peeped in to see how baby slept. She saw her husband sitting where she had left the child. As she asked in an alarmed tone where the baby was a muffled cry came from beneath the pillow and Mr. D—— jumped up. He had been sitting on the precious little thing and the timely arrival of his wife probably saved the child's life. A few moments more and it would have been suffocated. "Lucky for the child that I did not sit on it," remarked the visitor, who is a man of generous proportions. The child is all right now, but Mr. D—— does not take his clients into the parlor any more.

SHE SAVED HERSELF.

And Broke the Impact of That Wild and Rushing Cyclist.

A lady protected herself against the rushing advance of a cyclist in Brompton road, London, in an original and commendable fashion, says the London Telegraph. The cyclist was rushing along at his best pace and the lady was crossing the roadway. Instead of making a detour to avoid her, the man simply rung his bell and pushed on without abatement of speed, considering that he had done his duty to society.

Pedestrians on the footpath and busmen on their perches saw that a collision was inevitable. So did the lady, who braced herself for the ordeal and resolved on offensive tactics. Giving her body—not by any means that of a pigmy—a rapid swing, she brought the stronger part of her figure into contact with the front wheel of the machine and the bicyclist himself and sent them both sprawling into the roadway. Then, giving her skirts another swing, just to prove that she had suffered no damage, she finished her journey across the road and turned around and laughed with others at the unhappy cyclist as he picked up himself and the disjecta membra of his once perfect machine. He made his way to the curbstone where he sat down to contemplate the damage, and finally put the thing on his shoulder and carried it away.

A fire at a farmhouse near Axminster, England, was put out recently by pumping on it cider from hogsheads, as there was no water to be had.

Blondin's, the tight-rope walker's, stock in trade is offered for sale in Paris. Besides the tri-colored wheelbarrow, the harmonium, cornet and costumes, it includes the cable on which he crossed the river above the falls of Niagara.

Tiny, the smallest toy terrier in the world, died recently in London. He was less than four inches long. His late owner, Lieut. Gen. Sir Archibald Macleine, has had the body stuffed and has presented it to the London Zoological garden.

At Persian funerals the mourners are supplied with wads of cotton, which they use to wipe away their tears. The cotton is afterward collected and squeezed, and the tears are bottled and preserved. They are supposed to possess restorative qualities in fainting fits.

Bicycle readings are the latest English novelty. They are a sort of Chautauqua on wheels. Clubs of literary young ladies are formed to read up on various subjects, and the members wheel away to the woods with their lunches and notebooks at stated times to hold their meetings under the trees. There is no international copyright on the idea, and it will bear importation.

The king of Greece delights in taking recreation in the fields. He can plow, cut and bind corn, milk cows, and, in short, could at a pinch keep a farm going single handed.

Emperor William's latest fad is telegraph, and he is spending several hours a week learning to send messages by dots and dashes. He has already made considerable progress as an operator of the key.

Queen Wilhelmina of Holland has a miniature farm, the produce of which she gives to the poor and to the hospitals. Her Swiss chalet is stocked with the accumulated toys of 12 years or more, and here she learned to "keep house" in the most approved Dutch style.

For the first time since 1867 the queen of the Belgians has gone on a long visit to France. She is at Chantilly, the guest of the Duc d'Aumale. Chantilly is a place where training of horses for race courses is the staple business, and the queen has a passion for horses. The queen of Naples has a racing stud at this place.

NURSERY HYGIENE.

An infant's thirst is not quenched by milk; it needs clean water to drink with regularity.

Plain, boiled water, given between feedings, will often aid the digestion, and satisfy the child when restless.

Never put a bottle nipple into your mouth and then into the baby's mouth; this will often prove dangerous.

Do not feed the baby because she cries; this may be due to pain, and it is harmful to fill an infant's stomach at such a time.

An infant is a creature of habit, and usually responds to the wish of the mother, if the mother has order in her will.

More infant's lives are taken by overfeeding than by starvation; never liken an infant's digestion or diet to your own.

Cholera infantum would be of rare occurrence if proper attention was always given to the quality and quantity of the food.

Regular habits, proper food, and long hours of sleep are necessary conditions to a healthy infant. The three prime essentials in the nursery are fresh air, good food and pure water.—N. Y. Ledger.

A LITTLE GAME OF HEARTS.

Trumps, However, Were Held by the One Least Expected.

"Mercy, how tired and sleepy you look," said the girl in the sailor hat.

"I am tired," said the girl in the bicycle suit, "but I'm in such a rage that I couldn't go to sleep if my complexion was at stake."

"Fell off your wheel, perhaps?" said the girl in the sailor hat; "well, never mind your bruises if they don't show. Of course nobody would ever choose the time to have the measles or a fall, but I think my luck is worse than anybody's when it comes to—"

"Don't talk of luck," groaned the girl in the bicycle suit. "You know Marie and Clarence had a quarrel about a week ago, and he has been coming to see me twice a day ever since."

"Seems to me that is Marie's ill-luck if it's anybody's," said the girl in the sailor hat. "She's been paying you so many compliments that I know she is furiously jealous."

"I hope so. Well, he asked me yesterday if I wouldn't go for an early ride this morning. I hesitated at first, for I doubted if we'd meet anybody who would tell Marie."

"She isn't so friendless as all that," said the girl in the sailor hat.

"Perhaps not. Well, I knew that I could let her know somehow, and it would be worth an hour or two of sleep to know how furious she would be, so I finally agreed to go with him.'

"And did she find it out?"

"She wouldn't have, but I told her myself when she came in to ask about a freckle lotion—said I'd be sure to know of one if anybody did."

"And what did she say about the ride?"

"Said she was glad to hear it— it would be good for my complexion. Then she begged me come and stay all night with her; said she wanted a nice long talk with me."

"She must have been awfully jealous if she took all that trouble to conceal it."

"I said I'd go, but that I hated to wake her up so early. She insisted that she didn't mind that a bit, so I went, for I wanted to have her version of the quarrel."

"And did you?"

"No, I didn't, and she was so nervous and absent-minded that it was only half fun to tell her the nice things Clarence had been saying to me of late."

"Oh, you told her, did you?"

"I—I felt it was my duty. I was sorry afterwards, for she seemed as anxious for a clear morning as if she was going somewhere herself. She said she never could wake early, and I was so anxious lest I oversleep myself that I was awake nearly all night. Clarence and I were to start from the house at half-past seven, so I had to get up at six. Marie got up and made me some coffee—said she'd told her mother she was going to do it. Then she actually hurried me off, lest I keep Clarence waiting."

"I should have suspected a reason for such amiability myself," said the girl in the sailor hat.

"Should you? Well, I didn't. Not only was Clarence nowhere in sight when I reached home, but I sat on the front steps for an hour without his putting in an appearance. Finally at half-past eight a messenger boy came along with a note for me."

"From Clarence, of course; he was late and—"

"It was not from Clarence; it was from Marie. It was written in a very shaky hand and it said: 'Dear Kate: Thank you so much for waking me this morning. Clarence and I made up yesterday just before I saw you and decided to take an early train for Milwaukee. I don't believe I'd have been ready in time but for you, and I'm sure I couldn't have gotten out without mamma knowing it if I hadn't had you as an excuse. Yours, lovingly, Marie.'

"My gracious," cried the girl in the sailor hat, "and to think you can never get even with that girl as long as you live!"—Chicago Tribune.

A Brave Seaman.

A sailor, an Englishman, this time, has received the Albert medal for bravery. He was captain of a steamer which was wrecked in the Red sea. She began to sink, but another steamer hove in sight, and with great difficulty, owing to the darkness and the heavy sea, the passengers and crew were rescued. The last boat to leave was loaded heavily, and a call was made for the captain, who, in such cases, is always the last to leave his ship. This time the captain refused to leave unless the boat would also take an injured and helpless fireman. The boat's officer claimed that there was no room, and as the wrecked steamer began to settle, the boat was pulled away. In a few minutes down went the ship, but to the surprise of everybody the heroic captain came to the surface, holding the fireman in his arms. Fifteen minutes elapsed before the rescuing boat could reach him, but eventually the captain and fireman were picked up.—Golden Days.

Common Sense.

In the midst of a stormy discussion a gentleman rose to settle the matter in dispute. Waving his hand majestically, he began:

"Gentlemen, all I want is common sense."

"Exactly," interrupted another; "that is precisely what you do want."

But Sir Edward Clarke's retort in the Jameson trial is still more to the purpose. The attorney-general had argued against Sir Edward Clarke's points as being contrary to common sense.

Sir Edward objected:

"Then you think," said the lord chief justice, dryly, "that common sense has nothing to do with a legal point?"

"No," replied Sir Edward, with that quickness and felicity which never fails him. "I am only of Archbishop Whateley's opinion, who said that 'common sense is an authority to which everyone appeals on any subject he does not fully understand.'" — London Household Words.

CIRCULATION OF THE BLOOD.

Theories Which Account for the Functions of the Vital Fluid.

Do you know that some of the very best physicians in the land are far from being satisfied that the heart is the organ which causes the blood to circulate in the veins and arteries? The theory of Harvey, which maintains that the impulsive stroke of the heart is "the sole motive power," is disputed by persons who know more about blood circulation in a minute than he ever did in his life. Various causes for the phenomena of blood circulation are assigned by the different students of the subject, but the majority of those who differ from Harvey say that the true cause of circulation is to be found in respiration. That function brings carbon into the lungs. This carbon mixes with the venous blood, the mixture forming the true fuel of animal life. The oxygen which is also taken into the lungs with every breath mingles with the carbon and a slow form of combustion ensues. Wherever combustion is going on heat is evolved. In this case the heat is communicated to the blood, which is about seven-eighths water. The lungs, being in partial vacuo, and having a temperature of at least 35 degrees above that required to change water into vapor (when the water in question is in a complete vacuum), steam is generated. This enlarges the volume of the blood and exerts a specific force. The valves on the right side of the heart close against this force, while those on the left open to give it free passage. Thus, according to this theory, the true motive power is produced which first causes and then keeps up the circulation of the blood.

When this theory is elaborated it is very conclusively proved that the heart has nothing whatever to do with the circulation of the blood, but to determine by its valves the course of the current and by the mechanical force of the stroke to equalize the flow.—St Louis Republic.

FIREMEN'S BIG TIME.

THE PARADE WAS THE FINEST SEEN HERE IN MANY A DAY.

The Veterans, of New York, and the Exempts and Actives of City and Borough Made a Great Showing—A Jolly Time.

The reception given by the Exempt Firemen's Association, of this city, to the Veteran Firemen's Association, of New York, on Saturday last, will be recorded as one one of the complete affairs of the kind ever held in Plainfield.

Every resident of the city took an interest as well as many visitors from neighboring towns and cities who came here. The streets were thronged with people who were so delighted with the parade that seeing it once was not sufficient.

Promptly at 2 o'clock the procession formed on North avenue under command of Marshal William Hand. The line of march was then followed. First came Sergeant Kiely and Patrolmen Vanderweg, Cooney, Flynn, Myers, Lunger and Saunders lined up in true military style. Assisting Marshal Hand were William C. Smith and Charles M. Raybert, as aides, mounted on handsome steeds. The reception committee were second in line. Following them came Krink's Brass Band and the Veteran Firemen's Fife and Drum Corps, of New York. Then came the veteran firemen themselves and the double-decker hand engine. Cheer after cheer greeted them as they marched along with steady step. All are fine-appearing men. Their engine is a beauty.

The Goodwill Brass Band, of New Brunswick, was next in order and preceded Chief Doane's rig, which was in charge of Driver James Bailey. The Chief, though not a young man, felt perfectly able to walk over the entire line of march and he did so. On either side of him was First Assistant James Martin and Second Assistant John W. Murray, Jr. Behind them was Gazelle hose carriage, No. 1, and the members of the company. The boys looked fine in every particular. The next apparatus was the Chemical, with Driver George Feiring on the seat.

No. 2 hose wagon driven, by William Ross, followed, accompanied by the members of the company, who appeared for the first time in their new overcoats. The members of this company have a reputation for good showing and they sustained it well on Saturday. The old reliable No. 2 engine came next and driver Henry Wierenga held the reins over a team of handsome horses, who were animated by the music discoursed by Crescent band, of Raritan, which was next in line. Plainfield's handsome and substantial Zephyr hook and ladder, accompanied by the members made a handsome appearance. Driver Fred Breem was in the seat and Harry Bush had charge of the wheel. The next in order was Alert hose carriage with driver William Townley and his wonderful dog. The Independent hook and ladder driven by Harry Roberts, with George Mehl at the wheel, preceded the Independent Fife and Drum Corps. At this point North Plainfield's representatives, Warren Engine Company, commanded by Chief Fairchild and assistants, Conover and Anderson with their engine and hose wagon, appeared. Thomas McGann occupied the seat of the former while his son was in charge of the latter. The borough boys showed up in fine style and were heartily applauded. Last but not least came the Exempt Firemen's Association with the silver hose carriage. The members all wore white caps bearing the word "Exempt." It stirred the hearts of some of the old residents to see the sturdy exempts once more in line and it reminded them of past days when they were so quick to respond to the call of duty. Louis DeCamp, L. E. Barkalew and Edward J. Flannery held the position of honor in front while E. H. Bird and B. Frank Coriell, were in charge of the tiller. Benj. Mumford, J. TenEyck and G. Thorn followed in a carriage.

At the Casino Mayor Gilbert, the city officials, Mayor Hegeman and the borough officials reviewed the parade. A review was held on Watchung avenue near the Crescent Avenue church, at the close of the march, where the companies dispersed and the apparatus was taken back to headquarters.

The Exempt Firemen and their guests then adjourned to the Cycle Academy where a banquet was served, during which the bands gave their best selections to enliven the occasion. Unfortunately, no speeches were made as it was impossible to hear any one speak. Mayor Gilbert made several attempts but failed and the speeches were omitted.

MOODY MEETINGS START.

THE EVANGELIST ADDRESSES LARGE AND ENTHUSIASTIC AUDIENCES.

Last Night Such a Crowd Gathered at the Convention Hall That an Overflow Meeting Was Held at Crescent Avenue Church

Very auspicious was the beginning, Saturday night, of Dwight L. Moody's work in this city. Long before the hour for opening the services the people poured into the First Baptist church, and at last every seat was filled and people were standing in the back of the auditorium. The convention choir was present in such large numbers as to fill the platform, the side seats and centre front row of the body of the house and a portion of the gallery. The choir's singing, with Mr. Burke, Mr. Moody's leader, as conductor, and William E. McClymont as organist, was excellent, while Mr. Burke's two solos, "Throw Out the Life-line" and "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," beautifully sung, with an earnestness of manner which brought the thought home to every listener, were thoroughly enjoyed.

After the song service announcements by President E. E. Anthony and prayers by Rev. Dr. Richards, D. D., and Rev. Dr. Yerkes, Mr. Moody read the thirteenth chapter of I. Corinthians and entered at once upon his talk. He began by saying that there was something radically wrong with the Christian who did not desire to give the gospel to his neighbors and to extend the kingdom of Christ in the world. He would speak on this occasion to those who had this desire, he said, and proceeded to mention the essentials of success in the work of bringing others to Christ. First, faith; not only faith that God can use you, but faith that He will. Then courage. God can't use a discouraged man. You needn't be discouraged; your cause is going to win; the result of this campaign is sure. Third, enthusiasm. Don't be afraid of enthusiasm; be on fire with zeal and earnestness in God's work.

Next, perserverance. Think of the four men in the Gospel story, who brought the paralytic to Christ. Did they go away disheartened because there was such a crowd they couldn't get in at the door? No, they tore up the roof and let him down at Jesus feet. If you can't reach a man one way, try another. Send four men after one man. If you don't reach a man in '96, get after him again in '97, and again in '98. Don't give up, have more sticktoitness. Then you need to have love. How much do you suppose you can help a man if he knows you are only working from a sense of duty? Get more of Christ's love for men. Then you need to have human sympathy and helpfulness. We need to have the parable of the good Samaritan read in all our churches every thirty days. There are two classes of men in this world; the class who are always doing little kindly, helpful things, and the class who are sour and cross, and unwilling to give others little pleasures and helps that they might so easily give. To which class do you belong my friends?

After the benediction, there was a meeting of the pastors and the '96 committee, with Mr. Moody, in the pastor's room at the rear of the pulpit.

PROMISES OF THE BIBLE.

All That Are Heavily Laden Can Go to Him For Relief.

The evangelistic service conducted by Mr. Moody yesterday afternoon 4:15 in the Cycle Academy brought together an audience that filled every available space in the large auditorium. Long before the hour of service a large crowd assembled waiting for the doors to open. The interior, decorated in colors of green and white and orange and black, was pleasing. In addition to the large platform erected for the chorus choir, a sounding board has been erected so that the voice of the speaker can be heard distinctly in every part of the building. The meeting was opened with a service of song during which F. H. Burke, musical director, sang two solos and prayers were offered by Rev. J. W. Richardson and Rev. Dr. Rodman, Several clergyman occupied seats on the platform. W. E. MacClymont presided at the piano.

Chairman Anthony, of the '96 committee, made an apology for the hall not being quite ready. He said that more seats would be provided today.

Mr. Moody then took charge and based his remarks on the promises of the Bible, and said that he wanted to present one of the best of them. Some, he said, were conditional promises and unless the conditions were complied with one could not claim the promise. For 6,000 years people have been trying to break God's word, but they had failed. The promise pre-

MERRY WEDDING BELLS.

A QUIET BUT CHARMING AFFAIR WAS THE STEVENS-BLISH NUPTIALS.

The Ceremony Performed at the Home of the Bride by Rev. C. E. Herring—Many Handsome Gifts Bestowed on the Couple Charming, indeed, but very quiet, was the wedding of Miss Henrietta Moore Blish, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry M. Blish, of 695 West Seventh street, and George Oscar Stevens, one of Plainfield's leading coal merchants, which took place Saturday afternoon at 4 o'clock at the home of the bride.

The house was decorated throughout with vines, while the dining room, where the ceremony took place, was a bower of green and white, the floral decorations consisting of palms, asparagus ferns and white carnations. An aisle was formed of white cord, one end of which was held by Miss Blish, sister of the bride, gowned in green rainbow silk. The other end was held by Miss Stevens, sister of the groom, gowned in light blue grenadine. Through the aisle thus formed the bride and groom came forward to where the Episcopal marriage service was read by Rev. Chas. E. Herring and they were pronounced husband and wife.

The bride wore a becoming gown of white brocaded silk with chiffon waist and a tulle veil, crowned with a wreath of orange blossoms. She carried a shower bouquet of white bride roses. She was attended by her maid of honor, Miss Alletta Bedford, of New York, who looked charming in a gown of white organdie over green silk trimmed with ribbon and Valenciennes lace. Her bouquet was white carnations.

The groom was accompanied by his two ushers, William N. Runyon, of Plainfield, and Ollie Armstrong, of New York. Mrs. Stevens, mother of the groom, was present, in black satin and Duchess lace, while Mrs. Blish, the bride's mother, wore a gown of black lace and jet.

The bride's gift to the maid-of-honor was a pearl sunburst while the groom presented the ushers with scarf pins. The wedding gifts were numerous and valuable and told plainly of the popularity of the young couple. Among them was a complete silver service set for dinner and tea from Mr. Blish's associates in the Standard Oil Company. Silverware, furniture and many other rich gifts were included.

William E. MacClymont and P. Ludwig Conde furnished the music for the occasion The wedding supper that followed the ceremony was a delightful affair. The table decorations were pink. Max Wiertz was caterer.

Mr. and Mrs. Stevens drove over to the South Plainfield station on the Lehigh Valley Railroad, after being plentifully showered with rice on leaving the house early Saturday evening, and took the train for Niagara Falls. A number of their friends accompanied them to South Plainfield and enlivened the parting with the usual humorous incidents.

The wedding was a quiet affair, only the relatives and intimate friends of the bride and groom being present. They came from New York, Brooklyn, Summit, Mt. Vernon, Dunellen and Plainfield.

On the War-path for McKinley.

Two of George Schuck's cows, which had been pasturing in one of Hon. James E. Martine's lots on Park avenue, evidently knew of "Jim's" dislike for McKinley and Hobart, so they scaled a four-railed fence on Saturday night and came to town to chew up the Republican banner. They wandered about town until quite late taking in the sights and other things until two lads named Emmons and Jones drove them into a barn on Westervelt avenue, near the brook. George recovered the cows yesterday, and the boys were rewarded for their kindness toward the cows.

Realty Changes.

The following transfers were recorded in Union County Clerk Howard's office, during the seven days ending with September 30th:

Isaac W. Rushmore et ux, Plainfield, to Mary A. Tweddle, lot Seventh street, $10,500; Same to Maria S. Rushmore, lot West Eighth street, 10; Plainfield Real Estate Co. to Geo. J. Tobin, lot 4, block 9, West Sixth street, $1; Sheriff Kyte to Joel D. Manning, lot Third street, $1,075.83; Sheriff Kyte to Frederick E. Valentine, lot Johnson avenue, $816.70; Edith Allen to Charlotte Goodwin, lot Hillside avenue, $700.

The following contract was filed for seven days ending September 30th:

Geo. A. Strong with John Abbott, mason, etc., house, Plainfield, $17,000.

Home Coming Services.

"Home Coming" exercises were held by the Sunday-school of the First M. E. church yesterday afternoon. There were special songs appropriate to the day and an address by Henry A. McGee, a former superintendent of the Sunday-school. The platform was banked with golden rod and other autumn flowers and colored leaves.

COSTLY HUNTING THIS.

TWO WELL-TO-DO MEN FINED $107.40 FOR VIOLATING GAME LAWS.

Game Wardens TenEyck and Squires Captured Them in the Act of Shooting and Found Game on Their Persons.

Deputy Game Wardens Israel J. TenEyck and Geo. W. Squires bagged big game yesterday afternoon when they captured two well-to-do men violating the game laws by hunting on Sunday and shooting birds prohibited by law. Sunday hunting has become a pastime much in vogue in this section of late, in direct contravention of the game laws, and the game wardens have determined to break up the practice.

Yesterday morning Messrs. TenEyck and Squires started out in quest of violators in the neighborhood of Coontown, but all the morning they did not hear the bang of a gun. In the afternoon they decided to invade the district between Coontown and Mt. Bethel. They were proceeding along the road, skirted by a piece of woods owned by Otto Wagner, near Warrenville, when they suddenly heard the explosion of a gun. Looking in the direction from whence the sound came they saw two men in the woods a few hundred yards distant from the road with rifles swung over their shoulders and in hunting togs. They lost no time in getting over to where the hunters were and found that they had a woodpecker, a highholder, and a cedar bird in their bags.

The hunters were placed under arrest and immediately taken before Justice Austin at Washingtonville on the double charge of hunting on Sunday and killing birds prohibited by law. Otto Wagner, the owner of the property on which they were arrested, was one of the culprits, and Fred Domeyer, of Jersey City, a dealer in hides of wild animals, was his companion. Since they were caught in the act of shooting and the game found in their possession, there was nothing for the Justice to do but to convict them. He fined them $20 each for hunting on Sunday, $20 for each of the three birds, and $7.40 costs, amounting to a total of $107.80. They paid the fines on the spot and returned to Wagner's home.

OBJECTS TO BURYING IN CITY PLOT.

No One Now Wants to Assume the Reponsibility of Burying the Man.

It was just one week ago yesterday that the body of a well-dressed man was found in the woods near Fanwood and brought to Undertaker Casey's morgue in this city, where it yet lies in ice in the hope that it may eventually be recognized and the mystery surrounding the strange death cleared up. Just how much longer the body is to be held, has not yet been decided, and the undertaker is now only awaiting orders from the County Physician before burying the remains. By the publicity given the case through the public press of this and other cities, solely in the hope that identification might be establised, has probably been the cause of holding the body so long. Undertaker Casey went to Scotch Plains yesterday and conferred with County Physician Westcott regarding the disposal of the body. It is understood that Overseer of the Poor Marx has refused to sign an order for interment in the city plot, claiming that the body was found in Fanwood Township and that the authorities there are responsible for its burial.

Through Mulford's Agency.

R. B. Strong, of New Brunswick, has rented A. A. Titsworth's house on East Fifth street, and takes possession at once.

Levi B. Dowiey, of New York, a brother of Mrs. John W. Murray, Jr., of West Fourth street, has rented from A. D. Thompson, his new house on West Sixth street near Monroe avenue, and will occupy the premises immediately.

Mrs. C. Goodwin has purchased a lot on Hillside near Putnam avenues, and will begin next week the erection of a handsome colonial cottage.

Dunellen's Sand House on Fire.

The Dunellen firemen had a lively run yesterday morning at 8 o'clock. The sand house at the water tanks caught fire from the furnace room and the flames spread rapidly. The section men living in the vicinity were quickly summoned and they worked heroically to extinguish the flames The firemen did not take their apparatus with them, but they carried along several hooks and a quantity of chemicals. The damage to the building and machinery was not very great.

—Peck will close his store at 6 p. m. every evening this week except Saturday.

—Frank E. Schaffer removed today from 223 East Front street to 115 Church street.

TRIED TO DO UNCLE SAM.

THAT IS WHAT LAMBERT IS ACCUSED OF BY REVENUE OFFICERS.

They Claim That he Has Been Filling Barrels Without Putting on New Stamps or Destroying the Old Ones

The raid of the revenue officers on the distilley of John Lambert, near Willow Grove, as was exclusively told in The Daily Press, Saturday, excited considerable interest in this city and, at last, the charge has been revealed.

For some time demijohns and casks of applejack or "Jersey Lightning" have been found in Newark without the proper revenue stamps. Some of the vessels had been refilled under the old stamps, which is an infringement of the revenue law.

John V. Diefenthaler, a revenue gauger, located the source of the queered casks in the distillery of John Lambert, and Revenue Collector Rutan deputized a party to make a seizure

The officers went to Lambert's place on Friday afternoon, as was told in The Daily Press, and there, they claim, found convincing proof that a wholesale attempt was being made to cheat the Government. Scores of barrels and casks stood about ready for shipment, on none of which could be found new stamps. The old stamps apparently had served their purpose repeatedly and were not mutilated as required.

The confiscated liquor is worth about $5,000, and, as the apple crop is ripe, the closing of the distillery will mean a severe loss to Lambert.

Frisky Pups Cause a Tumble.

Peter B. Hodge, of Randolph's pharmacy, was the victim of an unfortunate circumstance, Saturday evening, while riding his wheel home to supper. He had not gone far along Front street when his wheel struck one of two canines that were playing in the road. The force of the collision was strong enough to throw Mr. Hodge from his wheel with the result of cutting the left side of his face severely, and bruising his knee and hip. Dr. Probasco was passing at the time in a carriage, and he at once jumped out and assisted Mr. Hodge back to the drug store, where upon examination he found it necersary to take several stitches in the cut. Mr. Hodge is able to work though he feels very sore from his shake up.

Beautifying Their Edifice.

The decorating committee of the First Presbyterian church have been actively engaged for several days and nights past arranging the decorations for the forthcoming Christian Endeavor convention. Green and white, the local colors, and orange and black, the state colors, will predominate, while there will be flags and bunting in profusion. The decorating committee consists of L. W. Rensom, chairman; Miss Lillian Glenn, Miss Mary Lucky, Miss Margaret Cave, Miss Nora Williams and Messrs. Case, Gates, Searing, Herbert Mohring, Edward Hazen. The decorations will be in readiness for the services this evening and tomorrow.

Mishaps of Saturday.

During the parade Saturday the pole on No. 2 engine caught in the hand guard on No. 2 hose wagon and twisted the latter all out of shape. It can be repaired very easily, however. Another slight mishap occurred when the test alarm was sent in. One of the engine company's horses in coming up to the pole slipped and fell on the floor. The horse picked himself up and responded very quickly. At the same time a slight delay was caused at Gazelle's headquarters. When the alarm sounded the horse was held for a second or two on account of a certain piece of machinery not working.

Sunday-School Officers.

The officers of the Sunday-school of the Congregational church were elected for the ensuing year, yesterday afternoon, as follows: Superintendent, Jos. A. Robinson; secretary, Stacy Raynolds; treasurer, J. A. Powlison; librarian, Chas. E. Steiner; musical director, Mrs. M. E. Dwight. The report of the secretary told the number and attendance during the year. The treasurer's report was very gratifying, showing a very high average collection. $137 dollars was devoted to missionary purposes during the year.

More Precious Than Rubies.

A 46 karat Burmah ruby, so far as known the largest ruby ever cut, was bought in at a London jeweler's sale lately for $40,000. This is a high price for a ruby, but the value of the human eye cannot be estimated, and no one should neglect to preserve its efficiency. This may be assured by free consultation with an experienced optician at Collier's, 103 Park avenue.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., will meet tonight.

WON THEIR FIRST GAME.

Y. M. C. A. ELEVEN DEFEATS THE SAN REMO'S BY A SCORE OF 4 TO 2.

The Game Was Close and Exciting All the Way Through, But by Good Work the Home Team Won Out—Two Men Hurt.

Close and exciting was the opening game of the season for the Y. M. C. A. team on Saturday afternoon, when a crack New York team, the San Remo Football Club, was defeated after a long and lively battle by the score of 4 to 2. The showing that the Plainfield boys made was very gratifying to those in charge and they promise to put up a very strong game after a little more practice.

The game was played on the Y. M. C. A. grounds and at a few minutes to 4 o'clock the two teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.		SAN REMO.
Peck	left end	Bonhurst
Cuming	centre	J. Steen
Brown	right guard	W. Carr
Dupee	right tackle	Gosman
Serrell	right end	T. Steen
Waring	quarter back	DeCasanora
Smith	left half back	Boice
Freeman (Cap)	right half back	Luders
Darling	full back	Mitchell

Referee, A. J. B. Tait, of New York. Umpire, Volney F. Green, of Plainfield. Linesmen, A. Willis West and C. Galren, Jr.

The San Remo team were a gentlemanly lot of fellows, averaging about the same as the home team, although looking a little heavier. They played well, as did the home team, but the interference was not as good as it will be later in the season. There was a tendency to fumble the ball on the part of the local players that their opponents took advantage of, but more practice will cure that.

But now, something of the game. On the toss, Plainfield took the western goal and their opponents the kick-off. The ball was sent far down the field to Peck, who was downed on the 25-yard line. After several plays the New York boys took the ball on a fumble, and gradually neared Plainfield's goal, Wenck making several good runs. Mitchell twice attempted to kick a goal from the field, but he failed and the ball was taken out to the 25-yard line. The fight continued in the Y. M. C. A. boys' territory, although Lovell tried to punt it out of danger. Three times Smith prettily downed the visiting runner for a loss, while Milne showed up finely at guard, blocking several centres. At last Plainfield got the ball on four downs and it was passed back for a kick. Darling misunderstood the signal and the ball bounded across the goal line, where Darling dropped on it, scoring a safety for the visitors. Score: San-Remo, 2; Y. M. C. A., 0.

Still the fight centered around Plainfield's goal, until the first half of fifteen minutes ended. Plainfield had the kick-off in the second half of twenty minutes, and Lovell drove the ball to San Remo's 15-yard line. Slowly the ball was pushed away and a double pass would have taken it out of danger but for Waring's quickness. The Plainfield line stood firm at last and they secured the ball on four downs. It changed hands soon and Mitchell started to kick The kick was blocked, however, and Lovell fell on the ball, four yards from San Remo's goal. Then with a mighty effort Darling was driven right through the centre of the visitor's line and fell across the goal line, making a touchdown. The ball was punted out but the kick was a hard one and Lovell just missed the goal post. Score: Y. M. C. A., 4; San Remo, 2.

Mitchell kicked off for the visitors, but the ball was rapidly carried toward San Remo's goal. The Plainfield team showed a marked improvement and Freeman rounded the left end for 12 yards, and then Peck shot around the right for 10 more. In a scrimmage Waring and Darling came together and both were cut over the eye. Darling was unable to continue and Dupee was put in his place, while Titsworth played tackle. The fight still remained in San Remo's territory when time was called. O'Donnell and L. Carr played guards for the San-Remo team in the second half.

Gave Them a Jolly Time.

The members of Plainfield Engine Company, No. 2, had as their guests Saturday to witness the parade William Kelley, Alex. Gee, George M. Schilling, J. G. Gardner, Richard Shortil and C. A. Duzenburry, from Protection Engine Company, No. 5, of Bayonne. The guests were taken to Stephenson's restaurant on North avenue, where a sumptuous repast was served in the best manner. All had a jolly good time listening to speeches and enjoying the good things provided. The visitors will long remember the event with pleasure.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

FOREIGNERS ANXIOUS

Europeans Taking Much Interest in Our Presidential Campaign.

HOW IT IS VIEWED IN GERMANY

The Commercial Community, Despite Their Antipathy to a Protective Tariff, Hoping for McKinley's Triumph---Agrarians Regard Bryan as a Savior.

(Copyright, 1896, by the United Associated Presses.

Berlin, Oct. 4.—The action of the Berlin Tageblatt in contracting with the United Associated Presses for the special American cable service of that news organization, which is now delivered daily to a large number of European journals, is significant of the intensity of the interest which is taken on the continent in the political prospect in the United States. The bourses, which are chief among those occupied in watching the progress of the presidential campaign in America, are looking forward eagerly to more definite indications of the outcome the election than the estimates and boasts of the rival political parties have hitherto supplied. The commercial community, despite their antipathy to the tariff views held by Mr. McKinley, are hoping for the triumph of the gold party, while the agrarians on the other had regard candidate Bryan as a sort of savior and rejoice in the utterances of Prince Bismarck in his recent letter to Gov. Culbertson, which they believe must have a tendency to materially influence the situation. The Berlin representative of the United Associated Presses learns that the German government fully expects that the United States will institute a system of reprisals against Germany almost immediately after the presidential election, no matter what may be the result thereof.

End of the Turkish Trouble Near.

There is a growing disposition here to regard the solution of the Turkish question as being on the eve of completion by an amicable agreement among the great powers, and it is taken for granted that all likelihood of the partition of Turkey in the near future has vanished. The semi-official press make much of the supposed influence which Baron Sauma von Jeltsch, the German ambassador to Turkey, exercises over the sultan, which the papers ascribe to the Turkish monarch's conviction that the representative of Germany at Constantinople is not actuated by selfish aims. The papers also connect with this presumed feeling on the part of the sultan the reported departure from Constantinople for Berlin of Gen. Grumbkoff, a German officer in the Ottoman service, as the bearer of an autograph letter from the sultan to the kaiser. It is stated that the communication expresses the sultan's gratitude at the attitude assumed by Germany in the Turkish crisis and ascribes the troubles in Turkey to revolutionary agitators. The sultan also, according to the report, assures the kaiser that the Christians in Turkey will be absolutely safeguarded unless they indulge in anarchistic exercises. The All Deutsche Blatter prints an amazing story of a scheme for the division of Turkey, claiming the whole of Asiatic Turkey for Germany, adding that Germany may possibly allow the sultan to remain ruler under a German protectorate, assuming the direction and administration of affairs only in the Tigris and Euphrates valleys.

Success of Socialists.

The successes of the socialists in the recent elections in the duchy of Saxe-Coburg and Gotha have greatly encouraged the party who are now confident of securing a majority of the seats in the Gotha diet. The socialists have won nine out of the nineteen seats and they are hopeful of obtaining an absolute majority in the diet through the elections which are yet to be held in some of the districts of the duchy. The committee of the socialist women's propaganda have anticipated the coming congress of the socialist party at Sieblichen, near Gotha, by holding a series of five meetings in Berlin, concluding on Saturday with a grand fete in aid of the propaganda fund. The Polish national movement is again causing considerable anxiety to the government, although nothing of a serious nature is supposed to be imminent; but there is abundant evidence that the continued efforts of the government to Germanize Prussian Poland have met with a very small degree of success. The national spirit in that territory is very strong and it is being fostered by the Roman Catholic clergy. Many instances of boycotting and otherwise annoying German settlers are reported and these show that the feeling of discontent is widespread.

Lynch Law in Bavaria.

The notorious Bavarian haberfeldtreiben, a species of lynch law, has had a sudden and unexpected check. It will be remembered that it was an ancient custom, said to have dated back to Charlemagne, traditionally set in motion after the close of the harvest season with a view of settling old scores with obnoxious persons in the rural districts. In the old times it was a sort of rough justice and served its purpose. Of late years, especially since the spread of socialism among the rustic population of upper Bavaria, it has degenerated into a riotous and "moonlighting" custom, by which people were shot, cattle maimed and property burned. During a quarrel a few nights ago a former victim of the haberfeldtreiben denounced the burgomaster of Sauerlach as a "habermeister." The burgomaster promptly arrested the man for having insulted him in his official capacity and the efforts of his friends to obtain his release have been unsuccessful, the burgomaster having refused the sum of 84,000 marks ($20,000) bail for his liberation. Since that time 275 men, landowners, farmers and laborers have been arrested. The excitement is intense. The crops, which before now ought to have been gathered, are rotting in the fields owing to the absence of the owners, overseers and laborers belonging to the farms who are confined in prison. This state of affairs means serious loss and probably total ruin to hundreds of farmers and others. The Bavarian officials have for a long time sought to apprehend this particular class of offenders, but up to this time have not met with any success.

MAJOR M'KINLEY'S CALLERS.

This Week Promises To Be the Most Interesting of the Whole Campaign.

Canton, O., Oct. 5.—Major McKinley went to church yesterday to hear Dr. Manchester, his new pastor. In the afternoon he took a drive and enjoyed the beautiful October air and sunshine. This week will be one of the most interesting of the whole campaign. It begins to-day with the call of a large delegation of farmers from Northern Missouri. Many of the Missouri farmers will travel 800 miles to reach Canton. To-morrow an excursion of republicans from central New York will occupy a conspicuous place among visiting delegations. The event of commanding interest will be the visit of 500 ex-Confederate veterans on Friday. They are coming from the Shenandoah valley and handsome arrangements for their reception are being perfected. At Pittsburg and various points on the route they will be made the recipients of uncommon courtesies. The Grand Army posts of Canton will entertain the ex-Confederates here, and no opportunity to make their visit an agreeable one will be spared.

BANQUET TO MISS BARTON.

Will Be Tendered a Welcome on Her Return to Washington.

Washington, Oct. 5.—In response to the earnest desire of many people to welcome Miss Barton on her return from her difficult and dangerous mission to Turkey, the District of Columbia Auxiliary Red Cross has made arrangements for a reception at the Shoreham on Thursday, October 8. During the public reception there will be no opportunity for addresses of welcome. At its close the officers of organizations, representatives of the District and of the United States government, of the board of trade and of the churches, will assemble with Miss Barton in the oval dining hall, where a banquet will be served to about 100 guests, and brief welcoming words will be spoken and responses made by Miss Barton and her co-workers in Armenia.

A Young Robber Arrested and Confesses.

Bar Harbor, Me., Oct. 5.—While on his way to Crows Nest last night Benjamin Webber was arrested on suspicion of having stolen diamonds and watches last Thursday night at the summer residence of Henry Sedley of New York. In his pockets were found a revolver and false whiskers. He confessed to having stolen the Sedley goods, and at a place indicated by him the police found diamonds valued at $300, watches $300 and $15 in money. Webber also confessed to the organization of a gang to rob summer residences. He is 19 years old.

Harrison To Speak at Richmond To-night.

Washington, Oct. 5.—A special from Richmond, Va., says: "The arrangements for the meeting and the entertainment of ex-President Harrison, who is to speak here to-night, are causing some stir among the colored politicians. That race furnishes 80 per cent of the republican vote in this state. In selecting the committee of arrangements and those who are to occupy places on the stand, the negroes, it is said, have been ignored. Some of their leaders are complaining of this treatment."

Efforts for Fusion in Virginia Fail.

Washington, Oct. 5.—A Richmond, Va., dispatch says: "All efforts for a fusion electoral ticket in Virginia have failed. There were several propositions submitted by the populists, one of them being for the democrats to give them two electors who were to vote for Bryan and Watson and the democrats to have the other ten electors. This suggestion was favorably received by several members of the committee, but others raised such a vigorous opposition it was abandoned."

Albert Weber Placed in an Asylum.

New York, Oct. 5.—Albert Weber, the once wealthy manufacturer of pianos and former husband of Irene Perry, was taken from the insane pavilion at Bellevue hospital by his mother, Mrs. Martha Weber, and placed in a private asylum at Orient Point, L. I. Weber was declared insane by the state examiners of the insane.

Foreign Patrons of the United Press.

London, Oct. 5.—The Birmingham Post, the Cork Examiner and the Berlin Tageblatt have been added to the list of European papers which have entered into contract relations with the United Associated Presses and are now being served with the American cable news service of that organization.

Spanish Prisoner of War.

Barcelona, Oct. 5.—The Spanish steamer Isla de Panay, which sailed from Manila on September 3, has arrived here. On board of her as a prisoner was Dr. Rizal, who is believed to have been the promoter of the revolt against Spanish authority in the Philippine islands. He will be confined in the Monjaich prison here.

Death from Hyrophobia.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 5.—Carrie Koch, aged 6 years, died last evening of hydrophobia. The child was bitten by a mad dog about two weeks ago.

COLLECTING FADS.

The Horrible Custom of Getting Relics of Murderers.

A foreign paper is responsible for the statement that the late Lord Randolph Churchill had a choice private collection of teeth of noted criminals to which he was constantly adding up to a short time before his death, says Temple Bar. The competition for the Deeming relics at the Antipodes is too recent and too revolting to be enlarged upon, but it may be mentioned that the ax and knife with which this unmitigated villain murdered his victim fetched £4 15s, and the spade with which he dug her grave brought a guinea. His clothing was eagerly competed for, even down to half a dozen pairs of patched socks. Indeed, the collectors of "criminal" curios are extremely numerous all over the world, and these mementoes range from Tyburn halters to pipes which murderers have smoked and pots which famous thieves have tossed in honor of past and future triumphs.

It has remained for a Nebraska collector to gather locks of hair shaved from the heads of noted criminals when they enter the penitentiary and these he labels and indexes with great care. Superstition sometimes accounts for the fancy prices offered for such ghastly relics. Frenchmen obtain them as charms against ill-luck. A piece of a hangman's rope is considered a potent spell against evil in some parts of France. As criminals are there guillotined such ropes are difficult to get and so fetch high prices. They are sometimes mounted in gold and worn in lockets.

A ROYAL DAIRY.

How the Milk, Butter and Cheese of a Princess Are Housed.

The dairy of the princess of Wales is, according to the Gentlewoman, a haunt to dream of on a warm summer's day. Like her sister, the empress of Austria, the princess positively revels in a dairy. And the prince once, during her absence from home, wishing to prepare a little surprise for her, had the walls decorated with tiles which he had brought home with him from Bombay, tiles of dark blue, ornamented with a design of roses, shamrock and thistle, and the motto, "Ich bien." A long milkpan painted with the same design by Princess Louise of Lorne is here in a corner and in another corner you see the head of the princess' favorite Alderney, with an inscribed silver plate telling of her virtue and renown.

As for the treasures which lie scattered about on shelf and bracket, they are too many to count. A silver churn, often used by the princess herself; models of cows and calves in silver, alabaster, porcelain and terra cotta—all gifts to the princess—and other knickknacks too numerous to mention. When the prince and princess are at Marlborough house a number of tiny pats of butter are sent up daily from Sandringham for their use. The prince is "faddy" about his butter, and likes it to be just perfection.

Two Lakes Discovered.

Herren Sarasin have recently explored the southeastern arm of the island of Celebes in the Moluccas, and have discovered there two large lakes, Matanna and Towuti, at a height of 400 and 350 meters respectively above sea level. In the former a sounding of 480 meters was made without finding bottom. emains of a prehistoric village, built on piles but now submerged, were discovered, the bronze and pottery found being very like that obtained in similar villages in Europe.

Human Nature.

A new and handsome apartment house on the upper west side remained unoccupied for several months because of the high rental demanded for flats. At length, says the New York Press, the shrewd agent hung out this sign: "Elegant flats of eight and nine rooms, with beautifully decorated butler's pantry." In less than two weeks every flat was taken! It isn't given to every occupant of a flat to have a butler's pantry.

Solomon's Beard.

According to the rabbis Solomon had a beard three feet long. Among the ancient Jews the beard was considered synonymous with wisdom, the longer the beard the greater the profundity of intellect.

out in the rain

A good drenching in a cold rain is often the beginning of consumption. Yet no one claims that the germs of this disease exist in the rainwater. Then how was this brought about? The exposure was followed by a cold; the vitality was lowered; the cough continued for some weeks; the throat and lungs became congested; and thus all the conditions were favorable for the consumption germs.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, does not directly attack these germs and kill them. But it does tone up the whole system and restores the body to health before serious harm is done. The germs of consumption thrive best when the system is weakened and the throat and lungs congested. Do not delay until it is too late, but treat your cough early. Cod-liver oil and the hypophosphites, in the form of Scott's Emulsion, are the very best remedies.

"JUST AS GOOD" IS NOT SCOTT'S EMULSION.

THOUGHT IT WAS ALIVE.

A Blue Racer Is Deceived by a Fancy Tobacco Box.

Dr. Rider Powell, who has lived on the side of Mount Hamilton for 30 years, has a paper tobacco box which is a perfect image of a frog. A few evenings since he told the following story to a crowd that was sitting in front of Charley Rhines' store at Clayton, Cal.:

"One day," said the doctor, "when I was working on the side of the mountain I had filled my pipe and laid the box down on a rock while I struck a light and forgot to pick the box up.

"I went on with my work until my attention was drawn to a commotion in the grass, and I saw a snake—a big blue racer, with head up and eyes blazing—cautiously crawling toward the box, with the evident intention of either getting a chew of tobacco or swallowing what it supposed to be a live frog. Finally, after much circumlocution, the snake got within what it considered the proper distance for business, and suddenly darting out its head made a grab at the frog. He struck something much harder than he expected.

"The snake drew its head up and watched the box for several minutes and finally concluded to try it again. It crawled within three or four feet and then around it several times, as though inspecting. Satisfied that there was a good meal for it there, it slowly got into position and let drive again. The force of the blow opened the box and the tobacco flew in every direction as the box went sailing through the air. The snake must have got its mouth or its eyes full, for it seemed perfectly satisfied. With a hiss it crawled rapidly off through the grass."

AN EDITOR ROBBED.

Thieves Stole His Glasses Off His Nose on a Railway Platform.

He is a well-known figure in Chicago, particularly among the old settlers. It was four o'clock, and the daily afternoon stream of home-goers had set in. He had made his uneventful way from the editorial sanctum, as he does, with few exceptions, every day in the year, to the stairs on Congress street which lead to the trains on the Alley L road. As is his wont, he was pursuing a wholly subjective train of thought as he jostled along with the tide of humanity which was moving up the stairs to board a train.

Suddenly, just as he was reaching the landing, his gold-bowed spectacles were swept off his nose and he found himself dazed and blinking, too much astonished for the moment to cry out and quite unable to see anything distinctly. As soon as he fairly realized what had happened he cried out:

"I've been robbed! Officer! Where is an officer?" While the usual stampede which invariably attends excitement of any sort in a crowd was going on, the train moved off and the officer put in an appearance. By this time the editor, full of years and experience, who had of a truth had his property stolen before his very eyes, had reflected that probably his spectacles were already in a pawn shop and also that he did not care to see his name in print in connection with the incident. He therefore coolly stated to the officer that he had been the victim of a practical joke, and made his way home as best he could, not being able to see anything distinctly.

TYNAN NOT RELEASED.

Still in the Boulogne Prison Closely Guarded by French Soldiers.

London, Oct. 5.—The United Associated Presses is in a position to state that the report circulated Saturday night by Reuter's Telegram company that Patrick J. Tynan, the alleged dynamiter, had been released by the French authorities and that he was on his way to the United States is absolutely without foundation. The French officials have not yet decided what disposition shall be made of his case. In the meantime, the prison at Boulogne-sur-Mer, where Tynan is confined, is closely guarded by armed policemen. It is believed that nothing will be done in Tynan's case until the czar leaves France.

Kearney and Haines Expelled.

Rotterdam, Oct. 5.—The police here refuse to give the slightest information regarding the release of Kearney and Haines, the two Americans who were arrested here on the charge of complicity in the Tynan dynamite plot. There is scarcely any doubt that the two men were expelled from the country Saturday, but the police evidently mean to keep secret all the circumstances of their departure. It was stated that they had been escorted to the frontier, but it is possible that they were placed on some steamer bound for America.

SECURITY NOT SATISFACTORY.

Why the Rothschilds Refused To Place the Proposed Spanish Loan on the Market.

New York, Oct. 6.—The Cuban junta here received mail advices from London which state, in reference to a cable dispatch of the 26th ult., reporting the failure of the attempted Spanish loan of $200,000,000, that the Rothschilds refused to advance on their own account £4,000,000 against the quicksilver mines of Almaden, offered as security. It was then proposed by Spain to have the said sum underwritten by substantial parties at 93 per cent. and the Rothschilds agreed, upon this having been accomplished, to pay the cash and to put the loan on the market at 95 per cent. so as to allow two per cent. to the underwriters. But when the time arrived for the underwriting none of the substantial underwriters appeared and the whole business fell through. The said £4,000,000 were to be put on the market as a "feeler," and if they went well further amounts up to £40,000,000 were to be issued from time to time. The British public disliked the issue, the Cuban report says, and there was no chance of its being successful.

BRYAN IN TENNESSEE.

A Busy Tour Mapped Out for the Nominee for To-day and To-morrow.

St. Louis, Oct. 5.—After a day of complete rest here William J. Bryan departed last evening for Memphis, Tenn., where he makes a speech to-day. A committee of Memphis citizens, consisting of John Overton, jr., J. R. Godwin, R. A. Odlum, C. T. Fitzhugh and W. H. Carroll, acted as escort to Mr. Bryan on his trip south. Mr. Carroll is chairman of the state democratic central committee of Tennessee. Congressman McMillin of Tennessee will remain with Mr. Bryan during his stay in Tennessee. A busy tour is mapped out for to-day and to-morrow.

Coinage of Gold and Silver.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Superintendent Preston of the mint has compiled the coinage executed from January 1 to October 1 of this year. It shows the coinage of $31,897,695 in gold, $15,388,898 in silver, and $573,532 in minor coinage. The seigniorage on the 13,912,512 silver dollars coined is $4,173,600. This has been turned into the treasusy as declared and coined.

Roman Again Starts for Liverpool.

Boston, Oct. 5.—British steamer Roman, which grounded on Georges' island Friday and was pulled off Saturday evening and steamed up to her dock in Charleston, reloaded her freight and sailed for Liverpoole this morning. A diver examined her bottom and reported that it was uninjured.

Burned to Death in His Store.

Olean, N. Y., Oct. 5.—The general store owned by Burlingame & Pitts, in East Olean, was destroyed by fire at an early hour Sunday morning. The junior partner of the firm, Leon Pitts, who had sleeping apartments on the second floor, was burned to death.

TO GREET THE CZAR

Thousands of Strangers Crowd the Streets of Paris To-day.

MANY WITHOUT SHELTER LAST NIGHT

Hotels and Boarding and Lodging Houses Overtaxed---Omnibus and Hack Owners Doing a Land Office Business. Departure from England.

Paris, Oct. 5.—The city is full to overflowing with visitors from the provinces and elsewhere to take part in the fetes in honor of the czar. It is calculated that 40,000 visitors walked the streets last night, they having been unable to secure accomodations anywhere in the city. Crowds of people finding the hotels and boarding houses filled to their utmost capacity went to St. Germain, Versailles, and other places near the city in search of lodgings. The omnibuses and tramcars are literally packed with humanity this morning, and hundreds of people are standing along the streets waiting patiently to find some means of conveyance. A majority of those desiring to get about the city are compelled to walk. The cab and carriage drivers are taking advantage of the great influx of visitors and are charging fancy prices for their vehicles, little attention being paid to the established tariff. This, however, does not cause much fault-finding, as the crowd is a holiday one, which spends its money freely. All is excitement and bustle, and everybody is looking forward with a desire to catch a glimpse of the czar.

DEPARTURE FROM ENGLAND.

British Warships Escort the Czar's Yacht into French Waters.

Portsmouth, Oct. 5.—The special train from Ballater, Scotland, bearing the czar and czarina and the members of their suites, arrived here at 5:30 yesterday afternoon. Their majesties appeared none the worse for their long journey from the Highlands, where they had been the guests of the queen at Balmoral. Everything was in readiness here for their departure for Cherbourg, and a fine display of flags, etc., was made in honor of the brief visit of their majesties. The many warships and other vessels in the harbor were handsomely dressed in honor of the occasion, and the jetty was a mass of bunting, which made a brave show. A large detachment of troops was present to act as a guard of honor, and when the czar and czarina appeared the military bands played the Russian national anthem. A number of high officials, including naval officers, were present on the platform when the train arrived. After a short delay at the station the party boarded the Russian imperial yacht Polar Star. As they went on board the warships in the harbor fired a royal salute. After the Dake of Connaught had bidden farewell to their majesties on behalf of the queen, the Polar Star got under way and started in company with the Standart on the voyage across the channel. The imperial yachts were escorted by the British channel fleet. Three battleships were aligned upon the quarters of the Polar Star and Standart, while cruisers were stationed at their bows and topedo destroyers astern. The warships had orders to escort the yachts to Cherbourg, where they will will be met by a French fleet. The yachts had gone but a short distance when they came to a standstill and anchored for the night. Why this was done could not be learned. The journey was resumed at 7:30 o'clock this morning.

LAST SUNDAY IN AMERICA.

Yesterday a Day of Farewells for Cardinal Satolli and Welcomes to His Successor.

Washington, Oct. 4.—Yesterday was the last Sunday upon which Cardinal Satolli officiated in any capacity in this country, as he will leave for Rome on Wednesday, and that distinguished official of the church celebrated solemn pontifical mass at St. Aloysius church. Archbishop Martinelli, who was present occupied a seat upon the throne, which was erected for his special use, as a seat of honor. The day was in some degree a day of farewells to the departing and welcomes to the coming great dignitaries of the church. Last night, at New Gonzaga College hall, the corner stone of which was laid by Cardinal Satolli, his eminence was tendered a farewell reception by the students, the occasion also being the dedication of the new hall.

Demonstration for Free Cuba.

Cincinnati, Oct. 5.—A big demonstration for free Cuba will be held in Music hall this evening. Gen. Andrew Hickenlooper will act as chairman. ABOUT MR. WILLEY.

Freeman Otis Willey, the Democratic Congressional candidate in the Eighth district, was born in Pittsfield, N. H., August 28th, 1839. He was the son of a farmer, received a common school education and learned the shoemaker's trade, at which he worked for several years. Mr. Willey was a hard student, however, and spent much time in study after leaving school. After attaining his majority he traveled west and he finally started a shoe store in Evanston, Ill., which he conducted successfully for a number of years and then took up his residence in Minnesota, where he began the study of law and was admitted to the bar, after which he took up literary work and made a lecturing tour throughout the country. Three years ago Mr. Willey removed to Orange, where he now resides in Hawthorne street. Since taking up his residence in Orange Mr. Willey has devoted his time to literary work and is at present writing a book on economics. Mr. Willey is also the author of a book which has for its title, "Whither Are We Drifting as a Nation?" Mr. Willey was a member of the Republican party for some time, but he went off with Horace Greeley and since that time he has been a stanch Democrat.

REPUBLICAN PREDICTIONS.

The New York Tribune this morning published letters from the different Congressional districts giving estimates of Republican pluralities Charles N. Codding, chairman of the Union County Republican Committee predicts a Republican majority of 2,000 in Union county. W. B. R. Mason, editor of the Bound Brook Chronicle, estimates a Republican majority of 1,200 in Somerset county.

Republican Primaries.

The Republican primaries will be held this evening to elect delegates to the Congressional convention to be held at Elizabeth next Thursday afternoon. The First Ward will meet at the Republican Association rooms, 120 East Front street, over the City National Bank, and is entitled to three delegates. The Second Ward will meet at the Bryant School building, East Sixth street, and is entitled to four delegates. The Third Ward will meet at the Casino on West Seventh street, and is entitled to three delegates. The Fourth Ward will meet at the Republican Headquarters, 116 East Front street, and is entitled to five delegates.

Quietly Wedded.

The marriage of Miss Eskertson, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Eskertson, of Mt. Bethel, and William VanWinkle of Park place, North Plainfield, was solemnized yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the home of Rev. Cornelius Schenck, of West End Park. Miss Nellie VanWinkle, sister of the groom, and Daniel VanWinkle, an uncle of the groom, were present to witness the ceremony. After the marriage was performed the bride and groom went to the home of the bride's parents, where a wedding supper was served. Mr. and Mrs. VanWinkle will reside at 28 Park place.

Uproariously Drunk.

George Baughn visited the Plainfield saloons Saturday night and indulged to such an extent that he became uproariously drunk. He tried to own Smith's saloon, but was put out twice and finally Patrolman McCue was called and the imbiber landed in jail. City Judge DeMeza fined him $2 this morning.

Their First Anniversary.

MOODY MEETINGS START.

sented was in the eleventh chapter of the gospel of Matthew which reads "Come unto me all ye that are weary and heavy laiden, and I will give you rest."

The speaker claimed that if he wanted rest he would not go among millionaires or politicians, nor to the threatre, for they could not give him the desired rest which everybody needs. Where shall we then go? he inquired. We should go among the disciples of Jesus, that is the real disciples, he said, and there were hundreds here today that would say that is true if he asked them. If a man can't give himself rest, he certainly cannot give it to others, and you cannot buy it. Continuing, Mr. Moody said that there was no sorrow represented, but what can be taken to the great Burden Bearer. Let the church learn that lesson and her members will be quickened. Some people tell you all their troubles and they seem to carry a bundle of them for they don't know how to get rid of them.

Mr. Moody then dwelt on the word "come" and gave as his best definition of the word, that it meant to come. You don't have to go to Harvard or Yale to learn that, he continued, for there is nothing mysterious about it. The way to heaven, the speaker said, was very straight, but in the path lay a cross and everyone must take up his or her cross, whatever it might be and follow Christ. Toward the close Mr. Moody related several touching incidents and earnestly plead with all who were tired and sick of a wordly life to seek Christ for rest. Mr. Moody then closed with a prayer and Dr. Yerkes pronounced the benediction.

MAN REAPS AS HE SOWS.

Dr. Moody Talks of the Harvest in the Human Granary.

While the attendance at the meetings Saturday evening and yesterday afternoon was large, the number that came to Convention Hall, as the Jersey Cycle Academy is now called, last evening far exceeded any previous meeting. Long before the service began every seat was filled and many were standing. At last it became necessary to start an overflow meeting at the Crescent Avenue church, and that edifice was soon filled. The overflow service was conducted by Rev. Dr. Richards, Rev. Dr. Yerkes and Rev. Cornelius Schenk, Ph.D., assisted by part of the big chorus choir. The usual rousing song service, led by the chorus choir, preceded the meeting at Convention Hall, led by Mr. Burke, and then came prayer by Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D., and Mr. Moody, with several more hymns and a solo by Mr. Burke.

Mr. Moody spoke with his usual earnestness and his vast audience listened carefully to every word. He took for his text "Even what a man soweth, that shall he also reap." He divided his discourse into four heads: as man expects to reap what he sows; he expects to reap the same kind of seed that he sows; he expects to reap more than he sows; ignorance of the seed sown makes no difference in the harvest. He then went on to apply these facts to the human life and illustrated his points with many apt stories of his own and other experiences.

He referred to the servant, to the clerk and to the workman, and said they might be expected to lie to their employers if they saw him telling or directing them to tell others aught but the truth. If men will be dishonest they must expect men to be dishonest about them. He spoke against the liquor trade and showed how the dealers had to reap what they had sown by members of their own family becoming drunkards. There is not a liquor dealer, he declared, but that some of his family have fallen victims to the dreadful habit. The harvest is larger than the seed sown; it does not take a man long to commit a crime, but he will have to suffer much longer for it. The human family is so related that he makes others suffer for what he has done.

"You should look well," he exclaimed, "what seed you are sowing. Every one of us is sowing. What are you sowing? What did you do this afternoon? Tell me and I can tell you what you are sowing. Did you spend it in recreation? I believe if this republic ever goes down it will be because the Sabbath was given up."

He referred to the loose ideas many have of the Sabbath, to the Sunday newspapers and the Sunday amusements. Then he talked of the manner in which the evenings were spent and how the frequenting of evil places invariably lead young men to ruin. The doctrine of forgiveness, he said, is very true, and Christ died to redeem sinners, but there are certain consequences that are bound to follow in the path of sin. The meeting closed with the benediction and the crowd slowly departed, many stopping to shake the hand of the veteran evangelist.

Convention Notes.

The reception committee from the Christian Endeavor societies of this city will be on duty all Wednesday receiving the delegates and directing them to the headquarters. The delegates will be assigned to their rooms and then escorted to them by the local Juniors. The Christian Endeavor convention this week will not be open to the Juniors until Friday when the Junior parade and special service takes place. The Junior badges will not be given out until that time and only to the Juniors that take part in the parade.

Restaurant keepers in this city who will make special rates for the Christian Endeavor delegates are requested to report to the general secretary on or before tomorrow, the cost per meal for each delegate.

Anyone who will check bicycles at a moderate charge will please notify the convention secretary at the Y. M. C. A. rooms.

In case of an extra large attendance at the Convention Hall this evening, the Crescent Avenue church will again be thrown open for an overflow meeting.

Chief Doane has taken precaution to provide for the safety of the delegates who will be in attendance at the convention. Yesterday, a space in the hall was not used on account of the fear that it was not safe. This morning extra support was put under the floor and the hall is now perfectly safe. A detail of firemen will be on duty at the convention, and in case of an exigency where exit has to be made suddenly, they will handle the crowd so that no danger to life or limb will be incurred. The Chief says the hall can be cleared in five minutes.

The 1896 Christian Endeavor committee will meet tomorrow evening in the Y. M. C. A. building.

The convention badges will not be given out to the Juniors until Friday afternoon, when they meet for rally.

Mrs. W. C. Ayres, of West Second street, has returned from a visit in East Orange.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Union county Grand Jury meets tomorrow and several Scotch Plains and Fanwood cases will be considered at the present sitting.

W. S. Emery is expected home from Ogdensburg, N. J., this afternoon, where he has been "sizing up" his contract to furnish 1,000,000 brick for the Edison Smelting Works Company's plant.

Judge Clark had a beautiful night-blooming cereus in full bloom, Saturday evening, and many persons called to take a look at the rare plant. The plant blossomed a few months ago, but Mr. Clark's cow took a liking to the flowers and ate them up.

The rush of people from here to the firemen's parade in Plainfield, on Saturday, was something unprecedented. Stage Driver Thos. Newman, and his assistant, O. W. Vaughn, had an extra stage running nearly all day, but they could not accommodate all who wished to see the parade and many persons came and went by way of Fanwood.

—Communion service was observed at the First Baptist and First Presbyterian churches yesterday morning.

—The "Sound Money" Democrats will hold no meetings this week on account of the Christian Endeavor convention.

A sweet little girl baby came to brighten the home of Mr. and Mrs. Frank E. Woodruff, of 109 Duer street, this morning.

—There will be no political meetings held in the city this week on account of the evangelistic and Christian Endeavor meetings.

—Trinity Commandery, No. 17, Knights Templar, will meet tonight and hear the reports of the committees in charge of the recent field day.

—While the Veterans double-decker hand engine was passing under the Central avenue bridge on Saturday, the topmost piece caught between two wires and loosened it somewhat. The damage was slight.

To Take Definite Action.

On Tuesday, October 13th, the Somerset County Board of Freeholders will meet and take definite action regarding the proposed ice pond and dam to be built at Washingtonville. Director Logan, L. E. Barkalew and Andrew Lutkins, of the board, composing the committee of investigation, will report at the above date.

Early Closing.

Nearly all the merchants of the city have agreed to close their stores Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings of this week at 6:30 o'clock so their employes may attend the Christian Endeavor convention or other meetings to be held on those evenings. It is to be hoped that all the stores will follow their example.

W. L. C. Glenney the Donor.

In the account of the annual meeting of the Relief Association on Friday, The Press incorrectly stated that J. P. Laire had donated the necessary tools for a wood-sawing yard. The tools were donated by W. L. C. Glenney.

Mr. Martine on the Stump.

James E. Martine has been requested by the Democratic State committee to deliver a number of speeches in the State from now until election. Mr. Martine will respond. He will speak at Perth Amboy tonight.

DON'T KNOW HOW HE WAS HURT.

Gilbert T. Sutphen Found in an Unconscious Condition on the Tracks.

Gilbert T. Sutphen, a machinist, living on West Second street, was found on the Watchung avenue railroad bridge late Saturday night in an injured condition. One ear was nearly torn off, while blood was flowing freely from both ears, nose and mouth. It was thought that he was struck by a train, but Sutphen does not think that he was. He was found unconscious and remained so till 4 o'clock yesterday morning. As soon as he was discovered the ambulance was sent for and he was taken to the hospital, where he is now improving nicely. His injuries do not seem to be of a serious nature.

Central Railroad Detective Ritterbush made an effort yesterday to ascertain the facts in the case, and with a city officer made a tour along the track and through Cottage row, but they were unable to find any one from whom they could glean any information regarding the accident.

The Flag Accepted.

The handsome and costly silk flag, hand painted and beaded, which was ordered by the members of the Gesang and Turn Verein Society and returned to the maker a few days ago as unsatisfactory, has eventually been accepted by the society. The flag cost $200.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

Estimated Amount of Money Held by Banks of This Country.

ABOUT ELEVEN MILLION DEPOSITORS

Result of an Investigation Instituted by Comptroller of the Currency---12,062 Banks and Trust Companies and 77 Clearing Houses Inquired Of.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Comptroller of the Currency Eckels has issued a statement of an investigation made by him of the amount of money held by the banks of the country. The number of banking houses and trust companies inquired of were 12,062 and 77 clearing houses, covering all in the country. Replies were received from but 5,723 banks and trust companies and 66 clearing house associations. The information, however, is of such a character as to enable a fair and correct result from all to be approximated. Of the 5,723 reports received, 3,458 were of national banks, 1,494 state banks, 457 savings banks, 230 of private banks and 84 of loan and trust companies. Divided by geographical division, the number reporting and the number not reporting were as follows: New England states—Reporting, 829; not reporting, 397. Eastern states—Reporting, 1,275; not reporting, 862. Southern states — Reporting, 676; not reporting, 1,377. Western states—Reporting, 2,434; not reporting, 3,832. Pacific states and territories—Reporting, 509; not reporting, 771. The total amount of cash in the 5,723 istitutions reporting was $413,124,849. It is divided as follows: Gold coin $134,077,093; gold certificates, $55,481,338; silver dollars, $8,254,612; fractional silver, $7,399,073; silver certificates, $39,663,596; treasury notes, 1890, $13,126,018; United States notes, $110,469,375; currency certificates, $90,858,000; national bank notes, $23,795,834 The total cash and the part thereof of gold and gold certificates held by reporting banks in each geographical division, is as follows: New England states—Total cash, $35,689,272; amount gold and gold certificates, $15,403,768. Eastern states—Total cash, $213,129,369; amount gold and gold certificates, $88,580,133. Southern states—Total cash, $20,086,601; amount gold and gold certificates, $9,558,182. Western states—Total cash, $109,584,645; amount gold and gold certificates, $56,410,427. Pacific states and territories—Total cash, $25,634,762; amount gold and gold certificates, $19,605,830. Totals—Total cash, $413,124,849; amount gold and gold certificates, $189,558,341. The returns from 66 of the 78 clearing house associations of the country show that on July 1 the total clearings amounted to $227,935,464. The balances of these total clearings settled in cash or cash exchanges, was but $19,152,834, or but little more than 8 per cent. of the whole. The total number of depositors in the national banks reporting on July 1 was 2,315,333, with individual deposits aggregating $1,586,087,193. On July 14 the total individual deposits of all the national banks was $1,668,413,508; estimated number of depositors, 2,435,625. The total number of depositors in reporting banks, other than national, were 3,614,630 with desposits aggregating, $1,668,352,673. In 1894 an investigation showed the number of bank depositors to be about 9,000,000. A conservative estimate, in view of the fact that the number of depositors in national banks shows an increase of about half a million, would make the total number now at between ten and eleven millions with total deposits aggregating over five billions of dollars.

Brotherhood of St. Andrews.

Pittsburg, Oct. 4.—The convention of the Brotherhood of St. Andrew, to be held in Pitsburg, Oct. 14-18, will be one of the most largely attended ever held by the organization. Already over 300 delegates from all parts of the country have sent in applications for accomodations. In all there will be more than 2,000 visitors, among them being fifteen or twenty bishops. One of the distinguished represetatives of the church will be Rt. Rev. John Downen, D.D., lord archbishop of Edinburgh, Scotland.

Refuses Salary He Didn't Earn.

Louisville, Oct. 5.—When Gov. Bradley returned from his recent speech-making tour in the northwest he found that his salary for his services had already been paid by the state, as is permitted by law. He informed the auditor that he meant what he said when he declared that the state should not pay an extra governor's salary while he was out on purely political business, and he turned over to the auditor his check for $320, the amount paid to the lieutenant-governor.

Death of an Old Railroad Constructor.

Chicago, Oct. 5.—Frederick J. Starin, 76 years of age, who has been known among railroad men throughout the northwest ever since the beginning of railroad construction in Wisconsin, nearly a half century ago, is dead at his home at Whitewater, Wis. Mr. Starin was born in Montgomery county, New York. His ancestors were among the earliest settlers in the Mohawk valley.

Danforth Confers with Hill.

Albany, Oct. 5.—Hon. Elliot Danforth, the chairman of the democratic state committee, was with Senator Hill for several hours yesterday afternoon. Neither of these gentlemen would say anything for publication. Mr. Danforth left for Utica on the 7:55 o'clock train last night.

Cleveland Soon To Go to Washington.

Buzzards Bay, Mass., Oct. 5.—It is very probable that the president and family will leave Gray Gables for Washington some time this week. Mr. Cleveland is anxious to get at work on his message to congress.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00.

Proceedings of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County.

[OFFICIAL.]

Regular meeting of the Board of Chosen Freeholders of the county of Union, held on Thursday, Sept. 3d, 1896, at 2:30 p. m.

Roll call showed the following members present, viz.:

Director Hubbard and Freeholders Brucklacher, Burnett, Clark, Ehrlich, Farrell, Hulskamper, Krouse, Littell, Miller, Robison, Roll, Swain, Tier, Wahl—15.

Absent, Freeholders King and Ogden—2.

The minutes of the previous meeting, reading of bills being omitted), were on motion approved as read.

No communications, petitions or memorials were presented.

REPORTS OF COMMITTEES.

By the Committee on Legal Questions.

Elizabeth, Sept. 2d, 1896.

To the Board of Freeholders of the County of Union:

Gentlemen: Your committee, to whom was referred the petition of the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, would respectfully report that the fines referred to in said petition as having been collected from Max Sampson and Max Fern, have as yet, not come to the hands of the county treasurer; and your committee would further report that the fines above referred to were not collected by virtue of proceedings taken by the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, but were fines imposed by his Honor, Judge McCormick, after indictment by the grand jury and conviction before his Honor.

We do not understand that the law contemplates that any portion of such fines should be paid to the Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals, but that said society is to receive a portion of the fines imposed and collected only when the action is brought in the name of the said society. Signed,

Reepectfully submitted,
Chr. Ehrlich, John H. Tier, Jacob Brucklacher, Committee.

On motion of Freeholder Farrell the report was received, placed on file, and it was ordered that the clerk send a copy of same to E. P. Edwards, president of the Union County Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Animals.

By South Front Street Bridge Committee.

To the Board of Chosen Freeholders of Union County, N. J.:

Gentlemen—The undersigned, committee of your body, respectfully respectfully report that whereas the floor of the South Front street bridge, near the Elizabeth river, Elizabeth, N. J., is in a dangerous condition. We have made a contract with the New Jersey Dry Dock and Transportation Company, they being the lowest responsible bidders, to repair the same in accordance with specifications furnished by Louis Quien, civil engineer, for the sum of five hundred and twelve dollars ($512.00).

Signed Respectfully submitted, W. H. Hulskamper, Fred Miller, James A. Burnett, Henry Krouse, Jacob Brucklacher, J. Martin Roll, George W. Little, Committee.

Freeholder Farrell moved that the report be received and the action of the committee approved which motion was on roll call unanimously adopted.

NEW BUSINESS—RESOLUTIONS.

By Freeholder Burnett:

Resolved, That James G. Moore be paid eight hundred dollars ($800) on account of contract for bridges in Union township, amount in contract being ten hundred and seventy-eight dollars ($1,078,) balance to be paid when approved by committee.

Freeholder Krouse moved the adoption of the resolution, and on roll call it was unanimously adopted.

The Board then, on motion of Freeholder Little, took a recess of ten minutes for preparation of bills.

After recess, upon being called to order, roll call showed all members present except Freeholders King, Krouse and Ogden—3

KEANE'S RETIREMENT

Elevation Follows His Resignation of the University Rectorship.

TO BE CREATED AN ARCHBISHOP

Following Custom That the Office Should Not Be Held in Perpetuity the Pope Called for His Resignation---Broken in Health, He Prayed for Release.

Washington, Oct. 5.—Bishop John J. Keane, rector of the Catholic University of America, located here, has resigned at the request of Pope Leo XIII. The news, which became public here yesterday in an unauthorized and somewhat inaccurate form, was entirely unexpected and caused much comment in Catholic circles. Bishop Keane last evening made public the official correspondence so that the facts should be properly understood. He accompanied it by the following statement: "Since my withdrawal from the rectorship of the Catholic University of America will probably be regarded by a considerable portion of the American public as of some interest to them, and since unauthorized statements are apt to be misleading, I deem it my duty to state briefly and clearly the facts of the case. On Sept. 28 I received through his eminence Cardinal Gibbons a letter from our holy father Leo XIII, of which the following is a translation: 'To our venerable brother, John Joseph Keane, bishop of Ajasso—Venerable brother, health and apostolic benediction. It is customary that they who are appointed to preside over Catholic universities should not hold the office in perpetuity. This custom has grown up through wise reasons, and the Roman pontiffs have ever been careful that it should be adhered to. Since, therefore, venerable brother, you have now presided for several years over the university at Washington, in the first establishment and subsequent development of which you have shown laudable zeal and diligence, it has seemed best that the above-meationed custom should not be departed from, and that another, whose name is to be proposed to us by the bishops, should be appointed to succeed you in this honorable position.

Elevated to the Rank of Archbishop.

"In order, however, that, in your resigning this office, due regard may be had to your person and your dignity, we have determined to elevate you to the rank of archbishop. Being solicitous for your future welfare, we leave it to your own free choice either to remain in your own country, or, if you prefer it, to come to Rome. If you choose the former, we will destine you for some archiepiscopal see, by vote of the bishops of the United States. If you prefer the latter, we shall welcome you most lovingly, and will place you among the consultors of the Congregation of Studies and the Congregation of the Propaganda, in both of which you could do much for the interests of religion in the United States. In this latter case we would also assign you a suitable revenue for your honorable maintenance. Confidently trusting, venerable brother, that you will accept this, our administrative act, with hearty good will, we most lovingly bestow upon you the apostolic benediction as a pledge of our paternal affection. Given at Rome, from St. Peters, this 15th day of September, 1896, in the nineteenth year of pontificate. LEO XIII.'

Is Sorely in Need of Rest.

"Without a moment of hesitation, I accepted the will of his holiness, and at once resigned into the hands of his eminence, the chancellor, the office of rector, with all rights thereto attaching. I welcome my release from the office of rector of the university with profound gratitude both to Divine providence and the pope. While I always regarded its duties as a labor of love, they had grown to be far beyond my strength and abilities, and the deliverance from the burden is a response to my prayers. I was too loyal a soldier to ask to be relieved from my post, no matter what the difficulties, but feeling that my nine years of strain and solicitude in the work had brought me close to the end of my brain and nerve powers, I was fully ready to welcome what has been done. I shall now enjoy some months of greatly needed rest on the Pacific coast, leaving all plans for the future to a later date."

Young People's Alliance Conference Closed

Erie, Pa., Oct. 5.—The Erie conference of the League of Young People's Alliance of the German Evangelical church closed its session last evening. The sunrise prayer meeting was praticipated in by almost 100 delegates from Pennsylvania, Ohio and western New York and hundreds of others and was conducted by C. H. Rall of Pittsburg, re-elected president.

World's W. C. T. U. Convention.

Portland, Me., Oct. 5.—Miss Agnes Black, secretary of the World's W. C. T. U., spoke yesterday at the Second Parish church, and announced that the next convention of the World's W. C. T. U. would be held in Canada in October, 1897. It has not yet been decided whether to hold the convention in Toronto or Montreal.

Protest Against a Gold Democratic Ticket.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 5.—The national democrats of Iowa filed their ticket with the secretary of state Saturday afternoon. The regular democrats at once filed a protest against the ticket going on the ballot, claiming that the name was calculated to confuse voters.

Four Students Killed, Five Injured.

GOLF.

The Morristown Field Club came to Plainfield Saturday and played the second game of golf in the series with the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, on the links of the latter club. The visitors were very nicely taken into camp and quite badly beaten. The playing throughout was interesting and a goodly number of people were present to witness the game. Below is the full score and it will be noted that Walz was the only man that was beaten:

Beebe	3	Duyckinck	0
VanBuren	2	Sutphen	0
West	10	Fellows	0
Tracy	5	Woodward	0
Wharton	3	Davis	0

The third and final game of the series will probably be played at Baltusrol, near Westfield, at some convenient time. After the game tea was served at the clubhouse. Miss Walz and Miss Evans poured tea.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Thos. Brantingham's mare, "Myrtle Twig," reached home from the Inter-State fair Friday night. The mare was entered in several races, but failed to get a place.

Chas. Brower's fast stepper, "Highland Boy," and keeper, Chas. Nichols, arrived home Friday from trotting a circuit through New York, New Jersey, Philadelphia and Long Island. In all, the trotter was in twenty races. Only twice did the horse run behind the money prizes, and once it won first money at Mineola, L. I. Last week the horse came in third best at Trenton at the Inter-State fair.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

The Alis football team had a cinch Saturday afternoon in their game with the Dunellen team and defeated the latter 22 to 0. The game was played at Dunellen. While the home team was a trifle heavier, the Alis boys played together and their interference proved impregnable. Five touchdowns were made for the Alis team, two by Dwight, one by Cuming, one by Phillips and one by Waring. The one goal was kicked by Phillips. The longest run was made by Dwight of 45 yards.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Somerville had a road race Saturday afternoon. The distance was five miles and the roads were in a fair condition. The local men were victorious. Henderson and Stevens, on a tandem, won first. Demeray was second, Durling third, and Paul Anderson fourth. Anders attends Leal's School in this city.

A Large Accession.

Thirteen persons united with Trinity Reformed church at the communion service yesterday morning, six on confession and seven by letter from other churches.

—The "open-air" street cars were a little out of order in the rain last evening, but they went just the same and were loaded, too.

—Prof. Eugene O'Reilly has been engaged to furnish the music for the Central Railroad Telegraphers ball in the Jersey Cycle Academy on the evening of November 18th.

—Chief Doane had a corps of his most competent firemen at the Moody meeting last evening. They were in uniform and were ready for any emergency that might arise.

Laurens Townley, of Metuchen, and J. Neu, of New Brunswick, spent Sunday with Thomas F. Quinn at the Avon Park Stock Farm. Both are students in Rutgers College and will graduate with the class of 1899.

FIREMEN'S BIG TIME.

After dinner the firemen went to the corner of Watchung avenue and Sixth street where box 25 was pulled by ex-chief Bates, of New York. It happened that as he pulled the hook it was exactly time for the 5 o'clock alarm to sound and there was no response. A few seconds later Chief Doane pulled the box and in precisely one minute and eight seconds Driver Feiring appeared with the chemical. He was first, while Zephyr Hook and Ladder was second. Alerts' pulled in very soon afterward while No. 2's carriage and Gazelles' came in the order mentioned. The Veterans were highly pleased with the exhibition.

The Veterans were then escorted to the station where they placed their engine on the flat car, and at 7 o'clock they left by special train for New York where they were met by a delegation of firemen and escorted to their headquarters.

The Plainfield Fire Department can feel justly proud of their showing which will equal any in the country in proportion to the size of the city. The Exempt Association excelled all expectation in their arrangement for the affair and the citizens have cause to be proud of them. A word about decorations will not be amiss. All over the city and along the line of march every house and building was gaily decorated with the national colors. The arch on Park avenue was left in position and suspended in the centre was a bell to which was fastened a string. J. J. Kenney held the string which he pulled frequently. Perhaps one of the best decorations was at the home of Andrew Carney on Lincoln place where a fac-simile of an old hand engine was shown. It was made of wood and was beautifully trimmed. On the porch of the house were stationed a number of girls all dressed in white. At the store of Alex. Titsworth, on North avenue, there was an arrangement of an old fireman's hat, belt and trumpet which Mr. Titsworth used when he was foreman of Gazelle hand engine, and a lantern and red leather belt bearing the words in white letters "Plainfield Board." This belt is the only one in town. There were a number of other very pretty decorations too numerous to mention. The firemen had a big day and everybody is more than pleased with the affair, thanks for which is due the committees who worked earnestly and faithfully throughout.

While the members of Warren Engine Company were on their way to the borough after Saturday's festivities, they were met at the corner of Front and Somerset street by Mayor Hegeman, who walked with the boys to headquarters where he made an address, complimenting them on their fine appearance.

Fred Mantz, of Somerville, was in town yesterday as the guest of his cousin, F. F. Beekman, of Johnston avenue.

Mr. and Mrs. E. R. Taylor have returned to their home on Rockview avenue, after a week's visit with friends in New York.

Mr. and Mrs. George Hummer, of Stone street, were tendered a surprise party Saturday evening by their many relatives and friends, the occasion being their fifth wedding anniversary. Refreshments were plentiful and the evening joyously spent. Mr. and Mrs. Hummer were the recipients of many pretty and useful presents.

—It is a fact that Hood's Sarsaparilla, the One True Blood Purifier, has proved, over and over again, that it has power to cure, even when other medicines fail to do any good.

CHASING A GOVERNMENT.

Difficulty That a Chinese Ambassador Experienced in France.

The present voyage of Li Hung Chang brings to memory the trials of Chang How, once Chinese ambassador to France. In 1870, says the New York Times, he went to Europe to settle the contentions which had arisen following the massacre of Tien-Tsin. When Chang How left China the French empire still existed; when he landed in France the empire had been overthrown, and he did not know to whom he should address himself. At Marseilles they told him that a government had been installed at Tours. Chang How went there as soon as possible, but found that MM. Cremeieux and Glais Buzoin, who then represented the government, had gone to Bordeaux. "Let us go to Bordeaux," said Chang How, philosophically, but when he arrived the old difficulty arose—to whom should he present himself, Cremeieux or Admiral Fourichoir? No one could tell him. Gambetta was coming in a balloon, but it was impossible to reach him. Then Chang How went to see Jules Favre. He was told that the assembly had gone to Versailles. "Very well," he said, "let us go to Versailles." So the entire embassy left for that city. At last M. Thiers had been appointed head of the government, and Chang How would be able to speak to him. Not at all. They demanded the ambassador's credentials for the new government. He had none. "In that case it is impossible to present you. Go to Peking, get your papers made out in due form, return, and you will be presented to M. Thiers." So Chang How took his departure.

THE "BIKE" AND THE DOG.

Facts Point to the Belief That the Wheel Is Exterminating the Canine.

Is the bicycle destined to eventually exterminate dogs? From a thorough canvass of competent authorities it would seem that it is.

As positive proof of the fact that the bike is exterminating the canine race and ruining the trade of the dealers therein it may be authoritatively stated that whereas three dogs were formerly sold against one bicycle, the ratio has been reversed and six bicycles are now disposed of while three dogs are changing owners. And this is an ultra-conservative estimate.

One of the prominent dog dealers in this city said: "Before the bicycle grew into its present popularity I had a large and prosperous clientele of customers, principally society people of both sexes, who would scorn to purchase anything but the highest-priced and most blue-blooded animal. Then the bicycle craze began to spread, and as it did I found my customers falling off in numbers and dogs decreasing in demand. People have no further use for dogs as long as they have a wheel. Formerly they would go out either for a quiet stroll or a good, brisk walk, and in such cases a dog is an absolutely invaluable companion. Now they go out on their machines, and the animal who used to be so welcome becomes only a nuisance. This is especially the case since so many women have taken to the wheel."

Every breed of dog has been affected, from the big Newfoundland to the twisted-tailed pug. It is common gossip in sporting circles that a prominent dog dealer formerly doing business on Beekman street was driven out of it through loss of trade occasioned by the constantly increasing use of the bicycle.

Another interesting proof of the fact that the canine race must succumb to the "silent steed" is found in the statistics of those cities where bicycles have to be registered. In Rochester, N. Y., the city clerk's last report showed that the number of machines registered was 21,130, as against 2,819 dogs.

Aside from the fact that many people do not care to go to the expense of paying a high price for a high-bred dog, the majority of wheel-owners appreciate the fact that a dog has a natural antipathy toward wheelmen and wheelwomen, and a consideration for the feelings and comfort of their fellow cyclers has caused many owners of wheels and dogs to dispose of the latter.

Now the value of the dog has so decreased that when he runs away no attempt is made to find him, and once in the hands of the experienced dog-catcher his days are surely numbered. The bicycle is evidently to blame, for were the dog's owner not too busy with his wheel he would find time to go, as in the past, to the pound and redeem him, but as it is owners of lost dogs now often regard the pound as an easy and humane way of disposing of their one-time pets.—N. Y. Journal.

MAMMOTH OF THE MOUNTAINS.

Vertebra of a Prehistoric Monster Forty-Four Inches in Circumference.

The great Cripple Creek district, during its history of but a few years, has been prolific in surprises to the delvers after hidden wealth. The district seems to be able to produce anything from a nugget of gold to the petrified remains of the mastodon. The discovery made by a party of prospectors the other day on Thirty-nine Mile mountain will certainly prove most interesting to scientists, and the "find" will prove to be as great a curiosity as is the nerve of the heads of certain of our municipal departments. Woolly elephants, the megatherium and other mastodons, relics of a prehistoric age, are rather out of our line, but we can produce them if demand should arise. Boundless are the resources of the great gold camp, and if the world doesn't see what it wants here, all it has to do is simply to ask for it.

A few days since a party, consisting of C. S. Witherspoon, J. W. McBeth, W. White and T. Burge, was prospecting upon the northwestern slope of Thirty-nine Mile mountain. Wishing to find water to drink, Witherspoon started up a shallow gulch running up the side of the mountain. The eye of the prospector, long trained by experience to the closest of observation of the earth over which he passed, was caught by what appeared to be an unusually large bone. Mr. Witherspoon at once cleared the debris from his find, and to his great amazement discovered that he had unearthed a section of the vertebra of some gigantic animal, far exceeding in size anything which to-day treads the surface of the earth.

The party at once began a series of explorations, and was rewarded by turning up a large portion of the remains of the prehistoric monster. At the time when D. S. Hall left the party 20 sections of vertebra had been uncovered. When it is stated that one of these sections of backbone measured 44 inches in circumference, the hugeness of the mastodon is obvious. One thigh bone was unearthed which measured in length 49 inches and 40 inches in circumference at the hock joint. One of the bones of the lower foreleg was 39 inches in length, while the torsal point was 36 inches in circumference. One section of rib was found to be 39 inches in length and 12 inches in circumference.

The discoverers will continue the search until all that remains of the gigantic fossil has been brought to light. They expect to cause it to be mounted, when it will be sent to either a state or national museum. It is probable that this relic of bygone ages will be exhibited to the Cripple Creek public previous to its consignment to its ultimate resting place in one of the educational institutions.—Denver Times.

HER DREAM WAS DISSIPATED.

Gail Hamilton's Idea of a Woman's Bank Proved Chimerical.

"Gail Hamilton," said a Philadelphia banker to a Bulletin reporter recently, "was a very able woman, but, like a good many other women, and men, too, for that matter, she didn't understand finance. Her ignorance on this subject led her into a grave mistake at one time, and thereby hangs one of the most curious tales of human credulity that ever came to light.

"About 18 or 20 years ago a woman named Howe opened a bank of deposit in Boston. It had several peculiar features, among which were: It was owned and operated by women; the accounts only of women were solicited, though there was a proviso that the sterner sex should be allowed the privilege of depositing money, though under no circumstances would they ever be allowed a voice in the management; no limit was to be made, as in ordinary savings banks, as to the amount that would be secured on deposit.

"This was all very well, and if there were nothing more the innovation might do—for Boston. But the circular wound up with the startling announcement that the rate of interest would be eight per cent. a month! Not only that, but this rate of interest was in all cases to be paid in advance!

"One would think that such an absurd proposition would be laughed at in any intelligent community, but it wasn't, and the bank was actually in operation in Boston for over a year. The concern was located in a fashionable quarter of the city, and did a rattling business. The Howe woman, if she didn't understand banking, as she afterward acknowledged at her trial, certainly understood the business she was engaged in, which was simply to 'get all you can and keep all you get.' The bank was patronized by high and low, rich and poor, and bore every outward evidence of prosperity. A few of the knowing ones, who put in on the ground floor, made money out of it, for it was only necessary for anyone to deposit $1,000, say, and get back $1,480 in six months.

"It was only by accident that the concern was exploded. A servant girl in the family of a banker had an account in the woman's bank, and her employer saw it and began to investigate. The story got into the papers, and the bubble burst. Great was the consternation among the women folks, and Mrs. Howe came out with a pronunciamento saying that the bank was all right and would continue to do business, but in three days the concern was closed by the sheriff and Mrs. Howe was arrested.

"Gail Hamilton was among the woman's dupes. She wrote a two-column article in defense of Mrs. Howe, in which she intimated very plainly that the failure of the bank was entirely due to the jealousy of the men; that Mrs. Howe and her system were all right and that all bankers could pay eight per cent. a month if they wanted to.

"Of course, there were lots of people who could see after the bank failed that no one could pay eight per cent. a month, and she was mercilessly ridiculed in the press, and from the fact that she never retorted, as was her invariable custom on the slightest provocation, I guess her friends got hold of her and kept her quiet."

"How much did Mrs. Howe get away with?"

"I forget the amount, but it was something over half a million."—Philadelphia Bulletin.

IT WAS SAFE.

Carried His Money Where Pickpockets Could Not Get It.

Walter Bradshaw's cousin from Pasadena, Mo., came up to Chicago last week, and he didn't come up here to be the victim of any sharper, either.

Walter took a day off and met him at the train.

They checked the valise and the umbrella at the parcel-room and started out to see the town.

"Did you bring up much money, Bluford?" asked Walter, who had been in town but a few months himself.

"I brought up about 25."

"Got it in a safe place?"

"That's what I have. I've got the $20 bill in my shoe. I guess no pickpocket's goin' to look for it there."

"I shouldn't calculate he would."

The absorbed Chicagoan who butts his way through the crowds with his gaze fastened on the sidewalk cannot well appreciate how many sights appealed to Bluford Bradshaw that day. He and Walter traversed Clark street from the viaduct to the river, counted the windows of the Masonic Temple, went to see the place where the Haymarket bomb was thrown and found delight in watching the top-heavy vessels crowd past the bridges. They became surfeited with soda fountain drinks and ended the day's debauch with a visit to the theater.

When they moved toward Walter's room that night Bluford was footsore and weary. Sight-seeing is the hardest work and Bluford felt sure that he had walked 50 miles. With a sigh of relief he sat on the edge of the bed and pulled off his shoes.

"Is your money all right?" Walter asked him.

"I guess so. I put it in the bottom of my right shoe."

He turned the shoe upside down and shook it. There fell out a shower of small ragged flakes of paper like the ribbings of a mouse's nest. All during the day he had been rubbing that $20 bill to powder and all the mucilage in the world wouldn't have put it together again.—Chicago Record.

EVANGELIST MOODY TALKS OF THE CHRISTIAN AND THE WORLD.

His Subject Was Grace, and He Divided it Into Three Heads From Which He Made Many Interesting Observations.

"Monday night," said Mr. Moody, "is the hardest night in the week in which to get a crowd," but nevertheless Convention Hall was well filled last evening when the veteran evangelist continued his meetings that opened so auspiciously last Saturday night.

The chorus choir, which filled the platform and the two front rows of seats, opened the meeting with one of those stirring song services, led by Horace J. Martin. Rev. A. J. Martine then lead in prayer. A hymn and prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., followed and after the notices of the next meetings were announced by President E. E. Anthony, the white-capped ushers passed the collection baskets. Mr. Burke then took charge of the singing and the choir sang "He Arose." Mr. Burke is inspiring as a leader, but the way in which he sang the solo "Shall You, Shall I?" was very impressive and better prepared the audience for Mr. Moody's powerful appeal that followed.

Mr. Moody read the five verses beginning with Titus 2, ii. and took as his topic "Grace," as referred to in the Scripture selection. He divided it into three heads. Grace, that bringeth salvation, hath appeared to all men; Grace, that teaches us to live in the world, and Grace that teaches us to work in this world.

He introduced his talk by referring to grace as a word so frequently used and yet so little understood. Grace, he said, means unmitigated mercy—undeserved favor. Salvation, he declared, is a gift that we don't have to work for; not but that it is well worth while working for, however. We have to take it as a beggar takes a gift. We work because we are saved—not to be saved. There will be no boasting in the kingdom of God. Then he spoke of the so-called "self-made" man, who took all the glory on his shoulders when God was really the one. God comes to forgive, not to demand, he went on. You can get something for nothing in this case.

We often say "Work out your salvation," but you have got to have it first before working it out. Then you ought to be willing to work day and night out of gratitude to God. It is not a gift if you work for it or give something in exchange; it then becomes a debt. People don't want salvation for nothing; they want to work, they want to help themselves.

A great many are afraid, he continued, to become Christians because they fear they will not hold out. We are to be living epistles; where one person reads the Bible one hundred read us. What we need is a spiritual uplifting in our churches. "I believe," he exclaimed, "that more harm has been done to our religion by our so-called friends than by our enemies. It is said that they talk cream and act milk."

He expressed a belief that the present church has a low standard or it would not tolerate the existing evils—saloons, skepticism and the like. Some people, he said, like to stay on the edge of the world and the kingdom of God. They want to be Christians and remain in the world, and a sorry time they have of it. The world clubs them on one side and the church on the other.

The Christian is all right in the world, but the world is not all right in a Christian. It is the same as a ship. It is all right in the water, that's where it belongs; but when the water is in the ship, then you want to get out. He then told in his droll way his experience on the "Spree" when she was wrecked. We are to light the world.

It is impossible, he explained, to be filled with grace without its bearing fruit. Christ has promised peace for the past, grace for the present, and glory for the future. The days are growing better and better, our best days are not behind, they are coming. The future is bright. You know old people who are grumpy, he continued, and then he related the story of the little boy who didn't want to go to Heaven if his grandfather was going as he didn't want to be nagged all through eternity. Such people, he said, are living and feeding on the past. Instead of looking and feeding on the past, keep looking toward the future. Glory is just ahead. You say you don't call death glorious. Christ took away the sting of death. It is only the death of the body, but the soul is going to live.

He declared that the twenty-third Psalm is one of the most misquoted portions of the Bible. The valley of

DELEGATES FOR FOWLER

NO CONTEST IN THE REPUBLICAN PRIMARIES LAST NIGHT.

The Meetings Were All Brief and Without Dissensions—Congressional Convention Held in Elizabeth Next Thursday.

The Republican primarins in all the wards last night were very brief and consequently admitting of no contests. The delegates elected are favorable to the renomination of Congressman Charles Fowler. The results were as follows:

FIRST WARD.

William R. Codington called the meeting to order and was made permanent chairman. William Addis was elected secretary and J. B. Coward, judge. The inspectors were Jas. Dunavan and Thomas Cardiner, but they had no duties to perform for the following delegates were unanimously chosen: J. T. MacMurray, George W. Moore and C. J. Newman.

SECOND WARD.

The Second ward primary was held in the Bryant School. The meeting was called to order at precisely 8 p. m. by D. D. Patten. H. E. Bowen was nominated chairman with A. Mulford, secretary, E. H. Frost and E. Petrie, inspectors, and D. D. Patten, judge. The following delegates were then elected: S. A. Ginna, J. B. Dumont, W. A. Kline, A. Mulford. The usual collection for the janitor was taken up and the meeting then adjourned.

THIRD WARD.

In the Third ward Ernest R. Ackerman was chosen chairman and Harry Runyon secretary. The delegates elected were J. Frank Hubbard, Charles J. Fisk and Mayor Alexander Gilbert.

FOURTH WARD.

In this ward there was no fight whatever. Wm. Newcorn was selected chairman and Judge DeMeza was the secretary. The five delegates chosen were J. Stewart, Fred Stillman, John Cose, Arthur Venable and Joseph Chapot. The secretary cast the ballot for the delegates who was given power to select their own alternates. Albert Levers and Wm. McCarty served as tellers. The attendance was large.

WANT IT ALL TO THEMSELVES.

Volunteers and Salvationists Come Together Again at an Open-air Meeting.

The contention between the Salvation Army and the American Volunteers over the use of the vacant lot near the Babcock building for open-air meetings on certain nights is still unsettled. Saturday night the Salvationists were holding their meeting there, as has been the custom for two years, when the Volunteers marched up and the lieutenant ordered Ensign Brewer and his soldiers to vacate the spot, as the former claimed the exclusive right to hold meetings there.

The Salvationists refused to stir, however, and the lieutenant of the Volunteers appealed to a policeman, who was near by, to eject them, but the officer had no authority to do this. The Volunteers then marched back to their post headquarters without attempting to disturb the meeting of the Salvationists, as was the case a few weeks ago.

Captain Bisbane, of the Volunteers, has written a letter to Mayor Gilbert, asking that they be granted the exclusive use of this ground for holding open-air meetings, thus intending to obviate a privilege which the Salvationists have enjoyed for two years. Ensign Brewer presented his side of the case to the Mayor last night, and the latter is now considering what action to take in the matter.

Trustees and Ushers Elected.

The members of the Mount Olive Baptist church met last evening in regular session and transacted business relative to fall and winter work. Rev. P.S. Gibson pastor of the church presided. This meeting then adjourned and a parish meeting followed for the purpose of electing trustees. Those chosen are A. S. Venable, D.W. Brown, Samuel Fields, Charles Barber, S. Conway, Chas. Shelton and James Saunders. The election of ushers resulted as follows: Wm. Brown, John Perkins and Benjamin Haywood. The attendance at the meeting was very large and much interest was manifested in the transaction of business.

Making Assessments.

J. Parker Mason, Dewitt C. Ivins and George Cornwell, sewer commissioners, appointed for the purpose of making assessments, are progressing satisfactorily with the work. The commissioners are in town today making assessments about the business section of the city.

Waiting For a License.

The saloon in the borough, formerly conducted by Mr. Graceley, is now closed owing to the fact that the renewing of his license by the court was deferred for one week.

ASSESSMENT PROTEST.

SENATOR VOORHEES APPEARS BEFORE THE COMMON COUNCIL.

Represented Mrs. Durlach Who Thinks That Assessment of Benefits and Damages Against Her Property is Unjust.

The Republican primaries held in the different wards last evening had a tendency to detain the members of the City Council from their regular meeting, and it was nearly 8:45 when President See called the session to order with Councilmen Barrows, Dumont, Ginna, Fisk, Frost, Tolles, Westphal, Moore and Serrell present.

Mr. Fisk asked that the rules be suspended so that the report on the Watchung avenue extension could be received. The report was then received, and on Mr. Fisk's motion action on the recommendation that the work go on was referred to the street committee. Mr. Fisk then stated that Senator Voorhees was present to represent Mrs. Durlach, who owned property along the proposed new avenue, and he moved that Mr. Voorhees be given an opportunity to speak.

Mr. Voorhees thanked the Council for the courtesy extended, and then went on to state that there was no intention to block the proposed improvement, but his client living in Elizabeth had not noticed the new proceedings regarding the opening. Continuing, Mr. Voorhees said: "While I have the highest regard for the Watchung avenue commissioners and believe that they are men of noted repute, I am quite sure that they made a mistake in their assessment for benefits and damages in the property in question. From the Y. M. C. A. 49 feet is taken and $6,225.95 allowed as damages, while 11 feet is taken from Mrs. Durlach's property for which $2,050 is allowed as damages and $625 for the portion of a house. In regard to benefits, the Y. M. C A. has 79 feet left and they are assessed $1,250 for benefits. Mrs. Durlach is left 39 feet and she is assessed $2,250 for benefits. Considering the location of the ground, etc., it will require several hundred dollars to fill in to bring it up to the required grade."

Mr. Voorhees suggested that the report received be referred to the street committee for consideration and he felt sure the matter could be settled without much trouble. Mr. Fisk then moved that the report be referred back to the street committee and that they make a report in one week's time. The motion prevailed, and Mr. Fisk made another motion which was carried that when council adjourns it be to meet Monday evening, October 12th at 8 o'clock. The regular order of business was then taken up and a communication was received from E. B. Clark which inquired what action had been taken regarding the laying of sidewalk on Grant avenue, between Greenbrook and Front street. The matter was referred to the street committee. M. Honan & Sons asked that the city pay A. M. Griffin a bill for $171.80 out of the money retained by the city as per their contract. The bill was against the contractors, and was referred to the Finance committee. Later, on the recomendation of Mr. Dumont, the matter was referred to the Corporation Counsel, be in turn to instruct the city treasurer what to do. H. C. Corsa and other residents of East Second street asked that two two-way fire hydrants be placed on the above street between Richmond and Berckman streets. The fire and building committee will look into the matter and report. In accordance with the suggestion of Delinquent Tax Collector Bird, Assessor J. A. Hubbard re-adjusted the assessment on the property located at 308 East Third street, and gave the figures as $440 for two years. Mr. Bird was then authorized to effect a lien for the above amount and was instructed to confer with the corporation counsel on the subject. On the recommendation of the Board of Engineers, E. J. Vroom of Zephyr Hook and Ladder Company was placed on the exempt roll. Inspector of Buildings T O. Doane reported that he had granted twenty-three permits during the past month, and Street Commissioner Meeker reported that he had given 26 permits to connect with the sewer. Both reports were filled. Two applications for a hack and cart license were received and granted. Mr. Dumont offered resolutions that a note for $3,000 be renewed, that $1,000 be borrowed for the general fund and $1,500 for the fire fund. All three resolutions were adopted.

The same member then reported concerning the town clock which a number of citizens asked the city to repair, they agreeing to keep it in running order. He stated that two bids had been received for repairing the

READY FOR DELEGATES.

ENDEAVORERS' CONVENTION DETAILS COMPLETED.

The Young Christians Will Commence to Arrive Tomorrow and Will be Received at the Train by the Reception Committee

The long talked of State Christian Endeavor convention is at hand. Tomorrow evening, the opening services will be held in the Convention Hall, as the Jersey Cycle Academy is now called, and hundreds, yes thousands, of delegates will assemble there.

The preparations for this event have been completed after weeks of hard work, and tomorrow morning the wheels of the vast machine, that is to regulate this convention, will begin to move, and the delegates, who are to rule the city for the ensuing three days, will begin to arrive. Early tomorrow morning a party of bright-faced Endeavorers will take up their stand at the North Avenue station ready to greet the first of the visiting delegates. White caps with a light-green band on which will be the words "Reception Committee" with the society monogram, will distinguish the reception committee. Tam o'shanters will be worn by the ladies and yachting caps by the men. They have all been instructed to "smile" their best and give the visiting delegates a hearty welcome.

From the North avenue station the delegates will be directed to the registration office, which is to be located in the basement of the First Baptist church. Here they will present their credentials, for delegates to this convention as well as any other must show what they claim, and receive their programme and convention badge. If they intend to remain over night, and about 1,500 are expected to remain over the entire convention, they are assigned to their quarters and escorted there by a Junior, well acquainted with the city.

In the First Baptist church will also be the convention postoffice and bureau of information. Here the delegates will receive the mail and ask questions to their heart's content with a good chance of their being answered.

The real headquarters from which the movements of the others will be directed will be at the Y. M. C. A. building, where the Plainfield '96 committee will be established. Here will also be the missionary headquarters where some delightful surprises are being arranged. The State officers will have their headquarters at the Revere House, and will receive all who wish to see them, provided they don't all come at once. The evangelistic committee, which is to arrange for the evangelestic meetings throughout the city in the open air and in the factories, will have its headquarters in a room to the right of the entrance to Convention Hall. Here those who are willing to assist in that work will report. The historian's office, which might be called a bureau of statistics, will be located in another similar room.

The good literature headquarters will be at the First Baptist church, and there all the supplies of the United Society of Christian Endeavor, their publications and The Daily Press can be procured.

RELIEF CORPS GAVE NO AUTHORITY.

Two Advertising Men Alleged to Have Made False Statements to Merchants.

Mrs. Isaac Brokaw, president of the Woman's Relief Corps, called at The Press office this morning and stated that Frank Budd and F. A. Loyld, of New York, who went among the business men of the city and solicited advertisements for a shopping card on the ground that it had the sanction and was for the benefit of the Corps, did so without authority from that organization. The argument that they used on some business men was that they had been selected by a vote of the Corps as the dealer in the trade in which they are engaged to have their advertisement on the card, which was to be distributed by the members of the Corps. Mrs. Brokaw says that the statement was false, as the Corps had decided not to enter into the arrangement proposed by the men. In many other respects, however, Budd and Loyld seemed to be responsible.

Choir Prizes.

Several prizes were awarded the members of the Grace P. E. church choir last Sunday for constant attendance and good behavior. Harold Chandor received a handsome prayer-book and hymnal for three months constant attendance, whila medals were presented to the following for two months constant attendance: The Misses Mary Collier, Mabelle Smith, Olive Newell and Louise Egan, and Walter Hockridge.

—Martha Washington Council, No. 23, D. of A., meets this evening.

MR. KYTE WILL NOT QUIT

THE SHERIFF IS A CANDIDATE FOR SENATOR IN EARNEST.

He Will Not Get Out of the Race, and This May Prevent the Renomination of Foster M. Voorhees, of Elizabeth, for Senator.

According to all appearances there will be a hot fight for the nomination for State Senator in Union county between Senator Voorhees, who wants a second term, and Sheriff Kyte, who swears he will not step out of the race this time to please the young Elizabethan. Sheriff Kyte was seen yesterday by a New York World reporter and asked if he was still in the field.

"Do I look like a man that had backed out?" replied the sheriff, while a determined look overspread his face. "You can just announce it in The World that I am in this struggle to stay, and have not the slightest attention of doing anything else. I mean to do all I can in an honorable manner to get the nomination."

From this it will be seen that Senator Voorhees has no picnic if he wants a second term. Sheriff Kyte's friends say that he was entitled to the nomination three years ago, and gave way to Voorhees only upon urgent pressure being brought to bear on him by the party leaders, who offered as a balm to his wounded ambition the position of Sheriff which Mr. Kyte did not want.

He was promised the Senatorial nomination this year, his supporters allege, and just when it was supposed that Mr. Voorhees was not a candidate and Sheriff Kyte had counted on getting the plum, the Senator suddenly changed his mind and jumped into arena. This has angered Sheriff Kyte, and he says that he will not be frozen out in this way.

It is strongly hinted that he will have John Kean's powerful backing in the fight, and if the latter throws the weight of his influence on Kyte's side it will make a very pretty fight and a sort of repetition, only on a more even scale, of the Kean-Voorhees contest of last year.

Mrs. James to be Taken Care of.

Overseer of the Poor Ralph, of Warren Township, was in town this morning on his way to Somerville, where he was to have made out the commitment papers for the removal of Mrs. Harriet P. James, of Warrenville, who has recently been declared insane to the asylum at Trenton. The woman is seventy nine years of age, and has frequently wandered away from home, remaining away for several days at a time. The woman's condition was examined and her antecedents looked after, but the commission declared her wanting in several respects, and she was incarcerated as a person unsafe to be left at large.

Avenue Extension Work.

According to the survey made of Watchung aveuue in the borough the grade will be about fifteen inches below the regular grade, between Chatham street and the proposed bridge. This is done owing to the fact that there does not seem to be a street in the borough that is able to carry off the surplus water, and the object of making a cut in a portion of the new avenue is that the water will find an outlet. The dirt from the avenue is now being removed to a place near the brook. Already several houses have been placed on new foundations on the line of the avenue, which has thus far been opened to Manning avenue.

Nearly Six Score Years and Ten.

Noah Ruby, who has been an inmate of the Middlesex County poor farm, near Dunellen, for the past 31 years, is still hale and hearty, and although over a hundred years of age he can yet move about with remarkable agility and says he hopes to reach the two hundred mark. His mind is strong, and his intellect is remarkably clear for one of his years. He was born in Virginia in 1772, and until a few years ago had full possession of his hearing and sight, now he is blind and a little hard of hearing, but for all that he seems happy and takes great delight in reiterating his early experiences.

Identity Never Determined.

The body of the unknown man found in the woods near Fanwood a week ago Sunday, which has been awaiting identification in Casey's morgue ever since, was interred in the potters' field yesterday afternoon by order of Mayor Gilbert. Since the body was found there has been eight different persons here attempting to identify some lost relative or friend, but the dead man did not correspond with the description of any of the missing ones. His exact height was five feet and three inches.

On Trial for His Life.

The trial of Elmer Clawson, the young man accusd of murdering Harry Hodgett in Bedminster township, began at Somerville today.

WANT TO RAISE A FLAG

J. O. U. A. M. ASK FLOAT OLD GLORY AT THE NEW SCHOOL.

The Board of Education Will Consider the Matter—Music for the Kindergarten Discussed, but No Action Taken.

The regular meeting of the Board of Education was held in the High School building last night, with President J. B. Probasco in the chair. The other members present were Messrs. Lovell, Lounsbury and Abbott. Clerk Clark read the minutes of the preceding meeting and they were approved as usual.

The usual batch of bills for repairs, school supplies, etc., were presented, audited and ordered paid. Back taxes amounting to $232.09 were reported as having been collected and properly credited to the Board of Education, and Mr. Lounsbury read a copy of the letter he had submitted to Corporation Counsel Marsh, asking for information regarding the validity of the Board in reference to bonding school property, and to which the Corporation Counsel replied that it would require much time to wade through the voluminous law before giving an intelligent and satisfactory reply. The letter and reply were filed.

Mr. Lounsbury stated that something was out of gear with the new Lincoln School building, but he simply reported progress in the matter of lighting the Lincoln School. A communication was presented from the Dudley Engineering and Heating Company asking for an interview with the Board in reference to sanitary arrangements.

A committee of three from Franklin Council, No. 41, J. O. U. A. M., waited upon the Board, and asked for permission to erect a flag pole and float a flag from in front of the new Lincoln School building, free of all cost to the Board. The matter was left for the Board to communicate with the order. Mr. Abbott reported that the flagstaff on the High School building was likely to snap off in a high wind.

An itemized annual statement of the receipts and expenditures, showing a cash balance of $4,495.51 on hand, was referred to Messrs. Lovell, Lounsbury and Abbott, who will meet and go over it on Wednesday evening at 8 o'clock.

Superintendent Maxson spoke of the Christian Endeavor convention now in session here, and suggested that only one session be held in the schools on the remaining days of the convention. It was so ordered.

Prof. Maxson also called the attention of the board to the necessity and request for a work bench and cup board for use by the director of physiology and science. Science, he said, is the weakest point in the schools. The request was granted, the cost not to exceed $30.

Mr. Maxson submitted a communication from Miss Genevieve Petrie, of the Irving School, asking for a piano to be used in the kindergarten and other branches of school work. Music, it was stated, adds attractiveness to the work.

There are now 43 in the kindergarden department of the school, with a possibility of an increase in the Spring. Mr. Lovell thought it would be a good thing to have a piano in the school, and Superintendent Maxson was of the opinion that it would be a capital idea to have a piano in each school. Dr. Probasco approved of the introduction of piano music in all the schools, but thought it wise for the Board to expend its appropriation carefully.

Mr. Lounsbury said no preference should be shown in the matter of providing a piano for any particular school, and at his request Miss Petrie's request was tabled.

Musical Director Hazel sent in his resignation, and it was accepted. His object in resigning his comparatively easy position was because he had been appointed to a similar position in Summit, N. J., and by accepting the latter appointment he could be nearer his home there.

The matter of filling of the vacancy was left with the committee on qualification.

Found a Dead Dog in the Well.

Last week the well near the Lyons residence in West Dunellen would not work and it was impossible to get any water. An investgation was made and the body of a large bull dog was found in the well. The canine did not belong to the house and the handsome collar around its neck gave no clue to its owner. One night several weeks ago the barking of a dog was heard by the occupants of the house, only to be suddenly stopped.

Tetter, eczema and all similar skin troubles are cured by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes at once, and restores the tissues to their natural condition, and never fails to cure piles. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

IN GREAT DISTRESS

Florida Storm Victims Are Now Threatened with Starvation.

LATE REPORTS ADD TO THE MISERY

Loss of Life and Destruction of Property in Remote Sections Also Greater Than Was First Believed. Appeals for Aid.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 6.—Every report in regard to the storm increases the death list and the estimation of the property loss. The condition of the people in the storm district is appalling and there is urgent need of aid to prevent starvation. Advices from Baker says: "While the suffering in Baker county is great from the effects of the storm, the damage is also very great. It is estimated that the total loss aggregates some $250,000. Some say the loss will reach fully $300,000. This does not include the loss of cattle, which cannot be estimated until spring, Baker county being a large cattle-raising section. In consequence of the above losses the county commissioners have issued an appeal for aid. Advices from remote points are now arriving and tell the same story of death and destruction. A special from Oldtown, Lafayette county, says: The storm last Tuesday was the worst ever seen in this section. Every dwelling in the neighborhood was blown down, also barns, stables and all the fencing around the fields. The crew of the steamer C. D. Owens are to leave tonight on their home voyage to Branford. They report the steamer wrecked in the lower part of the river, and that the steamer Belle of Suwanee is also wrecked near the mouth. The wreck of these two steamers will be a great misfortune to the people on the river, and leaves this entire section without any transportation whatever.

MILLS STARTING UP.

Work for a Large Number of Operatives in New England.

Biddeford, Me., Oct. 6.—The York mills have resumed operations on full time after a shut down of four months. All departments except the gingham weaving started with nearly the full number of operatives. No announcement has been made as to wages, but it is thought the cut down ordered at the time the mills shut down in May last will be found to be still in force. The mills employ a large number of operatives.

4,000 Operatives Benefitted.

Lawrence, Mass., Oct. 6.—The Everett mills have started up in all departments after a shut down of more than two months. The running time for the present will be forty hours per week. At the Arlington mills an increased number of operatives were put at work yesterday. It is expected that all the departments of this mill will be running in full by the end of the week. These changes affect more than 4,000 operatives.

M'KINLEY'S CALLERS.

Only Four Delegations Scheduled at Canton To-day.

Canton, O., Oct. 6.—Only four delegations—citizens of Wayne county, Ind.; republicans of Syracuse and central New York, lumber dealers of Buffalo, and republican clubs of Lenawee, Mich.—are scheduled to-day to call on Maj. McKinley, and he is therefore expecting another comparatively easy day. Maj. McKinley had an unexpected call last evening from several hundred of the first voters of Canton. They came with torches and bands, and Major McKinley made a brief address.

Declines a Democratic Nomination.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Judge Brown has declined the nomination of the democratic judicial convention for the second judicial district for the office of justice of the supreme court, to succeed himself. He says he finds it impossible to accept the nomination at the approaching election. He says he will cast his vote for the candidates of the republican party, as he cannot support the candidates nominated at the Chicago convention, nor give adherence to the political principle set forth in the platform adopted by that body.

Anxiety for the Steamer Hope.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 6.—Much anxiety is felt here regarding the Peary expedition steamer Hope, which is now considerably overdue from Sydney, C. B., where she loaded coal for this port after landing the members of the expedition. The uneasiness is all the greater because just two years ago the steamer Falcon, Capt. Harry Bartlett, a brother of the Hope's commander, foundered with all hands, while returning here from Philadelphia with a similar cargo.

Speculating on Keane's Successor.

Peoria, Ill., Oct. 6.—The mention of Bishop Spaulding of the Peoria diocese as a possible successor to Bishop Keane, rector of the Catholic university at Washington, is not generally regarded among the intimate friends of the former as having any probability. Bishop Spaulding is in Europe.

Vice-President Stevenson's Injury.

St. Louis, Oct. 6.—Vice-president Stevenson left for his home in Bloomington, Ill., last evening. He will remain at Bloomington for a few days' needed rest, after which he will begin campaign speaking. He suffers considerable pain in the leg injured at Burlington, Ia.

Cuban Rebel Leader Shot.

Havana, Oct. 6.—The rebel leader Nestor Santiesteban has been shot at Holguin for the crime of rebellion. Another insurgent leader, Antonio Hernandez Alvarez, has been sentenced to death by a court-martial at Matanzas.

PONY FOR FORTY CENTS.

New Swindle Practiced Upon the Gullible New Yorker.

Here is a brand-new swindle. The man who invented it or heard of it in some out-of-the-way part of the world had some money, says the New York Recorder. He rented a house in one of the oldest parts of New York. It is a quarter in which swell Knickerbockers lived, and some of their descendants live there to this day. He made himself a familiar figure in a liquor store in the neighborhood, where he sampled various brands and vintages and proved himself a connoisseur.

One day he told the proprietor that he had taken down a brick wall in the rear of the cellar of his house, intending to replace it with stone, as it had grown moldy. Behind it he found three casks of remarkable brandy that had been lying recondite for many years, undoubtedly the property of some long dead and forgotten householder, who knew a good thing when he saw it, and was saving it.

The saloon man bought it at $16 a gallon, having previously tasted an alleged sample that for bouquet has never been surpassed upon this continent or any other. The goods were delivered and the tenant disappeared with two months' rent in arrears. It was really good brandy worth about six dollars a gallon, at which price it had been bought from a Broadway street wine merchant.

However, the wineroom man did not lose anything. His customers are drinking brandy (at 40 cents a "pony") which they are assured has lain in a New York cellar for 100 years.

THE ARK-BORN MAN.

Which of Noah's Descendants First Saw the Light in the Ark?

Hundreds of ancient gleaners of miscellaneous curios, legends, myths and traditions give us to understand that Cush was born on the ark, says the St. Louis Republic. Others claim that there was a child born on the sacred vessel, but that it was sacrificed to one of the wild beasts, Noah declaring that no person should leave the ark who had not gone on board in the regulation manner. The weight of the evidence as it is given by the Talmudic writers is to the effect that Cush is the person referred to by the old-time mystery gleaners when they speak of the "ark-born" man. The sacred books, as well as the scores of Biblical encyclopedias, hand books of ancient history, etc., are silent on the subject. In a reprint of one of the rare old "Saxon Chronicles" is found a clew to the mystery, and another slight hint in an explanatory note in Herbert's "Nimrod." In the "Saxon Chronicles" the following occurs: "Bedwig was the son or Shem, who was the son of Noah, and he, Bedwig, was born on the ark." Herbert's note in "Nimrod," colume ii, page 37, says "Kybelc is the ark, and, as Cush was begotten in the ark, his posterity were, in a peculiar sense, descended from that ship." Although Herbert made no direct references to the fact of Cush being actually born in the ark, he speaks of him in several places as "Cush, the ark-born." The Talmudic writers discredit the Bedwig story, but declare that Cush was born on the day that "God's covenant" (the rainbow) first appeared.

A QUEER BELIEF.

The Place of Torment to Which Wicked Buddhists Are Consigned.

The place of torment to which all wicked Buddhists are to be assigned on the day of final reckoning is a terrible place of punishment. The Buddhistic hell is a sort of apartment house, divided into eight "easy stages." In the first the poor victim is compelled to walk for untold ages in his bare feet over hills thickly set with red-hot needles, points upward. In the second stage the skin is carefully filed or rasped from the body and irritating mixtures are applied. In the third stage the nails, hair and eyes are plucked out and the denuded body sawed and planed into all sorts of fantastic shapes.

The fourth stage is that of "sorrowful lamentations." In the fifth the left side of the body and the denuded head are carefully roasted. Yoma, the Buddhist Satan, superintending the work. In the sixth stage the arms are torn from the body and thrown into an immense vat among the eyes, nails and hair previously removed. Then in plain hearing of the sore-footed, blind, maimed, roasted and bleeding victim the whole horrid mass is pounded into jelly. In the seventh stage the other side of the victim and his feet are roasted brown and then comes the eighth and last stage, in which the candidate is thrown into the bottomless pit of perdition.

THE MOHAMMEDAN MESSIAH.

Belief of the Faithful Regarding His Second Coming.

According to tradition, the true Mahdi will be preceded by 60 forerunners—John Baptists or Eliases—called Babs (Bab means the door, through which enters Messiah).

As a rule, those holy personages—Ulemas, or descendants of the prophet, wind by setting up themselves as the Messiah—begin by calling themselves only Babs, or doors, and if they meet with success and are accepted, they then pose as the actual Mahdi.

As to the Babism of recent times, this is its simple origin:

About 50 years ago a young native of Shiraz named Mirza Ali Mohammed was the favorite pupil of a celebrated sheikh, who was looked upon as a sort of Bab, or forerunner of the Mahdi. After his died his young pupil Mirza Ali Mohammed, announced himself as also a Bab. He was soon surrounded with disciples. His popularity alarmed the reigning shah. He was arrested and kept in prison for some time, but as his followers increased in numbers, the Ulemas thought it prudent to condemn him to death by torture. The subsequent massacre of the Babs is a matter of recent history.

The Babs that were left, inspired by a thirst for vengeance, now plotted the assassination of the shah, and each attempt has been followed by more Bab massacres. Now you have the key of the situation.

The late shah succumbed at last to one of these assassins, who had unsuccessfully attempted his destruction several times before. The Bab, young Mirza, was not a highly educated person, but very proud, and of irreproachable life. He was not otherwise remarkable, but possessed of a strange faculty of writing with extreme speed, (you would call it mediumistic writing, an accomplishment considered miraculous by our adepts.) Still he wrote little about his doctrine or his person—but after his death his apostles made a Mahdi of him, and from that to a divine incarnation was a step easily accomplished, as we have seen illustrated in your own Christian religion. To Mahdism were soon joined mysticism and pantheism, which have always dominated the philosophic instincts of the Iranian peoples. If you want to understand present Persian politics, you must bear in mind that Irania (Persia) has always been, and is now, full of sects like Babism which are called Soufi hakem, Sheikhi babis, etc.—Contemporary Review.

My Nerves are weak, many people say, and yet they do not seem to know that they are literally starving their nerves. Weak, pale, thin blood cannot give proper sustenance—that is why you are nervous, tired, exhausted. The cure for this condition is to purify, vitalize and enrich your blood. Take Hood's Sarsaparilla fairly and faithfully, and the rich, red blood, which it makes, will soon feed the nerves the elements of true strength they require; they will cease their agitation and will resume their proper place—being under the control instead of controlling the brain and body. Read Miss Bartley's letter:

THE CZAR IN PARIS

Gorgeous and Magnificent Reception to the Autocrat of Russia.

FRENCH CAPITAL IN HOLIDAY ATTIRE

Lavish Expenditures for Decorations and Entertainments---Extraordinary Precautions Against Any Attempt at Assassination---Programme.

Paris, Oct. 6.—This city, the gay metropolis of the world, has been the scene of numerous grand and gorgeous fetes, but it has been many years since anything undertaken in Paris equaled in the slightest degree in magnitude the scale on which arrangements for the entertainment of the czar and czarina were completed. The decorations throughout the city are superb and defy description, and money has been lavishly expended in every direction to make the visit of the imperial couple to the French capital one long to be remembered, even by rulers who are accustomed to displays of pomp and splendor at every move in their careers. During their stay in Paris the czar and czarina will use specially made carriages, while five caleches have been built for the use of the imperial suite. The coachmen wear long blue coats with gold buttons, red waistcoats, powdered wigs, and high hats. The berlin is a magnificent affair, dark blue in color, lightened with red scroll work and brass moutings, and with large silver lamps at each corner. Three gorgeously attired footmen occupy the back of this carriage. President Faure had an especially gorgeous turnout built for his use, and the sixty horses which will be used by the czar and czarina and the president were specially trained and exercised in the streets through which they are to pass.

A Million Strangers in the City.

It is estimated that there are fully a million strangers in the city. The crowds are remarkably orderly and the police have little work to do beyond keeping country people out of danger. To-day is a general holiday in honor of the visit of the czar. All the shops and offices and the bourse and banks are closed. Even at the postoffice the day is a partial holiday, only two deliveries of mail being made during the day.

Georgeous Decorations.

Enormous prices were paid for windows and balconies from which to witness the state entry of the imperial couple into paris. The entire route was lined with troops. From the station in Paris where the czar and czarine alighted all along the route the decorations are magnificent. There are Russian and French flags innumerable on flagstaffs, among the trees and the latter, being already bare of leaves, are thickly covered with paper flowers representing peach, almond and other blossoms, thus giving the Bois de Boulogne and other such spots the aspect of spring. On the Place de l'Etoile there is an elaborate array of flags and flowers, and all along the Champs Elysees are columns forty feet high painted to imitate stone. On the summit of each of these columns is a two-headed Russian imperial eagle six feet in height, supporting the imperial crown. The terrace of the Tuileries gardens is brilliant with flags and statues, and on the square of the Hotel de Ville is a double colonnade decorated with paper flowers. A pavilion in Muscovite style has been erected in front of the Trocedero, from which the czar and czarina will be invited to view the illumination of the gardens on both sides of the river and the fireworks. There will be also on the Eiffel tower, between the first and second platforms, a gigantic St. George in fire surmounted by a Russian eagle of electric light.

Dine at the Russian Embassy.

The Imperial couple have planned to remain five days in France and the programme as arranged is as follows: To-day they will dine at the Russian embassy and visit the Russian church. This evening the czar and czarina will attend a dinner at the, Elysee, for which 200 invitations have been issued by President Faure to the presidents of the two chambers, the members of the diplomatic corps, the ministers, the commanders of the army corps and to the representatives of the great bodies of the state. After this dinner there will be a reception for which 200 additional invitations have been issued. After this reception the imperial party will attend a gala performance at the opera. The city will be brilliantly illuminated and there will be a Venetian fete on the river Seine.

Sightseeing the Programme for To-morrow

To-morrow the imperial visitors will visit the principal places of interest, and at 2:30 p. m. they will lay the first stone of the bridge, to be called the Pont Alexander III., which will serve for the exhibition of 1900. The occasion will be marked by a grand assembling of delegates from all the manicipal and commercial bodies throughout France. Later the czar and czarina will pay a visit to the mint, where a medal commemorative of their visit will be struck. They will also visit the Academie Francaise and the Hotel de Ville, and in the evening will give a dinner at the Russiam embassy. At 9:30 p. m. they will attend a performance at the Theatre Francaise.

To Witness a Grand Review of Troops.

On Thursday morning they will visit the Louvre and will breakfast at the Russian embassy. They will then leave for Versailles, will visit the Sevres porcelain factory, will dine at the Palace of Versailles and will attend a grand fete in the gardens of that palace. In the evening they will leave by train for Chalons, and on Friday will witness an imposing review of troops numbering about 70,000 men.

Extraordinary precautions have been taken to guard the czar during his stay in France. He will be constantly surrounded by Russian and French detectives. Foreigners arriving at any of the places to be visited by the czar have for some time past been required to establish their identity, and many suspects pointed out by the Russian police have been secretly expelled from France, and special detachments of police have been stationed at all ports where nihilists and others were likely to land. In addition, the commission of public safety of Paris has organized a special service to supervise all the districts which the imperial guests will pass through, and their train will be under the charge of a score of the best detectives in France. More than a quarter of a century has elapsed since any sovereign, excepting the late shah of Persia, has entered Paris in an official capacity. Nearly thirty years ago Alexander II., grandfather of the present czar, and the then king of Prussia attended the exhibition of 1867.

CHERBOURG DISAPPOINTED.

The Rainy Weather Prevented the Czar and Czarina Appearing in Public.

Cherbourg, Oct. 6.—The czar and czarina, who arrived here at 2 o'clock yesterday afternoon and left for Paris late last evening, greatly disappointed the people of Cherbourg by not showing themselves to the populace, owing to the rainy weather, although the city had been profusely decorated in honor of the advent. Much admiration is felt for the czar's condact in remaining upon the deck of the imperial yacht in the face of the severe storm, although she pitched and rolled in the heavy seas enough, in the eyes of a landsman, to threaten destruction at every lurch. The Polar Star's course as she came up the harbor under the escort of the French fleet was a triumphal progress. The enthusiasm of the multitudes upon the quays broke out time and again in tumultuous cheers which almost drowned the deep-throated voices of the cannon. When the czarina stepped ashore President Faure kissed her hand, and he shook hands with the czar. He then escorted the imperial couple through the driving rain to the apartments which had been prepared for them, where a banquet was served. Without traversing the principal streets of the town the imperial party and President Faure and his suite then started on the journey to Paris.

SHELTER ON FLORIDA COAST.

Several Houses of Refuge Established Years Ago Now Ordered Discontinued.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Secretary Carlisle has ordered the discontinuance of those houses of refuge on the eastern coast of Florida: viz.: Chester Shoals, Bither Creek, Orange Grove. These houses of refuge, ten in number, were established years ago on that coast, when along its entire length of 250 miles there were not more than seventy-five inhabitants; now there are 10,000 from the last report of the district superintendent. Six of these houses are still in operation. The houses of refuge are simple dwellings, not unlike those common in the south, with a capacity sufficient for the residence of a family, and for the temporary shelter of as many as are likely to need it. The distance between them average twenty-six miles, and at each mile along the coast are placed guide posts indicating the distance and direction to the nearest station. The houses are supplied with cots and provisions sufficent to succor twenty-five persons for ten days.

Maria Barberi's New Trial.

New York, Oct. 6.—The second trial of Maria Barberi for the murder of Domenico Cataldo, her faithless lover, will be begun on October 13. Maria Barberi, it will be remembered, was convicted before Recorder Goff and sentenced to death in the electric chair. She was taken to Sing Sing prison where she was confined until her conviction was reversed and a new trial ordered by the court of appeals. Her case attracted much attention and numerous prominent people enlisted themselves in her behalf, much of the sympathy being extended on account of her extreme ignorance.

Kearney and Haines Now on the Ocean.

Rotterdam, Oct. 6.—Notwithstanding the secrecy observed by the police regarding the disposition that has been made of the alleged dynamiters Kearney and Haines, the conjecture made in these dispatches that they had been deported on a steamer, turns out to have been correct. It was learned today that the two men embarked on the steamer Werkendam a few minutes before she sailed hence for New York, and that they were escorted aboard the vessel by policemen who saw to it that they left the country. Both Kearney and Haines are traveling under aliases.

Accident at a Barn Raising.

Wooster, O., Oct. 6.—While a barn was being raised on the farm of Daniel Wile, near West Caanan, O., yesterday, the framework broke, letting a heavy mass of oak timber fall upon twenty men engaged in the work. All of them received injuries, six having limbs broken. Cyrus Ewing, who had his jaw broken and Henry Snell, who had all of the ribs of his left side broken, will probably die. The accident was witnessed by 300 persons, who had gathered to assist in the barn raising.

Crashed into an Engine.

Hazleton, Pa., Oct. 6.—While an engine stood on the frog at Lumber Yard on the Lehigh Valley railroad yesterday some passenger cars crashed into it, crushing in the end of the smoking car and damaging the engine. Theodore Heiser, a brakeman, was thrown out of a car and sustained a crushed leg and body. The passengers were severely shaken up, and several more or less injured.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Generally Fair Tonight and Wednesday, but Cloudy and Threatening in Morning; Stationary Temperature.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 68 Degrees.

NO BROWBEATING HERE.

There is not so much browbeating of innocent witnesses in court as formerly, but there is enough to make welcome the recent action of Justice Hotaling, of Chicago. One of those blustering lawyers who imagine that admission to the bar carries with it the privilege to insult a witness, tried that plan of breaking down a witness before Justice Hotaling. The Justice did his duty in protecting the witness and ordered the attorney to change his manner of examination. As might be expected, the bully made an impudent retort, which resulted in his summary ejectment, the doughty Justice taking an active part in the proceedings. The story is not complete, in not telling of the disbarment of the lawyer.

PRIMARY TEACHER'S UNION.

Officers Elected for the Ensuing Year.—Plans for the Future.

The first annual meeting of the Primary Teachers Union was held yesterday afternoon at the usual place. The devotional exercises were in charge of Mrs. Elvain Van Name, and Miss Bainbridge taught the lesson, after which the regular business was taken up when officers were elected for the ensuing year as follows:—President, Miss Beeching; Vice-Presidents, Mrs. Powlison, Miss Bainbridge, Miss Rocap; Secretary and Treasurer, Mrs. Smalley; Librarian and Corresponding Secretary, Miss Lambert.

It was announced that the Union would hold its second annual institute Monday, October 26th, at a place to be decided upon later. Among the prominent New Jersey workers who will be present at that time are Mrs. Petitt, Mrs. Barnes and Mrs. Dudley.

The programme committee reported progress regarding the arrangement of the programme for the coming year, after which the meeting adjourned.

Interesting Bible Study.

Rev. D. M. Stearns, of Germantown, Pa., gave his third Bible lesson in the Y. M. C. A. Hall last evening. The class was large and much interest was manifested throughout the lesson. Dr. Stearns is a fine teacher and imparts truth in a very clear and forcible manner. The next lesson will be given on October 19, and the class will be maintained during the winter on alternate Monday nights at the Y. M. C. A. Hall. All who are interested in Bible study should not fail to avail themselves of this opportunity. The class meets at 7:30 p. m. and the first half hour is spent in general Bible study. From 8 to 9 the Sunday-school lesson is taught.

—New Brunswick has a firemen's parade today.

—Rev. J. Kennedy Newell started a class in elocution at Prof. John Leal's school yesterday.

—Mr. and Mrs. R. F. M. Chase, of Somerset street, had a night-blooming cereus in full bloom last evening, and it was much admired by those who saw it.

—A delegation from John Hand Camp, No. 29, S. of V., went to Somerville last evening, and were the guests of Camp, No. 40, of that place. The members report having had a pleasant time.

—The half-yearly meeting of the Elizabeth Presbytery will open in the above city this afternoon and continue through tomorrow. It is expected that several persons from this city will attend.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shopkeeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer or the butcher who gives us short weights, is a thief. However their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and vilainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarantee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

These God fearing people, whose motto has always been "Try all things and hold fast that which is good." have put upon the market ten cent sample bottles of their product, or sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of ten cents, a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirements of the case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves all distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

—Through the liberality of the hustling manager of the Postal Telegraph and Cable Company in Plainfield, W. E. Martin, a messenger boy has been placed at the disposal of the committee of arrangements for the Christian Endeavor convention.

—James Scott, the bootblack, found an apparently new overcoat in the men's toilet room at the railroad station Sunday. In one of the pockets was a card with the name of Dr. George W. Leonard, 102 West Seventy-fifth street, New York city, but there was no one around to claim the coat.

ASSESSMENT PROTEST.

clock. One from J. W. VanEps offering to do the work for $30, and another from J. Hervey Doane agreeing to do the same for $65. Mr. Dumont then moved that the city clerk be authorized to arrange with Mr. VanEps for the repair of the clock at a cost of $30. The motion prevailed. Mr. Fisk made a report concerning the petition of J. W. VanSickle, the North avenue butcher, who asked for the priviledge of erecting an iron frame for an awning in front of his place of business. Mr. Fisk wanted to refer the matter to the fire and building committee, but Mr. Tolles interposed, and the petition was granted with the proviso that the work be done under the direction of the building inspector.

Mr. Fisk stated that the Street Commissioner had reported the names of several property owners on West Front street who had failed to lay sidewalks as required by the ordinance, and he moved that the walks be laid, and that a lien be effected on the property for the payment of the work. The motion was adopted. Following are the names of the property owners and the location of the property, all of which is on West Front street: G. W. F. Randolph, Nos. 901-935; W. H. Martin, 1025; H P. Williams, 1027; N. K. Barnes, 1221; Timothy McCarthy, 1137-1151; W. J. Dodd, 1115-1119; Mrs. Elizabeth Kriney, 1101-1107; John Hauge, 1049; Julius Williams, 1031-1037; Alex. Gordon, 1212-1216; Bennett Britton, 1220.

At this time Mr. Ginna introduced resolutions concerning the death of the late ex-Councilman E. N. Erickson. The resolutions are as follows:

WHEREAS, This Council learns with sincere sorrow that an all-wise Providence has called away our late esteemed friend and associate, Eric N. Erickson, it is fitting that our feelings should be manifested in such manner as shall express our appreciation of his private excellence;

Resolved, That we deeply regret the loss of one whose integrity, prompt business habits and courteous manner won our regard as a personal associate and esteemed friend.

Resolved, That we sincerely sympathize with the bereaved family of the deceased, who has so suddenly been bereft of a devoted husband and father, and that a copy of these resolutions be transmitted them.

Following the reading of the above Mr. Barrows made a few remarks in testimony of the life of the ex-councilman. The resolutions were adopted by a rising vote.

Mr. Frost, who last year represented the city, voluntarily, at the meeting of the American Society of Municipal Improvements, stated that this year the meeting would be held October 14th to 16th at Chicago, and as cities like Jersey City, Newark, and Elizabeth were members of the society, he thought Plainfield should be. He said he expected to attend the convention this year, and asked the Council to join the society by paying a fee of $5. On Mr. Fisk's motion Mr. Frost was authorized to attend, and the necessary $5 was ordered drawn for the purpose above mentioned. The society is organized for the purpose of discussing the best ways and means of promoting information on subjects relative to improved street pavements, electric lighting, sewerage and sanitation, water works and supply, taxation and assessment, city government and legislation, and the disposition of garbage and street cleaning.

At this time the meeting adjourned, there being no further business to transact.

—The Board of Registry are making their first house-to-house canvass today.

—White's store will close Wednesday, Thursday and Friday evenings at 7 o'clock.

—The Somerset Board of Chosen Freeholders are holding a meeting in Somerville today.

—The pocketbook found by Mr. Lusardi, corner Front and Somerset streets, and advertised in yesterday's Press, found an owner a few hours after the paper was issued, and the finder was rewarded for his honesty.

—Engine No. 389 left Jersey City station at 9:05 this morning with a special vestibule Blue Line train of seven coaches of Ancient Honorary Artillery of Boston enroute for Baltimore. One gun was fired from the rear end of the train as it pulled out of the depot.

—Messrs. Kelly & Campbell, owners of the big orange grove at Crescent City, Georgia, have been notified of another severe loss to their interests there. On Wednesday last another cyclone passed over that section of the country, knocking off thousands of the young orange buds. The loss will be heavy.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

—"I felt tired all the time and I also had headaches. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine made me better very quickly after I had taken it for awhile, and I am now all right." Miss B. J. Sehing, 116 Pearl street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

Make Two Cakes

One with Cleveland's baking powder, the second with any other.

Note the difference. The Cleveland cake is fine grained, keeps its natural moisture and flavor; "the other" is coarse grained, as if the sugar were too coarse, soon dries out and becomes husky.

Cleveland's leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

THEATRICAL.

Little Miss Ena Bartheldi, a really wonderful contortionist, makes her first appearance at Proctor's Pleasure Palace, New York, this week, after a most successful tour through England. Edison's Vitascope still continues the most attractive of all the original features at this popular place of amusement. Others in the big bill are Spink and Spink, comedy acrobats who do a most amusing sketch; the Quinns in "The Baby Judge;" Lizzie B. Raymond, the popular comedienne; the Bootblack Quintette; James Walbrock, Emery and Nordine, Jerome and Alexis, Waller and Waller, Ruby Lytton, Dan Reagan, Urline Sisters, May Hughes and Stewart and Cooper, and Lillian Delmore.

Dorothy Morton has made a decided hit as "O Mimosa San" in the Japanese musical comedy, "The Geisha," which is being so successfully produced at Daly's Theatre, New York. Her rendition of the part has been pronounced equal if not better than that of Miss Tempest who created the role in London. "The Geisha" is booked for a long run in New York and has already proven a great financial and artistic success. Mr. Daly having recovered from his recent indisposition is now giving his personal attention to the stage, which is an assurance of artistic success.

Still More Plainfield Improvements.

J. E. Mills, the builder, who has perhaps erected as many buildings as any one man, is still extending his usefulness. On Saturday he broke ground on Marleton avenue for another new $6,000 house of the Colonial patern. The house will contain eleven rooms, and will be fitted up with all modern conveniences.

Councilman Valiant's Nephew Dead.

Borough Councilman John Valiant received a telegram last evening, informing him of the death of his nephew William Valiant, which occurred at his home in Baltimore. Mr. Valiant left town today for the latter place, where he will assist in the arrangements for the funeral.

Along Legal Lines.

In Justice Newcorn's Court the case of Sherman versus Wearren has been adjourned one week. In the case of Griffin versus McKee, judgment was given the plaintiff. At 7 o'clock this evening, the case of Watts versus Miller Bros. will come up in the above court.

In Good Financial Shape.

George P. Dupee, treasurer of the Park Club, has just published his annual report, which shows the club to be in a properous financial condition. Two bonds of $100 each have been paid off during the year.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Kickapoo Indians are in town and will open tonight in Excelsior Hall.

Tonight the Democratic flag will be raised at Scotch Plains. Levi Darby furnishes the forty-foot poles gratuitously. Speakers will be present from Elizabeth.

Still another cabbage patch was raided at the Plains Sunday night, and a wagonload of winter sauerkraut was carried away. The owner of the patch, a German, was away at worship at the time and of course there is no direct clue to the thieves.

DUNELLEN.

G. R. Crandall rode his wheel to Westfield and return yesterday.

Alvah Gray has been spending a few days with friends at Califon, this State.

Henry Ludwiser will start to erect his new house on Jackson avenue this week.

Mrs. John Taylor has gone to Ridgefield, this State, for a few weeks' stay with relatives and friends.

The new town hall has started the ball rolling, as there are plans now out for four or five new houses.

Miss Bessie Benton, formerly of this place, but now of New York, spent Sunday and Monday with the Misses Marlowe.

William Khuns has secured the contract for painting the new town hall, and of course he will touch it up in great shape.

Mrs. J. B. Wright and Mrs. Whitmore, of St. Simon's Mills, Ga., are spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. A. F. Warden.

The members of the Dunellen Fire Department have been ordered out for a wash on Thursday evening of this week, weather permitting.

The Dunellen Gun Club will shoot a return match with the Independent Club of Plainfield, Thursday afternoon, October 8th. A good time is expected.

Messrs. Randolph, Terry, Gray, Nelson and VanNeis have postponed their hunting trip to Pennsylvania from October 17th to the second week in November.

Conductor Dodwell, of the Central Railroad, was obliged to relinquish his charge yesterday and return home, suffering from a severe attack of rheumatism.

Mr. Hardingham has sold his property and rented the new house of Mrs. William Taylor, where he will reside until spring, or until he can erect a house of his own.

Assistant Ticket Agent T. J. Romaine was called home to Rahway on Saturday on account of the serious illness of his brother. Special Agent "Joe" Brokaw, of Somerville, is filling his place.

A very quiet but pretty wedding took place at the home of the bride here this afternoon, at 3 o'clock, when A. Lincoln Egbert and Mrs. Lucy Bachelor were made husband and wife by Rev. Dr. Johnstone, of Plainfield. An informal reception followed at the home of the bride.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

A Democratic banner is to be raised at South Plainfield on Wednesday evening of this week. There will be addresses by well-known speakers, and the Metuchen fife and drum corps will furnish the music.

Fell With Her Baby in Her Arms.

As Mrs. Frank Hart, of West Fourth street, was going down stairs Sunday with her little three year old boy, Frank, in her arms, she tripped and fell. She escaped with a few bruises, but the child's head was quite severely cut, and it was necessary for Dr. Berg to take three stiches to close the wound.

THE JUNIORS' PARADE.

Little Endeavorers Will Show Their Strength Friday Afternoon.

In all the good things which have been provided for the host of incoming delegates to the convention, the Juniors are to have their share. A special session will be given to them on Friday afternoon at 3:30 o'clock in the hall. But preceding this service, the societies in town and fourteen visiting societies will assemble in the neighborhood of the Crescent Avenue church, and at 3 o'clock sharp will march two by two, preceded by the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, through two or three of the streets west of Watchung avenue, and thence to the hall. They will be divided into three divisions, with David Titsworth, Walter Harris, of South Plainfield, and Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, acting as marshals of the respective divisions. One boy from each society will act in the capacity of aid, and will wear badges to designate their office, and as soon as each aid's society arrives at the church he will immediately inform the marshal of his division, who in turn will send his aid to the chief marshal, Rev. C. L. Goodrich. By this means it is to be hoped that each society will be easily placed in line. About five hundred boys and girls are expected, and those who do not witness the parade will miss a pretty sight, as each boy and girl will wear a convention badge and carry an American flag.

Upon reaching the hall they will sing as a processional, "Our Junior Band is Marching On" until all are in their places. Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., State Junior Superintendent, will preside. An address of welcome on behalf of the Juniors will be given by Miss Rita Pond, and Rev. C. H. Syndall will deliver an illustrated sermon. At the consecration service, each society when its name is called will respond with an appropriate verse or hymn. The Mizpah benediction will end the session. In case of rain there will be no parade but the Juniors will assemble at the hall at 3:30 sharp.

To this session, the parents and friends of the boys and girls are invited, but may not enter the hall till the Juniors are seated.

Her Seventh Birthday.

Miss Madeline Reed, daughter of Assemblyman and Mrs. Charles A. Reed, of Myrtle avenue, is today celebrating the seventh anniversary of her birthday. Mrs. Reed is making the event one of pleasure for her daughter by inviting a few of her intimate friends to her home where the afternoon is being passed in a genuine social manner. The young hostess received many presents as pleasant reminders of the happy affair.

As Usual, a Success.

The regular Fall opening of White's millinery parlors, under the direction of Miss Kittie Daly, commenced today, and will continue tomorrow and Thursday. The department is bright with the prettiest of hats of the very latest designs, dainty novelties, pretty flowers and feathers. The store was thronged all day with ladies admiring the beautiful hats, and the most pleasing part was the littleness of the prices asked.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

CHARTER ELECTIONS

Republicans Increase Their Vote Throughout Connecticut.

GAIN AT LEAST FIFTEEN TOWNS

Have Nearly Doubled the Number of Their Victories in 1893, When High Water Mark Was Supposed To Have Been Reached.

Hartford, Oct. 6.—Town elections were held in all the 168 towns in the state yesterday, with the exceptions of Hartford, New Haven, Bridgeport, Ansonia, Derby and Naugatuck. The returns show that the republicans have made large gains over a year ago, when it was supposed high water mark had been reached, the republicans having nearly doubled their number of towns from 1893. In Hartford county in 1893 the towns stood: Republicans, 17; democrats, 4; divided, 7; returns show that the republicans have gained three towns and the democrats have lost one, five being divided. The license vote does not vary perceptibly. There is one notable change. Manchester turning from license to no license. Middlesex county complete shows twelve republican towns against eight last year. In nearly all cases the republican vote has been very largely increased while the democratic vote has fallen off. In two towns national democratic tickets were voted for. All the towns heard from in Windham county have gone republican. It is probable that the complete returns will show that the republicans have gained at least fifteen towns. School consolidation was defeated in East Hartford and Glastonbury and was carried by Simsbury. Torrington gave a republican majority of 500, a much larger vote than usual being polled. The democrats carried East Haven. It was republican last year.

CHRISTINA SNYDER'S WILL.

Decision of the Court in a Dispute Over a Provision Providing for the Husband.

Pittsburg, Oct. 6.—Justice Green, in the case of Warren against Snyder, which involves the construction of the will of Christina Snyder, in which she gives her husband the income of her estate, free from any liabilities for his debts, and providing that he should educate Katie Glass Moyer, finds that the provision for the education of the girl requires a considerable portion of the income and takes away the character of absolute ownership of the income from the husband and without that quality creditors have no standing against any part of the income. The court also disapproves the position of the lower court in holding that a married woman cannot make a valid spendthrift trust for her husband.

BRYAN IN THE SOUTH.

Big Crowds Listen to the Nominee at Different Points on His Journey.

Nashville, Tenn., Oct. 6.—Great crowds greeted William J. Bryan on his trip across the state to this city, and he delivered several speeches. He was the recipient of a big demonstration upon his arrival here last night, and made an address. He was accompanied by Senators Harris and Bate. Although slightly fatigued by his journey, Mr. Bryan is bearing up well under his arduous campaign work.

Senator Hill's Position.

Utica, N. Y., Oct. 6.—Elliot Danforth, chairman of the democratic state committee, who was here yesterday on legal business before the surrogate's court, was asked by a reporter concerning his visit to Senator Hill at Albany and as to what stand Senator Hill would take in this campaign. He received the following reply: "I believe Senator Hill will support the democratic ticket and is anxious for its success. At the proper time and in his own way I believe he will so declare."

Gen. and Mrs. Harrison Enroute Home.

New York, Oct. 6.—Gen. and Mrs. Harrison left last evening enroute for home. The ex-president delivered a campaign speech in Richmond last night, and to-day he will deliver addresses in Charleston and Wheeling. It is stated that he will make several speeches in his own state, and may deliver a speech in Ohio in connection with a visit he will shortly make to Cincinnati on law business.

Repairing Storm Damage to White House.

Washington, Oct. 6.—By the time the president returns, the flag on the white house can fly over the executive mansion again. A new staff to replace the one carried away by the hurricane has been erected. The staff dislodged by the storm last Tuesday night has not yet been recovered, and it is now thought that it was either purloined as a relic or ignorantly chopped up for kindling wood by the finder.

New Lease of Life for a Murderer.

Trenton, Oct. 6.—The court of errors, in a decision just handed down, holds that a writ of error in capital cases is a writ of right and not a writ of grace. This decision gives a new lease of life to Henry Kohl, whose case will be argued before the court of errors in November, and final decision will probably be deferred until next spring.

Miss Anna Eliot Ticknor Dead.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 6.—Anna Eliot Ticknor, daughter of the late George and Anna Ticknor of Boston, died at her summer home here yesterday. She was 70 years old and had never been married. Her father was the well-known author and Harvard professor, who died in 1871. The body will be taken to Boston to-day for burial.

Nominated for Congress.

Hoboken, N. J., Oct. 6.—The Seventh congressional district republican convention unanimously renominated Thomas McEwan, jr., for congress.

A FOUR-YEAR-OLD.

A four-year-old's a baby,
Whatever you do or say.
You may rig him out in a roundabout
And teach him the time of day:
As his muscles grow he will bluster and blow
Till you think him an army of men;
Until short of breath you may "love him to death" *
And declare "he's his father again,"
But, whether you will, he's a baby still,
Whatever you do or say.

A four-year-old's a baby,
Whatever you do or say.
He may run and shout and want to play out
In the yard the livelong day;
He may put on his hat and his coat and all that,
And button his shoes with a hook:
He may swagger and strut and pretend to be, but
No matter how big he may look
He's a baby still, whether you will,
Whatever you do or say.

A four-year-old's a baby,
Whatever you do or say.
You may call him a man, as a mother can,
Seventy times a day:
If he cries when he's hurt, all covered with dirt,
You'll gather him up in your arms,
Nor kisses refuse to cover the bruise
And quiet his tearful alarms.
For whether you will, he's a baby still,
Whatever you do or say.
—William S. Lord, in Chicago Record.

AGAIN.

BY BULKELEY CRESWELL.

Characters: Maj. Blowzer, aged eighty-seven, Blue Artillery; Miss De Trafford Mutton, aged thirty-two, thirteen seasons out ("twenty-four last birthday"); Mamma, her mother; Philips, a parlor-maid.

Scene: Drawing-room in important garrison town. Sofa at back, chain and tripod work-basket with worked silken cover; fire, with glass over-mantel. Tea-table in front of sofa. Basket-chairs with bows on them, photographs, draped flimsy on picture frames. Proprietors: Scent bottle, two Bladder Sleeves, one Yellow French Novel with picture on back; tea-things with sugar, book, etc.

Miss De T. Mutton—I am not at home to anyone but Maj. Blowzer; you understand, Philips?

Philip—Yes, miss, I understand. (Exit.)

Miss De T. Mutton (puts down novel on sofa and ruminates)—Yes, I'm sure he will come. I've managed mamma nicely. He asked so pointedly. He was so very— But why me instead of mamma? Surely he can't think—no, he cannot think that I take care of myself! It's years since I went anywhere without a chaperon. I—he— (Is not quite satisfied; gets up and goes to glass and preens and plumes herself, fusses out skirt, plucks at bladder sleeves; presses down flat curl in middle of forehead; smooths over bodice; notices she is looking anxious; looks pretty into glass; frowns for contrast; looks pretty again; says in dumb show: Yes, isn't it? Then again a little more: Yes, isn't it? Notices one cheek has wider surface of red than the other; thinks: "It is my cheek towards the fire—it does not matter." Realizes that it is the cheek away from the fire; adjusts with handkerchief; begins to try and see her back; fancies she hears some one and stops; tries to see it again; thinks she is looking dull; goes to table, drops eau-de-Cologne from scent bottle on lump of sugar, eats it; prepares another. Loud knocking below. Drops sugar and runs to window; peeps cautiously round blind; runs back to sofa. Notices yellow French novel with picture on back, thrusts it under cover of work-basket; runs for Waverley novel from bookcase, gets back on sofa with smart dress, bladder sleeves, slippers, ankles, white flounce underskirt, etc.) (Enter Philips.)

Philips—Maj. Blowzer. (Enter Maj. Blowzer.)

Maj. Blowzer (awkwardly)—Ah—how-dy-do, Miss De Trafford? (They shake hands.) I hardly hoped to find you at home on such a lovely afternoon. I'm—

Miss De T. Mutton—Yes, isn't it?

Maj. Blowzer—'Fraid I'm disturbing your reading. Waverley, I see. (Wishes he had never come begging.)

Miss De T. Mutton—Yes, I delight in Waverly, don't you? It is my pet of all Sir Walter's. I'm never tired of reading it. (Sits sofa L.)

Maj. Blowzer—Yes, very much, yes; we used to do it at school. (Takes up book and sits uneasily.) Ah, this, yes, I see—Quentin Durward.

Miss De T. Mutton—That? O, yes; yes, that. But won't you put down your hat, Maj. Blowzer?

Maj. Blowzer—Thanks, yes, thanks. (Tries to seem as if the idea was new to him. Decides he will never go begging for bazars again.)

Miss De T. Mutton—Won't you have some tea, Maj. Blowzer?

Maj. Blowzer—O, thanks very much, yes, thanks.

Miss De T. Mutton—Sugar?

Maj. Blowzer—Please, yes, thanks, yes, thank you. (Realizes he must begin.) I hope, Miss de Trafford, you have recovered from the fatigues of last night; you look very fresh, if I may say so.

Miss De T. Mutton (fears she has overdone it)—O! wasn't it delightful; and that last waltz with you, Maj. Blowzer! (Looks at him, accidentally drops lump of sugar, reaches over sugar basin for it, picks up lump charged with eau-de-cologne, puts it into tea, hands him cup.)

Maj. Blowzer—O, thanks! Yes, I remember; you were telling me all about a bazar you were helping with; awfully good of you, don't you know, I think. (Smells tea; tries to sniff at it without being noticed; tastes cautiously.)

Miss De T. Mutton (remembers she had on black satin and Philanthropy the night before; does a graceful laugh of three syllables)—O, no! I'm quite in love with bazars; have I given you enough sugar, Maj. Blowzer?

Maj. Blowzer—Quite, thanks, yes. (Coughs slightly; remembers to have heard of "scented tea," hopes he will never meet with it again. Looks about for excuse to set down cup.) Now, well, I suppose—this kind of thing—for instance, now—may I? (Puts cover and takes silken cover from work-basket.)

Miss De T. Mutton (suddenly)—O, don't, please.

Maj. Blowzer—I beg pardon. (Sees open French novel with picture on back.) Ah-ha, I see, yes, well, perhaps we had better not—. (Laughs.)

Miss De T. Mutton—A novel by—

Maj. Blowzer—Yes, so I see, Miss de Trafford, I know it. (Laughing.) Ho! ho! I've read it myself, ho! ho! ho! twice, ho! ho! ho! ho! Oh dear, and—ho! ho! ho! you'll excuse me, but—but Waverley, ho! ho! ho! ho! (Laughs, looks at her, feels in his element, thinks: "Come, this is all right.") Well, perhaps we had better cover it up again.

Miss De T. Mutton (Remembers when she last blushed, tries to recollect how she did it; fails.)—I am afraid mamma reads rather curious books. (Thinks she ought to push out her slipper and look at it. Does so.)

Maj. Blowzer (Looks at her and laughs; hopes he has not hurt her feelings; determines to make up for it. Moves easily to seat on sofa.)—My dear Miss De Trafford, I'm sure you must think it very strange in me to call after such a slight acquaintance like this, but you will remember that there are occasions when strict formalities may be excused. There was something that would not wait—I think you can guess what it is.

Miss De T. Mutton—(Thinks she ought to sit silent, and looks gravely at her fingers and twiddles something in her law. Reaches for scent bottle and twiddles it.)

Maj. Blowzer (Thinks she need not be so cut up at his finding the novel)—I wished to speak last night, but you know how difficult it is to manage such things at a large dance. (Remembers how he stood close beside her and looked searchingly for her through the ball-room, in order that he might take Katie Travers in to supper instead, and be believed when he should explain how he hunted for her in vain.)

Miss De T. Mutton (softly)—Yes. (Remembers the same occasion and that she said in a loud voice, beside him, to a friend: "Oh, have you seen mamma?" but without drawing his attention from his keen quest of her.)

Maj. Blowzer (in a burst of unreserve)—Well, my dear Miss De Trafford, it is like this, we are getting up a bazar to help the fund in aid of the widow of the gunner killed last month, you remember? My wife is away—.

Miss De T. Mutton—Your wife!

Maj. Blowzer—Yes, she's away, and I promised her I would do what I could before she came back. The poor fellow was in my old battery; and I thought if you would be so kind as to give us the benefit of your help and experience it would—.

Miss De T. Mutton (loudly and rapidly)—O, I shall be delighted.

Maj. Blowzer—Now, that's very good of you; very kind.

Miss De T. Mutton (loudly and rapidly)—O, I shall be delighted, only too pleased, I'm sure; charmed; I'm so glad you came—so unfortunate—mamma—out—would have been delighted—.

Maj. Blowzer (taken aback and feeling for hat)—O, thanks; now that's awfully kind, don't you know—.

Miss De T. Mutton (still loud and rapid))—Don't please, no, I'm delighted—the opportunity—greatest possible pleasure—should never have forgiven you if you hadn't asked me.

Maj. Blowzer—Thanks—good of you—indeed. No, really—good-by, good-by. Thanks again—grateful, I'm sure: good-by. (Remembers that the White Hart is close at hand and he can get a drink at once. Exit.)

(Miss De T. Mutton rings bell, looks blankly at bell-pull, walks aimlessly about touching things, stares into glass L. without seeing herself, etc. Enter mamma.)

Mamma (in a clear ringing voice)—Did they send those cakes?

Miss De T. Mutton (stamping)—O, I don't know whether they've sent any cakes. Where have you been all the afternoon?—Black and White.

A Lincoln Anecdote.

History has recorded many samples of Lincoln's dry humor. The following, related by a personal friend, is one of his quaint speeches: Robert Lincoln was once invited to a dinner at which many eminent men were to be present, among them Henry Wadsworth Longfellow. "Do you think you'll go, my son?" inquired his father. Young Robert thought he would. "Very well, then," replied Lincoln deliberately, "go! But if you're able to maintain a respectable conversation with those distinguished gentlemen you'll do more than your father was ever able to accomplish!"—Catherine Young Glen, in Illustrated American.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable, NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

A Question of Importance—the question of prices

We don't want anybody to think of this as a "cheap place." It is nothing of the kind. There isn't anything as thoroughly cheap as cheap hats. We can't afford to sell them. But there is such a thing as selling reliable hats at moderate prices. You'll find that method in operation here. You'll find that all our hats will stand the wear test. We sell nothing that we are doubtful about. There's good big money's worth in any hats here, from the ordinary sorts at $1.50 up to the genuine Youman at $5.00

TEMPLE CUP SERIES.

Orioles Capture Three Straight Games and Victory Is Almost Assured.

Baltimore, Oct. 6.—The chances for the Temple cup resting in Baltimore this winter are very bright. The third game of the series with the Cleveland team, and the last one to be played in Baltimore, went to the home team by the score of 6 to 2. The champions need but one more game to capture the elusive flagon. Unless the Spiders put up a better article of ball on their home grounds than they have presented here, the Orioles are likely to make it four straight. Not that the westerners have not played good, fast ball, but because the eastern boys are at their best, and for the first time in a Temple cup series have been able to give their opponents pitching of the very highest class, while Young and Cuppy have both been out of condition. The teams will continue the series in Cleveland to-morrow, Friday and Saturday, provided, of course, the Orioles do not win and thus end the contest. Should a seventh game be necessary to decide the winner, it will most likely be played in Pittsburg. Capt. Tebeau has not yet recovered from the wrench he gave his back during Friday's game, but he is improving. The prices of admission yesterday were reduced to the figures which prevailed during the championship season, and 4,241 persons paid entrance fees.

INTERNATIONAL CRICKET.

The Philadelphians Win a Decided Victory over the Australians in the Final Game.

Philadelphia, Oct. 6.—The cricketers of Philadelphia won a great and merited victory over the Australians by defeating them yesterday afternoon in an inning and sixty runs in the concluding day's play of the third and last match of the series. In their first inning the Australians made 121 runs. The Philadelphians then went in and scored 282 runs, and the Australians were retired in their second inning for a total of but 101. The result of the last match reflects credit upon the pluck and skill of the home players, as in the first two matches they seemed badly outclassed by the antipodeans. The first two matches went to the credit of the visitors by a margin of 123 runs in the first game in two innings and 71 runs in the second. By these two defeats the Philadelphians learned a good lesson and by hard practice completely reversed their form in the match just closed. On the other hand the visitors played way below the form they showed in the first two matches and were as completely outclassed by the Philadelphians as they had been previously superior to them. The Australians left last night for Chicago where they play the Wanderers club of that city.

LOSSES BY FIRE.

The Record for 1896 Now Promises To Be Unusually Light.

New York, Oct. 6.—To-day's Journal of Commerce and Commercial Bulletin will say: "The fire loss of the United States and Canada during the month of September amounted to $8,200,650. This is a comparatively modest sum, and the record of 1896 to date shows a total which is about $6,000,000 less than the figures for the same period of 1895. During September there were 185 fires of a greater destructiveness than $10,000 each. Altogether, the outlook for a low record for the entire year is very promising. It is evident that nothing but a conflagration between now and January 1, 1897, can prevent the aggregate from showing a gratifyingly light figure."

Railways in China.

Pekin, Oct. 6.—Consent has been given by the Chinese government for the building of a branch of the Siberian railway across northern Manchuria, with a pre-emption clause giving China the right of purchasing this branch after thirty years. Permission to construct a branch through southern Manchuria was refused. Shang Taotai, the director of railways, will probably obtain the concession for the Hankow-Pekin line.

For Thirty-knot Torpedo Boats.

Washington, Oct. 6.—Secretary Herbert has settled the controversy over the torpedo boat contracts by awarding two torpedo boats of the thirty-knot class to the Bath Iron works, Maine, and one thirty-knot torpedo boat of the larger class to the Union Iron works, San Francisco.

TURKS FRIGHTENED

Armenian Massacres Not Likely To Be Renewed at Present.

HOTHEADS CALMED BY THE POWERS

The German Ambassador Says the Demands of the Armenians Are Unjustifiable—Turks Wrong Only in Their Manner of Crushing the Rebels.

Berlin, Oct. 6.—The Lokal Anzeiger publishes an interview with Baron von Saurma-Jeltsch, the German ambassador to Turkey, annent the situation in that country. The ambassador says he does not think that the recent horrors will be soon renewed. The Turks have been somewhat frightened by their own acts, and the decided attitude of the powers has calmed the hotheads. Continuing, Baron von Saurma-Jeltsch declares that the demands of the Armenians are unjustifiable and impracticable. The Turks were only wrong in their manner of crushing the rebellion—that is, in not distinguishing the innocent from the guilty. Baron von Saurma-Jeltsch concludes by declaring that he has strongly warned the sultan that such a state of affairs as he set forth in the interview cannot continue, and that he must be careful to strike only those who are plotting against him.

Harcourt on What England Should Do.

London, Oct. 6.—Sir William Vernon-Harcourt, the leader of the opposition in the house of commons, last night attended an anti-sultan meeting at Ebb Vale, Monmouthshire. A resolution was submitted and adopted calling upon the government to do everything possible to protect the Armenians. In supporting the resolution Sir William said he rejoiced at the anti-sultan outburst in England. Experience, he added, had proved that the policy of Great Britain in defending the integrity of Turkey and preventing the intervention of Russia had failed. Great Britain ought in the future to co-operate with Russia in the east, treating her as an Asiatic neighbor and not as an enemy. The first step in this direction ought to be a formal renunciation of the Cyprus convention, by which, in return for support of the Turks, the latter ceded the island of Cyprus to Great Britain. Sir William declared that he was profoundly convinced that it was utterly impossible for Great Britain to effectually operate alone against Turkey. He did not admire Great Britain's "splendid isolation," which, he said, resulted from humiliating impotence. He preferred to cultivate the friendship of other powers in a cordial, neighborly spirit.

Responsibility of Hypnotists.

Atlanta, Ga., Oct. 6.—Judge Foute of Atlanta has rendered a decision holding that the hypnotist is directly responsible for the acts of his subjects. During a performance at a local theatre a hypnotic subject imagined he was a monkey. He grabbed a hat off a man in the audience and bit a piece out of it. The professor and his business manager declined to make good the cost of the hat, and the hypnotist was prosecuted before Judge Foute upon a charge of malicious mischief. The judge sustained the charge, and bound the hypnotist over to a higher court.

Efforts To Defeat Palmer for the Senate.

Springfield, Ill., Oct. 6.—Chairman Taubeneck of the people's party state committee has received the resignations of the candidates of that party for congress and legislature in the territory comprising the 18th, 19th and 20th districts. The democratic candidates for the same offices in that territory will hand in their resignations. Both parties will then get together and nominate a fusion ticket. By these means the populists hope to secure a fusion man as a successor to senator John M. Palmer in the United States senate.

The Leadville Strike.

Leadville, Col., Oct. 6.—Gen. Brooks and his officers have practically decided to make provisions for defending the endangered mines by placing a cannon on Carbonate Hill, which commands most of them. The next object of attack, if further attack is made, is pretty well understood to be the great pumping plant of the Maid of Erin mine, which drains the Mahala, Emmet and Marian mines, which are now resuming work.

May Aid Breckinridge's Candidacy.

Louisville, Oct. 6.—Judge George Denny of Lexington has issued an address withdrawing from the Seventh district congressional contest because the republicans had decided not to name a regular candidate. It is believed that most of the republicans will on account of Denny's withdrawal vote for W. C. P. Breckinridge, whose one opponent will be a free silver democrat.

Nihilist Meetings in London.

London, Oct. 6.—The Daily Mail asserts that the Nihilists have held several excited meetings in London recently. "Some of the nihilists," says this paper, "were in favor of an attempt upon the czar's life, but a majority in favor of inaction carried the day, on the ground that England was the only country where an asylum was left for the extremists."

Statue of Harriet Beecher Stowe.

Hartford, Oct. 6.—The Hartford Equal Rights club has appointed a committee to raise funds for the erection of a statue to Harriet Beecher Stowe, the gifted authoress of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," who died in June.

Deserted Brewery Destroyed by Fire.

Hoboken, N. J., Oct. 6.—The old deserted brewery, situated at the foot of the bluff at Guttenburg, and two adjoining houses were destroyed by fire yesterday. Loss, $100,000.

SPORTS

TUESDAY, Oct. 6. Sun rises 5:50 a. m., sets 5:53 p. m. Lanterns must be lighted between 6:53 p. m. and 4:50 a. m.

Cyclists desiring to join the League o merican Wheelmen will be furnished ith application blanks and necessary information by addressing the Cycling Department of the Daily Press.

CYCLING COMMENT.

A ten mile road race will be held at Metuchen on Saturday.

T. H. Keller has donated a set of eight college flags to the Crescent Wheelmen with which to decorate their clubhouse.

The Hackensack Wheelmen will have a century run to New Brunswick and return on Sunday. They pass through Plainfield both ways.

The 25-mile match race between Monte Scott, of Providence, and O. B. Hackenberger, of Denver, has been arranged for Oct. 10th, and will take place at the Denver Wheel Park. The Westerner has done the distance in record time, and the Providence boy will have to ride the race of his life to defeat him.

Messrs. F. M. Sutphin and G. B. Clark, of East Orange, arrived in town yesterday morning on their wheels from Flemington, where they have been visiting. They left Flemington at 7 a. m., arriving here about 9:20. The riders reported the roads as very heavy between Flemington and Bound Brook, but through here they found clear sailing.

"Tom" Cooper, who is as near the top of the ladder of fame as any other fast rider in this country, if not a little higher, will spend most of the winter in California. He will return for the big cycle shows, and go back again to prepare for the opening races in the National Circuit. California has the best climate in which to train, according to Cooper's observations.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Chas. Greader and a party of friends fished in the Passaic Sunday and captured eighteen bass and pickerel, averaging from 1 to 2½ pounds.

A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the local branch of the New Jersey Game and Fish Protective Society will be held in the society's rooms in the Babcock building this evening at 8 o'clock. Reports will then be made of recent violations of the game laws, and other important business will come up for consideration.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

Jed Smalley has brought his trotter "Alonzo" home from the Trenton fair.

Newton Smalley purchased a new horse at Bernardsville last Saturday. The horse is a pacer with a record of 2:20.

Charles C. Brower's "Highland Boy" will start in the 2:25 class at the Parkway Driving Park, in Brooklyn, this week. Then the horse will be taken to Fleetwood to trot in the same class there.

—Attention is called to the announcement of the Board of Education of the North Plainfield Public School, published in another column.

—Circular No. 21, issued by the Central Railroad Company, states that Thomas Fox has been appointed night ticket agent at Cranford, and John Kelly at Westfield.

—Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., met last evening and transacted routine business. A report was received from the committee on field day exercises held last Thursday, and the same was very satisfactory.

—William N. Pangborn, R. A. Pope and Mr. Green are making a house to house canvas for the names of voters ing the borough. The canvas must be completed on or before Tuesday next, when the Board will meet for a revision of the lists.

—Most all of the West Front street property owners in front of whose places the city council has ordered walks laid, were present at the meeting of the council last evening when such action was taken. They evinced considerable interest in the proceedings, though they had nothing to say.

Speed and safety are the watch words of the age One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Children Cry for Pitcher's Castoria.

When Baby was sick, we gave her Castoria.
When she was a Child, she cried for Castoria.
When she became Miss, she clung to Castoria.
When she had Children, she gave them Castoria.

Many lives of usefulness have been cut short by neglect to break up an ordinary cold. Pneumonia, bronchitis and even consumption can be averted by the prompt use of One Minute Cough Cure. L. W. Randolph, 144 West Front street.

TRUE KIND OF RELIGION

death is referred to as such a dark place. Then said Mr. Moody that Psalm says "In the valley of the shadow of death," and did you ever see a shadow in the dark?

If you haven't enough grace, come tonight and get some, for God is always glad to give it. When you have more than enough, you are ready for service. People are afraid of being called peculiar for doing good works. When God has any great work to do he calls a peculiar man or woman to do it. "By pecular, I mean out and out for Christ." A final exhortation ended his discourse and he closed the meeting with prayer and the benediction.

The music for the singing was furnished by William E. MacClymont on the piano, and Whitney Frazee on the cornet. Quite a number of the choir wore the convention caps, white tam o'shanters, with a band of light green ribbon about them on which is the word "choir" and the society monogram in gold. The men in the choir will wear yatching caps.

Convention Notes.

Arrangements have been made whereby the Christian Endeavor convention hall will be heated, so that the auditorium will be comfortable.

It was the platform and not the main floor at the Cycle Academy which was found in an unsafe condition. The difficulty has been attended to and everything is now in a perfectly safe condition.

YOUNG REPUBLICANS ORGANIZE.

The Club to be Made a Permanent One—Will Hold a Mass Meeting.

Another political organization was formed last evening which is to be for the benefit of the young men of the Republican party in Plainfield. For some time a movement has been on foot to organize such a club, but it did not take definite shape until last night when about forty young men gathered in the Republican Association rooms.

The following officers were then elected: President, William N. Runyon; vice-president, Edward Petrie; secretary, Edwin H. Frost; treasurer, O. G. Waring.

About forty members were enrolled, and the organization will be a permanent one. It is expected to hold one mass meeting during the campaign.

Death of Charles Fisher.

Charles Fisher, a well known resident of this city, died at his home on East Second street about 11 o'clock last night, after a lingering illness from a complication of diseases. He was forty-five years of age and leaves a widow and one son. Although feeble, he was about the house, as usual, yesterday and last night, and only reached his room a short time before his death. He was a stepson of Judge L. F. Wadsworth and was for several years a member of the photographing firm of Fisher & Monfort, with rooms on East Front street. His wife's maiden name was Miss Mary Clark.

THE RENEWAL OF LIFE AND HAPPINESS.

DR. GREENE'S NOTABLE CHICKERING HALL, N. Y., LECTURES.

Able Presentation of Causes of Human Misery—Plain Talks for People in Strong Language—A Dark and Gloomy Picture With a Bright Side.

(Special dispatch from New York City)

Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, cannot be regarded as other than a benefactor of his race. His masterly lectures, grandly illustrated, delivered in Chickering Hall, New York, on the subject of weakness, debility and disease in men, women and children, have aroused the careless and set the thoughtful thinking. We were impressed, after hearing his powerful lecture last evening, with the great need that exists for such lectures. If a man or woman will look over the list of their friends, they will be surprised at the number who are suffering from weakness or ailments of one kind or other.

Dr. Greene's enormous practice, his long experience, and his thoughtful investigations, have resulted in great good to thousands, and it is highly creditable to his humanity that he has made his knowledge a free gift to the suffering.

Dr. Greene has found that most of the ills from which men, women and children suffer are due to nerve weakness, blood deterioration or functional disturbance of some organ or organs of the body. These conditions do not come of themselves, but are the result of ignorance of the laws of health, neglect of the body, irregularity, errors, imprudence and continued excesses. Overwork sometimes brings about a condition of physical debility. Some people, in their overweening desire to make money, overtax the physical powers by work, have insufficient sleep, irregular meals, or break down in health from some irregularity or excess. There are some, too, who have to overwork themselves to earn enough to keep life in their bodies. In other words, they wear out to keep themselves alive.

There is constant hurry in modern life. We work rapidly, we eat rapidly, and even our pleasures are taken rapidly. There is the constant struggle for wealth, the struggle for social distinction and the struggle for more bread.

Many, too, are born with a lack of moral restraint or with the love of pleasure so strongly innate that they do not care to exercise reasonable powers of resistance. These are the people who plunge into or are easily led into excesses, who are guilty of errors and indiscretions, who consider only the present and are regardless of the future. But this high pressure, whether in work or pleasure, cannot be kept up. When nature is pushed beyond the limits of her resources, she speaks, and in no uncertain voice. She has been urged and goaded too long, and the day comes when she refuses to respond.

Nature has been throwing out signals from time to time that she was being pused too rapidly and too far. These warnings have been in the form of attacks of vertigo, occasional fits of indigestion, disorders of the stomach, liver and bowels, headaches or pain in various parts of the body. But they were deemed only transient, and the pace was kept up. But as time passes, these attacks become more frequent and remain longer. The insidious foe is creeping gradually into the citadel of life, and almost before the victim realizes it, the fortress is taken and the foe in possession.

Now comes the time when the penalty for rashness, carelessness, imprudence and error must be paid. And the foe is exacting and remorseless. The body has become devitalized, all the vigor and energy have departed, the beauty has passed from the complexion, the eye has lost its brightness and become dull, the hair has lost its glossiness and become coarse, and may be falling out, the face has lost much of vivaciousness of expression, the step becomes heavy, there is an ever-present feeling of nervousness, a disposition to indolence, a desire for seclusion, fits of gloom and despondency are frequent, palpitation of the heart comes on at the least exertion, sleep refuses to visit the pillow at night, and when it does come it is accompanied by dreams, terror seizes the victim and despair sets in. This is nervous prostration, the awful consequence of overtaxing or misusing the powers of nature.

But there is still hope. All is not lost. As there is a silver lining to every cloud, so there is a bright as well as a dark side to this picture, and Dr. Greene painted the bright with as strong a touch as he has drawn the dark. Nerve weakness, disordered organs debility and disease have engaged the attention of Dr. Greene for many years. He has in effect made these calamitous conditions the study of his life. Investigating their causes and studying their effects, he set himself to the task of finding the means of restoring to health the body and mind after so much had been done to destroy both. He applied himself to the discovery of remedies which would build up that which had been broken down, and after years of unwearied research and investigation, in discovering the marvelous medicines which have made his name famous throughout the country, which have effected so many wonderful cures, and which are admitted to be the only positive sure and effectual remedies that medical research has produced. Dr. Greene's eminent standing, his distinguished position among medical men, his rank as the most successful specialist of the times, commend him to public confidence, and in consequence, his practice is something enormous, but his advice and treatment are always available for suffering wherever it is. Do not think because of Dr. Greene's great success and high standing, that his advice and treatment are beyond your reach, and do not think because you are far away in some remote district, village or farm, that you cannot have the benefit of the skill. You can consult Dr. Greene, personally or by letter, free. If you are weak and suffering, call upon Dr. Greene at his office, 35 West 14th St., New York City. If for any reason you cannot call, write him a letter detailing your symptoms, telling him everything, just as you would tell your troubles to a sympathizing friend and after he has read and studied your case, he will advise you by letter what to do. This is an unusual opportunity. Do not neglect. Delays are dangerous. Don't put off an hour. Write to Dr. Greene at once, and you will receive the advice that will restore your health, bring back your vigor, give you the power of enjoying life and make you as happy as you ever were in the world.

Why Not Decorate.

Several persons have suggested that it would be appropriate if people in general would decorate for the Christian Endeavor Convention which opens in this city tomorrow evening. Several of the merchants have not removed their decorations, while many have arranged the C. E. monogram on their show windows with pretty effect.

Relating Vacation Experiences.

The first fall meeting of the Rasores Club was held this morning at the home of the president. The programme was an informal one the members telling something of their vacation experiences.

Joseph La Boyteaux, of Fairview avenue, returned yesterday afternoon from a sojourn at Chatham Centre, N. Y.

Joseph Yates, who has been staying at the home of John Leal, of Central avenue, has returned home to Brooklyn.

Councilman George H. Frost, of Watchung avenue, will leave town the first of next week for Chicago, where he will attend the convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvements.

FOR CHRIST AND CHURCH

ALL IN READINESS FOR THE CONVENTION OPENING.

Delegates From all Over the State Have Come and the Reception and Assignment Committee Have Had a Busy Time in Arranging for Their Entertainment—Story of the Day.

This evening Plainfield's population will be increased by several thousand, for the delegates to the tenth annual State Convention of the Christian Endeavor Society have begun to arrive and every train brings another delegation from some Jersey town.

Young women, young men, elderly people whose hair has already begun to be tinged with gray—they all come members of that grand movement that has spread so rapidly over this continent and even across the water. The sun was the first to receive them, for after being missed for several days he came out this morning in all his glory as if to welcome the many Endeavorers who will gather in this city for the next three days for prayer, praise and conference.

At the North Avenue station, the the members of the reception committee, wearing the white cap which is to be donned so extensively at the convention by the committees, choir and ushers, appeared early to receive and welcome the delegates as they arrived. Even the early trains this morning brought a group of the visiting Endeavorers, and soon they were on their way to the registration office at the First Baptist church, under the guidance of one of the white capped Endeavorers of the reception committee. The city itself was beginning to awake to the importance of the occasion as party after party of delegates passed by and the decorations began to appear. Some of the merchants had already arranged their windows so as to conform with the convention colors, green and white, and the State colors, orange and black. The monogram of the society was also displayed in many store windows.

The arch over Park avenue, at the corner of Front street, has also assumed an appropriate dress, orange and black bunting was draped on the back ground of white, while the light green bunting was worked in with the rest in a tasteful manner.

At the registration office in the basement of the First Baptist church all was bustle and excitement, but the work of registering the delegates and assigning them boarding places went forward without interruption. One of alcoves of the main room had been partitioned off for the assignment department. At the other end was the information bureau and the good literature table. As the delegates came in they were shown a long table where they had a chance to fill out their application blanks and credentials.

Jos. M. Hawkins was in charge of the information bureau with Thad Doane, Jr., as his right hand man. Here the delegates presented their credentials and were registered and received badges and programmes. The postoffice, to which the delegates send their mail, is also here.

The good literature table on which were displayed the supplies of the United Society of Christian Endeavor was looked after by Edward Hazen.

The assignment bureau was complete in all its arrangements. The delegates who wished entertainment applied here and were assigned to their various quarters. A score of bright-faced lads, members of the Junior Society—pages, their badges called them,—were ready to direct the delegates to their boarding place and they were kept busy.

The assignment bureau was under the charge of John G. MacLaughlin and he certainly had his hands full. His assistants were W. O. Chapman, G. F. Brown, R. W. Barnes, Fred Smith, Wm. P. Spangenberg, Chas. H. Smith, Wm. A. Crawford, Frank J. Hubbard, Misses Mabel Bonnell, Ernestine Smith, Grace Yerkes, Bessie Blair, Lizzie Dunn, Sue Woodland and Bertha Needham.

The members of the reception committee on duty during the morning were, besides the chairman, Horace J. Martin, the following: Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Mrs. A. C. LaBoyteaux and the Misses Adelaide Runyon, Helen Cuming, Annie Wyckoff, Emma V. Fish, Eda Beekman, Minnie G. Morse, Julia Belknap, Mary Chase, Florence Hawkins and Captola Conover.

The committee at the registration office have looked well after the appearance of the room, and bunting of the State and covention colors has been used to good advantage. The partition that separates the assignment bureau is colored with white, with a touch of green here and there makes the effect very pretty.

The convention hall is all ready for the meeting tonight. The chairs have been arranged, the final touches added to the decorations and all that is now needed is that grand gathering of happy bright faces that will fill every crook and cranny at the opening service tonight. A wheelroom has been arranged for the convenience of the delegates while in one of the stores next door a Christian Endeavor lunch room has been established.

The service opens at 7:30 o'clock, but long before that the stream of delegates will head in that direction.

"Sing while waiting" says a big sign, and so the Christian Endeavorers will probably lift up their voices in some of those familiar tunes that add so much to the effectiveness of the meetings.

As the convention is especially for the delegates from the different societies, they will be given first chance at the seats in Convention Hall. Half an hour after the meeting begins, the door will be opened to all. For the benefit of the local people Mr. Moody will hold a meeting at the First Baptist church, beginning at 7:45 o'clock.

Some people think that it is an easy thing to take charge of a convention, but don't you believe it. Poor Mr. Anthony! He is chairman of the '96 convention and most of the responsibility falls on his shoulders. They are broad, but they need to be to carry the load. He is dragged here and there, asked questions innumerable until the brain of any ordinary man would be all in a whirl. He needs a thousand hands, and entire bodies for that manner, but as he can't have them he uses other people's instead.

The office of the '96 committee is in the Y. M. C. A. building and a lively place it is. The State officers, most of them, were there this morning which only makes things all the more exciting. Joseph M. Hawkins, the Secretary, is a treasure. Without him, there is no doubt but that Mr. Anthony would have to give up in despair. He has been superintending the registration office this morning and keeping a watchful eye on everything.

Several hundred delegates arrived this morning, coming from all parts of the State, and they are now arriving in crowds, each train bringing a fresh installment. They will continue to arrive all this afternoon, to morrow and Friday, some coming for the entire convention and others for only a short time.

Politicians, local entertainers and the local churches have all given up their regular meeting this week and you needn't expect to see, hear or talk anything but Christian Endeavor and the convention for the next three days.

The Daily Press will contain a complete and detailed account of the convention. A special staff of capable reporters will cover all the meeting, and delegates will find a true history of the convention by procuring copies of The Press. The complete set of papers can be obtained by leaving orders at the information bureau, at Convention Hall, or at The Daily Press office, and the set will be sent to any adddress on payment of 10 cents.

A brief session or conference of the Evangelistic Workers was held in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church at 11 o'clock today. Rev. F.B. Everett, Superintendent of the Evangelistic Department of the State presided. Rev. Mr. Parmeley, of Oceanic, spoke of the work in the Hollywood Union, and Rev. Dr. D. J. Yerkes and Rev. Dr. Barnes gave brief talks.

HANDLING THE CROWD.

List of the Ushers Officiating at the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Although many do not realize it, the task of an usher at the Moody evangelistic meetings and at the convention is no easy one. It was necessary to secure an army of them so as to be able to handle the crowd at all the meetings. That has been done and the organization successfully accomplished. It is no easy job to direct them all, either. All this has been done, however, and very successfully, too. The general committee in charge consists of Harold Serrell, chairman, Harry C. VanEmburgh and George R. Cornwall. They bear the title of chief ushers and their assistants are

DR. HUNTER ENTERTAINED NEWSPAPERMEN AT THE SANITARIUM.

A Delectable Menu Provided for the Inner Man and Brief and Pithy Toasts Responded to by Each of the Guests.

The new sanitarium at Netherwood recently purchased by Drs. Hunter, of New York, was formally opened last evening when the proprietors gave a complimentary dinner to the press of New York, Philadelphia and Plainfield. There were present representatives of the New York Herald, Times, World, Sun, Post, Journal, Mail and Express, Brooklyn Eagle and Standard, Philadelphia Inquirer and Plainfield Daily Press. The guests sat down to dinner at 6 o'clock, and amid wit, humor, pathos and fact, with a side dish of politics, an unexcelled menu was presented in a most tempting manner, After all had partaken of the good things provided, ex-Councilman Spangenberg, one of the guests, proposed a toast for the hosts. This was given with hearty good cheer and brought forth speeches from Drs. Hunter, who explained very concisely the objects and aims of the institution.

It was said that consumption can be and has been cured by the method employed at the sanitarium During a practice of fifty years Drs. Hunter have treated 60,000 people with great success, and people who had been given up to die had been cured by their method. Every representative present was then called upon, and each one responded most happily. It is seldom that a number of newspaper men assembled at such an occasion, and there was an exchange of thoughts and ideas that was truly delightful to all. Besides the newspaper men present, there were several physicians and lawyers who gave additional honor to the event. All present finally joined in a discussion of the method of treatment given at the sanitarium and many valuable points were brought out. An adjournment was made to the parlors where the guests enjoyed good cigars and more speeches. Each one present joined in saying that Drs. Hunter were right royal hosts and that they had made no mistake in establishing his enterprise at Netherwood, amid the most pleasant surroundings.

Dr. Bliss's Good Work.

The Morning Advertiser has a good word for the Rev. Dr. Bliss, formerly pastor of the Crescent Avenue church in Plainfield. "Washington Heights Presbyterian church, Amsterdam avenue and 155th street, is fast gaining members under the pastorate of Rev. John C. Bliss, D. D. The young people's meetings, held every Wednesday evening, are attractive and instructive, and the lads and lassies of the Sunday school attend regularly.

The Physicians Dine.

The Plainfield Medical Association partook of their annual dinner at the Hotel Tuileries last evening. Covers were spread for twelve, and the physicians all declared that the menu was par excellence. Dr. Murray introduced the subject for consideration and a pleasant informal discussion followed. Those present were Drs. Ard, Clawson, Murray, Tomlinson, Gaston, Carman, Long, Davis, Manning, Simpson and Turner. The latter, who is associated with Dr. Simpson, was elected a member of the association.

MUST BE BORN AGAIN.

THE SUBJECT OF MR. MOODY'S TALK LAST EVENING.

There is Something Besides Vows and Resolutions; You Must Have the True Spirit of Christ to Get to Heaven.

The Christian Endeavorers have won for themselves a reputation for enthusiasm and energy that was well borne out at the fourth of the series of evangelistic meetings which Dwight L. Moody is now conducting in Plainfield, held at the Jersey Cycle Academy, now called Convention Hall, last evening. It was the last evening meeting before the convention, and the spirit of the approaching gathering seemed to pervade the hearts of all. The chorus choir, most of them in their white caps, that are to distinguish them during the contion, opened the meeting with a rousing song service led by F. H. Burke. Howard Case acted as accompanist, and Whitney Frazee as cornetist.

The hall began to fill as soon as the doors were opened, and when Mr. Moody rose to regularly open the meeting there was hardly a vacant seat to be found in that vast assemblage. Everybody rose to unite in the opening hymn, "Hide Me." Rev. C. L. Goodrich then led in prayer, after which followed a short period of silent prayer The solo "She touched the hem of his garment," was sung with great power and feeling by Mr. Burke.

President Anthony said that some people had been circulating reports that the hall was unsafe. This was utterly false, he declared, as it had been thoroughly inspected by Plainfield's building inspector and pronounced perfectly safe. He then gave out the notices of the coming meetings. Then the ushers passed the collection baskets, while the choir gave another selection. Everybody joined in that rousing song, "Onwarn Christian Soldiers," and a heart-felt prayer by Rev. Dr. Richards followed. Mr. Burke then sang in his usual impressive manner, "When the Mists Have Rolled Away," assisted by the choir.

Then Mr. Moody came forward for his talk. He first requested that all who believed that Jesus Christ taught the truth should raise their hand. The response was unanimous. If He did teach the truth, continued Mr. Moody, then I am going to bring before you a question, perhaps the most important one you have ever been asked. Have you been born again? Jesus teaches that a man must be born again to reach the Kingdom of God. You cannot force or buy your way in, you cannot steal in, you must be born again. It were better, said Mr. Moody, that we had never come into this earth than live here and not be born again.

God has been very good to me, he continued, He has showered blessings on me, but the greatest was the blessing of the new birth when I became a joint heir of Heaven with Jesus Christ. We cannot afford to be deceived in this question.

This is the A B C of God's alphabet. Men, that find so many doctrines that trouble them in the Bible, will see them all vanish when they are born again. The new birth answers ten thousand questions, it answers them all at once.

I have asked a great many people, remarked Mr. Moody, why they think they are Christians. One man said

MIND AND MAN LOOSE

AN INMATE OF THE MORRIS PLAINS ASYLUM ESCAPES TO PLAINFIELD.

Stopped at Stirling on His Way and Wanted to Kiss and Embrace His Former Employe—He Was Taken Back.

Perhaps you remember that German coachman, Wilhelm Kumpf, who became insane in this city last spring and was then taken to the Morris Plains State Hospital for the Insane. Yesterday he escaped from that institution and came to this city only to be captured and carried back again. Keeper L. R. Herrick had eight prisoners under his charge yesterday morning at the Hospital and, as usual, took them out for an airing. They were down at the "Oaks" picking up apples when Kumpf, who was one of the number, dodged behind the bushes and started on a run. Keeper Herrick pursued him for a short distance and then returned to look after his other charges. He traced the escaped lunatic through Morristown and in this direction. Knowing that he had friends in this city the keeper rode over on his wheel, reaching here at 8 o'clock.

Meanwhile Kumpf had gone on to Stirling. Before his mind had become unbalanced he had been employed by H. A. Streuli, as coachman. Mr. Streuli and Evarts Tracy happened to be at Stirling yesterday looking at the ruins of Mr. Streuli's silk factory when the demented man came up to them. He was profuse in his delight at meeting them, tried to kiss their hands and wanted to embrace them. Dr. Parkhurst, he declared, would come to see them soon, for in that direction did his insanity run. He wanted them to take him home with them, but they refused and tried to get the Stirling authorities to hold him as they knew he must have escaped. When they reached Plainfield, however, they were treated to a call from the demented coachman, who insisted that Dr. Parkhurst would be with them soon.

Then Kumpf went to the home of Rev. Edward Kionka, with whom he had been staying when sent to the Hospital. Now it happened that Keeper Herrick knew of his friendship for Rev. Mr. Kionka and had arrived there just two minutes before him. When Kumpf came his keeper took in the situation at a glance. He had the people in the house keep the escaped lunatic there while he disappeared through the back door, found Sergeant Kiely and soon the man was placed in the city lockup. There he spent the night and this morning was escorted back to the hospital by Keeper Herrick and Special Officer Jeremiah Cash.

This was Kumpf's first attempt to escape.

To Be Moved Next Sunday.

If all signs are favorable the commuters who go to New York every morning will notice next Monday morning that the freight house will be conspicuous by its absence. The plan now is to move the structure on cars next Sunday morning to the vacant lot on West Third street, near Plainfield avenue. The above time is selected from the fact that a less number of trains are run on Sunday and the removal will necessarily block the traffic on several tracks. Men are now busy arranging the building for removal, so that no time will be lost on Sunday.

Had Lots of Fun.

The scholars of the Sunday-school of Holy Cross church were given a pleasant picnic in the grove at Chimney Rock, Saturday afternoon. Three of Captain Hand's stages conveyed them from the borough to the grove and there they spent the day in the swings, pavilion and in enjoying the other attractions that the pleasure spot affords. One of the enjoyable features of the day was a chestnut hunt. Besides getting the nuts, they had a whole lot of fun.

Money for New Books.

A regular meeting of the Board of Directors of the Public Library was held last evening, at which time a number of bills were audited, and the librarian's report read and placed on file. The sum of $100 was appropriated and placed subject to the order of the librarian for the purchase of such books as she may deem important or especially desirable for the good of the order.

Auxiliary Officers.

The Women's Auxiliary Society of the Church of the Redeemer held its first meeting of the season yesterday at the church building and elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Mrs. Charles Matthews; first vice-president, Mrs. H. R. Phillips; second vice president, Mrs. John O. Stevens; secretary, Mrs. Emma S. Brown; treasurer, Mrs. George P. Dupee.

ON TRIAL FOR HIS LIFE.

THE PLEA FOR ELMER CLAWSON'S DEFENCE WILL BE INSANITY.

The Youthful Prisoner Does Not Seem to Be Greatly Concerned About His Fate—Mrs. Hodgetts Tells Her Story in Court.

The trial of Elmer Clawson for the murder of Harry Hodgetts, a farmer living near Pluckamin, began in the Somerset court, before Judge Magie, yesterday. Clawson is a boy, not more than eighteen, who was formerly employed by Hodgetts, but had not been a member of the family for four years previous to the shooting.

While Hodgetts and his family were at the breakfast table early on the morning of August 29th Clawson called at the door and asked to see Mr. Hodgetts. He inquired of the latter whether he would like to employ a boy, and was answered in the negative. Then he made some inquiries about the work on the farm, and, without any angry words or any provocation, according to the evidence of Mrs. Hodgetts, Clawson drew a pistol and fired three shots at Hodgetts as he stood in his doorway. Then the boy ran to the roadside and jumped upon his wheel, which he had left lying there, and started for Pluckamin. The neighbors were aroused, and men in wagons and on wheels gave chase.

The murderer was caught near the station in a clump of bushes and taken to the county jail at Somerville. Hodgetts died a few moments after he was shot.

In the court room yesterday Clawson seemed as unconcerned as though he was a spectator. Mrs. Hodgetts, in her dress of mourning and a three-months-old baby in her arms, made a sad sight in court. When called to the stand she told the story of the shooting. She testified that not an angry word passed between her husband and Clawson. The latter was fourteen years old when he first lived with them, and was a hard boy to get along with.

From the testimony of William Paulison, of Burnt Mills, it was learned that Clawson came to his place on the morning of the day previous to the murder to see his half-brother, who lives with Paulison. He left there the following morning on his wheel. Several carpenters going to their work from Raritan saw the wheel standing in front of Hodgetts' and one of them heard the shooting. He stopped and saw Clawson run out of Hodgetts' yard and jump on his wheel. The carpenters were on their wheels, and when they learned that a murder had been committed, they gave chase. When he gave himself up and came out of the bushes, Enoch Berdell asked him what he shot Hodgetts for. His reply was, "He ought to have been shot long ago." The case is being continued today. It is expected that the defence will be a plea of insanity.

New and Liberal Methods.

J. Linn Edsall, of the Commercial Palace, will from today inaugurate the most liberal methods in merchandising ever attempted in this section. The price of every article in the big store will be changed to lower figures in order to make good this promise, and to prove to the people that there is no place where their needs can be supplied to as good advantages as his store. His idea is to sell at one-half the usual profit and thereby double up the volume of trade, which would afford him the same income, and his patrons supplied at much lower prices. His two-column advertisement in The Press today gives full particulars and announces the biggest bargains this house has ever offered.

To Fresh for His Own Good.

Two gay young lotharios with high collars and little brains perched on the sidewalk on Front street, opposite Somerset street, last evening, and cast obnoxious and insulting remarks at passersby. Two ladies chanced to pass at 8:30 o'clock and one of the youths said: "Ah there." Quick as a flash one of the women wheeled around and struck the fellow broadside on the face, leaving him to nurse a smarting jaw. The two men are well known and they make a practice of slinking around the street corners at night and throwing off hand remarks at unprotected women.

Adjutant Taylor Here.

Tonight at 8, Adjutant and Mrs. Taylor, known as the Golden Minstrel, will conduct a mercy box meeting in the Salvation Army hall, West Second street. He will commission Webster Grant as the local agent of the mercy box league. He will also speak of the operations of the army. The Adjutant has a number of special songs for the occasion.

Tetter, eczema and all similar skin troubles are cured by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes at once, and restores the tissues to their natural condition, and never fails to cure piles. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

SEWALL'S LETTER

Formally Accepting the Democratic Nomination for Vice-President.

EVIL OF GOLD STANDARD POINTED OUT

Free and Unlimited Coinage of Silver the Sole Remedy To Check the Many Wrongs of To-day, He Declares—A Grave Crisis Now at Hand.

Bath, Me., Oct. 7.—The following is the letter of acceptance of Hon. Arthur Sewall, democratic nominee for vice-president of the United States:

Bath, Me., Oct. 7.—Hon. Stephen H. White, chairman, and members of the notification committee. Gentleman: I have the honor to accept in writing, as I have already verbally done, the nomination tendered by you on behalf of the democratic party as its candidate for vice-president of the United States. And in doing so I am glad, first, to express my satisfaction that the platform of our party which has commanded my life-long allegiance, is honestly and fully declaratory of all its privileges and especially of the absorbing financial issue upon which, as you say, I took my stand "when the hours of triumph seemed remote, and when arrogant money changers throughout the world boasted that the conquest of the American masses was complete." These principles have been of late in abeyance only because those whom we trusted to maintain them have failed to do so—these principles can never die. We have rescued our party from those who, under the influence of the money power, have controlled and debased it. Our mission is to now rescue from this same power and its foreign alliances our own beloved country. This is the first and highest duty imposed by our party's platform; upon the performance of this duty all other reforms must wait.

Serious Crisis at Hand.

The test of party principles is the government they assure; the proof of good government is a contented and happy people, and the supreme test of both of the ability to guide the country through a crisis as well as to administer the government in ordinary times. Our people now face a crisis. A crisis more serious than any since the war. To what party shall they turn in their dire emergency? It is true that the present crisis may not involve all equally; that there are those who do not suffer now, and who may not suffer should the crisis threatened by the gold standard come in all its fury. Human selfishness makes those deaf to all appeals, but these, fortunately, the democratic party has never needed to appeal to win its battles, nor does it now, save as there are some among them who can rise superior to self in the sacrifice which such a crisis demands of every patriot. We are told that the country has prospered under the present monetary standard; that its wealth has enormously increased. Granted. But in whose hands? In the hands of the toilers, the producers, the farmers, the miners, the fabricators in the factories, the creators of the nation's wealth in peace, its defenders in war? Have they the prosperity which was theirs so late as even twenty years ago? I deny it. They deny it. None affirm it, save those whose interest it is to do so, whose profits would diminish as prosperity returns to those on whose distress they thrive.

Deadly Evils of the Gold Standard.

All is indeed right between capital and labor. The best money in the world is none too good for those who have got it, but how is it with the 90 per cent. of our people who have "got it to get?" How is it with those who must buy "this best money in the world" with the products of their labor? These are the people for whom the democratic part would legislate. What is the best money for these is the question for all to ask who dearly love this land. How also can you increase labor's purchasing power but by increasing the price of labor's products. Is it a fair measure of value that in our great producing sections ten bushels of potatoes must be paid for a dollar, ten bushels of oats for a dollar, six bushels of corn for a dollar, three bushels of wheat and all other products of the soil and mines and the labor of all wage-earners at the same ratio? Does any fair-minded man say that this is honest money that forces such an exchange, and if it is not a fair exchange is it honest, is it less than robbery? This is the condition to which the gold standard has brought us. Under it the appreciation of the "Best money in the world" has increased the wealth of the rich, and for the same reason has increased the debt of the debtor. Little satisfaction it is to us, that they have warned us long since of the deadly evil of the gold standard. It has brought us at last to the parting of the ways.

Free Silver the Sole Remedy.

Whither shall the people go? In the way that has led to their enslavement, or into that which offers them their only chance to regain individual liberty, lasting prosperity and happiness? Let not our opponents charge us with creating class distinctions. Nor do we raise a sectional issue. The nomination you tender repels the charge. None know better than I that this nomination is meant as no personal tribute, but as an assurance that our party is a non-sectional party. Neither shall our opponents be permitted to terrify the people by predictions that temporary disturbance or panic will come from the policy we propose. Let us be diverted by none of those contrivances wherewith we are so industriously plied and belabored.

With us, in our assault upon these entrenchments, are all those unselfish men, who not now suffering themselves cannot rest content with conditions so full of suffering for others, and the vaster number of people who have been sacrificed to the small and selfish class who now resist the attempts to regain their ancient rights and liberties. These are the patriots of 1896; the foes of a "Dishonest dollar." The free and unlimited coinage of silver is the sole remedy with which to check the wrongs of to-day, to undo the ruin of past, and for our inspiration we have the justice of our cause.

ARTHUR SEWALL.

HORSESHOERS' CONVENTION.

Important Subjects for the Elevation of the Craft To Be Discussed.

New York, Oct. 7.—The fifth annual convention of the Master Horseshoers National Protective association of the United States will open Monday next, October 12, at the Park Avenue hotel, this city. The attendance will be unusually large as a great degree of interest has been aroused by the passage of the law regulating the practice of horseshoeing in the state of New York. Similar legislation is to be applied for in Michigan, Illinois, Ohio, Pennsylvania and other states. The educational schemes of the association will, however, be the principal subject of debate. Schools, the primary object of which is to teach the science of the horse's leg, have already been established in New York, Rochester, Chicago, St. Louis, Philadelphia and other cities, and it is proposed to enlarge the system for the education and elevation of the craft in both the present and coming generations.

CRITTENDEN CRITICIZED.

The Consul Censured by Olney for Giving Information to a Newspaper.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—Ex-Gov. T. T. Crittenden, consul-general to New Mexico, who is in Kansas City on a vacation, has received a note from Secretary of State Olney, in which the consul-general is criticized for publishing in a New York newspaper information which should first appear in the consular reports. The letter was printed Sept. 14. In it Mr. Crittenden gave at length the information he had gathered regarding the industrial and commercial condition of the Mexicans. The fact told in the letter had also been used in the consul's report, but the report has not yet been published.

CANADIAN PACIFIC STRIKE.

If Arbitration Fails a General Tie-up Is Threatened.

Montreal, Oct. 7.—The strike of the telegraph operators on the Canadian Pacific appears to be nearing a crisis. Delegations consisting of representatives of the Order of Railroad Conductors, Brotherhood of Locomotive Engineers, Brotherhood of Firemen and Brotherhood of Railroad Trainmen arrived in the city yesterday from the west and have been in consultation with the committee of the strikers. The object of the conference is to endeavor to affect a settlement by arbitration, but if no arrangement can be reached in this way it is claimed by the strikers that a general sympathetic strike may be ordered at once.

Cost of Foreign Missions.

Toledo, O., Oct. 7.—Assistant treasurer F. H. Wiggin's report, presented to the American board of foreign missions, shows the cost of missions for the year ending August 31, to have been $572,533; expenses of agencies, $17,332; cost of publications, $10,852; of administration, $27,252; a total of $627,969. The total expenditures, including balance for which the board was in debt one year ago were $743,104. Donations for the year were $601,966; legacies, $122,830; interest on general permanent fund, $10,307; sales of curios at Honolulu, $8,000; making the total receipts, $743,104.

Died Suddenly at a Wedding.

Pittsburg, Oct. 7.—James R. Pearson, aged 50 years, a prominent photographer, died very suddenly Monday night while attending a wedding in Oakland, at which he was a special guest of honor. The ceremony had been performed and the wedding feast served when Mr. Pearson, with his wife, joined in a quadrille. At the close of the dance he fell to the floor and expired immediately. Paralysis was the cause of death.

Steamer Hope Seeks Shelter.

St. Johns, N. F., Oct. 7.—The Peary steamer Hope, for whose safety much anxiety was felt, put in for a harbor at Ferryland, forty miles south of St. Johns, last evening. On the four days run from Sydney she encountered hurricane weather and can make no headway till the storm abates. No details of the voyage are procurable till she arrives here.

For Shooting Brakeman O'Neill.

Bethlehem, Pa., Oct. 7.—Edward Bales of Maryland has been arrested and held here for shooting brakeman John O'Neill of Philadelphia Monday night on a North Pennsylvania railroad milk train at Rock Hill, Md. O'Neill was shot while the train crew were driving away a gang of tramps, who tried to board the train.

Relieved on Account of Disability.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Captain Edward G. Mathey, Seventh cavalry, U. S. A., having been found by an examining board unfitted for promotion on account of physical disability, contracted in the line of duty, will proceed to his home and report by letter to the adjutant general of the army.

Big Iron Works Closed.

Johnstown, Pa., Oct. 7.—Practically every department of the great Cambria Iron works closed down at noon to-day for an indefinite period. Three thousand men will be affected.

Appointed Game Protector.

Albany, Oct. 7.—The state fisheries, game and forest commission has appointed A. A. Warren of Williamstown, Oswego county, as a protector.

A GREAT LIBRARY.

The Imposing Building Which Holds the Government's Books.

Built for the Express Purpose of Holding Uncle Sam's Congressional Literature—Grandest Library Building in the World.

The library is a noble, imposing, monumental structure, by far the finest building in the national capital, in many respects the finest public building on the continent, and, in the opinion of those well qualified to judge, the finest library building in the world. That a building of its size, solidity, thorough construction and elaborate and artistic embellishment should be completed ready for occupancy for less than $7,000,000 is a matter for national congratulation. Not only will it be completed for less than the original estimate, but within the time limit set nearly nine years ago. It is, therefore, both a monument of good taste in architecture and the decorative arts and a testimonial to the ability of the government, acting through its regular officials, to plan and direct great public works, to finish them within the time originally fixed and to keep within original estimates of cost—and these are no slight gains.

The building is, of course, fireproof. Little that will burn has been used in its construction. The exterior walls are of gray granite. The interior or court walls are of creamy white glazed brick. The framework of the roofs and ceiling of the dome surmounting the rotunda is of iron and steel. Fireproof material has been used between the iron girders in all floors, and the partition walls are of brick. Floors and wainscoting, stairways and balustrades are nearly all of marble, and there is good authority for the claim that more of this material has been used in the building than there is in any other building in the world. With the exception of the colored marble in the rotunda it is nearly all American marble.

The library at present contains over 750,000 bound volumes, besides 220,000 pamphlets. The three book stacks now completed, together with the alcoves immediately adjoining the central reading-room, will hold 1,168,000 volumes, which will provide for the growth of the library for 15 years, at the present rate of increase, about 30,000 volumes a year. The unassigned rooms will hold 1,047,000 volumes, which will provide for all additions for 50 years. For the growth after that date the main rooms of the first and second stories of the north, east and south sides will hold, on the stack and alcove systems of storage, 1,322,000 volumes, increasing the total capacity to 3,537,000 volumes, which will be sufficient for about 90 years from this date. The capacity can be still further increased by 1,100,000 volumes by the building of one-story stacks in the interior courtyards, without in the least interfering with the light in the second and third stories and only slightly obstructing the light in a few interior corridors of the first or basement floor. Unless the additions shall be more numerous than is now expected the new building will, therefore, prove ample for the needs of the library for 125 years, its total capacity being about 4,000,000 volumes.—E. A. Hempstead, in Chautauquan.

—England's five new battle ships, the contracts for which were recently given out, are to be called after famous old war ships: The Canopus and Goliath, which fought with Nelson at the Nile; the Ocean, Collingwood's flagship in the Mediterranean; the Glory, which shared in Lord Howe's victory, and the Albin, which fought at Algiers and at Navarino.—Military Gazette.

—Cincinnati has consolidated her street car lines and claims that she is going to have the finest street railway system in the world. The company will be required to make improvements which will cost $2,500,000 during the next 18 months. The revenue to the city from the company will be $175,000 a year. All night cars, free transfers, illuminated signs, lower steps and other improvements are guaranteed. The list of routes occupies 2½ pages in the Cincinnati Enquirer.

do you eat iron

Some persons are always taking iron. If weak and easily exhausted; pale and without appetite; if the nervous system is weak, and sleep difficult, what do you take? Iron? But iron cannot supply food to the tissues; nor does it have any power to change the activity of unhealthy organs and bring them back to health. Cod-liver oil is what you need. The oil feeds the poorly-nourished tissues, and makes rich blood. Iodine, bromine, and other ingredients, which form part of the oil, have special power to alter unhealthy action.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil, with Hypophosphites, is the most palatable way to take cod-liver oil. The hypophosphites supply healthy nerve action, which controls all the processes of life.

SCOTT'S EMULSION has been indorsed by the medical profession for twenty years. (Ask your doctor.) This is because it is always palatable—always uniform—always contains the purest Norwegian Cod-liver Oil and Hypophosphites.

BLASTED LIVES.

DR. GREENE'S GREAT PRIVATE LECTURE TO MEN.

MISERIES OF THE VICTIMS OF PREMATURE DECAY.

The Doctor Handles the Subject Without Gloves—The Hopeless Discouraged and Despairing Cheered—Means Told for Restoration of Vitality and Vigor.

Special Dispatch from New York City.

Not only weak and ailing men, but those in health are indebted to Dr. Greene of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city, for his brilliant Chickering Hall, New York lectures.

The weak and ailing because he has pointed out to them the means of recovering their health, strength and vigor; those in health because he has shown the rocks and quicksands where many a gallant bark has been wrecked.

Dr. Greene has been listened to with almost breathless attention by the large audience of men, who felt that they were hearing the words of truth and wisdom fall from the lips of one as eminent for his medical skill as he is distinguished for his discoveries in the domain of remedies, and famed for his marvelous cures. In fact, there is no physician in active practice today so well fitted, so eminently qualified to discuss the conditions brought about by overwork, imprudence and excesses as Dr. Greene. He has made the causes of the loss of vitality and vigor in men and the conditions of of debility and premature decay the study of his life, as those who listened to him could easily discern.

Dr. Greene graphically described the gradual processes by which those in possession of health and vigor reach a condition of debility and nervous prostration, the successive steps and stages of decay. Nothing can be more insidious than the approach of this foe of human happiness, the premature decay of the physical powers. It is the more insidious from the fact that it does not always manifest itself in physical forms, but often in mental deterioration beginning with melancholia and hypochondriasis. There is a loss of spirits, the subject is overshadowed by gloom, and there is an ever present apprehension of impending disaster. The intimate connection of the body and mind is thus shown, the decay of the physical powers finding its first manifestation in mental disturbances.

As the malady makes progress the physical disorders show themselves. The body becomes weak. There is a consciousness of loss of vigor and vitality that causes the utmost alarm; the heart becomes affected functionally, palpitation ensues on the least exertion. Dyspepsia is a feature which frequently introduces itself at this stage and with it come attacks of dizziness accompanied by drowsiness and an indisposition to exertion. In time stomach, liver, kidneys and bowels become functionally disordered. The subject sighs often, there is a difficulty of breathing at times pain in the right or left shoulder or both, and sometimes in the chest and abdomen.

The nervousness increases with every stage of progress, and the most fearful imaginings are the result. They produce wakefulness at night, or when sleep comes dreams and visions ensue. Complete devitalization follows, and though the victim may bear up bravely and use every effort to conceal from his friends the fact that he is paying the penalty for his errors and indiscretions, it is all too apparent to them that there is something wrong within. The complexion has lost its healthful tint, the color has gone from the cheeks, the skin has become of a dull leaden hue or taken on a sickly yellowish tinge that is unpleasant to look upon; the eye has become dull and lifeless, its brightness and sparkle gone, the step has lost its springy elasticity and become feeble and lagging, the face has lost its vivacity and much of its expression, and the erect pose of the form can no more be maintained save by strong physical effort and determination of the will, neither of which can be long sustained.

Nature is compelling the victim to honor the drafts he has made on her in the days of his health and vigor. In the pride of his physical power he made an overestimate of the strenghth of his vital resources, and now he would give all he is worth for the previlege of beginning all over again. Repentance has come, and an overwhelming regret that he had not the common sense and the prudence to live rationally, and in harmony with the laws of his being and those of society.

But how much increased is the calamity if at this time the victim of imprudence and indiscretion is engaged to marry. With shattered nerves, a constitution devitalized, a prey to melancholia and the blues, without hope, can he contemplate the obligation to which he has committed himself without dread? Impossible. With the consciousness of his condition the obligation adds to his misery, and increases his misfortune a thousandfold.

But all is not lost. There is still hope, still a road to recovery for even the most desperate case. Dr. Greene now turned to the bright side of the picture and painted that in such glowing colors that there was no further reason for anyone to despair. Dr. Greene has made this condition of weakness, of mental and physical debility the study of his life. Possessed of a brilliant and penetrative mind, an indefatigability in research and investigation, he has succeeded in discovering the true remedies for the restoration of the weak and suffering. After years of unwearied investigation and experiment he discovered the only efficacious medicines that have ever been applied successfully to the cure of this weakening and exhausting disease. These wonderful medicines are purely vegetable in their ingredients and have been so carefully brought together and so skillfully combined that the remedies give a result which never fails to cure the weak and discouraged sufferer, and make him again a strong, vitalized and vigorous man.

Dr. Greene is admitted to be the most eminent, distinguished and successful specialist in curing these complaints. His marvelous cures are universally known and are the theme of comment in every section of the country. He has cured the most desperate cases and he can cure you. Although holding so distinguished a position in the ranks of medical men, his skill and treatment are not beyond your reach.

If you are weak and suffering, if you are nervously prostrated, if you are afflicted with any kind of weakening and exhausting malady, you can consult Dr. Greene personally or by letter, free. Do not think that because you are far away from the city it is out of your power to obtain the advise and treatment of this most eminent specialist of the age, the discoverer of the most efficacious medicines ever applied for the restoration of vitality and vigor to the weak. If you cannot call for personal consultation, write to Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, giving him a description of your condition. Tell him as fully and freely as if you were telling a confidential friend all your troubles, giving the symptoms in detail. After he has studied your case, he will advise you by letter just what to do. His enormous practice and vast experience have endowed him with the ability to understand your case from the description you give of it. Write to Dr. Greene today. This is a golden opportunity for you, and it is to your interest to seize it while it is within your reach. Delays are dangerous. Write to Dr. Greene at once and you will quickly be restored to health, vigor and all the enjoyments of existence.

WHIMS OF MUSICIANS.

Idiosyncrasies of the Men Who Made Harmony in the Past.

I am tickled to know that Wagner was an exact and expensive dresser, and that Beethoven was a sloven, with an old coat and slippers trodden down at the heels, says a writer in the Contemporary Review. It interests me to hear that Paganini always carried a shirt in his fiddle case, because he perspired so profusely over his solos that he had to change between the parts if he played twice. I even care to learn that Mendelssohn was a perfect child about pastry, which he could never resist, and which he always ate (especially cherry pie) and which always disagreed with him; that Schumann injured his third finger by tying it back to his wrist with a string, because he hoped to make it more supple—it ended, however, in his almost losing the use of it; that Bulow got up in the night to play over passages which he thought he was likely to play inaccurately at his prodigious recitals.

When Thalberg was at the height of his fame he wouldn't even carry an umbrella, for fear of it cramping the muscles of his hand; Malibran loved nothing so much as romping with Moscheles' children on the floor; Paganini was so stingy that he would stand up under shelter in the rain and keep a whole opera house full waiting sooner than call a cab. Prof. Ella told me he found him one day crouching under the Arcade in Regent street, and that he gave this artless explanation: "Hackney coaches," he said, "in London were so expensive!" and this when he had doubled the prices at the opera house where he played and was rolling in money.

THE ANTS TALKED.

How a Naturalist Proved They Conversed with Each Other.

It is becoming the general belief among naturalists that all living creatures have some communication with each other, at least to the extent of making their wants, fears, etc., known to others of their species. A writer on ants recently investigated the matter as far as those interesting little insects are concerned. He saw a drove of ants of a small black variety, which were apparently moving to new quarters, those going in a certain direction all carrying eggs or sick and helpless relatives, while those moving in the opposite direction appeared to have just deposited their burdens and to be returning for another load of "household effects."

They were probably pretty well along with their work, judging by the leisurely way in which they would frequently put their heads together, as though chatting about their new quarters, or some other interesting subject It being a question in the naturalist's mind whether they were really talking or not, he hit on the expedient of murdering one of their number to see if the others would run and tell what had happened. He says: "The eye-witnesses of the murder hastened away and laid their heads together with every ant they met, whereupon all would turn and scamper away. . . . No more ants passed along that path during the day."

PREVENTIVE AGAINST COLDS.

German's Novel Method of Keeping the Feet Warm in Cold Weather.

Warm feet during wet weather are the best preventive against so-called "colds" and their often dangerous consequences. Rubber shoes and cork soles have been pretty generally used to avoid getting cold and wet feet, but a new and very curious means to warm the feet has recently been patented by Paul Wonneberger, of Gruna, near Dresden, says the Philadelphia Record. He calls his invention "heatable shoes." Within the heel of the shoe, which is hollowed out, there is a receptacle for a glowing substance, similar to that used in the Japanese hand-warmers. Between the soles, imbedded in asbestos covers, there is a rubber bag, which is filled with water. The water is heated above the heel, and as it circulates while the wearer of the shoe is walking it keeps the entire nether surface of the foot warm. A small safety valve is provided, and the bag cannot burst. The warmth given by this sole never rises above 70 degrees Fahrenheit, and will last for about eight hours. The shoes are little heavier than ordinary ones, and the sole is but slightly thicker than that of the so-called wet weather boot.

WELCOMED TO BALTIMORE.

Visit of the Ancient and Honorable Artillery to Maryland's Metropolis.

Baltimore, Oct. 7.—The Ancient and Honorable Artillery company of Boston, 346 strong, laden with honors received in two hemispheres and proudly conscious that they constitute the most picturesque living relic of the Puritan commonwealth of Massachusetts, arrived in Baltimore yesterday afternoon and received a sincere welcome. The various dissensions that marked the prelude to their visit were all obliterated in the general desire to make the Bostonians feel at home in Maryland's metropolis. The city council committee and representatives of business organizations prevailed upon the "Ancients" to be their guests at a theater party last night, and to-day the visitors have gone to Annapolis on the steamer Columbia. To-night the "Ancients" will give a dinner at Hazazeres hall, at which they expect to entertain as their guests many of the best known men of Baltimore. The dinner will practically wind up the celebration, as the visitors will leave for Boston to-morrow afternoon. The artillerymen presented a handsome and at the same time unique appearance as they lined up on the station platform on their arrival. Each officer and man wore the uniform to which he happened to be individually entitled, and the result was seemingly incongruous. There were gray uniforms, blue uniforms and red uniforms in line. Men marched in the ranks with the eagle of a colonel or the star of a general on their shoulder straps. Col. Walker was attired in the uniform of a colonel in the United States army; some of his staff officers had evidently been staff officers of a governor of Massachusetts and wore the proper insignia for those positions. Two striking figures were attired in gray uniforms with huge bear-skin hats. They were ex-members of the Boston City guards, and the uniform they wore was the exact counterpart of the uniform worn by that organization before the war.

TO PASS THE BOSPHORUS.

No Further Denial That the Bancroft Is To Anchor in the Golden Horn.

Washington, Oct. 7.—A cablegram received at the navy department announced the departure yesterday of the United States cruisers Cincinnati and Bancroft from Gibraltar for Smyrna, 1,700 miles away, and only 150 miles from Constantinople. As the Bancroft only arrived at Gibraltar on Sunday last she must have been expeditiously coaled there, and the promptness with which she resumed her journey dispells any lingering doubts as to her destination. There is no longer any concealment at the state department that the Bancroft is to pass the Bosphorus and anchor in the Golden Horn as long as Turkish affairs continue unsettled. It is not disclosed officially as yet, however, whether Minister Terrell has secured the necessary permit for the passage of the Dardanelles by the Bancrof, but no doubt is expressed that it will be forthcoming. The Cincinnati and Bancroft should reach Smyrna by the middle of next week, when Admiral Selfridge will have under his command in that harbor, including his flagship, the Minneapolis, San Francisco and the Marblehead, the largest and finest American squadron ever seen in the Mediterranean.

Appointments at the U. of P.

Philadelphia, Oct. 7.—The trustees of the University of Pennsylvania have appointed Edmund Jones librarian, and Randal Morgan and Walter George Smith managers of the department of archaeology and palaeontology. The subject of oral surgery has been added to the curriculum of the dental department and Dr. M. C. Cryer assigned to that subject. Walter S. Toggart has been appointed instructor in chemistry, and Dr. Vickers Oberholtzer instructor in technical chemistry. Donations were reported since June 2, amounting to $157,000.

Supreme Council Colored Masons.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The United States supreme council of the southern and western jurisdiction Grand East of Washington, D. C., have been holding their annual session in this city for the past two days, and is largely attended by prominent colored masons from all parts of the United States. John G. Jones, 33, of Chicago, was elected sovereign grand commander. This supreme council has twenty-five consistories in different parts of the country and is composed of the most intelligent active colored masons in the United States.

Soldiers and Sailors Monument Unveiled.

Monticello, N. Y., Oct. 7.—The Soldiers and Sailors monument in Memorial park was unveiled yesterday afternoon. Large delegations from several Grand Army posts in Orange, Ulster and Sullivan counties were present. The oration of the day was made by Gen. Horace Porter, the last surviving member of Gen. Grant's official staff, and Col. Fred D. Grant, son of the late general, delivered the dedicatory address.

Death of Bishop Bachman.

Bethlehem, Oct. 7.—The Provincial Elders' conference of the Moravian church has received a telegram announcing the death of bishop Henry Bachman, which occurred Monday, at Grace Hill, Ia. Bishop Bachman was 60 years old and spent most of his lifetime mainly in foreign mission fields of the Moravian church.

Football at New Haven.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 7.—Yale's first big football game of the season will be played here this afternoon. The strong Brown university eleven will try conclusions with Yale, and owing to the latter's weakness may win. Phil Stillman, '95, assisted Capt. Murphy yesterday in coaching the center, which is very weak.

WEYLER DESPERATE

Spaniards Suffer Heavy Losses in Pinar del Rio Province.

EFFORTS TO SUPPRESS THE NEWS

The Latest Campaign Against the Rebel Strongholds Meets with Disastrous Results for the Government Troops. Details Are Not Obtainable.

Havana, Oct. 7.—That Gen. Weyler's latest desperate move against the insurgents in the province of Pinar del Rio has resulted in disastrous losses to the Spaniards is now well known here although the government is resorting to the most strenuous efforts to keep the exact facts from the public and details are hard to obtain. It is very risky business to attempt to send reports of the situation on the island from this port and even the officially inspired papers are not even publishing the garbled stories of alleged Spanish victories heretofore so often printed in their columns. The people know that several desperate engagements have taken place in the past week and they also know that the Spanish troops have been mowed down by the insurgent's bullets and machetes and that Weyler's latest plans have practically failed. The government, therefore, has warned the newspapers to make no mention of the engagements, no matter how much they might change it to favor the Spaniards. Meagre details are received of an engagement which took place Monday, near Guayuno, in the western part of the province of Pinar del Rio, between the Spanish troops under Gen. Bernal and Col. Gromados, and the insurgents under Antonio Maceo. The latter is reported to have lost eighty men killed and wounded. The troops lost more than a hundred men. No further details of the fight have been received. In a second engagement between the troops under Gen. Bernal and Maceo's forces, the latter lost one hundred killed and wounded. The Spanish loss was much larger.

VENEZUELAN COMMISSION.

To Meet Again Next Saturday—Much Data Secured During the Summer.

Washington, Oct. 7.—The Venezuelan boundary commission will meet next Saturday for the first time in several months and it is expected that considerable business will be transacted. A large quantity of matter pertaining to the inquiry with which the commission is charged has been collected by the agents, who have been engaged all summer in this country and Europe, and much of this will be in shape for final consideration. The secretary, Mr. Mallet-Prevost, has carefully examined no less than 700 maps and charts, and has succeeded in dividing them into several groups for easy comparison as to general features. Prof. Burr and his colleagues have been very successful in the collection of records in Great Britain and Holland, and hope to report upon their branch of the work about the 15th inst.

To Permit the Use of Voting Machines.

Boston, Oct. 7.—Attorney-General Knowlton has given an official opinion to Secretary of State Olin by which the latter is advised to sanction the use of the McTammany voting machine in Worcester for the presidential and state elections as voted by the Worcester city council. Forty-eight machines will be used and the fifteen candidates for elector will be voted for as one group, with no split possible except by a written ballot. This is the first time in a Massachusetts election of importance greater than a town meeting where the Australian ballot has been superseded by a voting machine.

False Marks on Liquor Bottles.

St. Louis, Oct. 7.—In the United States circuit court of appeals Judge Caldwell has made an important decision regarding the false marking of bottles of spirituous liquors. A revenue officer seized a number of packages of liquor marked "Old Tom Gin, London," "Cognac Brandy, France," etc., all of it having been made by a St. Louis distillery. In his opinion the judge decided that it was fraudulent for any concern to brand a domestic product with a foreign label and that such branded goods were liable to seizure.

Will Vote for McKinley.

Pittsburg, Oct. 7.—M. M. Garland, president of the Amalgamated Association of Iron and Steel Workers of the United States has declared for McKinley and Hobart. For some time past there has been much discussion as to President Garland's political position, both parties claiming that he would work and vote for their candidate. Mr. Garland, in an interview, says he will vote for McKinley.

Dangerous Derelict Passed.

Boston, Oct. 7.—Capt. Rood of the tug Samson reports on Sunday last when half way between the Handkerchief and Shovelful in Vineyard sound, he passed a vessel's spar projecting about four feet out of water and evidently attached to a sunken wreckage. The spar was directly in the channel and a dangerous obstruction to passing vessels.

Presidential Elector Declines.

Albany, Oct. 7.—The secretary of state has received the declination certificate of Darwin Calvin as candidate for presidential elector on the national democratic ticket for the Twenty-eighth district. The vacancy thus created will be filled by the state committee of the organization.

St. Thomas Full of "Land Pirates."

Halifax, Oct. 7.—It is reported among ship captains that the marine underwriters propose to prohibit St. Thomas, West Indies, as a port of call. That port is said to be full of "land pirates."

THE ENDEAVORERS.

Since the formation of the Christian church one of the great problems has been how to interest, and retain that interest, of the young people. In a great measure, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor is one of the organizations that has accomplished this purpose, and in coming to this city for their annual convention the New Jersey members do so with the intention that an exchange of ideas, a closer acquaintance with the work already developed, and the admonition of older and more experienced heads, will add to their fund of information and direct their energies in the path of successful evangelistic efforts. Their aim is not only to bring into the church those of the younger element who are not already there, but to keep them there—the latter a problem greater than the first. But the Endeavorers have succeeded where others have failed in this direction. The young mind wants activity, something to work for, something to gain, and in the great field open to young Christians, the Endeavorers find this element of life that keeps alive their interest in the society. The annual State convention is an apt prototype of this conception, and this year it is the fortune of Plainfield to be the scene of the gathering. The slogan of "Plainfield '96" had no sooner died away at Atlantic City a year ago than plans were making for the event which has its opening session tonight, and ever since the local Endeavorers have been aiming to make every detail complete for the entertainment of the delegates. They have labored long and earnestly, and without flattery we may well say that they have labored well

THE RIGHT BRAND OF JUSTICE.

Commenting on the action of Deputy Game Wardens TenEyck and Squires in arresting two illegal hunters on Sunday, the Elizabeth Journal says: It is really refreshing to read of such activity on the part of the game wardens. Reports come to this office daily to the effect that men are shooting the birds on the outskirts of the city, and if the reports are true it is a great pity the slaughterers could not be captured and given a bit of such justice as is meted out in Plainfield.

Congressman Fowler was treated to a surprise on Monday night at the primary in his own ward, in Elizabeth, at which delegates opposed to him were chosen to the Congress District Convention.

COURT CONVENES.

Cases Without Juries to be Tried on Tuesday, October 27th.

The October term of the Supreme and Circuit Courts was convened in Elizabeth yesterday, with Judges Van Syckel and McCormick presiding. The grand jurors from this city are as follows: George J. Tobin, John D. Runyon, W. D. W. Miller, Alexander D. Mallinson. Ernest C. Kieb is the member from Fanwood.

Justice Van Syckel, in addressing the grand jury, said: "There is no matter that the Court deems necessary to call your especial attention to at this particular time, but at any time if you desire information or advice the Court will be ready to give it to you."

After the jury had been taken out Judge Van Syckel announced that he would hear all cases to be tried without a jury on Tuesday, October 27th. He then proceeded to call the list. There were thirty one cases on the Supreme Court list. Eight were declared off for the term, six were put at the bottom of the list, and days were fixed for the remainder.

George H. Rockafellow is a constable of the court.

MUST BE BORN AGAIN.

because he went to church. Satin is one of the best of church attendants. Rogues cover up their rascality by going to church. Another would say by belonging to the church. Didn't Judas live with the Lord and go through all the forms. A third would answer, by being baptised. You can't be baptised into the Kingdom of God.

You can't get there by simply making good resolutions. If all the good resolutions made here were recorded on parchment it would take four horses to drag it, and yet most of them have been broken as soon as they are made. To make vows and resolutions isn't being born of the spirit.

There is a certain class of people that believe that they are so good that they don't need to do any better. You can't find a man or woman on the face of the earth that is really good at heart. We are all bad at heart.

"I'll prove it to you," exclaimed Mr. Moody. "Suppose a man came to town advertising to take photographs of the heart and show everything there. Do you suppose he would have a single customer? No! A team of horses couldn't draw one there. We don't want to show what our hearts are."

He read the picture of the heart as given by Mark and declared it the natural heart. He compared it to a fountain sending out impure water and said what was the use of trying to make the stream good. God's method is to purify the fountain and then the stream will be pure.

You will say, continued Mr. Moody, that I have told you that we have to be born again but have not told you how to do it. Man lost life by believing the word of the tempter. We are going to gain it again by believing the Word of God. The Word of God is an incorruptable seed, which, when planted, will send up new life. You may receive a new life now, a new life as pure as Christ's, because it is part of it.

A mother often says to me, told Mr. Moody, isn't it strange that my son or daughter doesn't like to go to church? No. Nature likes natural things when the touch of God has not been felt. A heavenly taste likes heavenly things.

Did you ever see a young man with an ideal home, loving mother and sisters, and all that he could wish? Then he will leave all this and go down to the slums and finally bring up in some wretched whiskey dive where he will do almost anything to get whiskey. You go to him and talk about the lovely home he has left and the loving welcome that is waiting him should he return. He says he does not want to go. He wants his whiskey and he cannot have it at home. Put a Heavenly nature in that man and he leaves, oh! how quickly.

If you have a wound it is a good thing to know it, but don't tear it open every day. Look at it first and then look at the remedy, and that remedy is to be found in the third chapter of John, 14-17 verses. There it tells you how to get into the Kingdom of God. Read the verses and ponder over them.

"I thank God," exclaimed Mr. Moody, "that Salvation is open to all. Will you reach out and take it?"

An earnest prayer by Mr. Moody and the benediction closed the service and the large audience passed out while tears stood in the eyes of many, for some of his illustrations and incidents had been very pathetic while his appeal reached the hearts of many.

THE NEED OF PRAYER.

All the Important Events in Christ's Life Were Preceded by Prayer.

The Crescent Avenue church was filled yesterday afternoon with an audience that had gathered to hear Evangelist Moody. The first half hour was occupied with a song service led by F. H. Burke and the Christian Endeavor choir, during which Mr. Burke sang most impressively two beautiful solos. The subject of Mr. Moody's talk was prayer and it was a soul-inspiring, helpful discourse. A substance of his remarks follow: "If there is one thing that the church needs today it is prayer, and she needs it badly. Every important event in the life of Christ was preceded by prayer which fact is worthy of emulation. If we are going to get to heaven we have got to pray. It was when Abraham fell on his face in prayer that God heard him and that means humiliation. If you want a blessing, pray, and I trust that the delegates who come to this city may be inspired to pray and thus be an instrument in the salvation of souls. If we ask God for bread, he will surely not give us a stone. We often say that our prayers are not answered, but if we examine ourselves we will find that the fault lies at our own door. There are several important things we need as Christians.

"Firstly, we need adoration. We should not speak lightly of divine things. Secondly, it is essential that we confess our sins. A known sin will separate us from blessings. Thirdly, it may be that the lack of restitution is keeping many out of Christ's kingdom. Lastly, we should not be unforgiving. The meanest person is one who won't forgive and for that reason the church is deprived of many blessings. We should possess enough grace to live as true Christians."

During Mr. Moody's talk he related several interesting incidents to substantiate the above points mentioned. At the close of the first service a short prayer meeting was held and most all of the congregation remained.

Primary Department, First and Second Grades 9 a. m., to 11 a. m., and 1:30 p. m., to 3 p. m. All other grades the same as the Grammar Department. Kindergarten Department 9 a. m., to 1 p. m. Gates are open at 8 and 1 o'clock, and closed at 9 o'clock and 1:30 o'clock sharp. Pupils are required to be in their seats at the ringing of the last bells at 8:20, 9 and 1.30 o'clock. Prompt and regular attendance as well as good work is required of all pupils in order to insure continuance in the grade to which they have been assigned. The Primary Department includes the 1, 2 and 3 grades. The Intermediate Department includes the 4 and 5 grades. The Grammar Department includes the 6, 7 and 8 grades. The High School Department includes the 9, 10, 11 and 12 grades. We trust that the patrons of the school will co-operate with us in carrying out the above regulations and thus assist the teachers and superintendent in the advancement of their children.

Very truly,
EZRA LOOMIS,
Secretary and District Clerk.
By order of THE BOARD OF EDUCATION.

Convention Notes.

Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, State Superintendent of the Missionary Department of the Christian Endeavor Society, wishes to announce that she has established her headquarters on the top floor at the Y. M. C. A. building, and has provided a place where she and her committee can meet all Endeavorers interested in missions. She has also arranged to distribute good literature along her line of work. The rooms will be open positively from 8 a. m. to 6 p. m. During the following hours Miss Spangenberg will be present: From 8 to 9 in the morning; 12:30 to 1:30 in the afternoon, and from 5:30 to 7:30 in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested to attend.

Arrangements have now been made so that the delegates can ride their wheels to the Convention Hall and there have them looked after. A wheel room has been established, the entrance to which is on East Fourth street, adjoining the W. C. T. U. rooms.

Delegates to the Convention should not forget that they must register the first thing on their arrival. The registration place is at the First Baptist church.

The Midmer Glee Club will sing at the convention to-night in the place of the Park sisters, who are unable to attend.

The following details will be interesting to the delegates:

Evangelistic Committee Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. Please call there.
Historian's Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. He wants to see you.
Missionary Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Don't forget to call, or you will be sorry you didn't.
State Officers' Headquarters—Revere House.
Plainfield '96 Committee Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Always glad to see you.
Registration and Assignment Committee Headquarters—First Baptist church. Go there immediately on arrival; register and receive your badge and programme. You must register in person.
Convention Postoffice and Bureau of Information—In registry room at First Baptist church. Have your mail addressed in care of the convention, and call for it there.
Reception Committee—Will meet you at depot and escort you to Registry Hall, where guides will be provided to show you to your boarding place.
Ladies—Big hats are pretty, we know, but do not wear them in the hall or churches; they don't encourage a devotional spirit in those back of you.
Sing if you can; if you can't, sing anyway.
Think of others. Pray for others. Help others. Work for others.
Remember the great aim of our Convention—To be helped that we may help others. Pray that God will send you home inspired and consecrated to serve.
Don't be afraid to applaud; it helps the speaker and helps the audience.
Be all sunshine in and a blessing to the home at which you are entertained. You may help to save a soul there.

Miss Clara S. Hellwig,

Professor of Languages, Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honors awarded for studies by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia, will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches,

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Hon. Geo. Kyte and Dr. Wyckoff are the delegates to the Republican Congressional convention.

J. William Klein, of Plainfield, is rejuvinating and putting in new carpets in the Fanwood postoffice.

Thomas M. Paff, Sr., is making improvements to the interior of his store. He is weatherstripping the doors and windows and making other necessary repairs.

"Billy" Lee, proprietor of the West Side House, has an eight-months-old silver-grey terrier dog which he offers to match with anything of its kind in the State for killing rats.

The matter of organizing a football team is being considered, and is likely to become a reality. There is plenty of good material here for such a team, and all that is required is a little more energy and push on the part of the projectors.

Some of the sidewalks are so bad that most of the people who are obliged to walk about town prefer walking in the middle of the street. Crushed stone makes an excellent walk, but it should be packed down with sand or gravel so as to give a more even surface.

Justice Clark has issued summons in the case of Philip Radin against Alex. McCauley, in tort, returnable on Saturday, the 10th instant. The case is brought to recover damages on account of the alleged trespass of the defendant's chickens.

The beautiful Bryan and Sewall flag was swung to the breeze yesterday forenoon, but there was no political oratory in connection with it. The flag is strung between John R. Marsh's residence and Thomar Paff, Jr.'s grocery store. And it's a dandy, too.

Fred Clark, while at work erecting one of the poles for the Bryan and Sewall flag, Monday night, met with a serious mishap. The pole fell over on his leg, nearly breaking the leg. He may be able to go to the polls without crutches, but it's rather doubtful.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. J. H. Colyer, of Brooklyn, is visiting ar the home of C. H. Adams on Front street.

T. S. Alberti, formerly of Plainfield, and now of New Brunswick, was the guest of Maxson Dunham, yesterday.

Delegates from the two Christian Endeavor societies in New Market and from the society in Dunellen attend nightly the C. E. meetings in Plainfield.

Eugene Runyon has plans out for the erection of a handsome new cottage on Dunellen avenue. The work of excavating for the celler was begun yesterday.

The Wilton G. Holton Council No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M. met in the public school hall, last evening and transacted routine business. One proposition for membership was received, and this will be acted upon at the next meeting.

The hardware store of A. S. Giles was yesterday closed at the solicitation of certain creditors. Chas. H. Hand, of Plainfield, is said to be one of the heaviest creditors, and there are several others from among the trade in New York. Yesterday an officer took possession of the store and contents, and a substantial pad lock was placed on the front doors. The assets, it is thought may foot up to about 75 per cent of the liabilities.

The work of making a home to house canvas for voters is progressing favorably, and within the next twenty four hours, it is thought, the work will have been completed. Harry Gaskill, George Day, Peter Huff and Charles Johnson, constitute the canvassing board. The total number of voters in the borough last year was 220, but this year the number will considerably exceed 300.

The fall term of the Middlesex county court opened at New Brunswick today. Peter C. Staats is a jurymen from Dunellen and Joseph C. Meeker and Nathan Blackford from New Market. It is thought that some presentments will be made against certain unlicensed liquor places near New Market.

A regular meeting of Board of Commissioners was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, on Monday evening, with President Brakely and the full board in attendance. The usual batch of claims were presented, audited and paid. Chief Paul Reusch of the fire department sent in his resignation and it was accepted. Mayor Brakeley will appoint his successor. Adam Dealaman resigned as borough treasurer and Geo. W. Day was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Dealaman says he resigned because other work required his time and besides there was nothing remunerative in the office.

Miss Alice Needham, of Craig place, has returned to her duties at the North Plainfield public school after a short illness.

L. M. French and family, of Craig place, are spending the month of October in one of the cottages near the Mountain Park Inn.

Francis J. Blatz, of Somerset street, started his studies yesterday as a Senior in the Law Department of the University of New York.

Raymond V. A. Carpenter '97, is one of the editorial corps of the "Targam," the weekly paper of Rutgers College, New Brunswick.

Mrs. M. A. McComb and Mrs. Wm. M. McComb and little daughter, of Syracuse, are visiting at the home of G. N. Cortright, of East Sixth street.

Levi Bird, of Harmony street, in the borough, is confined to the house from a complaint bordering on pneumonia. Dr. D. C. Adams is the attending physician.

Miss Julia G. Skinn who will address the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at the First Baptist church this afternoon, will be entertained by Mrs. George Batchelor, of West Seventh street.

J. B. Mills and family have taken possession of their new house on Johnston's Drive near the Mountain Park Inn, where they will remain for a few weeks before real cold weather sets in.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

If You Have a Sick Child This is Surely a Message of Hope.

This is the best of news for parents of weakly or sickly children. It is a fact that our people have heretofore not had the same opportunity for having their children who suffer from chronic or lingering complaints treated and cured by eminent specialists in children's diseases as do the residents of great cities where such skilled physicians reside. In other words our people have been debarred from seeking a cure for their children by the great physicians, owing to the cost of travel to the large city and the high fees charged by such physicians.

Here, therefore, is a chance for the cure of the children of our community which should not be lost. Dr. Greene of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city, who is beyond doubt the most successful specialist in curing diseases of children, offers to give free consultation by mail in all cases of children's complaints. Parents have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene by letter, describing their children's diseases and he will, after carefully considering the symptoms, write a letter explaining the trouble, telling everything about their complaints so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails your children. He will also give his advice, founded upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating such cases, as to just what to do to effect a cure. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best known physician and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The Doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and has discovered many other most valuable remedies. Write to him now about your child, for this is a chance of cure which you may never have again.

—Best quality soft kid cambrics only 3 cents. Edsall's new method price.

—Christian Endeavor decorations in flags and festooning for the Junior parade on Friday may be obtained at Rand's.

—The millinery store of Mrs. L. Adams, East Front street, will be closed tonight and Thursday and Fri- evenings.

—The Young Friends' Association will hold their first fall meeting this evening in the meeting house on Watchung avenue.

—Three misses singing their songs so high! If you are looking around for the best store in town, Peck's is the place to buy.

—Justice Mosher has issued summons in the cases of White against Boucher, and Bolden against Brinkley, both of which are returnable Oct. 12th.

—Children's 85 per cent. natural wool vest, pants and drawers, regular made cuffs, finished sleeves, 16 inch, only 4 cents; rise 5. Edsall's new method price.

—The arch at the head of Park avenue has been beautifully decorated with the Christian Endeavor colors, while at each end are displayed the monogram of the society in large letters.

—Samuel Conway, of West Fourth street, reports that he has recently sold several valuable lots on Plainfield avenue and West Third street for the erection of handsome residences.

—Several improvements have been made in Coddington & Ackerman's fish market on Somerset street. The interior woodwork has been painted white, and the work of papering will be commenced in a few days.

—In St. Joseph's Church, in North Plainfield, this morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father Miller celebrated solemn requiem mass, in commemoration of the death of the late Benjamin Gavin, who died one year ago today.

—The unsightly looking freight house is looked upon by many passengers as a curiousity. Already the east wing has been torn down and workmen are now engaged in getting the balance of the structure ready for removal on Sunday next.

—The members of the Plainfield boards of registry and election started yesterday to make the official canvass of voters. They experienced some trouble, as many thought that the gold and silver canvass made by the politicians last week was the official one.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

THE ENDEAVORERS.

Since the formation of the Christian church one of the great problems has been how to interest, and retain that interest, of the young people. In a great measure, the Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor is one of the organizations that has accomplished this purpose, and in coming to this city for their annual convention the New Jersey members do so with the intention that an exchange of ideas, a closer acquaintance with the work already developed, and the admonition of older and more experienced heads, will add to their fund of information and direct their energies in the path of successful evangelistic efforts. Their aim is not only to bring into the church those of the younger element who are not already there, but to keep them there—the latter a problem greater than the first. But the Endeavorers have succeeded where others have failed in this direction. The young mind wants activity, something to work for, something to gain, and in the great field open to young Christians, the Endeavorers find this element of life that keeps alive their interest in the society. The annual State convention is an apt prototype of this conception, and this year it is the fortune of Plainfield to be the scene of the gathering. The slogan of "Plainfield '96" had no sooner died away at Atlantic City a year ago than plans were making for the event which has its opening session tonight, and ever since the local Endeavorers have been aiming to make every detail complete for the entertainment of the delegates. They have labored long and earnestly, and without flattery we may well say that they have labored well

THE RIGHT BRAND OF JUSTICE.

Commenting on the action of Deputy Game Wardens TenEyck and Squires in arresting two illegal hunters on Sunday, the Elizabeth Journal says: It is really refreshing to read of such activity on the part of the game wardens. Reports come to this office daily to the effect that men are shooting the birds on the outskirts of the city, and if the reports are true it is a great pity the slaughterers could not be captured and given a bit of such justice as is meted out in Plainfield.

Congressman Fowler was treated to a surprise on Monday night at the primary in his own ward, in Elizabeth, at which delegates opposed to him were chosen to the Congress District Convention.

COURT CONVENES.

Cases Without Juries to be Tried on Tuesday, October 27th.

The October term of the Supreme and Circuit Courts was convened in Elizabeth yesterday, with Judges Van Syckel and McCormick presiding. The grand jurors from this city are as follows: George J. Tobin, John D. Runyon, W. D. W. Miller, Alexander D. Mallinson. Ernest C. Kieb is the member from Fanwood.

Justice Van Syckel, in addressing the grand jury, said: "There is no matter that the Court deems necessary to call your especial attention to at this particular time, but at any time if you desire information or advice the Court will be ready to give it to you."

After the jury had been taken out Judge Van Syckel announced that he would hear all cases to be tried without a jury on Tuesday, October 27th. He then proceeded to call the list. There were thirty one cases on the Supreme Court list. Eight were declared off for the term, six were put at the bottom of the list, and days were fixed for the remainder.

George H. Rockafellow is a constable of the court.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

MUST BE BORN AGAIN.

because he went to church. Satin is one of the best of church attendants. Rogues cover up their rascality by going to church. Another would say by belonging to the church. Didn't Judas live with the Lord and go through all the forms. A third would answer, by being baptised. You can't be baptised into the Kingdom of God.

You can't get there by simply making good resolutions. If all the good resolutions made here were recorded on parchment it would take four horses to drag it, and yet most of them have been broken as soon as they are made. To make vows and resolutions isn't being born of the spirit.

There is a certain class of people that believe that they are so good that they don't need to do any better. You can't find a man or woman on the face of the earth that is really good at heart. We are all bad at heart.

"I'll prove it to you," exclaimed Mr. Moody. "Suppose a man came to town advertising to take photographs of the heart and show everything there. Do you suppose he would have a single customer? No! A team of horses couldn't draw one there. We don't want to show what our hearts are."

He read the picture of the heart as given by Mark and declared it the natural heart. He compared it to a fountain sending out impure water and said what was the use of trying to make the stream good. God's method is to purify the fountain and then the stream will be pure.

You will say, continued Mr. Moody, that I have told you that we have to be born again but have not told you how to do it. Man lost life by believing the word of the tempter. We are going to gain it again by believing the Word of God. The Word of God is an incorruptable seed, which, when planted, will send up new life. You may receive a new life now, a new life as pure as Christ's, because it is part of it.

A mother often says to me, told Mr. Moody, isn't it strange that my son or daughter doesn't like to go to church? No. Nature likes natural things when the touch of God has not been felt. A heavenly taste likes heavenly things.

Did you ever see a young man with an ideal home, loving mother and sisters, and all that he could wish? Then he will leave all this and go down to the slums and finally bring up in some wretched whiskey dive where he will do almost anything to get whiskey. You go to him and talk about the lovely home he has left and the loving welcome that is waiting him should he return. He says he does not want to go. He wants his whiskey and he cannot have it at home. Put a Heavenly nature in that man and he leaves, oh! how quickly.

If you have a wound it is a good thing to know it, but don't tear it open every day. Look at it first and then look at the remedy, and that remedy is to be found in the third chapter of John, 14 17 verses. There it tells you how to get into the Kingdom of God. Read the verses and ponder over them.

"I thank God," exclaimed Mr. Moody, "that Salvation is open to all. Will you reach out and take it?"

An earnest prayer by Mr. Moody and the benediction closed the service and the large audience passed out while tears stood in the eyes of many, for some of his illustrations and incidents had been very pathetic while his appeal reached the hearts of many.

THE NEED OF PRAYER.

All the Important Events in Christ's Life Were Preceded by Prayer.

The Crescent Avenue church was filled yesterday afternoon with an audience that had gathered to hear Evangelist Moody. The first half hour was occupied with a song service led by F. H. Burke and the Christian Endeavor choir, during which Mr. Burke sang most impressively two beautiful solos. The subject of Mr. Moody's talk was prayer and it was a soul-inspiring, helpful discourse. A substance of his remarks follow: "If there is one thing that the church needs today it is prayer, and she needs it badly. Every important event in the life of Christ was preceded by prayer which fact is worthy of emulation. If we are going to get to heaven we have got to pray. It was when Abraham fell on his face in prayer that God heard him and that means humiliation. If you want a blessing, pray, and I trust that the delegates who come to this city may be inspired to pray and thus be an instrument in the salvation of souls. If we ask God for bread, he will surely not give us a stone. We often say that our prayers are not answered, but if we examine ourselves we will find that the fault lies at our own door. There are several important things we need as Christians.

"Firstly, we need adoration. We should not speak lightly of divine things. Secondly, it is essential that we confess our sins. A known sin will separate us from blessings. Thirdly, it may be that the lack of restitution is keeping many out of Christ's kingdom. Lastly, we should not be unforgiving. The meanest person is one who won't forgive and for that reason the church is deprived of many blessings. We should possess enough grace to live as true Christians."

During Mr. Moody's talk he related several interesting incidents to substantiate the above points mentioned. At the close of the first service a short prayer meeting was held and most all of the congregation remained.

Convention Notes.

Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, State Superintendent of the Missionary Department of the Christian Endeavor Society, wishes to announce that she has established her headquarters on the top floor at the Y. M. C. A. building, and has provided a place where she and her committee can meet all Endeavorers interested in missions. She has also arranged to distribute good literature along her line of work. The rooms will be open positively from 8 a. m. to 8 p. m. During the following hours Miss Spangenberg will be present: From 8 to 9 in the morning; 12:30 to 1:30 in the afternoon, and from 5:30 to 7:30 in the evening. A cordial invitation is extended to all interested to attend.

Arrangements have now been made so that the delegates can ride their wheels to the Convention Hall and there have them looked after. A wheel room has been established, the entrance to which is on East Fourth street, adjoining the W. C. T. U. rooms.

Delegates to the Convention should not forget that they must register the first thing on their arrival. The registration place is at the First Baptist church.

The Midmer Glee Club will sing at the convention to-night in the place of the Park sisters, who are unable to attend.

The following details will be interesting to the delegates:

Evangelistic Committee Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. Please call there.
Historian's Headquarters—Room at right of entrance to hall. He wants to see you.
Missionary Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Don't forget to call, or you will be sorry you didn't.
State Officers' Headquarters—Revere House.
Plainfield '96 Committee Headquarters—Y. M. C. A. building. Always glad to see you.
Registration and Assignment Committee Headquarters—First Baptist church. Go there immediately on arrival; register and receive your badge and programme. You must register in person.
Convention Postoffice and Bureau of Information—In registry room at First Baptist church. Have your mail addressed in care of the convention, and call for it there.
Reception Committee—Will meet you at depot and escort you to Registry Hall, where guides will be provided to show you to your boarding place.
Ladies—Big hats are pretty, we know, but do not wear them in the hall or churches; they don't encourage a devotional spirit in those back of you.
Sing if you can; if you can't, sing anyway.
Think of others. Pray for others. Help others. Work for others.
Remember the great aim of our Convention—To be helped that we may help others. Pray that God will send you home inspired and consecrated to serve.
Don't be afraid to applaud; it helps the speakers and helps the audience.
Be all sunshine in and a blessing to the home at which you are entertained. You may help to save a soul there.

Miss Clara S. Hellwig,

Professor of Languages, Graduate of the St. Peter and Paul College, Moscow, Russia. Recipient of the gold medal the highest honors awarded for studies by her Majesty, the Empress of Russia, will resume her private lessons and classes in French, German, Latin, Russian, Drawing, Painting and English Branches.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Hon. Geo. Kyte and Dr. Wyckoff are the delegates to the Republican Congressional convention.

J. William Klein, of Plainfield, is rejuvinating and putting in new carpets in the Fanwood postoffice.

Thomas M. Paff, Sr., is making improvements to the interior of his store. He is weatherstripping the doors and windows and making other necessary repairs.

"Billy" Lee, proprietor of the West Side House, has an eight-months-old silver-grey terrier dog which he offers to match with anything of its kind in the State for killing rats.

The matter of organizing a football team is being considered, and is likely to become a reality. There is plenty of good material here for such a team, and all that is required is a little more energy and push on the part of the projectors.

Some of the sidewalks are so bad that most of the people who are obliged to walk about town prefer walking in the middle of the street. Crushed stone makes an excellent walk, but it should be packed down with sand or gravel so as to give a more even surface.

Justice Clark has issued summons in the case of Philip Radin against Alex. McCauley, in tort, returnable on Saturday, the 10th instant. The case is brought to recover damages on account of the alleged trespass of the defendant's chickens.

The beautiful Bryan and Sewall flag was swung to the breeze yesterday forenoon, but there was no political oratory in connection with it. The flag is strung between John R. Marsh's residence and Thomar Paff, Jr.'s grocery store. And it's a dandy, too.

Fred Clark, while at work erecting one of the poles for the Bryan and Sewall flag, Monday night, met with a serious mishap. The pole fell over on his leg, nearly breaking the leg. He may be able to go to the polls without crutches, but it's rather doubtful.

DUNELLEN.

Mrs. J. H. Colyer, of Brooklyn, is visiting ar the home of C. H. Adams on Front street.

T. S. Alberti, formerly of Plainfield, and now of New Brunswick, was the guest of Maxson Dunham, yesterday.

Delegates from the two Christian Endeavor societies in New Market and from the society in Dunellen attend nightly the C. E. meetings in Plainfield.

Eugene Runyon has plans out for the erection of a handsome new cottage on Dunellen avenue. The work of excavating for the celler was begun yesterday.

The Wilton G. Holton Council No. 55, Jr. O. U. A. M. met in the public school hall, last evening and transacted routine business. One proposition for membership was received, and this will be acted upon at the next meeting.

The hardware store of A. S. Giles was yesterday closed at the solicitation of certain creditors. Chas. H. Hand, of Plainfield, is said to be one of the heaviest creditors, and there are several others from among the trade in New York. Yesterday an officer took possession of the store and contents, and a substantial pad lock was placed on the front doors. The assets, it is thought may foot up to about 75 per cent of the liabilities.

The work of making a home to house canvas for voters is progressing favorably, and within the next twenty four hours, it is thought, the work will have been completed. Harry Gaskill, George Day, Peter Huff and Charles Johnson, constitute the canvassing board. The total number of voters in the borough last year was 220, but this year the number will considerably exceed 300.

The fall term of the Middlesex county court opened at New Brunswick today. Peter C. Staats is a jury man from Dunellen and Joseph C. Meeker and Nathan Blackford from New Market. It is thought that some presentments will be made against certain unlicensed liquor places near New Market.

A regular meeting of Board of Commissioners was held in the W. C. T. U. rooms, on Monday evening, with President Brakely and the full board in attendance. The usual batch of claims were presented, audited and paid. Chief Paul Reusch of the fire department sent in his resignation and it was accepted. Mayor Brakeley will appoint his successor. Adam Dealaman resigned as borough treasurer and Geo. W. Day was elected to fill the vacancy. Mr. Dealaman says he resigned because other work required his time and besides there was nothing remunerative in the office.

Levi Bird, of Harmony street, in the borough, is confined to the house from a complaint bordering on pneumonia. Dr. D. C. Adams is the attending physician.

Miss Julia G. Skinn who will address the Woman's Foreign Missionary society at the First Baptist church this afternoon, will be entertained by Mrs. George Batchelor, of West Seventh street.

J. B. Mills and family have taken possession of their new house on Johnston's Drive near the Mountain Park Inn, where they will remain for a few weeks before real cold weather sets in.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

If You Have a Sick Child This is Surely a Message of Hope.

This is the best of news for parents of weakly or sickly children. It is a fact that our people have heretofore not had the same opportunity for having their children who suffer from chronic or lingering complaints treated and cured by eminent specialists in children's diseases as do the residents of great cities where such skilled physicians reside. In other words our people have been debarred from seeking a cure for their children by the great physicians, owing to the cost of travel to the large city and the high fees charged by such physicians.

Here, therefore, is a chance for the cure of the children of our community which should not be lost. Dr. Greene of 35 West Fourteenth street, New York city, who is beyond doubt the most successful specialist in curing diseases of children, offers to give free consultation by mail in all cases of children's complaints. Parents have the privilege of consulting Dr. Greene by letter, describing their children's diseases and he will, after carefully considering the symptoms, write a letter explaining the trouble, telling everything about their complaints so plainly that you will understand exactly what ails your children. He will also give his advice, founded upon his vast experience and wonderful success in treating such cases, as to just what to do to effect a cure. All this will cost you nothing and you can thus have consultation with the best known physician and acknowledged most successful specialist in the world without leaving home and at no expense whatever. The Doctor is the discoverer of that greatest of medicines, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy and has discovered many other most valuable remedies. Write to him now about your child, for this is a chance of cure which you may never have again.

—Justice Mosher has issued summons in the cases of White against Boucher, and Bolden against Brinkley, both of which are returnable Oct. 12th.

—Children's 85 per cent. natural wool vest, pants and drawers, regular made cuffs, finished sleeves, 16 inch, only 4 cents; rise 5. Edsall's new method price.

—The arch at the head of Park avenue has been beautifully decorated with the Christian Endeavor colors, while at each end are displayed the monogram of the society in large letters.

—Samuel Conway, of West Fourth street, reports that he has recently sold several valuable lots on Plainfield avenue and West Third street for the erection of handsome residences.

—Several improvements have been made in Coddington & Ackerman's fish market on Somerset street. The interior woodwork has been painted white, and the work of papering will be commenced in a few days.

—In St. Joseph's Church, in North Plainfield, this morning at 8 o'clock, Rev. Father Miller celebrated solemn requiem mass, in commemoration of the death of the late Benjamin Gavin, who died one year ago today.

—The unsightly looking freight house is looked upon by many passengers as a curiousity. Already the east wing has been torn down and workmen are now engaged in getting the balance of the structure ready for removal on Sunday next.

—The members of the Plainfield boards of registry and election started yesterday to make the official canvass of voters. They experienced some trouble, as many thought that the gold and silver canvass made by the politicians last week was the official one.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

A hacking cough is not only annoying to others, but is dangerous to the person who has it. One Minute Cough Cure will quickly put an end to it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

WILD FOR THE CZAR

Rapturous Entertainment of the Imperial Visitors in Paris.

POPULACE WORKED INTO A FRENZY

Estimated That Nearly Two Million Strangers Are in the City---Lavish Programme Arranged by the Government.

Paris, Oct. 7.—The czar is now the French capital's guest and Paris has gone wild in welcoming and entertaining him. It is believed that never before has such a multitude of strangers been in the city. It was estimated last night that over a million visitors were here, and all through the night every arriving train from north, south, east and west brought in its quota of strangers to swell the crowd already here. Even to-day the trains have been packed with late comers. It is impossible to even approximately estimate the number of visitors, but it would not be at all surprising if their number was nearer two millions than one million. Every route over which the czar and czarina will pass during their stay in this city is decorated with magnificent and tasteful arches and pillars and the French and Russian colors. The whole garrison of Paris will remain out in honor of the imperial visitor until he takes his departure and for the more practical purpose of guarding the routes along which he will pass. The soldiers will line all the routes, as was done yesterday when the imperial couple arrived, and back of them will stand policemen facing the crowd in order that they may be able to detect and arrest any one who should attempt to insult the czar by uttering seditious cries. The police arrangements are perfect; in fact the regulations adopted for the occasion are so strict that they occasion some adverse comment, but the authorites believe that they are fully justified in taking extraordinary precautions to safeguard the imperial visitors. After the magnificent reception tendered the czar and czarina, and after luncheon at the Russian embassy, the imperial couple entered a carriage and were driven to the Russian church in Rue Daru to give thanks for their safe journey. The czarina was attired in a handsome dress of white satin. She wore also a cape and a small bonnet. Her usually grave, sweet face was wreathed in smiles and she appeared to be very happy at the warmth of the reception accorded to her and her august husband by the French people. The czar was attired in a Russian military uniform. The imperial couple traversed the same route they had followed from the railway station as far as the arc de triumphe. The church is situated directly opposite the end of Rue Pierre le Grand, and with its gilded domes is planly visible for a considerable distance. Large crowds were assembled in the vicinity and their majesties were the recipients of an enthusiastic ovation as they entered the church. They were accompanied by their suites and the members of the embassy. The services at the church included the singing of a Te Deum. Later in the afternoon their majesties were driven to the Palace of the Elysee, escorted by cuirassiers, where they paid a formal visit to President Faure. The czarina in response to the cheers of the multitude along the route from the embassy to the palace and back bowed gracefully at intervals, and the czar was kept constantly busy returning salutations extended to him. Later the czar gave a reception at the Russian embassy, whither President Faure proceeded in state to return the visit of the czar and czarina. In the evening the president gave a banquet in honor of the imperial visitors at the Palace of the Elysee. After the dinner the czar and czarina attended a gala performance at the opera. The city last night was one mass of illumination. The river Seine looked weirdly beautiful as it reflected the thousands upon thousands of lights burning along its banks and upon passing vessels.

Gold Ticket in Iowa.

Des Moines, Ia., Oct. 7.—The regular democratic state committee has practically given up the fight against allowing the gold ticket to go on the Australian ballot under the name of national democratic ticket. The board of appeal in such cases consisting of the secretary of state, auditor and attorney general, having decided against the silver men, the attorney for the silver committee, after conference, announced that they would not go into the courts.

Bryan's Plans for Next Week.

Chicago, Oct. 7.—William J. Bryan will spend most of next week in Michigan. After speaking at Duluth, Minn., on Monday he will take the special train engaged by Chairman Campau for the tour of Michigan. Having finished his work in that state, Mr. Bryan will drop down into Ohio, Dayton being his first stopping place in that state.

A Reported Indian Battle.

Kansas City, Mo., Oct. 7.—An unconfirmed report from Guthrie, Okla., states that a bloody battle between the full breeds and squaw men has occurred in the Choctaw country on Horse creek in which several squaws and their white husbands were killed.

State Chairman Corcoran Not To Resign.

Boston, Oct. 7.—The story printed that Hon. John W. Corcoran, chairman of the democratic state committee was to resign on Sunday next, is denied by that gentleman. Judge Corcoran says that the story was unwarranted and that there was nothing in it.

Connecticut State Board of Trade.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—The annual meeting of the state board of trade will be held here Wednesday, Oct. 14

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable—NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an insatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without clinking half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy before you know it.

The distinction among animals of requiring least sleep belongs to the elephant. In spite of its capacity for hard work, the elephant seldom, if ever, sleeps more than four, or occasionally five, hours. For two hours before midnight, and again for two hours after one o'clock, these misborn mountains sleep.

GLEANED FROM HISTORY.

The Assyrians first introduced the heel for security and comfort in walking.

The first religious journal in this country was the Recorder at Chillicothe, O., in 1814.

The first temperance society in the United States was organized in Saratoga, N. Y., in 1808.

Cardinal Richelieu is said to have been the first chocolate drinker of any fame, and to have set the fashion of using it.

The sugar cane was introduced into America soon after the discovery, and its cultivation rapidly spread over all those parts of the new world adapted to its growth.

The Hessian fly is so called from the fact that it was brought to this country in straw, used in 1776, when the Hessian cavalry was imported to fight the Americans. It made its first appearance on Staten island, near the stables of the Hessian troops, and soon traveled over Connecticut, spreading throughout New England and the west, at the rate of 20 miles a year.

The first mention of coffee in England statute books is in the year 1660, when a duty of four pence was laid on every gallon of coffee made and sold; and in 1765 King Charles issued a proclamation to shut up the coffee houses because they were seminaries of sedition. The French first conveyed some plants to Martinique in 1727, whence they probably spread to the neighboring islands.

HOUSEHOLD SCIENCE.

The chemical constituents of the mushroom are almost identical with those of meat, and it possesses the same nourishing properties.

INHERITANCE TAX

Important Decision by the New York Court of Appeals.

MILLIONS IN SECURITIES AFFECTED

United States Bonds of Foreign Decedents Not Taxable Under the Collateral Inheritance Law—The Geld Tax Case.

Albany, Oct. 7.—The court of appeals has decided that United States bonds of foreign decedents in this state are not taxable under the collateral inheritance tax law. This important decision was rendered in the case of the attempt of Comptroller Fitch to collect the inheritance tax on property belonging to the estate of the late Augustus Whiting. Mr. Whiting was a resident of Newport, but he had nearly $1,000,000 worth of property in stocks and bonds in the vaults of the Stock exchange. The decedent's daughter was made the beneficiary under his will. She is a resident of Newport. Most of the bonds belonging to the estate which were found were either United States securities or bonds of foreign corporations. A former decision of the courts has exempted stock certificates or foreign corporations from the payment of the inheritance tax. No effort was made to collect the tax as against the Whiting stocks, but the tax was claimed to be due so far as the government bonds and the bonds of railroads are concerned. The surrogate affirmed the order of the appraiser appointed, fixing the assessment as against this part of the Whiting estate, and appeal was taken, the claim being made that the state is powerless to tax government bonds, as such a tax would be a tax on the power of the government to borrow money, a claim which has been denied by the United States supreme court. The appellate decision affirmed the order of the surrogate. There was a divided court, however, and a very strong dissenting opinion by Judge Ingraham. The court of appeals overturns the decision and exempts from taxation all the United States bonds. The case is of great interest to many non-resident capitalists whose property is held by local trust companies. Millions of dollars' worth of securities are held in safe deposit vaults which will be affected by the decision in this case. The court affirmed the order of Judge Pryor in awarding judgment to George J. Gould, as executor, in his appeal from the assessment by the tax commissioners for 1895 on $10,700,000 of property. The judgment was obtained on the ground that the Goulds were not residents of New York state and after the case was argued before Judge Pryor the city abandoned it. The case was carried to the court of appeals as a matter of form for final adjudication.

CONNECTICUT ELECTIONS.

Corrected Returns Show a Republican Gain of Eleven Towns.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—Corrected returns from each of the 169 towns that voted yesterday show 109 went republican, 32 democratic and 31 divided. A number of the divided towns were really carried by the republicans as the contest was on the board of selectmen. The results show a republican gain of eleven towns.

Torpedo Boat Contracts.

Washington, Oct. 7.—Secretary Herbert has finally awarded the contracts for building the smaller torpedo boats which were left to be distributed after the award of contracts for the 30-knot boats. Herreschoff of Bristol, R. I., gets one 22½ knot boat and two 20-knot boats; Wolff & Zwicker of Portland, Ore., get two 22½-knot boats (their first government contract); the Columbian Iron works of Baltimore get one 20-knot boat, and the Hillman Ship Building company of Philadelphia gets the remaining 20-knot boat.

Trouble for Gold Democrats in Ohio.

Columbus, O., Oct. 7.—The state and electoral tickets of the gold democrats, or national democrats as they call themselves, may not get on the Australian ballot in this state after all. The state democratic executive committee has filed a protest against admitting the ticket to the ballot with the state supervisor of elections on the ground that the name is so similar to that of the regular democratic party that it is likely to give rise to confusion. There is a law against this.

Fatal Accident in a Church.

Hartford, Oct. 7.—Two men were badly injured and one killed through an accident at the Asylum avenue Baptist church yesterday afternoon. They were on a staging used in building an addition to the church, when it gave way precipitating them to the ground. They fell about twenty-five feet and struck the pews beneath. Michael Mulcahy, a married man, died in a few minutes. Charles Parker and James Harvey were seriously hurt.

Claims the Ticket Is Illegal.

Springfield, Ills., Oct. 7.—Theodore Nelson, secretary of the state democratic central committee, has filed a petition with Secretary of State Hinrichsen against the certification of the independent national democratic state ticket. He gives as his reasons substantially that the law has not been complied with; that there are not enough names to the petition, and that it is illegally constituted.

National Democrats in Albany County.

Albany, Oct. 7.—The Albany county national democrats have decided to hold a convention this week for the purpose of nominating a candidate for congress from this district. It is probable that the convention will endorse most of the candidates named by the republicans for county offices.

The Park Club has received a challenge for the State Whist trophy from the Newark Whist Club, and the match will probadly be played next week.

AMONG THE STEPPERS.

The Gentlemen's Driving Park Association will be the guests on Thursday of the Woodbridge Driving Park Club, at Woodbridge, at which time several noted trotters from this vicinity will be put on the track.

VARIOUS SPORTS.

The Y. M. C. A. has arranged to organize a team, which will be one of the prominent parts of the recreative element in the physical department. Basket ball men are requested to meet the physical director this week.

A meeting of the Plainfield High School Athletic Association was held yesterday afternoon and it was decided to postpone the field day until next spring. The change was thought best on account of the cold weather and the fact that most of the athletes in the High School were completely out of training. The Oval is in such condition that bicycle races there would be impossible.

AROUND THE BASES.

The deciding game in the series between the Bound Brooks and Somersets was won on Saturday by the former team by a score of 6 to 3. Terry and Jones were the Bound Brook battery, and H. Major and Smith the Somersets. The game was exciting throughout, and was practically won in the third inning by a three-bagger by Terry, when two men were on bases.

Suppered Their New Brunswick Friends.

Court Pride of New Jersey, of the Order of Foresters, met last night in their rooms in the Elkwood building and entertained a stageload of visitors from the New Brunswick court who drove over for a fraternal visit. During the evening there was singing and toast-making, and an elaborate supper was served before the guests departed for home about 11 o'clock.

To Extend Their Usefulness.

The first business meeting of the season of the Young Friend's Association will be held in the Watchung avenue meeting house this evening at 8 o'clock. The meeting will be preliminary in its nature, and is called for the purpose of arranging matters for the coming Winter season, when papers will be read on historical and current events.

A Serious Charge.

Robert Snyder, of Scotch Plains, was arraigned in Justice Newcorn's court today on a charge of incest preferred by his daughter, Miss Anabelle Snyder. The defendant was held to await the action of the Grand Jury. Lawyer Harry Runyon represents him. A plea of not guilty was offered at the hearing.

Nasty Walking.

Persons living in the vicinity of Richmond street, between Second and Fifth streets, are complaining bitterly because there are no crosswalks on Richmond street. In wet weather walking is terrible in that locality, and as the residents pay taxes they feel as though they are entitled to at least one walk.

Campaign Committee.

A Democratic Campaign Committee was appointed last evening for the Eighth Congressional District as follows: Dr. Sanger, of Orange; Hon. F. C. Marsh, Union; Lewis Hyer, Union; L. C. Page, Union.

In-City Court.

The Spriggs-Parsons breach of promise was adjourned in the City Court this morning until next Monday. Judge DeMeza fined the only other offerder, Oswald Kamber, $3 for being drunk and disorderly.

KILLED BY AN EXPRESS.

While Attempting to Catch a Local Train by Rushing Across the Track.

A group of passengers waiting at the Elizabethport station of the Jersey Central Railroad for a train early last evening were horrified at the sight of a mangled body of a man dropping suddenly in their midst. The body was that of Thomas B. White, twenty-five years old, of Jersey City.

White had brought a horse out from Jersey City for W. H. Rankin, of Elizabethport. After delivering his charge he had hurried to the Elizabethport station to catch the train. As he reached the station the eastern express was approaching on the fourth track.

The man, failing to notice it, started to cross over to reach the local track and wait for his train. As he stepped on the express track the train rushed past, the pilot of the engine picking him up and throwing his body to one side into the midst af the passengers in waiting. Several women in the crowd fainted.

THE ELECTION IN FLORIDA.

Returns Very Incomplete—A Bryan Democratic Claim of 25,000 Plurality.

Jacksonville, Fla., October 7.—Reports received up to an early hour this morning, covering seventeen of the smaller counties, but not including any of the large cities except Pensacola, give Bloxam, the regular Democratic candidate for Governor, estimated plurality of 9,750.

Chairman Rawls of the Democratic State Committee estimates Bloxham's plurality in the State at 25,000. The returns are slow in coming in on account of difficulty in counting the votes under the Australian ballot system.

Funeral of Charles Fisher.

Funeral services over the remains of the late Charles Fisher, who died Monday night, will take place from the house, on East Second street, Thursday afternoon at four o'clock, Rev. C. E. Herring officiating. Interment will be made in Greenwood Cemetery in the family plot alongside of his mother.

Body Building.

The physical department of the Y. M. C. A. has had a thorough overhauling and the important work of body building has begun. We aim to develop a man "all around," thus preparing him for the continual strain which business of today demands.

Grand Jury Work.

It is said that the grand jury which was charged yesterday by Judge Van-Syckle, in Elizabeth, have more than 250 cases demanding attention. George P. Mathews is foreman.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—Jerusalem Lodge, No. 26, F. and A. M., met last night and worked the Fellowship degree on one member.

—Christian Endeavor caps for ladies may be found at Van Emburgh & Son's corner store, Babcock building.

—Among some of the finest store decorations in the city is that of Peck, the West Front street dry goods dealer.

—The contract case of Mitchell & Purveyance against Marlow, Kippling & Co., was tried in Justice Newcorn's court this morning and judgment was given the plaintiffs.

—While coachman Albert Selwin was driving Mr. Barnaby's turnout over the South Plainfield bridge this morning, the horses slipped and broke the pole. No other damage resulted.

—The Republican flag on Somerset street got in trouble early this morning with the wind, and it was found necessary to have a man climb the poles and straighten out the difficulty.

—The Epworth League of the Woodbridge M. E. church, held a rally last evening at which time Rev. W. C. O'Donnell, pastor of the Monroe Avenue chapel, made an address which was listened to with much pleasure.

—The State Sunday School convention of the A. M. E. church will commence this evening in the Mt. Zion A. M. E. church on West Second street. The convention will continue for two days, and 50 delegates from various parts of the State are expected to attend.

If Troubled with Rheumatism Read This.

Annapolis, Md., Apr. 16, 1894.—I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and found it to be all that is claimed for it. I believe it to be the best preparation for rheumatism and deep seated muscular pains on the market and cheerfully recommend it to the public. Jno. G. Brooks, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., No. 18 Main street.

ALSO READ THIS.

Mechanicsville, St. Mary County, Md. —I sold a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm to a man who had been suffering with rheumatism for several years. It made him a well man. A. J. Mc Gill. For sale at 50c. per bottle by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experience that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

Life in the Polar Region.

Some curious details of life in the polar region have been obtained from members of the Nansen expedition. They all dwell on the feelings of delight which they experienced in once more meeting other human beings. So tired did they become of seeing the same faces and hearing the same voices day after day in the course of the slow drift northward that in the end a feeling of irritation was produced. At times this irritability became well-nigh insupportable. Finding it almost impossible to endure the sight of another day, they would set off on long walks over the ice, each man by himself. It was an astounding thing, one man said, to see his comrades striding away over the ice from the ship, each in a different direction, and carefully avoiding his fellows.

OF THE COMMERCIAL PALACE,

Will, from this date, inaugurate the most unique and LIBERAL METHODS ever attempted in this section in selling goods, and prove to the people that there is no place where their needs can be supplied at as little COST and TROUBLE as he can offer.

We know this means the Giving of Great Values!

But we feel confident we can make good what we promise to do, and all we ask of the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity, is to come in and see and judge for themselves. This is the way we make good that we have ever shown, and thoroughly equipped with competent salespeople, it won't cost us any more to sell $200,000 a year than to sell $100,000 and by selling the larger amount at a less profit we make just as much money, and our patrons are supplied at much lower rates and are the real gainers. We believe by introducing this new method we will double our trade inside of three months. Will you be one to encourage this new departure? In addition to this new change we will also offer from week to week EXTRAORDINARY VALUES such as these:

1 Case of Children's Natural Wool Winter Vests and Pants, neatly finished with silk stitching and binding, front and neck, regular made cuffs, finished seams, and guaranteed to us by the Mills to be all-wool, 16-in at 4c., and rise 5c a size. Don't delay or you may get left.

1 Case best quality 64x64 soft finished Kid Cambrics, all colors and black, 3c. 1 lot of real good quality Selisia, in colors and black; we always have sold for 15c., now 7 1-2 cents. 1 lot Hairlene, sold all over for 25c. Our price now 18c. 1 lot 4-Buttoned Kid Gloves, 25c. 1 lot Boys' Wool mixed Suits, 6 to 13, double-breasted coat, well-made and will wear well—just the thing for school wear at

ONE DOLLAR THE SUIT.

Cheaper ones at Eighty Cents the Suit.

IN FINE WOOL BLANKETS.

We have made a tremendous big deal in securing several cases at actually below the wholesale price, and our patrons may have the whole benefit of the deal, just to prove our new method is genuine. You will be surprised to see the goods. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, very pretty borders, guaranteed 75 of wool, at $2.50 the pair. 1 lot 10-4 all-Wool Blankets, handsome pink and blue borders at $3. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, elegant pink, blue and red Jaquard borders, at $3 25. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, extra fine and handsome, with beautiful Dresden borders in pink, red and yellow, only $5.50. The wholesale price of these is $6.50. See what a bargain they are. We sell Canton Blankets as low as 40c. We offer one lot of all-wool Storm Serge, 52-inches wide, at 25c. Did you ever hear of such a low price before?

BRIGHT FACED ENDEAVORERS HAPPY IN THE SPIRIT OF THE CONVENTION

THERE WAS A WONDERFUL AND INSPIRING SIGHT WITNESSED AT THE OPENING SESSION IN CONVENTION HALL LAST EVENING.

Twenty-Eight Hundred Pairs of Eyes and Ears Saw and Heard the Efforts Made by a Choir of Several Hundred Voices—The Welcome of Plainfield's Pastors and Endeavorers to Make the Gathering the Most Notable Religious Event Ever Held in New Jersey- Overflow Meetings Held—Plainfield Captures the Banner.

Plainfield is captured and her bright-faced captors are in full possession, for the long-expected and anxiously awaited State Convention of the Christian Endeavor Society has begun. Did you ever enter an immense hall filled with enthusiastic cheerful people, all radiant with an irresistible joyfulness that broke forth at intervals in song and made their faces a blessing to look on? If you did, then you have some faint conception of a Christian Endeavor convention. But you can't imagine it, it's impossible, words are inadequate to describe it. There is an indescribable something that seems to take possession of all. And so it was last night at the tenth annual State convention, which was held in Convention Hall, as the Jersey Cycle Academy is now called. At least, part of the opening service was held there for the attendance was so large that every seat in the hall was filled and all the standing room occupied, so that an overflow meeting had to be opened at the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian church.

Plainfield is easy of access to Endeavorers from all over the State, and thus it was that these enthusiastic young Christians came in such large numbers. From Cape May county to Passaic, from the east to the west, each society sent its delegates. Most of them were young people, young men and young women with intellectual faces and happy spirits, the select of the State, for that great organization, the Christian Endeavor society, contains among its members the brightest and smartest young minds of New Jersey. The older generation was represented, not the old man of dry and crabbed spirit, but those who, altough their years are many, are still young in spirit.

Then the Junior Endeavorers should not be forgotten. The children, who are to be the Christian Endeavorers of the future, were there and side by side with some grey-haired old man, listening as interestedly as he.

The organge and black convention badge was visible everywhere. All the delegates wore them, some on one place and some on another. The State badge of the same colors was frequently to be seen.

If you happened to be in the vicinity of Convention Hall last evening at seven o'clock you saw the vast crowd that completely blocked the doorway, filled the sidewalk and extended far into the street. The convention badge was the necessary pass that admitted the Endeavors into the hall, and very strictly was the rule enforced, that said none should enter without one. Long before seven o'clock the crowd began to gather, and it did not cease until the convention had commenced and the hall was filled to its last limitation.

The Jersey Cycle Academy is one of the largest halls in the State, but it was wonderful how rapidly it was filled. The decorations were tasteful; the State colors, orange and black and the convention colors, green and white, prevailed. Bunting of those colors was draped and festooned from the sides, while the Stars and Stripes occupied prominent positions. Numerous signs about the room cautioned the Endeavorers "not to move about during prayer, addresses or solo singing," to "walk lightly" and "sing while waiting."

As the time for opening drew near President E. E. Anthony, of the local union, mounted the platform with a little girl by his side and remarked that somebody had lost her and would they please stand and claim ownership. Those who were standing suddenly sat down, but the mother of the child did not appear. Tears came to the eyes of the child, but Mr. Anthony carried her away to one of the Plainfield Christian Endeavors, who comforted the little girl until her mother came.

At last, Horace J. Martin, the musical director, took his stand at the front of the platform and the white-capped chorus choir, composed of the Plainfield young people, arose. The convention had begun and the grand melody of voices swelled out in the familiar tune of the hymn "I will Sing the Wondrous Story." A rousing service of song in the real Christian Endeavor spirit followed, and then Rev. A. H. Lewis, D. D., rose and read a scripture selection from the fourth and sixth chapters of Ephesians. Mr. Anthony then made several announcements stating that in the place of the Park Sisters there would be an instrumental trio composed of Messrs. Craul, Peters and Faucile. Governor Griggs will not be present and his place on the programme will be filled by Rev. John L. Scudder, D. D.

Prayer by Dr. Lewis came next. President Anthony now rose and introduced Plainfield's Mayor, Alex. Gilbert, to address a few words of welcome to the visitors. Mr. Gilbert said:

"It would be difficult for me to select words that will fitly express the thought that holds possession of my mind as I stand here and look upon this vast audience composed so largely of young men and young women. I feel that I have a duty to perform which calls for well chosen speech, sincerity and dignity, in order to properly represent the people of Plainfield tonight. Ordinarily I can truly say that no duty comes to me in my official life which brings with it greater pleasure than that which calls upon me to represent the City at times like this, to extend the hand of welcome, and speak the word of greeting to the stranger within our gates. Knowing as well as I do what a deep interest the people of Plainfield feel in the work of this Convention, and how generously and heartily they welcome every influence that works for morality and righteousness, I am fearful lest I may not do them full justice in the words of welcome that I shall speak to you. Whenever I am called upon to speak to young people, my mind goes back through the years of my own life to the period of youth and I think of the wasted opportunities for growth in body, in mind, in character, in capacity to work for the good of society. I feel impelled to appeal to the young to be wiser than I have been; to remember that youth is the golden period of life, the time when the foundations of character are laid, when the habit of application is formed, when physical health is secured, when the capacity to work is created, when a man's future value to society is determined. Oh, the boundless opportunities of youth! The value of a man to society is his capacity and willingness to work for the good of society. Knowing how true this is, we are ready to say, thrice welcome to Plainfield is any organization of influence that will gather in our young people, surround them with good influences, and develop in them the capacity to work. This thought I would like to leave with you:—While you are developing the capacity to work, interest yourselves in books. Soloman says: 'Take fast hold of instruction—let her not go—keep her, she is thy life.' It will add much to your future happiness, to your knowledge, to your usefulness. What we call happiness is the pleasure which the mind extracts from the things it is interested in. If, in early life, you interest your mind in the pursuit of knowledge and in work that is profitable to yourself and society, time will never hang heavily on your hands. You will have a well-filled storehouse of pleasure to draw from in the later years of your life. The man or woman whom society delights to honor, is the man or woman of intellectual endowments. The man for whom great opportunities lie in waiting is the man who is prepared for great opportunities when they come to him."

Then the mayor of North Plainfield, B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., made a few remarks in a similar vein. He said:

"No occasion, since I have had the honor to represent the Borough of North Plainfield as its sxecutive head, has given me great pleasure than this one. I am here to extend a sincere and heartfelt welcome from the citizens of the Borough of North Plainfield; this is a case where you are all doubly welcome for His Honor, Mayor Gilbert, has on the part of the City of Plainfield extended a most cordial welcome, and I, on behalf of this city's younger sister across the brook, the Borough of North Plainfield, hold out the hand of welcome to our town and homes. You are gathered together from all parts of our state for a good purpose and I am sure that great good will come as a result of this convention. from this place will radiate an influence for good which we all will feel. As a pebble dropped into a stream sends out the ripples in ever widening circles so will your good work go out. We feel deeply honored that this has been selected as your convention city for 1896. We are glad you are here and will be sorry when you are gone but I am certain that after you have departed your influence for good will leave its stamp upon our city and borough. Again I bid you a hearty welcome to the Borough of North Plainfield."

The Midmer Glee Club, of Plainfield, then came forward and gave a well rendered selection.

On behalf of the pastors of this city and North Plainfield, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph. D., said:

"The welcome of the pastors, and the churches they represent, is not one whit less hearty than that of our honored mayors.

"You do not come among us as strangers, though we suspect there are many angels in this gathering. "We know thy works and thy labour and thy patience and now thou canst not bear them which are evil." Your sound, leaping the bounds of your own state, has gone forth into all the earth and your words unto ends of the earth.

"We pass to you the keys of our sanctuaries, we greet you with open doors, because, first, we believe your entrance means fullness of blessing. It means a church replete with enthusiasm, zeal and consecration. Should you do nothing more than come here and sing these songs and throng our edifices and streets and homes with your bright faces, engaging personalities and overflowing ardor, we should yet welcome you because of the revival of fervor and earnestness bound to follow. The sights of a band of young men and young women, full of the enthusiasm of youth, full of the vigor and rapture of life, with hearts beating high with great purposes and faces radiant with hope, is ever a source of delight to the onlooker. But words cannot tell how great in the glory of youth when it is associated with the kingdom of righteousness. A young life, consecrated to God, filled with enthusiasm for the cause of Christ, every heart beat true to his glory, the countenance uplifted in the grand aspirations of the Kingdom of Christ and the dew of its youth sparkling in the light of the Sun of Righteousness, in a sight to make angels and men rejoice together. We welcome you because we are pleased to meet those who are the incarnation of hope.

REV. C. E. HERRING, Prog. Com.

whose favorite tune is not Naomi but Coronation, and whose faces are toward not the yesterday, but the tomorrow.

"We welcome you, second, because we understand that the plane on which this convention is to be conducted in the high one of spirituality, that the aim of all is, better, higher, nobler ideals of life and service and that your motto, in effect, is 'saved to serve.' If we are correct in our prognosis, then we say to the Endeavorers of this 'mosquito State' All Hail! welcome, thrice welcome! And the ministry of this city sing this greeting with all the persistence and persuasive power of Jersey's favorite bird, because we rejoice that Endeavorers are beginning to realize salvation means more than safety, that we are now to win, led to lead, saved to be saviors. Conversion is a chance in one's relations, but a conversion that does not transform the character, that does not favorably affect those about us, that awakens no concern for the salvation of others, may well have an interrogation point after it. The ideal Christian Endeavorer is not one who makes his home in some city of refuge, who hides behind a stone wall of fancied security; rather he is one who lets his light shine, who carries the preservation and antiseptic salt of a Godly character to the plague spots of the world, who goes about doing good and who, like his master, comes not to be ministered unto but to minister. This is the word he heard at his conversion. 'As the father hath sent me, even so send I you.'

We welcome you, finally, because of your recognition of the source of power. As thorough and as disciplined and as great as are your numbers, still your help is in God and in His name do you set up your banners. Without Him we can do nothing worth talking about, with Him we can do all things. "Not by might, not by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord of Hosts." It is for us to make a connection between our weakness and the omnipotence. Here is a heap of sawdust and near by a little glycerine and nitric acid. A child can sift it and play with it; but combine them properly and the blow of a splinter upon them will make an earthquake. We welcome you because we believe this sense of dependence is felt by you, and because we believe the combination has already been effected. The power has already come in answer to prayer. The baptism of fire and the Holy Ghost has already occurred. The sacred flame has been kindled, the fire is burning, the Holy Spirit is working. O! that every delegate may light his torch at this fire and then return a flaming evangel to his home, until every hamlet and village and city throughout the length and breadth of our State, shall be shaken with the power, illumined with this light, irradiated with the glory of God. In behalf of my beloved colleagues, than whom you will not find anywhere, we believe, a more devoted and earnest company of workers and among whom there exists a most delightful Christian and fraternal spirit, in their behalf and the churches they represent, I welcome you. We extend to you the freedom of our churches, our homes, our hearts and we offer it not in a casket of perishable gold but in the tried metal of Christian brotherhood, impearled with the prayers and best wishes of the pastors of Plainfield."

As Edward E. Anthony, president of the local union, rose to speak on behalf of the union, he was stopped by the loud applause that greeted the appearance of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage, D. D., as he came on the platform. As the applause died away Mr. Anthony began his welcoming speech in his characteristic man. A little humor about the situation and then he remarked: "You are here, or we believe you are. If you are as glad that you are here as we are, then you must be very glad. You had some trouble in coming in that door. That door does not represent our welcome. Our welcome is wider. About all is said that can be by the previous speakers. You know the fellow-feeling between the Christian Endeavors. We don't welcome you as strangers, but as brothers and sisters. We have one aim, one work and one motto. Our motto is: 'For Christ and the Church.' The motto of the convention is: 'Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord.' That is the Endeavor spirit. I never saw so many handsome people in the streets in Plainfield before. Not that Plainfield's people are not handsome, but you have added to our number. Take our Mayors for instance; did you ever see two Mayors any handsomer than they? They make a fine team of Mayors to work together. We hope everybody is suited with their places; if not, then try to be.

"Don't be unwilling to go the overflow meetings. They will be as good as these. They will be better. That is one characteristic of this convention. Every meeting is going to be better than all the others. May you leave a rich blessing behind; not only here, but in the homes where you stay."

After Mr. Anthony's remarks the choir joined in singing the song of welcome, written for the occasion by Rev. Robert Lowry, D. D. The tune was "Shining Shore" and the words were as fallows:

We bid you welcome, brethren dear,
Our warmest love expressing,
With thanks to Him who crowns the year,
And covers us with blessing.

Chorus: We're one in faith and Christian love.
We're one in high endeavor;
We'e one in hope of rest above.
We're one in Christ forever.

Beneath the cross, in union sweet,
From duty never swerving,
Be ours to sit at Jesus' feet
And gather strength for serving.

Look up and see, with kindling eye,
How vast the field before us;
Nor falter when the fray comes nigh
For Christ is hovering o'er us.

Let every heart be firm and strong
To bear its share of burden;
Fill all life's toil with prayer and song,
And Christ will give the guerdon.

O blessed they who Jesus know,
And tell Redemption's story!
A few more days of toil below,
And then—a home in glory!

The audience then united in singing the song of response composed by Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., of Jersey City, vice-president of the State Christian Endeavor Union. It was sung to the tune "Vox Angelica," and was as follows:

We hear, we hear Endeavorers' voices swelling
From Christian hearts, abounding in God's love;
We hear the promise of their welcome, telling
Of hallowed joys to lift our souls above.

Chorus: Workers for Jesus,
Clothed in His might,
Bearing our crosses,
Endeavor in His might.
Working and singing,
Exultant, exultant for the right

We come, we come, responding to their voices,
From verdant hill and "ocean's wave beat shore;"
All Jersey now salutes thee and rejoices,
Glad Plainfield! through thine open gates we pour.—Cho.

With you we'll sit at Jesus's feet, awaiting
The Holy Spirit, God's most precious gift;
That, neither faith, nor love, nor zeal abating
We may from sinful earth its burden lift.
—Cho.

Once more, dear hearts, we thank you for your greeting,
Your smiles, your songs, your salutations all.
With you, Endeavor hosts in Christ's name meeting,
Shall feast, as in Christ's bannered banquet hall.—Cho.

The response to the address of welcome was made by Rev. Dr. Bockman, of New Brunswick. He referred to what he called the preposterousness of his taking the place of Rev. Dr. French.

"We have been assured," he said, "that everything is wide open. How do you like it? Everything is open to receive us, have you been received? If so, how do you like it? Look at the badge, the bug has been explained. Below is a picture of a rock with Plainfield below. We are to lift Plainfield people up to that rock, to lift them up on a high plane. If you wish to express your gratitude to the Plainfield people, let us sing, when we sing, with full hearts and voices and lift them up to a high plane. Let us do it so, that when we go, we shall be missed."

Then Mr. Anthony rose and, in a few well-chosen words, inroduced the head of the State Union, Rev. J. Clement French, D. D., the reverend president of the Union. He spoke as follows:

"Beloved Chistian Endeavorers: The subject upon which I wish to speak to you this evening is 'The Need of the Age.' Let me come to it without any preamble or side-cuts, for the time is limited.

"You are all familiar with the anecdote of the old Cynic Diogenes who lighted a candle by day and went through the streets crying, 'I seek a man!' And when people gathered about him in crowds, he beat them back with his stick saying, 'I want men. I have found children in Sparta and women in Athens, but men I have never seen!'

"Diogenes never wrote a book. He never published his theory of manhood. We can only conjecture it. But from his persistent and victorious application to become a pupil of the learned Anthistenes, we may be sure that he had at least one element of true manhood—a longing for knowleldge, which rose to the height of a passion. He would know, cost what it might. Willing ignorance was to him a synonum for worthlessness and sin. His example gives us the first element of what we call 'The Need of the Age,' viz: A desire, a thirst for knowledge.

"Man was made to know. For this, mind was given. All senses are inlets, feeders to the mind. Forms, facts, relations, causes and effects are in nature. Mind finds, analyzes, classifies, tests them. Then they become sciences. Progress follows study; enjoyment follows progress. Mental powers never stand still. They advance or recede, expand or shrink. This is God's order; we cannot change it. Not to know, where knowledge is possible, is folly, is sin.

"A man may be ignorant and yet guiltless. He may also be happy.

MAYOR HEGEMAN.

But neither, if he willingly commits himself to ignorance, chooses it, loves it. One may say, 'I know enough to get a living from my farm. My father and mother lived and died here. All they had was a district school training and they got through life well enough. What was good enough for them, is good enough for me!'

"So it is, if the only end of living is to get a living to get through life. But a farm may be a schoolmaster as well as a supporter of life, for any one who can see in a furrow something more than an upturned clod. Nature meant blades of grass and stalks of corn for something besides fodder for cattle. A farmer can raise more and better corn and wheat for being a practical chemist, and none the poorer for having a poet's eye and heart. It is not enough that one is able to drive a mill, manage a factory, run a store, sail a ship, teach a district school, make good bread, keep a house tidy and keep the buttons on the shirts. All these are most necessary accomplishments.

"They may be to life like the tour or main drive in a park, while there are numberless paths in which excursions can be made among new views, and fresh treasures of truth may be gathered.

"Nothing both indicates and produces mental stagnation more surely than to say, 'I know enough!' Pity the person! He will live a vegetable life, dying first at the top, and decaying at last at the root.

"Nor need any one say: 'I cannot know more! I am poor. I have no books and can get none. I am so hurried by the necessity of making a living that I could not study, if I had an Astor library.' We appreciate and sympathize with the plea, but you are in error. You can study somewhat, though you be driven like a galley slave. Roger Sherman had one book before him as he sat on the shoemaker's bench. When he made the awl-hole and pushed the wax ends through it he did that and nothing else; but when he drew the threads to the tightened stitch, he conned a sentence from that book and that spirit within him made him one of the most masterly men of his generation. Besides, you have a library greater than Alexandrian, Bodleian and Astor combined. You have the sky, the stars, the earth, the fruits and the birds; you have the times and the seasons, men, society, gov-

DUNELLEN.

Miss Marie VanPelt, of Manasquan, is visiting at the home of Mrs. Jane Apgar.

By tomorrow it is thought the Board of Canvassers will have completed their labors.

Fred Nelson was in New York yesterday looking after some business transactions.

The new town hall is receiving its first coat of paint and already it presents a much brighter look.

A few and a very few of the business places are decorated for the State Christian Endeavor Convention now in progress in Plainfield.

Adam Dealaman's dog is said to be playing havoc about town with cats and other dogs. The dog is not so dangerous to pedestrians as it is to canines.

Charles Hand, of Plainfield, has had notices posted in the store windows of H. Giles & Co., announcing a sale of the entire stock of hardware on Monday next.

Through the courtesy of Rev. A. I. Martine, the members of the Christian Endeavor society were provided with badges entitling them to hear Rev. T. DeWitt Talmadge, last night.

The gutters along the New Market road have been shorn of weeds in many places, and there are more spots where they need cutting before cold weather sets in. The street commissioner is doing the work.

A number of members of the Christian Endeavor societies from Dunellen and New Market went to Plainfield last night to attend the Moody meetings there. Some of the older people went as early as 6 o'clock, so as to be on hand at the opening of the doors.

Miss Della Fritts, of Dunellen avenue, celebrated the twenty-first anniversary of her birthday on Monday evening, when some twenty couples of young people of New Market and Dunellen were present and paid their respects, and also participated in the dancing and supper. Music for the occasion was furnished by Howard Snowden, and the festivities were continued until about 3 o'clock the next morning.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. James Totten, of New street, is much improved from a recent severe illness.

Miss Raybert, of North avenue, has returned from a visit with Westfield friends.

Miss Margaret Schuck, of Vine street, is improving from a slight indisposition.

Rev. Herbert Randolph and wife, formerly of the borough, are the guests of Plainfield friends.

Mrs. Leber, of Cartaret, is visiting her parents, Mr. and Mrs. Randolph Dunham, of Madison avenue.

Charles W. Smith, of Willow avenue, who has been ill for the past few days with the grip, is now convalescent.

Herbert Ryno, of Haverstraw, N.Y., rode on his wheel to this city Sunday and returned yesterday, after visiting a few friends.

Mrs. E. D. George, of Craig place, left yesterday morning for Philadelphia, where she will visit relatives for two weeks.

Miss Jessie Little, of East Ninth street, and Miss Adelaide Baxter, of Putnam avenue, leave tomorrow to visit friends in Brooklyn.

Conductor Swackhamer, of the street railway, is slowly recovering from a severe injury to his right hand, caused by the brake on the car striking him.

—John P. Emmons, of Prospect place, has purchased a new horse and trap.

—Jed Smalley has purchased a new horse from Stonewall Jackson, of Warrenville.

—The residence of J. Evarts Tracy, of West Eighth street, is being improved by a new coat of paint.

—The case of Stebor against Chase, on contract, was adjourned yesterday by Justice Crosley to October 13th.

—Workmen from the Townsend Granite Works, on Somerset street, went to Flemington yesterday morning to erect a ten-ton Barry monument for the family of the late George Nevius.

The whist game arranged for Friday night between the Park and the Newark teams has been postponed till next Monday evening on account of the Christian Endeavor Convention.

Harry Brown, of North Plainfield, a well-known local sprinter, who has won several medals in this State for short distance running, has accepted a position with the New York Athletic Club as instructor in athletics.

The Y. M. C. A. football team will play again on Saturday afternoon against the Dunellen team. As both teams are comparatively local considerable interest will be showed in the game. There is lots of good material in the Dunellen team although they have not lead much practice. The game will be played on the Y. M. C. A. grounds and will begin at four o'clock. Admission will be 10 cents.

DAINTY PHOTOGRAPH FRAMES.

How to Make the Popular Book-Shaped Kind.

The simple, always popular, book-shaped frames, to hold two, four, six or even more photographs, are useful. They may be covered with almost any kind of material, though of course the handsomer the material chosen, the more dainty the results will be. These frames may be closed like a book to lie on a table, thereby taking the place of the obsolete album, or they may be extended screen fashion, partly open so as to exhibit the pictures they contain. It is almost necessary to buy the foundations for these frames, as it is nearly impossible for a novice to cut out the cardboard and have it perfectly exact, and unless they are exact they are not at all pretty. The foundations are sold for a few cents apiece, and consist of two pieces of heavy cardboard for each division or leaf of the book. The back and front are the same in size, eight inches by six, but the front piece has an opening 5½ inches by 3½ for the picture. For a frame capable of holding four pictures, eight pieces of cardboard will be required, four of which must have the opening as already described. There will also be necessary half a yard of material, 27 inches wide, a sheet of batting, a sheet of white watered paper and some good glue. Begin by making the back of the book first.

To do this divide the silk lengthwise, so that there will be two pieces, each 27 inches long. From the end of each piece cut off two inches and place aside for subsequent use. Extend one of the 25-inch pieces, right side down, on the table. Place a layer of batting over the silk, and on the batting adjust at equal distances the four back pieces, allowing sufficient space between each to permit the frame to be folded in book form. Then turn the edges of the material being used for the cover and the batting over the back pieces and glue firmly in place. The end pieces of the silk are now brought into use. Divide them through the center, so that there will be four pieces, although only three are to be used. These pieces are to be glued in neatly between the card-boards to hide the exposed batting at the hinges. The tops and bottoms of these strips will be, of course, turned under so as to avoid raw edges. To finish the backs glue over the cards pieces of watered paper, covering the ends of the silk which have been previously glued to the boards. The object of this is to give the frame a finished appearance when completed. This finishes the back of the book frame, and it may be laid away to dry while the front pieces are being covered. To cover the front pieces proceed in the same way, omitting the batting. When all are covered glue them in position to the back pieces, leaving the bottom free to admit the photographs; place under a heavy weight and let remain under pressure for 24 hours, so that the glue may become well set. Brocade, China silk, crepe, duck, denim and embroidered linen are all used in the manufacture of these useful photograph holders.

Pretty frames of this sort may be made as gifts for friends, or brothers, sisters or cousins who are at college, utilizing the college colors when selecting the covering; yellow and white for Bryn Mawr, rose and gray for Vassar, blue and white for Barnard, blue for Wellesley, orange and black for Princeton, crimson for Harvard, dark blue for Yale, carnelian and white for Cornell, blue and white for Columbia, purple and white for Amherst, red and blue for Pennsylvania, brown and white for Brown and black and blue for Johns Hopkins.—Ladies' Home Journal.

Dainty Handkerchiefs.

A growing revival of old-fashioned needle work is noticeable to-day. Young women are laboriously hemstitching their own handkerchiefs just as if the day of machines had not arrived. This fad grew into large proportions last winter, when the daintiest of wedding gifts was a dozen of these fine linen squares, hemstitched by hand, and a small initial letter worked in one corner. The newest fancy for young women's kerchiefs is to hemstitch them, then put a full ruffle of narrow white footing around the edge. Some have a round of fine beading whipped on by hand, then a full edge of very narrow lace sewed on this. Many of the kerchiefs are cut round and then finished in this fashion. But this shape tends a little too much to an oddity to be generally popular. Footing is so serviceable and cheap, the width required being only about three cents a yard. It has the added prestige of being exceedingly fashionable, having been used more than anything else as a trimming for this summer's gowns. Black footing is appropriate for a mourning kerchief.—Chicago Chronicle.

RELICS UNEARTHED.

An Interesting Find in the Harvard College Grounds.

Students of antiquity at Harvard college and many everyday philosophers are interested in a find unearthed within a few days on the college grounds, old Cambridge, says the Boston Globe.

On the site of some of the old buildings, being removed to widen the square, newspapers of the year 1800 and copper coins have been found. One of the tattered newspapers bears date of July 8, 1800, and the word "Telegraphe" on the title page. Another paper bears date of August 11, 1800, and the word "Constitution" or "Constitutional" at the top of the first page. The papers are badly discolored from age and exposure.

Some believe that the paper bearing the word Telegraphe was an early issue of the Boston Daily Telegraph, which is preserved in the Harvard college library as far back as 1824. The typography of the papers is in the style of the period of their publication, and quite representative in the matter of advertisements of the early business life and conditions in Boston. Politics are discussed with almost as much energy as the present day. As an instance, reference is made to Hamilton and Jefferson, the former being referred to in such elegant terms as "A notorious Jacobin, alias Democrat, alias Republican."

The eight coppers found have found a place with the other relics of the Harvard college library.

Knew by Experience.

The examiner wished to get the children to express moral reprobation of lazy people, and he led up to it by asking who were the people who got all they could and did nothing in return. For some time there was silence, but at last a little girl who had obviously extracted out the answer inductively from her own home experience, exclaimed with a good deal of confidence: "Please, sir, it's the baby."

It Would Be Lying.

An eminent queen's counsel once gave the following recommendation to a gentleman who proposed to swear an affidavit after having already sworn an affidavit in exactly a contrary sense in the course of the suit. "Never," remarked the queen's counsel, "swear an affidavit when your previous affidavit to the contrary effect is in possession of the court. Because, my friend," he added, "that would be lying."

Nerve

Excitement, overwork and worry are ruining the health of thousands of women. Pure Blood is required to feed the nerves, a good appetite and digestive strength are demanded to keep the body strong and vigorous, and to restore the exhausted energies there must be sound and refreshing

Sleep

By its power to respond to all these needs Hood's Sarsaparilla has proved itself the greatest friend of women. Thousands write that they have been given health and strength by its use. It is the great blood purifier, and consequently the true nerve tonic.

"I feel that I should be wanting in common gratitude should I fail to tell the benefit my wife has derived from Hood's Sarsaparilla. She became seriously ill from running ulcers, caused by poorness of and was strongly advised by a friend to try Hood's Sarsaparilla. She said it had cured her and would no doubt cure my wife. So we tried it, and to say that its effect is wonderful, is only using a mild expression. It appears to be building up a new constitution for her; and, as we are a family of eleven, there are eleven of us rejoicing at the result.

"If the foregoing induces only one person, suffering in the same manner, to try Hood's Sarsaparilla, I shall feel more than rewarded." ELIJAH PACKER, 585 Monroe Street, Brooklyn, N. Y.

MORE GOLD IMPORTS

The Bank of England Continues To Lose to the United States.

OVER HALF A MILLION NOW ENROUTE

The Report That Importers Are Keeping the Gold Received Out of Circulation Laughed at by Bankers—Increase in the Rate for Call Money.

New York, Oct. 8.—The Bank of England continues to lose gold to the United States. Five hundred thousand dollars of the $615,000 withdrawn yesterday for this country goes to the Bank of British North America of this city. It is presumed that $100,000 is for some firm other than the bank mentioned. The rate for call money yesterday was 7 to 8 per cent. The sudden hardening of the call money market is believed to be mainly due to local disturbances caused by the payment of taxes and the necessary shifting of money from one bank to another. It will be a few days, it was said, before the equilibrium is restored in that respect. The increase in the rate for call money, however, was welcomed by the bankers, and together with the decline in the rates for sterling exchange was regarded as a favorable factor because it will tend to bring about further importations of gold. The reasons published yesterday to account for the increare in the rate for money, namely, the fact that the bank presidents were attending the annual meeting of the Clearing House association and that some of the importers of gold were keeping the gold received out of circulation by leaving it in the treasury or in the assay office, caused many a good laugh in bank parlors. Bank officers said that the gold importers were not so foolish as to leave millions of dollars lying idle in government vaults or any other vaults as long as they could get interest upon it, and as a matter of fact the gold was used as soon as it arrived to pay off loans to banks or was deposited in banks or trust companies to the credit of the importers, and so put to immediate use. At the sub-treasury it was said that practically all the gold deposited had been disposed of and at the assay office checks and treasury receipts for gold did not amount to $1,500,000, and they were no doubt being carried as gold by some banks until the actual gold or legal tender notes in place thereof were required. Tuesday afternoon after the announcement that Messrs. J. & W. Seligman would receive about $2,500,000 in gold from Australia at San Francisco about the 22d inst., it began to be rumored that further engagements of gold direct from London would be announced, and that rumor is now confirmed by the dispatches from London yesterday. The importations from Australia are really a triangular operation. London owes New York and Australia owes London, so New York draws on London and London remits by directing Australia to pay New York, which she does by shipping the gold to San Francisco instead of London. New York gets the gold by telegraphic transfer (if necessary) of greenbacks from San Francisco, making it in that sense a quadrangular operation, or the gold can be put into the banks in San Francisco.

Their Extradition Denied.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Justice Magner of the supreme court of the District of Columbia has denied the application of the governor of Pennsylvania for the extradition of Isaac S. Lyon, a member of the district bar; Nathan Sprague, a colored real estate dealer of this city, and Fannie Johnson, a colored school teacher, who were indicted in Philadelphia last June for conspiracy in defrauding George W. Johnson, in the sale of two lots of ground here some two or three years ago. The application is refused became the evidence against the accused was not sufficient.

Russia's Attitude Toward Corea.

London, Oct. 8.—A dispatch to the Daily News from Vienna says that the Russian minister at Seul has been instructed to inform the king of Corea that Russia has no idea of concluding a treaty with Japan for a joint protectorate of his kingdom; that Russia considers Corea as an appendage of Siberia, and that the Corean question is closed. This information, says the Daily News dispatch, was communicated to Lord Salisbury during the czar's visit to London.

Settlement of Canadian Pacific Strike.

Montreal, Oct. 8.—The offer made yesterday by the Canadian Pacific railroad management to the strikers that all who returned would be reinstated without prejudice to the positions they occupied before the strike, those who had been guilty of grave misconduct, however, being excepted, has resulted in almost a general return to work of the old men.

Big Damages for Personal Injuries.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 8.—A jury in the superior court has awarded Francis D. Maynard a verdict of $9,916 against the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad for injuries sustained by being run down by the defendant's train on the Fall River & New Bedford Branch about a year ago. He sued for $15,000.

Denied the Use of the Mails.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Postmaster General Wilson has denied the privileges of the mails to Gordy & Co. and Gordon & J. Goedy of Allegheny, Pa. The concerns advertised the sale of photographing outfits with the promise of profitable employment to purchasers after learning to take pictures.

George Du Maurier's Condition.

London, Oct. 8.—George Du Maurier passed a quiet night, but his condition, which is critical, has not changed.

WEAK WOMEN.

DR. GREENE'S CHICKERING HALL, N. Y., LECTURE.

WOMEN SHOWN THE CAUSES OF THEIR PHYSICAL ILLS.

Instructed How to Prevent and Overcome Them—New Courage for Suffering and Despairing—A Remarkable Presentation of Facts for Women.

(Special dispatch from New York City)

Dr. Greene's remarkable Chickering Hall, New York, private lectures to weak and suffering women have produced a profound impression. There are something so different from the ordinary talk which women hear concerning their ills. Every sentence which fell from the Doctor's lips seemed fraught with the profoundest knowledge of their condition and was listened to with an attention which showed how thoroughly his hearers were interested.

Dr. Greene, who is Boston's most successful specialist in nervous and chronic diseases and whose office is at 35 West 14th St. New York City, showed, in his clear and lucid style, how the conditions of modern life have operated injuriously on the physical system of women and also produced nerve disturbances which have aggravated in a high degree the troubles of the body.

The weak and sick women, a prey to nervous prostration and its attendant miseries, was graphically pictured and the causes of her condition so clearly and lucidly pointed out that every woman present felt that she understood not only the cause of her troubles, but had discovered the true method of effecting their cure.

The modern woman lives under conditions greatly different from those which governed the life of the woman of the past. Domestic labor is now not the only occupation in which women are engaged. They are now found in nearly every field or industrial enterprise, and in many departments of labor that were formerly almost wholly occupied by men.

Many of these occupations are exacting, requiring long hours of patient application, and in some cases involving a physical and nervous strain to which the naturally delicate frame of a woman is unequal. The shop girl who stands all day behind the counter, the seamstress plying her needle hour after hour in the same position, the typewriter bending over her machine for many weary hours, the mill operative, the housewife and school teacher, each of these may be, and doubtless is able to perform the duties required, if in perfect health, but when the frame is delicate serious physical evils are likely to arise resulting in the end in nervous prostration and those distressing complaints peculiar to women.

A reasonable amount of physical exercise is beneficial, but an excess of it brings about disaster. But there are many other causes besides these of overwork which contribute to produce the ills to which women are a prey. Any overtaxation of the vital energies is harmful.

Domestic cares often produce worry and anxiety, and these operate on the physical system to such an extent as to cause serious evils. Neglect of simple precautions for the preservation of health, reckless exposure, over indulgence in social pleasures interrupt the processes of nature and form the starting point at which the serious troubles begin.

Perhaps the first symptom of approaching danger is painful, irregular or suppressed menstruation, for the sympathy between the uterine organ and the vital functions is very marked. Then follow sick headache, nausea, indigestion, pain and weakness in the back, lassitude, languor and a constantly increasing nervousness. Dark circles begin to show under the eyes, and the eyes grow dull and lustreless, the complexon becomes sallow and the lips lose their redness.

Exertion causes short and quick breathing and sometimes palpitation of the heart; the bowels become irregular, constipation follows, and we have the weak and suffering woman, the woman in a condition of nervous prostration and female weakness.

Life loses its relish, the prospects of social pleasure creates no interest; the smallest things worry and irritate and the nervous system is constantly on the rack. Then follows the long train of distressing symptoms of a local nature which makes life utterly miserable.

In such a condition of physical or mental distress, it would be strange if women preserved their natural amiability of character. They do not, they cannot; their nerves have gone beyond their control, and they are likely in this condition to make life very disagreeable to all in familiar contact with them. There cannot be any sweetness of disposition associated with grievous ills.

Moreover, there is a gradual loss of personal beauty, which is as much a source of irritation and worry as anything else. The personal charms begin to show decay; the eye has lost its brightness, the step its elasticity, the form its rounded proportions and the woman her womanly sweetness.

But Dr. Greene after drawing this dark picture did not leave his breathless attentive listeners to despair.

He spoke cheering words to them, and gave them hope to carry away in their hearts.

What use to point out to them the ills unless he could also point out the remedy for their cure? Dr. Greene has not only made the diseases of women his study, but also the means for their cure. He has devoted his life to finding out the proper remedies for female diseases and the restoration of weak and suffering women to health.

He is the discoverer of the only effectual medicines that arrest decay and build up, restore vigor and strength and bring back the beauty that was fading.

Dr. Greene's medicines have accomplished wonderful cures, and his name is a household word throughout the length and breadth of the land. There is no case so hopeless and desperate that his knowledge and skill cannot cure. He is today the most successful specialist in this country and has won his way to this eminent position by profound research and enormously large experience in treating these complaints.

His medicines, the result of this research and experience, are the only medicines which effectually cure the diseases peculiar to women. They restore the shattered nerves, build up the weakened system and reach the cause of woman's many ills.

If you are weak and suffering, if you are afflicted with the evils which make so many women miserable, consult Dr. Greene, 35 West 14th St., New York City, or write to him describing your case.

You can consult him free, either by calling at his office, or by letter. If you are living at a distance do not wait to make arrangements to come to the city. Write to Dr. Greene detailing your symptoms, tell him freely and unreservedly, just as you would tell a confidential friend, all your ailments. After he has considered your case, he will advise you by letter, free.

His advice, being from a specialist in female complaints, is the most valuable you can get, and his treatment will restore you to health. This is an unusual opportunity and weak and suffering women should take advantage of it.

Do not delay and keep putting it off, hoping a change will take place for the better. If you are weak and suffering you need immediate treatment. Call upon or write to Dr. Greene today and you will shortly find yourself a well woman with a life of usefulness and happiness before you.

SOUTH PLAINFIELD.

The younger male element here have been clamoring for a bowling alley for a long time past, and Proprietor Morris Higgins of the South Plainfield Hotel has at last decided to erect an alley. Work on the same will begin within a day or two, and will be pushed rapidly foreward to completion.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—It is expected that several candidates will be initiated at the meeting of the Franklin Council, No. 41, Jr. O. U. A. M., to be held this evening.

—Several improvements are being made along West Front street by property owners. One of the most needed is the laying of sidewalks. This is being done beyond Grant avenue.

—The Plainfield Water Supply Company have completed the extension of the water mains along Myrtle avenue so as to connect with William Perrin's new house now in process of erection.

—The pastor and intermediate Sunday-school teachers of Grace M. E. church met at the home of Mrs. Steiner, of the borough, on Tuesday evening and discussed plans for the winter work.

—The Young Men's Bible Class of Monroe Avenue chapel has opened for the fall and a cordial invitation is extended to all young men living in that vicinity. Rev. W. C. O'Donnell is the teacher, assisted by Adam Neuman.

—Winfield Scott Post No 73, G. A. R., are making great preparations for their fair which is to be held early in November. They are being ably assisted by the Woman's Relief Corps, which is an assurance that it will be a success.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mrs. Hawkins, of LaGrande avenue, is kept at home by severe illness.

Miss Flory, of Bangor, Pa., is the guest of Mr. and Mrs. J. C. Martin, of Park place.

Mrs. J. Marshal Way, of Stone street, is entertaining relatives this week from Flemington.

Mrs. Dr. J. T. Fritts and Miss Frits have gone to North Branch to visit among relatives and friends.

Miss Cora Laire, of East Fifth street street, is entertaining her cousin from Annandale, Hunterdon county.

Mrs. Albert Hedden and daughter, Nrs. John Neal, spent yesterday at Haverstraw, N. Y., where they visited relatives.

Mrs. Walter Irving Clarke and son, Bruce, of Hartford, have returned home after a three weeks visit with relatives in this city.

Mrs. William La Rue and Miss Margaret La Rue, of New Brunswick, are stopping with Mrs. Lu Rue's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Thorn, of East Second street.

Ex-Councilman F. M. Slater, of Jackson avenue, has been quite ill at his home with plurisy, but is now much improved under the good care of Dr. J. T. Fritts.

Dr. E. C. Cady, the eminent physician and specialist from Brooklyn, has leased Charles McCutchen's new home on Madison avenue below Ninth street and will take possession of the same on or about the 15th of October.

Mrs. Charles Horne, Mrs. James R. Joy, of Willow avenue, and Mrs. Herbert Welsh, of Brooklyn, are at present enjoying the beauties of nature up at the White Mountains. They are expected to return about October 15.

The condition of Burt Sutphen, who is a patient in Muhlenburg Hospital, is reported as much improved, but it will be a week or ten days before he will be able to leave that institution. The patient is rational, but he is yet at a positive loss to explain how the accident occurred.

THE WHOLE BIBLE FOR A SUBJECT.

Mr. Moody Addresses a Big Audience in the First Baptist Church.

Those who were not fortunate enough to be present at Convention Hall last evening were certainly given a treat at the First Baptist church, where Evangelist Moody addressed an audience that completely filled every portion of the large edifice. The most sanguine hardly anticipated such a gathering, but it was a realized fact, and Mr. Moody gave his hearers a practical and helpful talk. The usual song service was rendered by Section B of the choir under the direction of F. H. Burke, and it was a soul stirring part of the service. Mr. Burke sang several solos at Mr. Moody's request.

Prayers were offered by Drs. Barnes and Rodman, after which Mr. Moody spoke in part as follows: "I am going to give you a big text tonight—the whole Bible. In the 119th Psalm we read that David prayed nine times that he might be quickened. There are so many enterprises that fail simply because they are not founded on prayer. In the late war between China and Japan, the former had more men, greater resources, etc., but Japan had spent years in acquiring skill in the use of weapons, and when the proper time arrived her soldiers knew how to use them. We, as Christians, want to know how to use the Sword of the Spirit. There is in the present day a tendency on the part of some to give up some portion of the Bible. Now, the Bible does not teach that all of its contents are inspired. It does teach, however, that all is given by inspiration. When the devil told a falsehood he wasn't inspired. A master-stroke of the devil is made when he persuades us to disbelieve the Bibe. Science tells us that the mouth of the whale that swallowed Jonah was not much larger than a man's hand, and therefore the act was impossible. The Bible tells us that God made a great fish and I believe he made it large enough to swallow Jonah. It it foolish for you to say that you don't believe the Bible simply because you don't understand it. There are lots of things that I don't understand, yet I don't disbelieve. The Christian Endeavorers would not be in this city tonight if the Son of Man was dead. I can doubt myself much easier than I can the Bible.

"At present the Bible is translated into 350 different languages and there is no danger of it becoming a back number. Since the Bible has entered our colleges the professors and students have devoted their time in picking it to pieces. One student told me that his class had spent several months in trying to find out who wrote a certain portion of the Bible. We should study the Bible systematically, and topically. Get Cruden's concordance, it will help very much. If there is one thing that the church of God needs today it is men who will preach Jesus Christ and Him crucified. The American people are sick and tired of oratorical display in the pulpits of our churches. The people want the Bread of Life without the flourishes." In conclusion Mr. Moody offered a fervent prayer.

B. F. HOWELL RENOMINATED.

Third District Republicans Name Him for Congress by Acclamation.

Benjamin F. Howell, of New Brunswick, was renominated for Congress yesterday morning at Asbury Park by the Republicans of the Third Congressional district, comprising the counties of Monmouth, Middlesex and Somerset. Ex Senator Thompson, of Somerville, presided over the convention, and Benjamin Ogden, of Keyport, was secretary.

The resolutions adopted pledged the support of the delegates to the entire Republican ticket, and indorsed the principles of sound money and protection. The resolutions were prepared by John F. Babcock, of Jamesburg, and were lengthy. Mr. Howell's name was presented by Howard MacSherry, of Middlesex, and the nomination was unanimous.

Mr. Howell made a short address accepting the nomination.

Councilman Frost and the Mayoralty.

Councilman G. H. Frost is prominently mentioned as a candidate for the Mayoralty, and it is said that the Republican voters in his ward are going to support him.

Mrs. B. Arrowsmith Hegeman, Jr., who has been spending the last ten days visiting Mrs. Charles W. McCutchen, at Camp Pinafore, Lake Placid, N. Y., returned home yesterday.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

ernment, art, Providence, the Bible all arouud you. If you do not learn something everyday, it is because you do not keep your eyes and ears open.

"Knowledge is in the air. It flies on the wings of the wind; darts in electric fires; flashes in sunlight waves; bends in the rainbow; booms in the thunder; crystalizes in the frost work on your window-pane; throbs in the pulses; is spun in the fabrics you wear epitomizing the world's industries; every tide-wave of social, political, moral and religious change throws up on the stand unnumbered shells and pebbles of knowledge that sing of the infinite sea of truth from which they come. If we do not care to know what God is teaching in His University of Nature, we put deliberate contempt upon our power and privileges, and are willing to be ciphers when we might be significant figures. My earnest plea with you, Christian Endeavorers, is that you may have a sanctified thirst for knowledge. Banish the false idea that large knowledge is not compatible with great piety. The more you know of God thro' His work, as well as thro' His Word, the mightier may be your achievement for Christ and the church!

"The next need of age is the building of just such character as the principles of our society. in practice, must and do effect.

"It is necessary not only that we should know, but that we should be. There is a mind to cultivate and a moral nature to develop and perfect. True men must be good men; not goodish because the range of knowledge is so narrow and the will so feeble that they follow a beaten path simply because it is easy and safe, but men of positive convictions, without stubbornness, who know the right among all wrongs and 'knowing dare maintain'; men who are transparent, not because thin and fragile, like glass, but because pure, light-absorbing, light-reflecting, incisive and invaluable, like the diamond; men who bring every moral question to the test of a quick and vigilant conscience; men who are so encased in integrity's mail that the world's vile scandals will not stick to them, men who believe in a personal, intelligent God as in, and yet above, all written law; men who will not condone a crime because it is veneered by riches and varnished by custom; men who will not grant absolution to successful villany; men who by both doctrine and practice shall bring back to their original, God-given standards the old-fashioned and homely virtues of industry, honesty, economy, chastidy, beneficience, self-sacrifice, obedience to law, honor to the Sabbath day, reverent study and handling of the Word of God.

"Do you not think that the age needs these? Does not moral malaria fill the air? From the platform, by piquant and profane lectures; from teachers of science, whose alleged conflict with religion is only the deduction of their own bad and bastard logic; even from pulpits, where sneers at the Bible and the dearest doctrines of the church are tolerated through man-worship; from novels, which transmute high heresy into heroism, or sail so near the border land of unchastity that its bad odors attaint the air of purity; from all of these are going forth the influences which are debauching the moral sense, blurring the lovely lines of virtue, as falling snows obscure homeward paths, as rust eats out the lights and aggravates the shadows of the engraver's steel.

"Against these dark and demoralizing drifts of the age we must indeed have knowledge, keen, incisive, masterly intellect to detect and cut up the error, but the mightiest protest against them is incorruptible character-souls, molded after the model of Jesus Christ; rooted and grounded in Divine truth; charged and charged by Divine grace; canopied and choristered by Divine love.

"Then next the people demanded by our age, and who shall be fit to mold and rule it, must set before themselves the highest ideals.

"However much one may know; however good negatively he may be, if his center of revolution is himself his orbit will be contemptibly contracted. But high aims, lofty ideals will be to the trivial things of life as the wind to fogs, as heat to dampness, dispelling, dissipating them. These lift us out of the groove, and off the iron rail. Unbuckle the galling harness, and take us from the monotonous, exhausting road.

"Do you want to sport with children? Live on milk! Do you want to wrestle with giants? Feed on strong meats! Do you want to lounge in the shade or fight in the sun?"

"It is noble to be a pillar in the temple of society. We need not be rubbish in the wall. It is more noble to be a centre than a satellite, a fountain than a rill, but if one cannot be more than a satellite or a rill, then be the very best of each!"

"Christian Endeavorer! What is your ideal tonight?"

"Do you want to be a political wire puller, an adroit manager, a plumed knight on a holiday parade, a consumer and not a producer, a painted ship on a painted ocean, an apple of Sodom fair without and ashes within, a kind of one per cent Lord Dundreary, or an exquisite Beau Brummel 'dying of a rose in aromatic pain,' or do you want to be a fruit that has gathered all the forces of sun and soil? Do you aspire to be a benefactor of your race, over whose casket, the honest praise shall rise and the loving tear will fall?

"It will all depend upon your ideals. Isn't it a sanctified, holy ambition to aim high. What meant the Apostle then when he said, 'But covet earnestly the best gifts!"

Then too, there is a beautiful sympathy between fine-grained, exalted, grace helped souls, and the things which are fine and sublime. A few years ago, a party of scientific gentlemen spent the winter on the top of Mount Washington.

"To the dwellers in the valley they seemed cut off by the snowbound peaks and icy crags from communication with the world below. But there were throbbing lines of connection still. Through the telegraphic wires, the loved ones in the homes were talking with the adventurers on the height. And when the men on the mountain touched the little mysterious wires to their pulses at the wrists, every heart throb could be felt and counted by their friends in Hanover, eighty miles away."

"So, we may have ideals in our Christian life which may seem to the world to be mountain high, cloud-girt and inaccessible, but we can keep ourselves in sympathy with them by a union more subtle and mighty than any electric chain—the uplifting and ennobling power of a sanctified ambition and the almost omnipotence of prayer. We must, or our achievements for Christ and the church will be only partial and disappointing.

"For I say to you, with all earnestness and love, that whenever any one of you shall have no higher aspiration whenever you shall hear no inner voice that cries 'Excelsior! Higher, higher in the Christian life'! then you will be found upon some plateau, wrapped in the banner of your finished work and honor, while Heaven lighted pinnacles of holy achievement are towering and beckoning above you.

"But once more, the need of the age is for men and women who shall heed the call of the hour and the times as it were a voice from heaven. Let me emphasize my most earnest belief that the Y. P. S. C. E. was born of God. It seems to me to have sprung upon the world at a most important and critical era in the history of the church, to have grown into the life and methods of the Christian world at a time when most sorely needed."

"You all know how common it has become among the past 20 years for the youth of our land to follow the lead of such brilliant scoffers as Broadlaugh, Massey and Ingersoll to raise doubts about the Bible, the church and the whole system of Christianity, how boys and girls have picked up the old javelins of Voltaire and Tom Paine, which have been shivered a thousand times, patched them together again and fired them at the church of Christ, as though, forsooth, they were new.

"You have seen too, that even the church itself has often been turned into a debating society, crossing swords over creeds, catechisms and confessions and denominational tenets hunting heresy; champions sometimes using language that can't be found in the catechism, losing temper until the ungodly have lauged and danced with glee to see the Christians fighting one another.

"And now, while such has been the spectacle in the religious world, and men's hearts have been failing them, and some have predicted the decay of the Church and the loss of power, and a growing indifference everywhere to religious truth—the Lord God has raised up these young people's societies to meet and counteract these tendencies; to teach and train the youth of the land in the old, eternal truths of the Bible; to educate them into honor for the Church, the gospel, the house of God and the Sabbath-day; to fashion them into earnest thinkers and believers, and as earnest workers for Christ; to stand, a united front against indifferentism, infidelity and worldliness, proving to all mankind that the religion of Christ has not lost one whit of its power to change the heart and mold the life.

"Then other great issues confront and challenge us today. We must meet them. We have very much to say whether or not the insatiate monster Intemperance shall continue, with lengthening strides, to stalk over our land, drinking up the blood, the strength the beauty of our young men as Behometh drinketh up Jordan, frightening peace and purity from our homesteads, peopling our almhouses, jails and lunatic asylums, and spawning everywhere its brood of crime and woe.

"We have very much to say as to whether a Church that 'exalteth itself above all that is called God' shall sweep our daughters into its monasteries; erect on every hilltop its altars, expel the Bible from our common schools, and dictate to us in politics, esthetics, ethics and religious faith.

"We have very much to say whether this shall indeed be a land of equal, cival and religious rights for all men, whose imperial, starry flag shall mean defence and honor for every American citizen—whether resident, tourist or missionary; whether our nation can wash her hands in innocency, when the accursed Turk is washing his in the blood of God's people.

"We have very much to say as to whether our coin, inscribed 'In God we trust,' shall represent the sterling honesty of a people called to be God's evangel of truth to all nations or the stain and stigma of a facile and repudiating government; whether it shall be the vala-song of our virtue and honest creed, or the sarcasm of a decaying national integrity—'death-rene of our doom.'

"We are here like Christian men and women every problem involved in the prolific sweep of 'Christian citizenship.'

"God is calling to every leader of our mighty host: 'Speak to the children of Israel that they may go forward!'

"Yes, forward, through the Red Sea—directly in our way. And we trust in Good that He, in his own way and time, will divide the waters and bring all His faithful to the promised land of that righteousness, which alone 'exalteth a nation.'

"Now for all this, Christian Endeavorers, you must realize that we need faith, courage, zeal, brain, wisdom, 'heart within and God o'er head.' For the purification and redemption of our land we must have men—true men, godly men to teach to lead and rule us. Sometimes our hearts give echo to the passionate gasp of the late poet Saureati:

Ah! God! for a man with a head, heart and hand
Like one of the simple great ones gone forever and ever by;
One still, strong man in a blatant land:—
Whatever you call him—what care I?
Aristocrat, Democrat, Autocrat—one
Who can rule, and dare not lie!"

"And what shall make such men, such women in church or state, in camp or court, in pulpit or pew, in parlar or kitchen, on mountain of prosperity, or in valley of panic? Only the principles of Christian Endeavor, and they only because they are principles of the Gospel of Jesus Christ, wrought into the very fiber of any life, and wrought out the life of the world, their inevitable points are manhood, sainthood, Christhood, and if need be, martyrdom. The man or woman who takes our solemn and beautiful pledge 'Trusting in the Good Jesus Christ for strength, I promise Him that I will do whatever He would like me do,' and then keeps that pledge inviolably, has solved the promblem of moral fixedness and moral momentum. He is a full panoplied soldier on the forward march. Before him, is his unconquerable Captain Christ. And whether the Captain bid him charge or halt he is a vivid image of Him who was both the Zion of the tribe of Judah and the Lamb of God who taketh away the sins of the world.

"One marshal order from the great Captain, impresses my soul, mightly. 'Having done all, stand!'

"Once, and once only, I saw a riot. Yells and curses stabbed the air. Fiendish fury was on every face. Pistols flashed and belched their deadly contents. There was an indiscriminate huddle and clinching of maddened men. Passion and terror ruled all—except one man, a soldier—and on his belt, the initials 'U. S.' He stood like a rock, straight, calm, fearless, unharmed in the vortex of that hooting, plunging, red-handed mob! Giving images of the child of Christ, the Christian warriot amidst the wrath the wrongs, the wreck of this ungodly world!

"He has overcome all before him. He is ready for the final onset with dauntless courage, with humble elation, with keen and constant watchfullness, trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strenghth, he stands a conscious conqerer! 'Faithful unto death God shall give him the crown of life.'

God make every one of you, beloved Endeavorers, such a soldier of the cross, from this night!"

After the applause that followed Dr. Dr. French's address had quieted down, the instrumental trio gave a selection.

Dr. French now introduced to the audience the man who needed no introduction to any American audience, T. DeWitt Talmage. As the doctor rose and faced the Endeavorers, deafening applause greeted the strong, well known face and form. After waiting some time for the noise to subside, he began his sermon, which from the first held the closest and most earnest attention of every listener. Daniel 11:32 was the text: "The people that do know their God shall be strong and do exploits." An exploit, said Dr. Talmage, is a noble deed, a great achievement. You say your life is a humdrum life, with no chance to do exploits. As far as beginning great in military or commercial lines is concerned, you are right, my brother, I think. Only a few men in a century become great generals or great financiers. But there are three great exploits yet before you; you may do the three greatest things in the universe, save a man, save a woman, save a child. It is a great thing to save a man. Many do not see the opportunity when it comes. It comes sometimes in a court room, when there comes up for trial a young man who has committed his first crime. If he is given the full extent of the law, if he lives seventy years, he will be a criminal seventy years. Why doesn't that district attorney see his opportunity to talk with him and give him another chance? Why doesn't some young lawyer see his opportunity and take that case, and do a deed that would make him famous in Heaven for thousands of years? He might have helped to save a man.

There is a man in the ditch. Another man comes up, looks at him, says: "There's a very bad case; poor fellow, I wish I could help him," and goes on. A common sense Christian comes by, and, realizing that if he had had that man's surroundings he would probably have been in the same place, reaches out his arm, and lifts him up from the ditch towards light and heaven. He has saved a man.

If a young merchant is imprudent in business and in danger of failure, will the older merchants stretch out a hand to help him? They sit in their offices and say "Good enough for him." Suppose an old merchant went to him, gave him advice and offered to loan him money to help him through the crisis, and told him he had still two friends, God and himself. The young merchant's prospects rise from 10 degrees below zero to 80 degrees in the shade. Some day he will say to that good earthly friend, "I should have been ruined for this world and the next if it had'nt been for you; you saved a man." And when that man's life-book shall close, all the angels of Heaven will give a glorious welcome to that soul.

It is a great thing to save a woman. All our great cities are grinding them up every year by the thousand, and asking for thousands more to grind up. How do you treat an unemployed woman who comes to you to ask for work? There are some men whose treatment of women shows them to be fit for no place but hell. But I once saw a man who himself had no work to give a young woman who applied to him, give her the name and address of a friend of his who he thought would employ her, and send her on her way with words of Christian courage and hope. The change in that young woman's face showed that he had saved a woman.

Woman is a sacred and delicate gift direct from God; a gift so great that only God can tell its value; you don't know, unless your mother lived long enough to tell you, or your knowledge was reinforced by a holy Christian wife. You think you have a butterfly in the house, but when the day of calamity comes, I've noticed that the woman's arms are stronger.

It is a terrible thing to see a woman fight for bread. Did you ever try to help such a woman as that? Did you ever see a woman given up to frivolity, and try to save her by telling her of something better? Did you ever try to save a woman?

It is a tremendous thing to save a child. A child doesn't seem to amount to much; for the first years of its life it cannot help itself; for the first fifteen years of its life its opinion on any important subject is of no value whatever. Yet within that child's body there is a spirit of priceless value; a soul that shall blaze like a star in glory through all eternity.

At the close of his sermon Dr. Talmage addressed a few earnest words of sympathy and blessing to the Endeavorers; then, after singing the "Endeavorers' Marching Song," composed by Dr. Robt. Lowry for the convention, the meeting was closed by the benediction, and the first regular session of the convention was ended.

AT THE OVERFLOW.

As Much Enthusiasm There as at the Main Hall.

The crowd was too large for Convention Hall and those who were not able to gain entrance were given the privalege of going to the overflow meeting in the Crescent Avenue Church.

The building was well filled and there was no lack of enthuiasm on the part of either the delegates or the speakers.

The usual service of song commenced at 7:50 and lasted for fifteen minutes after which Dr. Wm. R. Richards, pastor of the church, gave the address of welcome which was in part as follows:

"We are told that action speaks louder than words. Therefore I would ask you to accept the action of the people in coming here in so large numbers, for they are not all delegates, as a hearty welcome. The reason we are gathered here is because we are glad to meet together in conference and fulfilling our desires, we have come out in so large numbers that no house in the city is large enough to hold us all. The crowd speaks for itself; yet it is fitting to say a few words of welcome. We believe in the Y. P. S. C. E. and its various branches of work and we are glad to welcome you all at this time into our city, our homes, and into our halls and churches.

"So in our hearts we are glad to look into your faces and greet you. We may be sorry that we could not all meet in one hall and partake of the same service, yet we shall make the best of our lot and enjoy ourselves here. We who are accustomed to meet in this house are not at all displeased to welcome the Christian Endeavorers under this roof. We therefore extend to you all a most hearty welcome."

The song of welcome, written by Robert Lowry, was rendered by the choir, afterwhich Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., of Jersey City, First Vice-President of the State Union, responded to the address of welcome with the following words:

"As one of the vice-president of the State Union, it give me great pleasure to respond to your hearty welcome, sir, and to respond to the song of welcome just sung by the angles above.

"Some of us may say that we wished the hall had been larger, possibly ten times larger, so that New Jersey might have met together in one place. This is a joy that we shall never realize until we reach the great white throne above. When I came by this church tonight, on my way to Convention Hall, there was not a light to be seen, but by the word of the local president the lights was turned on, the church opened, and now it is comfortably filled with enthusiastic Endeavorers. A section of the choir quickly responded to the request, and left the hall and came to this meeting to lead the singing for us. We are all glad to be here, and thank you all for your hearty welcome."

After the singing of a hymn, Dr. Brett, who was presiding, introduced the speakers of the evening.

The first speaker introduced was Rev. Herman Vanderwart, of Hackensack, N. J., and his address was one filled with fire and enthusiasm from the beginning to the ending. Mr. Vanderwart said the first thing to be done was for the Christian Endeavor societies to organize; organize is the first great need. It is a period of organizations and combines.

"The other day I went to Albany and took the Empire State Express as the quickest means of transportation. Before starting I looked at the grand engine which was to draw the train over the track at so high a rate of speed, and I thought of the reason that that engine could do that vast amount of work, and the answer came to me, it is because it is the grandest organized piece of iron in existence. The Christian Endeavors, if they would do the work placed upon them they must organize. Second: Energize; energize for all you are worth. If we do not become energetic all our organizing will be in vain. Third: Vitalize. Breath is the opposite to death. It is the breath which gives life, and if we would be of use in the world we should seek Him from whom the of life cometh. That is why we come to this convention; we come to gain new breath that may give us the life and vitality to carry on our work in our respective homes.

The quartette which rendered several numbers in Convention Hall also favored the overflow with some delightful music.

Rev. L. R. Dyott, of Newark, was the next speaker, and gave some very helpful thoughts upon the subject of "Consecration." He said that the average Christian Endeavor member at the monthly consecration meeting made the desire to reconsecrate himself to the service of God. Is this there is a great mistake because when once consecrated that is all of it, it is done for good and all, and there is no need of reconsecration as long as we remain in the Christian service. What we need is strength to live up to our duties; to always be ready for the emergency. The important thing for us to remember is, that we are here upon the earth to do the work of our Master. We are here to represent Him. O, may we be well prepared for our duties, and able to carry them out for Christ and the church.

Rev. Frank Fletcher, pastor of the First Baptist church, of New Market who was the last speaker began his address by saying that: "Some time ago in the old New Englnd town of of New London there lived and old lady known to the community as 'Old Aunt Sally.' One night in prayer meeting she became confused while offering prayer, and in her bewilderment she cried: 'Oh! What shall I say, Dear Lord.' The deacon replied, 'Say Amen.' That is just what I think I am here to say. But before I close let me say do not forget the evangelistic work. It is the great work of the Christian Endeavor Society."

The remainder of the meeting was under the direction of Rev. J. Lester Wells, of Jersey City, who explained the work among the life savors along the coats of the United States. Mr. Wells illustrated his address with the aid of a stereopticon.

The services closed with the singing of "Throw Out the Life Line," and the Mespah benediction.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

EVANGELISTIC CONFERENCE.

Plans Talked of How to Work Successfully Among Non-Christians.

The second conference of evangelistic workers was held at two o'clock in the chapel of the First Presbyterian church yesterday afternoon under the leadership of Rev. F. B. Everitt, of Trenton, the State Superintendent. The meeting was one of great interest and was attended largely by those interested in evangelistic work.

Several of the county superintendents were present and gave very interesting reports of their work during the past year.

Rev. Mr. Everitt told of the work in Trenton, both as to how it has been carried on and also of the benefits received from it. Having divided the city into two sections, one in the northern part and one in the southern, they divided the Christian Endeavor Society into two parts and sent a part to each section of the city, so that two meetings might be held at the same time. This plan proved very successful and many persons were added to the list of Christians.

A great benefit was obtained from the help of the Juniors, who were trained in the singing of the same hymns used by the Senior societies. Having learned the hymns, they were divided into two choirs and took charge of the singing at the union meetings. Great stress was laid upon individual work on the part of the members of the societies.

Another branch of the work which was discussed was the training classes. "These classes are formed for the purpose of training the individual workers in Bible study; teaching them where to find the answers which are so often needed in replying to a questioning man. Every worker should be fitted so as to be able to respond quickly to any question which might possibly be put to him.

Another branch of work was the distributing of books among the people. These books are all sermons of the great evangelistical preachers of the world and are from one hundred and twenty to one hundred and fifty pages in length. A book which any one might read through in two hours. This work was considered very successful as will be seen by the following words of Dwight L. Moody:

"I have now over three hundred persons carrying on this evangelistical work by means of these books. They go about as book agents, and are so enabled to enter into the desired conversation without much trouble. The books sell for fifteen cents apiece, and being so cheap that they can be bought, and are bought by almost every person.

"These workers are putting over 2,000 books a day into various families every day and are doing a grand work thereby. It also works admirably in the saloons, being the only means by which you can approach the saloon keeper."

The meeting was an open conference and those taking the most prominent part were the county superintendents, and those present were: R. M. Honeyman, of Rahway; Rev. A. Duryee, of Cherry Hill; Rev. J. E. Parmerly, of Oceanic, and Rev. P. T. Pochman, of New Brunswick.

After a long discussion as to the best means of carrying on the work during the coming winter, the meeting adjourned with the resolution not to forget the doctrine of the soverinty of God, since, "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit" saith the Lord God.

GETTING DOWN TO BUSINESS.

The Enormous Growth of the Society Shown by the Secretary's Report.

Bright and beautiful was this first morning of the convention, and the Endeavor delegates felt its influence. They began to gather at Convention Hall even before 9 o'clock and there was a steady movement in that direction until sometime after the meeting had opened. There was not the terrific crush of the night before, but the hall soon lost its barren appearance as the bright-faced young people gradually filled the vacant space until at last the empty seats were few and far between. The invitation on the walls to "Sing while waiting" was again accepted and the delegates raised some of those inspiring Endeavor tunes. At the appointed time H. J. Martin, the musical director, took his position on the platform and led the usual song service that precedes all the meetings in the convention. The choir did not quite fill the seats on the platform but made up for lack of numbers with plenty of enthusiasm. Then the instrumental trio rendered that beautiful selection, "Old Hundred," in a very effective manner. The convention song, written for the occasion by Miss Minnie G. Morse, a Plainfield Endeavorer, was then sung. The tune was "Who is on the Lord's side?"

At this point, President Anthony, of the Local Union, rose and made several announcements. He requested that no one should leave the hall during an address unless on account of sickness. If it was necessary to go, the delegates should go before the address or wait until it is over. He also announced that articles found would be left at the '96 commencement headquarters in the Y. M. C. A. building, where the owners could claim them.

Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., of Plainfield, read a portion of the 68th Psalm, and then made a heartfelt prayer, which closed with the Lord's Prayer.

The business portion of the session then began, President J. Clement French, D. D., presiding.

He first read the several telegrams of greeting from other States.

President French then announced the following committees:

On Nominations: Rev. C. Rudolph Kuebler, Hackensack; Rev. Willard I. Hamilton, Newark; Rev. D. R. Warne, Kingston; Rev. Abram I. Martine, Dunellen; Rev. W. D. Stultz, Bridgeton.

Resolutions: Rev. E. W. Thompson, of Paterson; Rev. Judson Conklin, Trenton; Rev. J. C. Chapman, Belvidere; Rev. T. J. Cross, Atlantic City; Rev. L. W. Mudge, D. D., Princeton.

Auditing Committee: M. Ewd. W. Dunham, Trenton; J. G. Sproul, Arlington.

Greetings: Rev. D. J. Yerkes, Plainfield; Miss Ida E. Stephens, Hacketstown; Rev. W. H. Wolverton, Boonton.

Miss Ida B. Stephens, of Hacketstown, the State Secretary, next read her report, which was as follows:

Those who heard General Secretary Baer's report at Washington last July will remember his vivid picture of the Christian Endeavor tree.

We are glad to say that New Jersey's branch of that tree is strong and full of life, an offshot worthy of that marvellous product of God's own planting.

I know many have felt that in our little State the land was completely occupied for Christian Endeavor, but each year's record proves the contrary. This year we have added to the State roll 128 societies, 62 Young People's and 66 Junior.

Last year at Atlantic City we rejoiced that our number had reached the one thousand mark. We would like to be able to say that these 128 additions were "clear gain," but the twenty-five Young People's and twenty-three Juniors disbanded and eleven changed to another name, fifty-nine in all, reduced the number, and we have a net gain of sixty-nine, making 1,071 societies in all—700 Young People's and 362 Junior.

These 1,071 societies are composed of 40,418 members, Young People's societies having 5,661 associate, while the Juniors come into line with 11,393 members.

These societies are divided among sixteen dominations, as follows: Adventist, 2; A. M. E., 31; Baptist, 215; Christian, 12; Congressional, 42; Lutheran, 13; M. Episcopal, 50; M. Protestant, 53; Moravian, 5; Presbyterian, 408; Cumb. Presbyterian, 3; P. Episcopal, 2; Reformed, 156; R. Episcopal, 1; Seventh-day Baptist, 7; United Presbyterian, 2; missions and unions, 78

Christian Endeavor is more and more coming to be a soul-winning power. While not so many united with the church as last year, yet we need not be ashamed of our figures in this line either. In all 2,469 were joined to Christ's army during the year—1,853 from the Young People's and 616 from the Junior. Let each society determine now that those numbers shall be doubled in another year. We should remember that these figures represent only the additions to the Church from those who were already members of the Christian Endeavor—probably associate. Were we able to tell the whole number of persons who were led to Christ last year through the efforts of Endeavorers, how greatly those numbers might be multiplied. But not until we go home can we know how much has been thus accomplished.

No new departments have been organized this year, but those already in existence under capable leaders have extended their boundaries and increased the effectiveness of their work. We deeply regret having lost one of the most efficient and faithful of department superintendents, Robert S. Sinclair, of Newark, who had made the correspondence department such a power for good. He has been been succeeded in the correspondence department by Dr. W. Ward, Jr., of Lyons Farms.

The Junior unions, five in number, are proving their ability to stand side with the young people as workers. Some are taking up special work, such as helping children's homes, work among firemen, etc. Along this line the Trenton Junior Union deserve honorable mention. They have this year sent paid-up subscriptions to the Christian Herald and Youth's Companion to each of the nine engine houses in the city, also in papers, 17,000 pages of good reading matter were put into their hands.

Essex county is unique in that it holds meetings monthly. It secures for its speakers those among the ablest and most noted in the country. Sussex and Warren District union has grown so large as to be obliged to divide, and each county form a separate organization. The largest increase in membership has this year been made by the Plainfield Junior union, which shows 166⅔ per cent. increase, and to that union the banner will go this year.

New Jersey was very fairly represented at the International convention at Washington, over 1,000 delegates being in attendance.

During the year there has gone out from the Secretary's office, 6,500 pieces of mail matter.

About 160 of the Societies did not report this year. In closing I wish to greatfully acknowledge the help and encouragement given me by all our co-laborers. I undertook the work with great trepidation, feeling keenly the responsibility resting upon me. One request may I be pardoned for making, and that is, that the societies here represented will be careful to send to the State Secretary notice of any change in the Corresponding Secretary or Junior Superintendent. I am convinced that the failure of many to have any part in my report to-day is due to the unreported change in Secretary or Superintendent.

Miss Stephens, who is also State treasurer, read her report for that office which showed the receipts to have been $670.23 and disbursements 552.07, leaving a balânce of $118.16.

It was received with loud applause. That concluded the business for the morning except the report of the evangelistic department and F. H. Burke next sang a well-rendered solos "Who hath not seen."

The report of Rev. F. B. Everett was in substance as follows:

In the spring of 1895, by visitation of local union executive committees, plans were set on foot for active evangelistic work the past winter. The movement received an added impulse from the evangelistic conference and State convention of last year. Several unions commenced at once after the convention the preliminary work for the winter campaign. In all thirteen unions (two of these Juniors) took active part as unions in the work. Paterson and Hackensack held five weeks of services; Plainfield, Trenton, Rahway, Bridgeton, Montclair, held four weeks. Hollywood and Camden and Trenton Junior unions held parts of weeks. Westfield, Lakewood and Hollywood held open-air services. Individual societies have done special work, particularly among the life-saving stations and fishermen. Every union but one reports a deeper desire for soul-saving work. In most instances the co-operation of the Epworth League has been asked and promptly obtained. No evangelists were employed, except a lady evangelist in Paterson for one week.

Bible study has been pushed.

Canvassing from house to house was actively done.

In all cases, but one or two, the pastors did the preaching.

This department is now well organized with 24 local union evangelists superintendents. We need representatives, however, in each of the remaining unions. We held our second annual conference of pastors and superintendents yesterday in the lecture room of the First Presbyterian church of this city.

We hope to enlist many delegates in this work by our noon-day meetings in shops and factosies.

We have established headquarters in the room at the front of Convention Hall, where we have a register for pastor's addresses, and where we hope pastors will tarry.

The reports from the different counties of work actually done were now made.

Rev. Mr. Stelts, of Bridgeport, told of the evangelistic meetings in his city last winter. The meetings were held in the opera house and all the churches co operated in the movement. Noon meetings were successfully held in the factories and several societies being formed as a result.

Rev. Mr. Brower told of the evangelistic meetings at Paterson for five weeks in January. The city was divided into five sections. The preaching was done by the Christian Endeavor pastors. This year the work will be done more by the individual societies.

Rev. Mr. Duryee, of Hackensack

BANCROFT'S MISSION

Permission for Passage Through Dardanelles Not Sought.

STORY FROM TURKEY DISCREDITED

Believed in Washington That if the Porte Had Again Refused Entrance to the Golden Horn Minister Terrell Would Have Cabled the Fact.

Washington, Oct. 8.—It is stated that neither Secretary Olney nor Secretary Herbert has received any official information in regard to the alleged refusal of the Turkish porte to permit the Bancroft or other vessels to pass the Bosphorus. It is reasonably inferred that if the porte had recently reiterated its refusal of January 16 last Minister Terrell would have cabled the fact. On the date above named the Turkish minister informed Secretary Olney that Tevfik Pasha regretted the sublime porte could not comply with Mr. Terrell's request for permission for the Bancroft to pass through the strait to remain at the disposal of the United States legation at Constantinople. Since then the Bancroft has been distinctly fitted out and dispatched on the especial mission of placing itself at the disposal of Minister Terrell and is now within a few days sail of the Golden Horn. It is stated that the United States has not made any formal request to have a guardship at Constantinople, and the reported announcement by the Turkish government of its intentions in advance of the making of a request renders it improbable, it is believed by some, that one will be made. The purposes of the government in sending the little steamer Bancroft to Turkey have been carefully concealed both by the state and navy departments, and even now it is not possible to secure an official admission that it was intended to send her to Constantinople. Beyond doubt, however, it was the purpose to have her near Constantinople. The plan was, that if events made it desirable, Minister Terrell might seek the firman necessary to insure her safe passage through the straits. This purpose was at last made clear when the Bancroft sailed from Gibraltar for Smyrna, only about 150 miles distant from Constantinople, and this is supposed to be the reason for the semi-official announcement of the position of the Turkish government.

The Rumor from Constantinople.

Constantinople, Oct. 8.—The Turkish government has decided not to admit the United States gunboat Bancroft through the Dardanelles. As a consequence, the Americans will have no guardship in the Bosphorus. It will not be possible, therefore, to provide men to guard the legation in case of emergency. Similar action has been taken by the porte respecting the war vessels of Holland and Greece. It is said that no formal request was made by the United States minister, Alexander W. Terrell, for the admission of the Bancroft or any other ship through the straits, but the Turkish government has received unofficial intimations on the subject, and bases its refusal on a well-known objection of Russia to the presence of the war vessels of these three nations in the Bosphorus. In a general way this is in accordance with the Berlin treaty. The treaty does not admit through the straits the vessels of any nation that is not a party to it.

Odd Fellow Celebration.

Corning, N. Y., Oct. 8.—Corning lodge No. 94, one of the oldest, largest and most important lodges of Odd Fellows in the state, celebrated its fiftieth anniversary here yesterday in regal style. The city was gaily decorated and thousands of Odd Fellows from western New York and northern Pennsylvania were here.

To Resume Monday Next.

Philadelphia, Oct. 8.—It was announced this morning at the office of the Cambria Iron company in this city that the company's plant at Johnstown, which shut down yesterday, will resume on Monday. The temporary suspension was for the purpose of making repairs and not due to trade conditions.

Reviewed by Garret A. Hobart.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 8.—Vice-presidential candidate Garret A. Hobart last night reviewed the first general republican parade from his residence. Mrs. Hobart and Mrs. Griggs, wife of the governor of New Jersey, assisted at the display of fireworks. There were 2,500 men, mostly uniformed, in line.

Relief Agent and Family Murdered.

London, Oct. 8.—A dispatch to the Central News from Constantinople says that the agent appointed to distribute the fund subscribed for the relief of the survivors of the recent massacre at Eguin, together with his family, has been murdered and that £200 of the fund has been stolen.

$4,000 State Job Given Out.

Albany, Oct. 8.—Superintendent Aldridge of the state department of public works has appointed P. J. McWeeney of Herkimer county, deputy superintendent of public works at a salary of $4,000 a year. Mr. McWeeney took the oath of office at once.

The Epidemic at Bombay.

Bombay, Oct. 8.—There have been 97 fresh cases of bubonic disease since October 2 and 276 deaths have occurred. A quarantine against Bombay has been declared at Aden and at the Egyptian ports.

Husted Nominated for Assembly.

Croton Dam, N. Y., Oct. 8.—The Robertson republicans of the Third district of Westchester county yesterday nominated James W. Husted of Berkshire for the assembly.

Our Kitchen

No kitchen is kept cleaner than the premises devoted to the manufacture of NONE SUCH Mince Meat. No housewife can be more fastidious in the matter of preparing food than we are in the selection and preparation of the materials of which it is made. The cleaning of the currants (for one thing) is more thoroughly done by means of perfected appliances, than it would be possible to do it by hand.

Its cleanliness, purity, wholesomeness and deliciousness are good reasons for using NONE SUCH Mince Meat. The best reason is its saving—of time, of hard work, of money. A ten cent package affords you two large pies, without trouble to you beyond the making of the crust. Makes just as good fruit cake and fruit pudding as it does mince pie. Sold everywhere. Be sure and get the genuine.

Send your name and address, and mention this paper, and we will mail you free a book—"Mrs. Popkins' Thanksgiving"—by one of the most famous humorous authors of the day.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

THE INDIANAPOLIS TICKET.

Don M. Dickinson Given as Authority for a Statement That It Is To Be Withdrawn.

WHOLE FAMILIES IN POLITICS.

Delegations of Farmers with Their Wives and Children Visit Maj. McKinley.

Canton, O., Oct. 8.—Only four delegations are scheduled to visit Canton to-day, and Major McKinley succeeded in putting in a couple of hours this morning in the preparation of speeches which he expects to deliver next Saturday, when another big army of visitors are expected. To-day's delegations were: First voters of Cleveland; citizens of Logansport, Ind.; citizens of Kittanning, Pa,; republicans of Williamsport, Pa. Yesterday Major McKinley had 3,000 visitors and made four speeches. The weather was disagreeable. A sharp wind from the north chilled the air and made the people shiver. The visitors from Cyauga county, O., numbered 2,500; from Ashland county, 400; from Parkersburg and other points in West Virginia 600, and from Indiana 100. The delegation from Cyauga county and the one from Ashland were composed of farmers. They brought their wives and children with them, and there were more than 200 women in line when the delegations paraded in the streets. Whole families seem to have gone into politics this year.

Hanna Calls on McKinley.

Chairman Hanna came down from Cleveland at 5:30 o'clock last evening and left Canton for Chicago at 9:30, having spent four hours in discussing the campaign with Major McKinley. It was Chairman Hanna's first visit here since early last July, and Major McKinley went to the station to meet him. The candidate and the chairman had a long talk, and discussed the conduct of the campaign in all parts of the country. Mr. Hanna repeated his expressions of confidence in the situation at the east, and said that he felt there would be no further need of his presence there. He deems the fight there already won, and thinks all signs point to a victory in the west, but says the work must be kept up with vigor everywhere till the polls close. The speaking campaign is to be carried on vigorously in all so-called doubtful states and a good deal of active work for the south was mapped out by Major McKinley and Mr. Hanna.

NEW YORK C. E. CONVENTION.

The Secretary's Report Shows a Large Increase in Membership During the Year.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 8.—With over 3,000 visiting Endeavorers in the city it was necessary to hold last night's meetings in four churches to accomodate the crowds in attendance. The proceedings of the day opened with a prayer meeting at Central church. Later the big auditorium was opened and was soon filled. The state secretary reported a membership of 174,840. The total number of Young people's societies in the state on Oct. 1, 1896 is 2,989, with a membership of 179,940. Deducting all losses, there was a gain this year of 5,100 in young peoples' societies. There are twenty-six denominations represented. The Presbyterians still lead and hold their own at the head of the list, closely followed by the Baptists. The membership now is 213,750, making a total gain in membership in the young people's and junior societies of 10,000.

Pennsylvania C. E's.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 8.—The first day's session of the Christian Endeavor state convention began with sunrise prayer meetings in seven churches in various parts of the city. The proceedings of the convention proper began later with simultaneous meetings in Elm Park church and the Frothinham Opera house. Reports of various branches of Christian Endeavor work were read, Rev. O. B. Philputt of Philadelphia submitting that on "Christian Citizenship," a branch of the work which has now been taken up in twenty-eight counties of the state. E. Boyd Weitzel of Philadelphia read a report of the committee on correspondence, which showed that 316 persons had been sent out to various parts of the state. Miss Cordelia Jamieson of Beltzhoover presented a report on junior work, of which she is the superintendent, showing 1,039 junior societies with 49,917 members.

BANDITS ON BICYCLES

Two Youthful Appearing Robbers Murder a Western Bank Cashier.

ALSO KILL A WOULD-BE CAPTOR

They Secure $1,000 and Escape on Their Wheels—The Daring Deed Committed at an Early Hour in the Afternoon at Sherburne, Minn.

Sherburne, Minn., Oct. 8.—The Bank of Sherburne was robbed yesterday and George Thorburn, assistant cashier, and a traveling collector for the Walter A. Wood Harvester company were shot dead. The robbers escaped through a back window, mounted wheels and rode out of town. A large posse of men started at once in pursuit of the murderers. The governor's office at St. Paul was apprised of the tragedy late in the afternoon and took action looking to the apprehension of the murderers. About noon two men, one of whom looked like a mere boy, rode along the main street on bicycles. They were both well dressed, but were unshaved and travel-stained. No particular attention was paid them. Sherburne is a town of but 300 people, most of them workingmen, and at that hour were hurrying home to dinner. The strangers hung around the outskirts of the town until shortly after 1 o'clock, apparently "sizing up" the situation. At that time they sauntered lazily down the street and stopped immediately in front of the bank of Sherburne. After a moment's talk they went into the bank and the older man engaged Assistant Cashire Thorburn in conversation. Precisely what occurred inside the bank is not known, as nobody was on the street in the immediate vicinity at that time. One of the desperadoes, however, got hold of a roll of bills containing about $1,000. Thorburn probably tried to prevent the men from getting away with the money and they whipped out their revolvers and began firing, and at the same time retreating. One of the bullets struck Thorburn in the neck and another cut the aorta, causing almost instant death from internal hemorrhage. The shooting in the bank aroused the town and people began running in that direction. The first man to reach the place was Olaf Oestern of Luverne, a traveling salesman from the Wood Harvester company of St. Paul. The desperadoes evidently feared that they would be captured, as they quickly turned their fire upon Oestern. He made a dash to grapple with them but was not quick enough as he was struck in the head and fell dead at their feet. They ran down the street, firing at random, while people scurried to places of safety. The fleeing robbers ran about three blocks to a clump of bushes, where they had cached their wheels, mounted them and rode rapidly away toward the Iowa line, six miles to the south. At 10 o'clock last night the pursuing party returned, having found no trace of the desperadoes. Another posse left at daylight this morning. Gov. Clough has offered a reward of $500 for their apprehension.

ROSEBERY RESIGNS LEADERSHIP

Disagrees with Mr. Gladstone and Other Liberals on the Eastern Situation.

London, Oct. 8.—Lord Rosebery has written a letter to Thomas Edward Ellis, member of parliament for Merionethshire and first whip of the liberals, resigning the leadership of the party. The reason given for his lordship's resignation is that he disagrees with a considerable mass of the liberal party on the eastern question and in some conflicts with Mr. Gladstone.

Mormon Church Authority.

Salt Lake, Utah, Oct. 8.—At the conference of the Mormon church here all the authorities of the church have been sustained with the exception of Apostle Moses Thacher, whose name was omitted from the list. The action against Thacher was for failing to take counsel before accepting nomination for political office. He was the democratic candidate for United States senator last year.

Huyler Westervelt Married.

New York, Oct. 8.—Huyler Westervelt, who has pitched for the Orange Athletic club during the past two seasons, and was in the box for New York in 1894, was married yestereay to Miss Gertrude Currie of Bayonne. The bride is a sister of the Currie brothers, who made the amateur baseball team of the New Jersey Athletic club famous a few years ago. Westervelt is still on the New York club's reserve list.

Fusion in West Virginia.

Washington, Oct. 8.—Senators Faulkner and Butler of democratic and populist committees respectively have received telegrams from Parkersburg, W. V., informing them that fusion between the democrats and populists on the electoral ticket in that state has been perfected on the basis originally suggested by the populists, of four democrats and two populists.

The Cuban Insurrection.

Havana, Oct. 8.—The steamer Triton has brought to Havana 240 Spanish soldiers from the Pinar del Rio province who were incapacited from service by illness. Three prisoners of war were shot yesterday—one at Artemisa and two at Matanzas—for the crime of rebellion. Seven prisoners were placed on trial by court martial in Havana on a similar charge.

Broke His Hand While Boxing.

New York, Oct. 8.—Jack Madden of Brooklyn, who was matched to meet Jack Ward of Newark, N. J., in a 20-round bout before the Eureka Athletic club of Baltimore, on Oct. 19, broke his hand yesterday while boxing. Dave Sullivan of Boston has consented to take Madden's place.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

Valley, reported as to the meetings held there last October and February.

Mr. Wright told of Trenton's meetings last February. Two meetings were held in that city simultaneously. Over 30,000 personal invitations extended, and a very large attendance resulted.

Rev. J. Parmalee told of the work of the Hollywood Union. No large union meeting was held, but numerous cottage meetings, life saving station meetings, open air meetings and tent meetings were held and proved to be very successful.

Mr. Honeyman had a very bright report to make from the work at Rahway. Numerous meetings have been held at adjacent positions, and almost all proved to be a great success.

had E. Anthony made the report fo Plainfield and Westfield. He told of the four weeks of helpful meetings here. Westfield's great work was at the Fresh Air Camp.

Rev. Mr. Everett told of the work of the Junior union at Trenton. He closed these reports with a statement of the present situation, and appealed to all for more efficient work in New Jersey.

The address of the morning was made by Dwight L. Moody. His subject was "How Endeavorers can reach people who do not go to church," and the delegates listened with great interest.

Many people, he said, did not want to go, to church and be classed it with the millionaires. Christian Endeavorers got to change that. There will have to be a revolution in the churches. Have the Sabbath morning services as usual, but have a radical change at the evening service. Do away with a long sermon by the pastor, and the quarteette choir; put the Christian Endeavorers on the platform and let them sing songs that the people can understand. Spend half the meeting in singing and have an after meeting.

The idea that most of the additions to the church membership invariably come from missions was advanced, and this the speaker said ought not to be. A strange fact seemed to be that conversions were not looked for nor expected at the Sunday morning services in the churches. It is the general opinion among church-going people that ministers should do all the work. That impression should be given up and each person should join heartily in the work of the pastor. There are a number of people who, owing to infirmities, are not able to attend church, and this was an opportunity, Mr. Moody said, for Christian Endeavorers to carry the Gospel to the home. Read, pray and sing with those kept at home, even if you have to do so over the washtub. The speaker said that the gulf between the church and man was too great, and the gap should be closed up. The balance of this part of the service was devoted to an informal discussion of the subject, and Mr. Moody was asked many questions, which he answered in his usual pointed and helpful manner. Just before the session closed Miss Margaret W. Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon, gave an earnest appeal to all to assist as much as possible the unfortunate Armenians, which people she represents. The session closed with prayer by Rev. W. T. Stultz.

NOONDAY MEETINGS.

Delegates Preach the Gospel Among the Working People.

At the close of this morning's convention service, volunteers were called for to carry on several evangelistic services during the noon hour for the benefit of the workingmen. A large number responded quickly to the call and went in companies to the following places with the leaders assigned to the various places of meeting: At Potter's Press Works, led by Dr. Swain, of Allentown; Scott's Press Works, led by Edward. Dunham, of Trenton; Pond Tool Works, led by Jos. H. Wright, of Trenton; open-air service, held on the vacant lot next to the Babcock building, led by R. M. Honeyman, of Rahway. The meetings were largely attended and were considered excellent.

GATHERED AS THE SUN ROSE.

A Quiet Prayerful Meeting Opens the Second Day's Proceedings.

The sun had hardly risen over the city this morning when, at 6:45, a large number of Endeavorers assembled in Trinity Reformed church to attend the first sunrise prayer-meeting. The leader was William F. Hunter, of Jersey City, president of the Hudson county local union; Horace J. Martin led the singing, and William E. MacClymont acted as organist. The large room was well filled and a deeply devotional spirit pervaded the congregation. After the enthusiastic gatherings of last night, it was well that the Endeavorers should come together in a quiet, prayerful way, to draw near to their Saviour, and beseech His blessing on their State Convention and their individual hearts. The meeting opened with a song service, followed by a responsive reading and a prayer by Rev. Cornelius Schenck.

The leader's opening remarks were very helpful and practical "Looking Godward," was his subject, and he emphasized the necessity of looking up lives. Not a day passes, whether that day is spent at home, in school, in the shop or the office, but we need God's help. Let us learn to draw near to him every hour, every moment.

When the meeting was thrown open many earnest, heartfelt prayers were offered, pleading for God's blessing on the convention, and that all the Endeavorers might learn to look Godward in every time of need, of weakness. Testimonies followed telling of what help God had given to one and another. When after singing "Blest be the tie," the benediction was pronounced by Mr. Schenck, the young people went away, feeling that in that hour they had indeed been looking Godward, and had received from Him strength that should help them in the days to come.

MISSISNARY WORK.

Miss Alice Spangenburg, Superintendent, Presents Her Report.

The afternoon session opened at Convention Hall with a rousing service of song, led by Horace J. Martin. A scripture reading and earnest prayer by Rev. E. M. Rodman, D. D., followed and then Miss Alice B. Sangenberg, of Plainfield, superintendent of the missonary department made her report.

A telegram was received during the meeting from Secretary Baer, of the United Society, bearing greetings from Dr. Clark, founder of the Christian Endeavor Society, now in Europe, sent by him by cable, as follows: "My prayer for New Jersey is Second Corinthians, 9:8." Secretary Baer also extended his personal greetings.

The members of the Junior League of the Methodist church, who intend joining the parade tomorrow, will meet in Vincent Chapel at 1:30 p. m. sharp.

SUNDAY SCHOOL CONVENTION.

The Annual Conference in Session Here. Essays and Addresses by the Delegates.

The Annual Convention of the Newark District of the African M. E. Church, convened in Mt. Zion A. M. E. Church here yesterday, Bishop A. Grant presiding, and L. Sturges as Presiding Elder. Mrs. Ada Cooper, is the District Superintendent.

Delagates are in attendance from the churches at New Brunswick, Rahway, Fair Haven, Long Branch, Newark, Navesink, Asbury Park, Washington, Stroudsburg, Easton, Elizabeth, Jersey City, Orange, Morristown, Madison, Metuchen, Summit, Flemington and Bound Brook. The Conference was opened with prayer by the Presiding Elder, followed by an address by him. Rev. James Groves delivered an address of welcome, and a response by Rev. R. Fausett, of Bound Brook. Last night the District Superintendent, Mrs. Ada A. Cooper, lectured on "The Sunday School Cluster Leaf," and Rev. R. Goodman, of Jersey City, preached on the "Relation of Baptized Children to the Church."

Today's session included an essay on "The Need of Having Religious Teachers in Our Sunday Schools," by Rev. C. J. Scott; an essay, "The Bible Estimate of Chilhood," by Rev. A. B. Cooper; an essay, "What Benefit is the Moral Law to the Sunday School Teacher," by Rev. W. W. Giles, and other papers on the reference of "The School to the Church," by Rev. H. P. Anderson; "How Shall We Obtain Sunday School Teachers," by Rev. J. C. H. Christmas, and "The Value and Utility of the Library in the Sunday Schools," by Rev. W. W. Johnsen.

The ladies of the church furnished eatables in the Sunday School room, and the delegates are being cared for over night by members of the congregation.

Promising Career Cut Short.

The death of Rev. Lewis E. Brokaw, formely of New Market, but late of East Nassau, N. Y., occurred at the latter place yesterday morning at 11 o'clock. In connection with Mr. Brokaw's death there are several particularly sad incidents. Last June he was graduated from Colgate University, N. Y., with the highest possible honors, and only recently he accepted a call to the Baptist church at East Nassau, N. Y. Two weeks ago he took charge of the church and only preached one Sunday, for a week after assuming his duties he was taken very suddenly with typhoid fever, from which disease he did not recover. Mr. Brokaw was engaged to a most estimable young woman and was to have been married soon. Many will remember Mr. Brokaw as he was well known throughout this locality. He was the son of Isaac M. Brokaw, of New Market, and a brother of Edgar S. Brokaw, of West Sixth st., this city. The funeral will probably be held at the New Market Baptist church, on Saturday.

A Lively Blaze.

About 5:30 last evening Roundsman Frederickson, who lives at Netherwood, discovered that John J. Reid's house, 825 Leland aveuue, was on fire. He was riding on his wheel and hastily rode to the corner of South and Woodland avenues, where he pulled box 28. The department was quick to respond. The chemical engine was the first to reach the fire and was at once placed into service with good results. The engine arrived soon after and took water from the pond near the brick yards. By this time the whole upper part of the house was one mass of flames and people were carrying the goods from the house. The firemen fought well against the flames but were unable to save very much of the house. The supposition is that the fire originated from an overheated chimney.

The new "liberal methods" introduced at J. Linn Edsall's Commercial Palace this morning as advertised in the Press caused a big stir among wide awake buyers. The price of every article in the big store has been changed to lower figures. There is a very large and attractive assortment of new fall and winter goods to select from, and more coming every day.

OF THE COMMERCIAL PALACE,

Will, from this date, inaugurate the most unique and LIBERAL METHODS ever attempted in this section in selling goods, and prove to the people that there is no place where their needs can be supplied at as little COST and TROUBLE as he can offer.

We know this means the Giving of Great Values!

But we feel confident we can make good what we promise to do, and all we ask of the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity, is to come in and see and judge for themselves. This is the way we make good

THE LIBERAL METHODS!

The Price of Every Article in the Store has been changed to a Lower Figure. FOR INSTANCE:

that we have ever shown, and thoroughly equipped with competent salespeople, it won't cost us any more to sell $200,000 a year than to sell $100,000 and by selling the larger amount at a less profit we make just as much money, and our patrons are supplied at much lower rates and are the real gainers. We believe by introducing this new method we will double our trade inside of three months. Will you be one to encourage this new departure? In addition to this new change we will also offer from week to week EXTRAORDINARY VALUES such as these:

1 Case of Children's Natural Wool Winter Vests and Pants, neatly finished with silk stitching and binding, front and neck, regular made cuffs, finished seams, and guaranteed to us by the Mills to be all-wool, 16-in at 4c., and rise 5c a size. Don't delay or you may get left.

A MIRROR OF WORDS REFLECTING THE ENDEAVOR PROGRESS AND ADMONITION

THE SECOND DAY'S PROCEEDINGS MARKED BY MANY INTERESTING FEATURES THAT MAY BE HEREAFTER APPLIED TO PRACTICAL ENDEAVOR WORK.

Cheery and Bouyant Spirits Characterize the Personality of the Twenty-five Hundred Visiting Delegates---Many Phases of Activity for Making the World Better---The Juniors in Possession this Afternoon.

THE bright faces, fluttering badges and cheery voices are on every side. Everybody has a little book with an orange-colored paper cover that they frequently consult, and altogether Plainfield is having a new experience. The Christian Endeavor societies State convention is now in full sway and all these cheerful visitors are the delegates that gather here to meet and compare notes with their fellow Endeavorers and listen to the best speakers of the society.

Yesterday was the first real day of the convention and the city is now in the midst of a host of the young people who come to attend this grand gathering.

Plainfield has not a large number of hotels and those that are located here would not begin to accommodate the visitors. So the delegates came into the Plainfield homes and Plainfield has a chance to see what the members of this grand Christian army are like. A great many of the delegates are visiting friends and therefore the assignment committee has not been obliged to accommodate them all. The committee had to arrange places for them, however, and so it is that some of the people who promised to accommodate their share of the visitors saw nothing of them. They come from all over the state. Some are old, some young, but all are filled with that catchy enthusiasm that marks the Endeavorer.

Plainfield's reception has been a warm one and even Dame Nature has done her share by giving them clear weather. The second day of the convention dawned this morning cold and clear. An overcoat or wrap was very confortable and the crisp, brisk air seemed in keeping with the Endeavor spirit. The delegates were up bright and early, many of them to attend the sun-rise prayer meeting. A short, brisk walk whetted their appetites and gave new life for the coming activity of the day.

The Endeavorers have a continual smile, it seems habitual to them, that is bestowed on all. They don't need any introduction to each other and formality is unknown quantity at the convention. They are like a grand family with innumerable brothers and sisters and everybody is happy. The young members of this family, the Juniors, will have their share and the exercises this afternoon and evening. As this paper is issued, they are holding a great meeting in the hall.

GOOD CITIZENSHIP.

Noted Divines Talk Plainly of Christian Duty in Politics.

To judge from the attendance at the Good Citizenship session held at Convention Hall last evening, the men are not the only ones interested in the prosperity of our country. Even though two other attractive meetings were being held at the same time it made no impression on the size of the audience. Every seat was filled even before the meeting opened, and by the time the service was under way a number were standing in the rear of the hall.

The usual service of song opened the meeting, H. J. Martin acting as leader. The accompanists were Prof. Wm. E. MacClymont and Miss Charlotte Aldrich. Rev. J. Clement French, D. D., State president, presided over the vast assemblage. Rev. C. R. Barnes read a scriptural selection and then made an earnest prayer.

President Anthony, of the local union, had his usual announcements to make. Rev. F. B. Everitt made several others about the evangelistic department, and requested that the one who exchanged hats at the meeting in the First M. E. church would return it. Then Mr. Anthony explained that it was Mr. Everitt's hat that was missing. State President French added his little joke by remarking that if hats were lost the best place to go was to the headquarters. While the ushers were taking up the collection, the choir, which appeared as large as ever despite the fact that only one-third of the complete choir was present, sang several hymns. Very flattering was the introduction by President French of the superintendent of the Good Citizenship department, Rev. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon. His report was as follows:

Figures and facts are looked for in a report. These are insufficient to tell of work done.

The work of Christian citizenship has been for the past year mainly educational. To this end we have endeavored to come into touch with the individual society. We have either in person or by representative presented the claims of Christian citizenship before every local Union and in every county in the State. The cities of Newark, Jersey City and Elizabeth have witnessed the most effective work of this department. The cities have been canvassed by earnest, self-sacrificing young men, and as a result disorderly houses have been closed, offenders have been brought to face the law. The plea for a better observance of the Sabbath has met with some success.

The work to which Christian citizenship is now directing all its power is the election of sheriff in the eighteen counties out of the twenty-one in the State. Committees have been appointed in every county to attend primaries and use every righteous means to nominate clean men for this office. We urge the co-operation of all Endeavorers to help us by prayer and effort until Christ shall prevail.

The committee that arranged this meeting certainly provided a treat when they secured the Rutgers Glee Club. The college boys appeared at this point in the meeting dressed in mortor board cap and gown and gave several selections which were received with loud and hearty applause. First came the college song "On the Banks of the Old Raritan." Then they sang two humorous little ditties entitled "There was an Old Woman" and "Show Me the Man." The audience wanted more and signified their wish very plainly. The leader of the Glee Club then asked several questions while the other college boys sang the answer "There's Only Room for One." Then he asked "Why has the Convention only one Dr. French?" The others sang back "There's only room for one," and the audience loudly applauded.

Dr. Brett, state vice president, introduced the first speaker, Rev. John L. Scudder, D. D. of Jersey City. He said:

"In the development of this Christian patriotism the ministry have taken a prominent part. During the last few years there has been an evolution of the clergyman. The dominies are no longer afraid to take a hand in politics. They have largely outgrown that obsolete tradition that ministers should keep quiet upon all subjects not technically known as religious. In times past this doctrine of non interference has been a woeful impediment to the progress of Christ's kingdom. It has allowed the devil to have free course and be glorified. Now your modern clergyman believes as much as ever in the regeneration of the individual, but he also believes in a forceful repression of the flagrant and defiant evils about him. He feels himself to be something more than an ornament at an afternoon tea or favored guest at the ladies' sewing circle. He is a a prophet as well as a preacher. He refuses to wear blinders any longer, which permits him to look straight ahead, yea, even to eternity, but prevent his taking notice of what transpires about him. In this age pulpits are batteries, preachers are colonels and congregations are regiments.

"Now, how shall we use these new religio-political forces? First, I answer, by hearty co-operation. Good people should organize and be as systematic in their endeavors to gain control as are the enemies of righteousness. Why is it that the Liquor Dealers' Association is such a power in this country, and obtains recognition from both of the great political parties? Because saloon keepers organize and work shoulder to shoulder; because they act as one man in political campaigns; because they place liquor interests first and party second; because they thus hold a certain balance of power. Now, why cannot Christian people do the same thing? Why cannot the moral elements in a community combine and control? They can and they will if our religion is vital and real. We must meet the currents of wickedness with a Gulf Stream of righteousness. Tammany Hall must be offset by Christian halls. We must caucus and pull wires for the Kingdom of Heaven on earth. If sinners stand together and protect their interests, saints must do the same thing.

Now, I am not advocating a new political party to contend with existing parties; to nominate separate candidates and squabble over political plums. What I stand for is the combination of the moral elements in the community in an organization which shall control a definite number of votes and hold the balance of power."

After the loud applause that followed Dr. Scudder's remarks the Rutgers boy gave several patriotic selections and then Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Brooklyn, was introduced. It was very evident that his remarks suited his listeners by the tremendous applause that interrupted him at intervals. The mention of McKinley literally brought down the house while Bryan's was well received.

They began by quoting the text "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesars, and unto God the things that are God's." It is expected of a steward, he said, that he will be faithful; God has committed to us the stewardship of the ballot box. The man who is too pious to vote ought to be sent to the pentitentiary. Not as a criminal, but to give him time to meditate. The best form of government that blesses this world is a republican form of democracy.

In this country, the only king that sits upon a throne is Law. Grover Cleveland is only his subject; he dares not violate the law; law is the sovereign of the United States, and any conspiracy against it is treason. "I hope to see the day" he said, "when any conspiracy against the liquor law or the race track law will be punished as treason."

A Christian citizen ought to be a man of conscience. The three prominent men now candidates for the presidency are, I believe, good men. William McKinley is a Christian gentlman of the first degree. William Jennings Bryan is a Christian gentleman. The Prohibition candidate is very appropriately a Baptist. Whatever we may say of their platforms, their characters are clean.

What we want in the church is men who can stand up for their principles, and having done all, can stand. We need Plymouth Rock in our political back bone.

"I believe that the United States can do anything that's right. She established a Republican form of government, and ever since she has been Liberty enlightening the world. She began by fighting the oppressor, and she has been fighting the oppressor ever since."

"We are not so far apart politically as we think. The Republicans believe in protection—and free trade; the Democrats believe in free trade—and protection.

"What we need is men that will make platforms with Plymouth Rock in them, and uphold that platform, without trying to catch votes, as I used to catch coons and 'possums down south, until God shall see fit to make that principle victorious. Stand for order, for government, for the things for which our fathers died, and for which I think almost every loyal American citizen would die, today."

"There is one Anarchist," he said, "in this country worse than Altgeld. He it is that builds out idiot's homes, our widow's homes, builds our electric chairs and fills millions of our graves. That red-handed Anarchist" is the liquor traffic, and I, for one, he continued, "will never vote for any party that upholds that Anarchist. I'm going to vote as Jesus Christ would vote. This country can never prosper, with gold standard or silver standard, while she spends four millions a day for liquor.

"What we need is that the clouds on the sunward side should get out of the way. Clear away the clouds of partisanship from your conscience, and then the sun of prosperity shall blaze in glory over a free and victorious country."

The Rutgers Glee Club gave another selection and then led the audience in the National hymn, "My Country, 'Tis of Thee." Dr. Brett pronounced the benediction.

WORLD-WIDE ENDEAVORERS.

Enthusiasm at the Crescent Avenue Church Meeting Last Night.

Are the Christian Endeavorers an enthusiastic band of workers? This is a question which was asked by a young man as he entered the world-wide Endeavor service held in the Crescent Avenue church last evening. If he remained throughout the service there can be no doubt but that he was thoroughly convinced that they were exceedingly so, since the meeting was one full of enthusiasm from the beginning to the ending. The usual service of song was led by F. H. Andrews, the musical director of the evening. The songs were sung with even as much force as at any of the meetings held in Convention Hall.

The song service closed promptly at 7:40. Then Rev. W. C. O'Donnell read a portion of the eighth chapter of St. Mark as the Scripture lesson of the evening and followed with prayer.

The first address was delivered by Rev. W. T. S. Lumbar, of Moorestown, who presided. He said:

"In opening this service tonight, I was asked to speak a few words about beginning on time and closing on time. We must bear in mind then that we shall have to run this meeting on schedule time. I am going to cut the other speakers down if they do not close on time, and if I am guilty of the same I desire them to do likewise with me.

"The subject of the meeting in the large hall is 'Good Citizenship.' The subject of this service is 'World-wide Endeavorers.' Therefore as the whole is greater than any of its parts, so much greater is our subject than theirs, because their subject is but a part of ours.

"There was a time when Christian work limited itself to very narrow channels, but now we find the Christian Endeavor work reaching out into all parts of the world. We continually hear of people dividing the mission work into two sections, 'Home and Foreign.' This is a misnomer; there is no division. We should feel toward our brothers as our Master felt toward us when He came into the world to save that which was lost. Oh! how 'World-wide Endeavor' is reaching out into various parts of the universe. How it is meddling and intermeddling with everything about it.

"There is no land where Christian Endeavor work may not be found. It is truly a world-wide movement. In a conversation between an Englishman and an American, the Englishman, pointing to the flag of his country, said: 'There's a flag which sails over every sea. Does yours?' The American replied: 'No; but ours is a flag that has conquered one that does.' I tell you fellow Endeavorers that our banner, the banner of the Lord Jesus Christ, has conquered all others, and we, fighting under it, shall conquor for Christ and the Church."

The instrumental trio then favored the meeting with two selections, after which Rev. A. C. Dixon, D. D., of Brooklyn, spoke upon the subject—"Street Preaching." He said:

"As I read the Bible it seems to me to be entirely an open-air book. For instance, I read of the reading the law on Mount Sini—the open-air miracles—Christ's greatest sermons, all of which were preached in the open air. If we would reach the unconverted we will have to do it in these open air services. If our preachers would preach the gospel from their door-steps, then, and then only, will the unconverted be reached. Christ, when He was picking out His deciples, said; 'Come, follow me and I will make you fishers of men.' President Cleveland is not a fisherman, but a sport; he goes out with the best of fishing equipments and draws the speckeled beauties out of the water. But the pond in which he fishes has been stocked and there is no trouble about catching the fish. The true fisherman goes and seeks his fish in unstocked places. If we would be fishers of men we must go out and seek them and not remain quiet and peaceful waiting for them to seek us, for they will not do it; we must go out into the highways and hedges and seek them and not seek them in the stocked churches.

John Willis Baer, Secretary of the United Society.

"The first time I ever preached in an outdoor service was in London. I was so much taken with the work that I resolved then and there to come home and do the same in my own town, which at that time was Baltimore. I came home, but did not begin to preach as I had resolved. I met with so many difficulties. Many said it was not dignified and they did not like to see their pastor preaching in such an undignified manner. I went home and took up my Bible and studied it to see what it said about dignity; and the only place in the whole Bible where it speaks of dignity with emphesis is where it says: 'Great folly is in dignity.' The writer meant nothing more or less than to say that any fool could be dignified. With this knowledge I went forth and have been preaching on the streets ever since and have reaped abundant harvest from my labors. If you would reach the unconverted I would advise you to adopt street preaching."

Rev. E. Ryerson Young, Jr., B. A., of Toronto, Ont., was assigned the very interesting subject, "The Indians". Many people have the idea that this race is a worthless one and in consequence do not care to give much attention to a study of their peculiar people. Mr. Young prefaced his remarks by giving a sketch of the life of his father and mother from the time they entered the work among the Indians. He told how hard it was for his father, when but a young married man, he received the call to the work. At the time he was pastor of a large and prosperous church, and it was very much against the wishes of his congregation that he gave up his change, and it was through the influence of his mother that his father entered the work. They located, however, among the Indians in the northwestern part of the continent, where they only received two newspapers a year. Another interesting fast was that they were 400 miles from a corner grocery. When his parents concluded their work the extent of their field measured 500 miles in length and was 300 miles wide. Continuing, Mr. Young spoke somewhat as follows:

"I want to take you on a trip to a certain point where my parents met a settlement of Indians. When they first landed there was a feeling of dread, but they soon engaged in a conversation and found that the Indians were not so bad as pictured. My mother began to talk to an old man and soon learned that he had accepted Christ. Afterward she was informed that he had been a savage, and that he had killed his wife and eaten her flesh when in want of food. The Gospel had reached him and transformed him completely. An obstacle my parents encountered was a set of people called conjurers, who bewitched their fellow Indians. They would try to poison the Indians, and when my father met these tricksters he succeeded in driving them out of business for he would not tolerate there nonsensical ideas. In the winter an Indian would take four dogs, tandem style, and fasten them to a sled. He would then start out on his winter's journey. He had no home, and the custom was to use a bank of snow for temporary quarters. My mother always felt it to be her duty to look after the home, but one Sunday while my father was away, she preached to the Indians in their native tongue. She taught them how to be helpful and live better lives.

Toward the close of his address Mr. Young exhibited his Indian coat and hat on a small boy who was in the audience. The next speaker introduced was Miss Margaret W. Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon, and her subject was "Ceylon." Before speaking Miss Leitch sang two hymns in the Ceylon language, which was interesting owing to the strangeness of the words and music. The speaker then spoke substantially as follows:

"It has been truly said that 'the hand that rocks the cradle is the hand that rules the world.' Eighteen years ago I left my home in Vermont and went to Ceylon. Since then I have found that Christ is able to satisfy all and is sufficient to meet the need of every heart. I thank God and my dear mother that I was led to go to Ceylon. If you love your daughters let them do His will and seek for them to do it. In Ceylon the people once thought that a girl could'nt read; now there are 40,000 children in her schools today. One-seventh of the support of the work in that country comes from America. The natives have been taught to give systematically. The men get eight cents a day and yet live and keep their families. They read in the Bible that they should give one tenth of their possessions to the Lord and they follow the divine instruction literally. When they receive their money they reserve one-tenth, and for this God richly blesses them. The women not being able to give money, make up for it by giving a certain portion of rice. When I came back to America I was wonderfully impressed with the American people's increase in luxuries. All that she gave last year for missions was $5,000,000, and yet $22,000,000 was spent for chewing gun and $50,000,000 for bicycles. We must cast one side our wealth and luxury and be more self-sacrificing in God's service, then the kingdom of our Lord will come."

The last speaker for the evening was Frederick D. Green, M. A., of Van, Armenia, who gave an illustrated talk about the recent outrageous doings in that country. The pictures shown on the were remarkably true to life, and the accompanying address was painfully true.

Mr. Green told in a graphic way the manner in which the law-abiding Christian Americans were horribly slaughtered because they would not give up their religion. One incident was particularly heart-rending, where a young mother had her infant babe snatched from her bosom and dashed to pieces on rocks and the mother narrowly escaped with her life. And yet, Mr. Green said, neither England nor America has raised her hand in defence of these deserving people, thousands of whom have been murdered in cold blood. He made an earnest appeal on behalf of the people

EVANGELISTIC WORK.

Rev. Mr. Brower Says That it is a Matter of Personal Work.

The First M. E. church was comfortably filled at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon, but through some change in the programme or misunderstanding, F. B. Everitt, the announced speaker, did not appear, neither did the choir singers. Rev. Dr. Barnes, the pastor, conducted a short prayer and praise service, and afterward E. E. Anthony announced the meetings for today.

Rev. Mr. Brower, of Paterson, was introduced and spoke on evangelistic work in its various phases. It is the duty of every Christian, said he, to carry the Gospel to the unsaved. Evangelistic work is largely of a personal nature, and it is largely and almost wholly a matter of preparation for the soul. The true Christian should be imbued with the power for service. Not everyone imbued with power will become evangelistic; they must have personal influences. The average Christian is afraid to become imbued with heavenly power.

The second qualification of the true evangelist, is a clean heart—the spirit of obedience. A life that is not clear will never enter into Christianity. Another qualification is faith. In the Greek church they bury the illustrious dead under the aisles of the church, but here under modern civilization they oftentimes sit in the pews. The speaker closed by admonishing his hearers to lead a pure and holy life and thus be prepared for the life which is to come.

Rev. Mr. Parmaly, of Oceanic, spoke more particularly to the young Christian Endeavorers, and the great and glorious work in which they are engaged. Like the diciples, he considered it was imperative for them to go forth and advance the work of God.

Secretary Honeyman, of the Rahway Y. M. C. A. gave a short address on the plans and methods necessary to bring souls to Christ. Put yourself in the light of a true Christian, said he, and spread the gospel into all lands; train the young idea up to the standard of higher and greater spiritual labor, and educate them to go out into the highways and hedges and lift up the unsaved young ones. The singing of another hymn and the benediction brought the meeting to a close.

—A representative of the Union Pacific Railroad Company was in Plainfield yesterday on business.

—A regular encampment of Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will be held on Tuesday evening next.

—The mass-meeting at Music Hall next Tuesday evening will be addressed by Col. Pope, of Missouri.

—One of the most appropriate and attractive Christian Endeavor decorations in the city is at Estil's book store on Park avenue.

—An adjourned meeting of the Borough Council will be held this evening, when a few matters of importance will be considered.

—The members of Iona Council, No. 14, Degree of Pocohontas, met in regalar session in Red Men's hall last evening, but only business of a routine nature was transacted.

—The annual convention of the Union County Sunday-school Association will be held at Westfield next Thursday. The Primary Teachers Union of this city will attend in a body.

—The Primary Teachers Union has decided to hold their annual institute on Monday, October 26th. If possible it will be held in Vincent chapel. There will be sessions afternoon and evening.

—Justice Newcorn gave judgment for the plaintiff yesterday morning in the case of Sharkey against Winn, and issued summons in the case of Laukiewicz against Murphy, which is returnable October 14th.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., will celebrate its fifth anniversary in the Elkwood building on the evening of Monday, October 26th. Some of the lodge dignitaries of the State will doubtless be present on this occasion.

—There can be no doubt that from a business point of view the merchants in this city have been greatly benefitted by having the Christian Endeavor convention here this week. And the trade has been divided among nearly all classes.

Geo. Hoffman, of Somerville, called on Plainfield friends yesterday.

Miss Cortwright, of East Sixth street, has recovered from a severe illness.

Mrs. John L. Corle and son, Charles, Jr., of Neshanic, are the guests of New street friends.

Miss Mary Osborn, of Bloomfield, is visiting at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Larue, on Liberty street.

George Firstbrook, of Essex street, has gone on a business trip through Massachusetts. He will be gone for a week yet.

Senator L. A. Thompson, of Somerville, who has been the guest of John H. French, of West Seventh street, returned home yesterday.

DU MAURIER'S DEATH

Sketch of the Career of the Late Tale-Teller and Satirist.

SPRUNG INTO PROMINENCE ON PUNCH

Not an Acknowledged Wit, But Almost Always as Happy as Was His Designs—Extraordinary Popularity of His Stories.

London, Oct. 9.—The death yesterday of George Du Maurier, or more properly, George Louis Palmella Busson Du Maurier, for such was the portentous name he bore, will be a greater loss to society at large than would be that of many a greater man. This popular tale-teller and social satirist was of French eqtraction, his paternal grandparents having fled to England during the Terror and settled in London, but he was a British subject by birth, although he first saw the light in Paris and lived there until he was seventeen years old. Then he was taken to England and sent to University college, London, where he studied chemistry. It soon became evident, however, that he was not destined to shine in this branch of study, whereas he had given many indications of his artistic predilections in his constant production of sketches and caricatures. It was determined, therefore that he should go to Paris to learn painting under the direction of M. Gleyre, and, later on, he proceeded to Antwerp and Dusseldorf. It was in the former town that he was stricken with the sickness that deprived him of the sight of one eye and, for some time, threatened him with the loss of the other. After escaping this peril he returned to London and set to work to earn his living as an illustrator, dwelling in humble lodgings with his friend Lionel Henley, and winning a bare subsistence from day to day, not always knowing, indeed, where the next day's dinner was to come from. In those days he was a ferocious radical, and was very bitter against the society in which he found soon afterwards his best and most remunerative opportunities.

His Work for Punch.

At the age of 26 he begon to furnish occasional contributions to Punch. His skill and humor were developed rapidly and when John Leech died he was invited to fill his place at the famous table, and carved his monogram between those of his predecessor and Thackeray. Mark Lemon was the editor in those days and he was quick to perceive in what direction the powers of his new associate lay, and advised him not to try to be too funny, but to confine himself to the gently humorous and graceful side of things. It was not long before the weekly work of Du Maurier came to be regarded as one of the chief attractions of the publication, and for many years he and the veteran cartoonist, Sir John Tenniel, did more than any others to maintain its reputation for artistic draughtsmanship. Although the vast majority of his social figures, especially of his women, were modelled from one or two original types, they nevertheless possessed clear and strong individualities, while the framework in which they were set was always artistic and accurate in a delightful degree.

Not an Acknowledged Wit.

Du Maurier, although not an acknowledged wit, was almost always as happy as he was in his designs. His imagiuary conversations, often doubtless taken pretty closely from the life, were exactly appropriate to the society of which the atmosphere was reproduced so faithfully in his pictures. His humor was seldom very rich or very deep, but it was not devoid of either sparkle or snap, and was eminent alike for its truthfulness and its refinement. He could fire with unerring aim at folly as it flies but his attack was ever free from all malice and vulgarity. As a book illustrator he often proved himself a master of pathos as well as humor, and many of his plates are noteworthy for strength and dignity as well as tenderness.

Popularity of His Stories.

As an author, his stories were extraordinarily popular. "Peter Ibbetson," his first novel published in 1891, was a surprise to those who had not suspected his literary capacities, and his "Trilby," as everybody knows, commanded an enormous sale, and in its dramatic form is still filling theatres on both sides of the Atlantic. The excitement attending this extraordinary and unforeseen popularity is said to have been one of the chief causes of his physical breakdown. He lived long enough to read all but the very last proofs of his third book, "The Martian."

To Be Tendered a Home Welcome.

Jersey City, Oct. 9.—Upon their arrival from England, where they have been since April, Frances E. Willard and Anna A. Gordon will be tendered a welcome by the Women's Christian Temperance union of New Jersey in Dr. Scudder's taberanele in this city on Tuesday evening, October 13, next.

Investigating American Cattle.

Indianapolis, Oct. 9.—From inquiries made here it has developed that the German government is making, on its own account, an investigation of the health of American cattle, possibly with a view of again placing an embargo upon American beef.

Return of Soudan Expedition Officers.

Dongola, Oct. 9.—Gen. Sir Herbert Kitchener, commander of the British-Egyytian expedition, Slatin Pasha of the intelligence department, and other leading officers of the Soudan expedition have returned to Cairo.

Treasury Civil Service Employes.

Washington, Oct. 9.—A complete list of the employes in the civil service of the treasury places the total at 23,548.

PRIMITIVE WOMAN WAS NEW.

Indian Relics Prove That the First Potter Was a Woman.

The discovery near Maurice river, in the neighboring state of New Jersey, of large numbers of stone implements used by Indian or other tribes in the long gone centuries brings into notice the primitive woman, says the New York Tribune.

In New Jersey, as everywhere else in the world, she appears to have been industrious and energetic and ingenious. Among the implements discovered which she employed in prehistoric New Jersey were flint knives, with which she cut meat and probably vegetables; flint scrapers, with which she cleaned the skins of deer and bear, wildcat and other animals, preliminary to drying and smoking them for use as wearing apparel; clay pots and pans, pipkins and dishes, which she made in primeval potteries, at first the sun drying them and thereafter burning them in hot wood fires. The pottery shows here and there artistic yearnings on the part of the unknown makers, more uncouth and rudimentary than those of the ancient cliff-dwellers, but nevertheless they disclose the artistic sentiments and confirm the long list of examples collected by Prof. Mason, of Washington, showing that the first potter, the first modeler, the first sculptor and carver and the first artist was a woman.

ANTARCTIC POSSIBILITIES.

Borchgrevink Dreams of a Future for Commerce in the Ice Land.

The recent Antarctic expedition was a commercial one, and commercially it was a failure, because we did not find the right whale so valuable for its whalebone. The Antarctic was fitted out for the hunt of that peculiar kind of whale. Nevertheless, I have no doubt that the commercial results of the expedition would have been much better had we worked under more favorable auspices.

I do not by any means consider the fact of our not having met with the right whale in these seas as conclusive proof of their non-existence in the bay at Victoria Land. The Antarctic found the right whales at Campbell island in the winter time; the boats fastened to five of them, of which, however, only one was caught. Now to me it does not seem improbable that these whales go south to the bay at Victoria land, where Rose saw them in the summer, and return north in the winter. It would seem incredible that a man of Sir James Rose's standing, supported as he was by the able scientists and experienced whalers, should have made a grave error when he said this valuable whale was to be found in large numbers in those latitudes.

The difference in the appearance of the blue whale, as we found it there, and the right whale in the method of spouting is so striking that even the most casual observer could not easily be deceived. Very possibly, had we penetrated further into the large, open bay, discovered by Ross in the vicinity of the volcano peaks, Erebus and Terror, we, too, would have found the right whale in great numbers. We saw many blue whales, but had not the appliances to take them.

As I remarked at the international geographical congress, we found few seals. They increased in number, however, in number as we worked eastward; they seemed afraid of the land. All the seals that we met on the shore showed much uneasiness and speedily made for the water, a fact which strengthened my belief in the existence in a large enemy of the seal on the continent. I do not doubt that the seals congregate together in large numbers at some places on the bay.

I consider the guano beds which we discovered of great commercial importance, and they ought to be well worth the attention of enterprising business men. The specimen which I brought back with me contains a large percentage of ammonia.

Furthermore, from the analysis of the specimen of rock which I brought back with me, the possible and probable presence of valuable minerals on the continent is proved, although the lava and volcanic extent of the coast line do not speak favorably for the presence of heavy metals near the surface. —Century.

LIGHT AMID GLOOM.

Sadness and Selfishness are Conditions and Not Characteristics.

How Science Sends Sunshine Into the Dark Spots of the World—Dyspepsia and Nerve Derangements Have Lost Their Terrors.

The chronic dyspeptic or sufferer from weak nerves and debility is not a desirable companion. He cannot well be, seeing that he is habitually encompassed by a cloud of gloom. His lot is an unhappy one, for dyspepsia and weak nerves are joy-killing afflictions. They transform the naturally cheerful and kindly individual into the sour and crabbed cynic, and change the bright and vivacious apostle of light and sunshine into the dark foreboder and gloomy misanthrope. It is slow death, a killing process long drawn out. It is a breeder of selfishness, a cause of discord, a rock on which many a gallant matrimonial bark has been wrecked, and an everlasting woe to the victim. Days of protracted misery, nights filled with dreams whose visions outvie in fearfulness the pictures of Dante's Inferno are the experiences of the dyspeptic and nerve weakened. Joy is extinguished and hope is almost dead. It is truly a pitiable condition, a deplorable condition, but let us be thankful it is by no means a hopeless one.

Dr. Greene, whose name stands high in the medical world, is the discoverer of the most potent blood and nerve remedy the world has ever known. Dr. Greene's Nervura, which has been a blessing to thousands, and which is every day working miracles among the suffering.

Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy cures perfectly and completely, all indigestion, and dyspepsia, makes the weak, relaxed and unstrung nerves as strong as steel, gives natural refreshing sleep from which one wakes mornings feeling strong, vigorous and energetic. It banishes the pain and lameness of rheumatism, cures the aching head and dispels the agony of neuralgia as if by magic. It makes the weak strong, overcomes the tired feeling so many have, dispels "the blues," and gives that vim, snap and energy which alone adds zest to living.

Dr. Greene's Nervura is not a patent medicine but the prescription and discovery of a noted physician, and this grand medicine is endorsed and recommended by the best doctors everywhere. Dr. Greene, of 35 West 14th St., New York City, its discoverer, is the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and can be consulted without charge, in person or by letter.

Return of a Whaling Bark.

New Bedford, Mass., Oct. 9.—The bark A. R. Tucker has arrived from a whaling voyage to Hudsons bay, where she wintered, with a total catch of 1,500 pounds of whalebone. The captain brought as a passenger an Esquimaux boy, aged two years, whom he will adopt. The Tucker reports that on her homeward voyage she picked up a boat belonging to the United States steamship Essex. The boat was bottom up and was stove. In it was a small anchor and an oar.

Voted To Admit Women.

Towanda, Pa., Oct. 9.—The second day's sessions of the Central New York Methodist conference proved very interesting. Much detail work was accomplished and ballots were taken on several constitutional questions submitted by the general conference. The proposition to admit women as delegates to the general conference was endorsed by a vote of 96 to 65, but the plan to make ministerial and lay delegates representation equal in that body was voted down—122 to 26.

Newark's Baby Murderer Returns.

Newark, N. J., Oct. 9.—Warga, the man who yesterday dashed out the brains of his baby and fled with an older child, returned to his home last night with the child and was promptly arrested. On complaint of Police Lieutenant Klein he was formally committed for the grand jury. He was warned not to make any statement.

Fears for Lake Steamer Sanalac.

Queenstown, Oct. 9.—It is believed that the Daunt's Rock lightship, having on board a crew of eight men, has foundered during the heavy gales that have prevailed for twenty-four hours.

U. S. TREASURY GOLD

A Gain Since August 28 Last of $32,000,000.

TOTAL WITHDRAWALS, $7,861,000

Considerable Gold Sent to Canada, but Some, However, Has Been Returned. Withdrawals for Use in the Arts Averaged $25,000 a Day.

New York, Oct. 9.—The gain in gold by the United States treasury since the first arrivals August 28 in the present import movement has been in round numbers $32,000,000. The withdrawals from the treasury in Washington and from all sub-treasuries in the same time covering forty-two business days, has been $7,861,000, so that the net gain by the treasury has been about $24,000,000. The withdrawals for use in the arts have averaged $25,000 a day, or $1,050,000 altogether. Other withdrawals "in ordinary course" have averaged $60,000 a day, making a total of $2,520,000. Adding to this last named sum the gold withdrawn for use in the arts the aggregate is $3,570,000. The chief withdrawals otherwise have been from the San Francisco sub-treasury by Pacific coast banks. A good deal of gold has also been withdrawn from the New York sub-treasury for shipment to Canada. There have recently, however, been some receipts of gold from Canada to offset the earlier shipments to the Dominion.

Treasury Gold Reserve.

Washington, Oct. 9.—The treasury gold reserve at the opening of business to-day stood at $124,611,245. Yesterday's withdrawals at New York were $277,500.

SENATOR HILL'S POSITION.

Anxious To See the Democrats Win, But He Will Take No Part in the Campaign.

New York, Oct. 9.—National committeeman Frank Campbell was seen late last evening at democratic headquarters. In response to an inquiry he said he had just returned from Albany where he had gone for the purpose of having a consultation with Senator Hill about several matters of importance in the present campaign. Mr. Campbell spent the night at Wolfert's Roost with Senator Hill. When asked as to the position of Senator Hill generally in the canvass Mr. Campbell said: "Senator Hill has been in consultation with those charged with the management of the campaign in this state from the start, and has been and will continue to be of aid to them because of his interest in the success of the democratic party in state and union. He is not in sympathy with those democrats who would defeat the ticket because the platform is in some respects unsatisfactory to them. He feels that the position taken by him at Chicago makes it impossible for him to serve his party effectively in this campaign by any other course than that so far pursued by him." When Chairman Danforth's attention was called to the interview of Mr. Campbell in reference to Senator Hill's attitude toward the national and state tickets he said that he believed his position was as stated in Mr. Campbell's interview. This interview confirms a previous statement of Mr. Danforth, that Senator Hill would not take any active part in the campaign.

ORIOLES WIN THE TEMPLE CUP.

The Champions Take Four Straight Games from the Clevelands.

Cleveland, Oct. 9.—Baltimore won the Temple cup by winning yesterday's game from the Clevelands. The game was a fine exhibition for six innings, neither side scoring during that period. Corbett was in the box for the Orioles and was invincible. Once with a man on second and third and only one out he kept the spiders from scoring. He struck out eight men, and added to the glory of his performance by hitting safely every time he was at the bat. Cuppy pitched beautifully for six innings, only four hits being made off him up to the seventh. In the seventh a double followed by a long single and three outs resulted in two runs. Corbett singled in the eighth and Keller and Jennings doubled and Doyle singled, three runs being scored. Commendation is due the umpires for faultless work, not a single decision being questioned. Attendance, 1,300. Weather, very cold.

New York Republican Clubs.

Syracuse, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The republican state league convention was brought to a close last night with a large mass meeting in the Alhambra rink under league auspices. Previous to the meeting there was a big street parade of campaign clubs and wheelmen. Before adjournment the convention elected officers, State Treasurer Colvin, of Glens Falls, being chosen president.

GREAT GROWTH.

No organization has ever had the extraordinary growth which the Christian Endeavor Society has had in its brief existence. The parent society was formed only fifteen years ago. Now there are 46,125 societies, having a membership of several millions. This phenomenal growth shows at once the society's power of accretion and its power for good. The aim of the society is so simple and yet so broad and far-reaching that Christians of widely divergent views on many matters purely theological can take its pledge and work under its guidance and are thus banded together in a fellowship that makes for good. It is a pleasure for Plainfielders to see the many members of the society who have come here to attend the State convention, and that their presence is gratifying is shown on every hand in the many evidences of welcome.

THE BEST YET.

No interesting feature of the great Christian Endeavor convention was left uncovered by the reports of The Daily Press yesterday, and without flattery The Press believes that it can lay claim to the credit of having better reports of the proceedings than has ever been published by any other paper before in the nine previous gatherings of the State society. That it was appreciated is best shown by the hundreds of subscriptions for the convention issues that have poured into the business offices from the delegates. Today's paper speaks for itself, and of tomorrow's we propose to make just as good.

WELCOME, ENDEAVORERS.

P. P. VANARSDALE.

Written for The Daily Press.

Loud hallelujahs we would raise,
To our great God above;
And give united songs of praise,
For His redeeming love.

We welcome brothers, sisters, dear,
Who love our blessed Lord.
Most grateful for your presence here,
Our homes to you afford.

"Endeavor Christians," of our State,
This is our annual feast;
We rally, for our cause is great,
Be great, our aims, at least.

O! Yes, we welcome you today,
Our words are lame, alas!
But souls are glad, and hearts are gay,
"Along, the watchword pass."

'Tis sweet to sit at Jesus feet,
Of Him, together learn,
"In Heavenly places," thus we meet,
His words within us burn.

May we be willing, one and all,
To wield the Spirits Sword,
And then be ready, at His call,
To meet our coming Lord.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. he represented, and stated that inasmuch as a person could live in that country ought to be ready and willing to assist this poor unfortunate race. After Rev. M Lumbar had pronounced the benediction the service closed.

FOR THE MISSIONS.

Yesterday Afternoon's Session Devoted to This Department.

Again was Convention Hall crowded when the missionary session was held yesterday afternoon. State President J. Clement French, D. D., presided, and Horace J. Martin and Prof. Wm. E. MacClymont acted as musical directors. Before the service, the waiting Endeavorers sang with their well known vigor until Mr. Martin opened the regular song service. Rev. E. M. Rodman, D. D., read a portion of the nineteenth chapter of St. Luke and then led in prayer.

President Anthony, of the local union, made his usual announcements. He requested the ladies to take off their hats, remarking that those over seventy years of age or without hair would be excused. After this little pleasantry there was a sudden movement in the audience and most of the hats disappeared.

Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, of Plainfield, next read her report as superintendent of the missionary department as follows:

At the close of this, the second year of the existence of the missionary department of our State Union, feeling better acquainted with our societies than ever before and better able to judge the work accomplished, we can safely say that during the past year there has been a greater development of missionary intelligence and truer heart consecration to the cause than we have previously been able to report.

It is the purpose of the State missionary department to endeavor in various ways to interest the societies of New Jersey in the cau e of missions and to encourage more systematic and practical effort where the interest already exists. This work is undertaken and successfully carried on through the local missionary superintendents, who are appointed by the city and county unions.

The State superintendent has at the present time fifteen assistants, and unremitting effort has been made to double the number so that every union in the State may be reached by the department. It is earnestly hoped that the time is not far distant when the efforts will be crowned with success and each union will have its missionary superintendent, who shall act as a co-worker with the State officer. It has been the custom for your State superintendent to send out a monthly circular to her assistants and to the secretaries of the unions where there is no missionary superintendent. Those receiving the circulars are expected to reply by sending a communication in the form of a report, containing useful hints and suggestions. In this way useful material is furnished for the circulars and they become a "Christian Endeavor Exchange" containing practical methods of work, plans tried and proved, etc.

The missionary superintendents are scattered so widely over the State that it has been impossible to arrange a meeting where all could confer and decide upon some definite plans for work, so thus far we have resorted entirely to correspondence, but the Bible class room of the Y. M. C. A. has been secured as "Missionary Headquarters" during the convention and here we expect the missionary workers of the State to assemble and become better acquainted with each other and the work. An exhibit of literature of the various missions boards and some interesting curios may be found at the headquarters, and the welcoming and information committees are always on hand and ready to pay every attention to the many visitors whom we hope will frequent our rooms. Come and help us make this new feature of the convention a success.

Although it would be impossible to give a detailed account of the work accomplished by each union and society, this report would be incomplete did it not contain an idea of what our societies are undertaking and of the blessed results which have been felt and seen during the year. The effort put forth by many missionary committees have been three fold. First in order comes the plans used for imparting information and awakening an interest in the study of missions. "Information brings Inspiration," and we believe it is true that "Whatever missionary information we can give to the societies, while it may be very small, will, like the continuous dropping of water, at least bear fruit by wearing away the indifference shown by many Endeavorers." Among the many successful plans that have been proposed and in some cases tried with success are the following: First, One-half hour weekly pledged by the individual Endeavorers for the study of missions. Second, Collecting from papers and magazines such missionary information as will prove specially interesting and stimulating, and given to the Endeavorers in bulletin form, having it prepared with a hectograph or some kind of copying pad. Third, Having a few minutes set apart in each prayer meeting to listen to the missionary reporter who gives the latest news from the mission fields. Fourth, In having the members take turns in keeping the society posted on missi nary topics. Fifth, In keeping a list of the best missionary books posted upon a bulletin in a conspicuous place and calling attention to them. These simple methods have often led to the awakening of an interest that has made the members ready to search and study for themselves, and this has resulted in their becoming hearty supporters of the cause.

The second feature of the work which has claimed much attention is the missionary meetings. These have been varied and interesting. Special study has been given to ways of conducting missionary meetings, but in most cases simple programmes have been used. The new treatment of familiar subjects, and the old facts in new dresses have given vigor and life to the meetings.

The third and last feature of the work which has absorbed our thoughts and which may be mentioned here may come under the head of systematic giving. Some societies favor the envelope system, others use pledge books. Some hold to the tuition two cents per week plan, while those more advanced are satisfied with nothing less than the 2x5-10 plan, which means the giving of two cents per week and collecting from four or five others the same amount each. In addition to the systematic plans used, self-denial funds, thank offerings and birthday gifts are in favor. But our Endeavorers are not satisfied with giving their money only; their time and strength is often spent caring for the sick, furnishing food and clothing for the needy, and fruit and flowers for those who know nothing of the luxuries of life. The sum raised for missions (home and foreign) during the year has amounted to $14,184.68. Of this amount $9,136.55 has been given through the denominational boards. Our Endeavorers have responded generously to the appeals that have been made for Armenia, the total amount received by the State secretary being $880.67.

It becomes more and more evident as we study the burning missionary questions of the day, that we, as Christian Endeavorers, must give even more generously, pray more earnestly and work more diligently if we would have the kingdoms of this world become the Kingdom of our Lord. We would not be satisfied with past efforts or past success, but would rather give diligence to makes the coming year crowded with victories won for God. Your superintendent has watched with keen interest the missionary work as it has developed in our State, and she has become convinced of the fact that while a strong missionary spirit has been shown by our most consecrated Endeavorors, the time has come when a tremendous impetus should be given to the missionary spirit wherever it exists, and an intelligent enthusiasm created where no interest is to be seen. The best and only available means which would bring about the desired results seems to be the "Missionary Extension Course." After much thought on the subject it was considered best to arrange a plan whereby every Union in the State that so desires may apply to the State Missionary Department for the course. Leaflets giving full particulars of the plan for New Jersey will be distributed at the close of this session, and may also be obtained at headquarters. It is earnestly hoped that the plan will meet the hearty approval of all and that it will be used extensively among the Unions of this State. We wish it abundant and ever-increasing success, and trust that our Missionary Department in the year to come may reap a rich harvest as a result of the "Missionary Extension Course." God grant that each may feel personally responsible for the success of this enterprise, that it may be carried on in His name and with His approval.

Let us go forward upon the untried experiences of another year feeling that no cross is too heavy to bear, no service too humble to render, no hardship too severe to endure, no battle too great to fight when the cause of missions is at stake, and that anywhere with Jesus we can safely go cheered and encouraged by His gracious assurance "Lo, I am with you all the days." We will meet privations, work and sacrifice, but under the leadership of the great Captain, ours shall be the glorious victory. "For the knowledge of the Lord shall cover the earth as the waters cover the channels of the deep."

The instrumental trio followed this report with a selection and then Rev. Cortland Myers, D. D., of Brooklyn, began his address on the subject, "The King's Business," and the delegates have not heard a better one. He interspersed his remarks with stories, some humorous and others thrilling, and kept the attention of his audience throughout.

The King's business, he said, requires haste. If the thrones of today should so order, millions of men would go to the ends of the earth. If the power of the temporal rulers is so great what should be the power of the King of Kings. Have you rendered the same obedience to God that men do to earthly kings? Everything belongs to God, He made it all, He rules over it all. What power should He have when He says to you "go." No Christian ever heard the word "come," who did not hear the word "go."

We need a theology obedience. "I believe," he said, "that one class of Christian Endeavorers need it more than the other class. That is, the men. We don't work as hard or give up as much for the missions as the women."

What is a woman, he asked, and then told the remarks of a little boy that said woman was made of the brains of man. Another said the jaw of man, but Dr. Myers declared that she was made of the loyalty of man. In the spiritual battle, you see the Chris- soldier represented by his wife.

If the Christian Endeavor societies had the same spirit of the armies of the world, before the close the nineteenth century the world would be entirely won for Christ. Then he told the story of Garfield's ride in a most thrilling manner and drew a lesson of implicit obedience from it. The Kingdom of God, he said, will come when we've learned the lesson of implicit obedience. What is the most valuable thing in the world? Is it money or position? Can anything be found on the earth to compare in value with the value of an immortal soul? You cannot estimate the value of a soul, Christ is the only one that has told us the value of an immortal soul. Money! We are as much after it as the rest of the world.

I would give everything I possess, to give Cuba her liberty. I would give my last drop of blood to get her out of the diabolical tyranny. But I would rather see her in the shackles of tyranny now to get her out of the shackles of sin. I would do anything to help our suffering brothers in Armenia, for the Armenian is as much my brother as anyone else. But I would rather give him liberty from sin than the liberty of the physical body. When we see the importance God puts on soul-liberty, we should be glad to go out to save.

You say you know all that I have told you, then why don't you do something? We are all covered with a smattering of a new theology that says that if you are not saved now you will be later. Our church has stopped; part of it is balky; all it needs is a new idea and that idea is that your Lord's business is to save souls. If your theology is all right, your activity will be all right. The brain has been too much emphasized in the church. Christianity is not of the head but of the heart; it is a passion. The King's business requires haste because of the messengers themselves. Do you know what wonderful opportunities God is now giving young people. In the next twenty-five years there will be nothing to equal opportunities to build monuments on earth and in heaven. It will not be the age of electricity, however, but the age of foreign missions.

The first field-workers address was by Miss Cornelia F. Bradford, of Whittier House, Jersey City, the only settlement house in New Jersey. Settlement work, said Miss Bradford, is not an old work. It is only about eleven years since the work was inaugurated, first of all in England. Cultivated Christian men and women go down and live among the lower class, trying to show them how to raise their lives to a higher level. Clubs and classes are formed, everything that can help the people. You probably know something of this work, especially of Hull House, the large settlement house in Chicago, but I want you to know something of your our work, here in New Jersey. We started with a small room in the People's Palace, and have steadily progressed, having now a whole house. We have the only free kindergarten in Jersey City, our clubs and classes number eight hundred pupils, many of them young men and women who are busy through the day. The whole house is thrown open to the people, and we try to do for them all that is possible in a social way. We have a branch of the Jersey City Free Library. We hold no Sunday services, but try to fill up the churches in our vicinity. We pervade our house with Christian thought, bnt do no preaching. We would gladly welcome any Endeavorers who might come in to see our house, or to help in any of our work.

Miss Bradford was followed by Rev. E. Ryerson Young, Jr., B. A., of Toronto, Ont., whose subject was "The American Indian." He began by saying that it was not fair to judge of the American Indians by the most degraded of their race, any more than to judge our own race by the sort of men you find in a city saloon. Though there are those who are low in the scale of humanity, the gospel of Jesus Christ has lost none of its power, and that gospel has come into the hearts of many Indians, and transformed their lives. There have been magnificient Indian Christians, and grand Indian missionaries have gone to carry the gospel to their own people. The time would fail us to tell of the heroic names which history records; men who would die rather than disobey their Master. Christianity must precede civilization; there is no use trying to work the other way. When Christianity comes among them they become civilized quickly enough. They build nice little log houses, they adopt the white man's ways, and now thousands of them are reading the Bible in their own language. Our responsibility for these in our own land far outshines that for the foreign field. We call ourselves patriots; let us send the gospel to our Indians.

"Armenia, the Martyr Race of the nineteenth century," was the theme of Frederick D. Greene, M. A., of Van, Armenia. The Armenians, he said, are an ancient race, a race that for sixteen centuries have stood on the outskirts of Christianity, and they have stood firm. We have heard, today, of the value of the human soul, and how much do we care for it? 75,000 Armenians have given their lives for their faith, and what have the Christian nations of the world done about it? "Inasmuch as ye did it not unto me." How shall we face these martyred Armenians, at the last day? And thousands are still starving and dying, and winter approaching. Will you help support them? If the women would give the feathers on their hats, it would support these mothers and children. May God help you to do your duty!

Miss Margaret W. Leitch, of Jaffna, Ceylon, now took up the question of Armenia's need. The first thing we can do, said she, to help these helpless, perishing people, is to know about the need. Read, and tell others, the acts of the case. Then, pray. How many of you make it a regular subject of prayer, personally or at your family altars? Pour out your hearts to God, Christian people! Then, give. Don't say, you have given once. What good for this winter will be the money you gave last winter. There's an opportunity to save a human life. There is not one here that could not save at least one life.

This may be the last year some of us may live. When we stand in the presence of Christ, we shall be sorry for many things, but we shall never be sorry for the sacrifices we have made that we might help others. We might eat the plainest food, wear the plainest clothes, and think of the many that might be saved from starvation and death. Will you have a share in this work? Tell others how to help. What are friends for, if not to aid another to help others. Many are willing to give, but are waiting to be asked. When those that are willing to give, and those that are willing to be beggars for Christ's sake, come together, the Armenian's will be saved. Send for literature, and give leaflets and books away: they will be sent you free of charge. Hold union meetings, send out your workers; you can easily raise a large sum. Arouse a great public sentiment on the subject, to secure religious liberty for the Armenians. With God on your side, you cannot fail. Every little that you can do, helps, and for everything you do for Jesus He will repay you. When you open your hearts to take in the sorrows of these people, Jesus shall pour in his blessing.

CRISP MORNING SERVICE.

Delegates Again Turn Out to Attend the Sunrise Prayer Meeting.

Very earnest, very devout, were the many Endeavorers who crowded into the Seventh-day Baptist church at 6:45 this morning, hurrying through the crisp, sharp, early morning air to attend the second sunrise prayer meeting. The service was even more impressive and beautiful than the one of yesterday. The leader was Miss Florence Genevieve Hawkins, the earnest and consecrated young woman who is secretary of the Plainfield local union and chairman of the Evangelistic Committee of the convention. The singing was led by F. H. Andrews, while Miss Jessie Utter acted as organist.

The meeting began with the usual service of song; as the sun came creeping through the stained-glass windows of the beautiful church, the Endeavorers sang "There is sunshine in my soul," and, that the words were true, the bright, joyous faces abundantly testified. The leader read the first part of Psalm 63, dwelling especially on that part of the first verse which reads, "Early will I seek Thee." She urged the young people to spend the first waking moments of each day in seeking God's blessing and strength for the hours to come; to start the day aright by a season of communion with Him who alone could lead them safely through the trials, temptations and duties of the day. Many earnest prayers followed asking that this early morning gathering might leave a rich blessing in the hearts of everyone present, and that they might all be more careful, in the coming days, to seek the Father's face with their first waking look. Many testimonies were given, telling how one and another had been helped by the habit of early morning prayer. At the close of the meeting, the leader asked all those who would like to promise that from this time forth they would give to God the first morning time that was possible to rise.

The large audience rose as one man. Shall not the influence of that sunrise prayer meeting be felt in many Christian lives strengthened and enriched by the habit of turning to God in the freshness of the morning in praise for past care, and prayer for future strength and blessing?

"At Atlantic City," said the leader, "at our last convention, the sunrise meetings were held on the beach, with Old Ocean's deep, solemn accompaniment to our songs and prayers. At the close of the last one, we all stood around in a circle, each clasping his neighbor's hand, and sang 'Blest be the tie that binds.' May we not, now, as we go hence, never to all meet again in just this way, take one another's hands and sing those same words?" So the Endeavorers, all members of one great family, with the same loving Father, joined hands, and from all over the church there arose the song of those united hearts, one in love for the Lord Jesus Christ, and for His church. The tender words of the benediction were pronounced by Dr. A. H. Lewis, and then the young people went forth from the building, feeling that it had been good for them to be there.

The Convention Song.

The following are the verses of the convention song written by Miss Minnie G. Morse, a valued member of The Press staff:

As we meet together,
Soldiers of the Lord,
With a single purpose,
Hearts in sweet accord
Let us lift the watchword,
"One in Christ are we."
Thanking Him who brought us
To such unity.
Join then, hearts and voices,
Loud His praise to sing;
Jesus, our Redeemer,
Prophet, Priest and King.
Draw us, O our Savior,
Closer still to Thee:
May this great Convention
For Thy glory be.

From the whole State over
North and west and east,
Gather we rejoicing
To th' Endeavor feast,
Waiting for Thy blessing,
Father of us all;
May Thy Holy Spirit
On our gathering fall.
Join then, hearts and voices,
Loud His praise to sing:
Jesus, our Redeemer,
Prophet, Priest and King.
Draw us, O our Savior,
Closer still to Thee:
May this great Convention
For Thy glory be.

Father, give Thy children,
Through these festal days,
Free, receptive spirits,
Hearts for prayer and praise.
When our gathering's over,
Stronger may we be;
Homeward turn, to better
Serve Thy Church and Thee.
Join then, hearts and voices,
Loud His praise to sing:
Jesus, our Redeemer,
Prophet, Priest and King.
Draw us, O our Savior,
Closer still to Thee:
May this great Convention
For Thy glory be.

WORK OF THE HOLY SPIRIT.

Dwight L. Moody Addresses Another Large Audience.

The seating capacity of the First Baptist church was taxed to its utmost last evening, when Dwight L. Moody conducted the service and F. H. Burke led the Christian Endeavor choir. After the devotional exercises and a twenty-minute song service, Mr. Moody spoke from the text, "Work of the Holy Spirit."

During his discourse Mr. Moody stated that he was in the church fully ten years before he actually knew the meaning of it, and now his work is to convince others in church work. It requires the Holy Spirit, said the speaker, to convince the man or woman of the fallacy of unbelief. My work is to preach Christ and not to convict of sin; the power of God takes hold and cuts deep. Some people never go to church because the pastors don't preach politics, but what we want to do is to get the young idea and the unconverted into the fold; after we're convinced of our sins and acknowledge them, then the rays of light and true Christianity come into the heart. It has been said that ministers are overworked, but it's not so; they only need oiling like the wheels of machinery.

"A man may be a good lawyer, merchant and business man, yet have no love for his customers, but to be successful, one must have the love of God in his heart. If you want power, it requires the love of God in your heart; if it's dark where you are, there is light 'round the throne of God. Preach hope and see how things brighten up. People, Christians and others, talk politics by the hour and never tire, yet they haven't the time to talk of the church and its good deeds. Some people spend hours depicting a sermon and getting at the cold points, but they forget to mention the many good points. Some criticise and say Moody's doing much, but just try it yourself."

Continuing his discourse, Mr. Moody said, "It was highly essential to get out of the spirit of grumbling. Young ministers oftentimes become discouraged on account of unjust criticisms. Hold up Jesus, they say, but don't preach theory and theology: but the world can't get along without the true spirit of Jesus Christ. Teaching spiritual manifestations is the light of God, and having that, He will teach us all things and guide us into the truths. Newspapers tell of things that have been, but the Bible tells of the things which are to come. The man or woman who is filled with the spirit of the Holy Ghost is filled with the Scripture.

Resuming his discourse Mr. Moody said: "I believe Christ would have died as soon as he was born, had it not been for the Holy Spirit coming down and holding up His faith. Christ dwells with every believer on the face of the earth. We can't care for our souls, but we can for the body—the temple in which the soul dwells. Many of the church members haven't got the Holy Spirit to build them up. God grant that all these Christian Endeavor delegates be filled with the spirit and power of God.

Mr. Moody concluded with prayer and with the benediction the assemblage dispersed.

GOES TO PATERSON NEXT YEAR.

The Committee Announces Next Year's Place of Meeting.

The last day of the convention opened this morning with the general session at Convention Hall. The delegates came out in goodly numbers and ere the meeting was over every seat was filled. The meeting was an important one as the place for the '97 convention was to be announced. Everybody expected that Paterson, which had proved such a formidable rival to Plainfield in trying to secure the present convention, would receive the convention, and nobody was disappointed.

Rev. J. Clement French, D. D., State president, presided over the meeting, while William E. MacClymont directed the chorus choir. Howard Case acted as accompanist. Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., read a portion of the nineteenth chapter of First Kings, and then led in earnest prayer, which closed with the Lord's Prayer.

Then Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., of Camden, came to the platform to announce the decision of the executive committee in regard to the '97 convention. After a few introductory remarks, in which he kept telling his hearers that he had not told them yet, he made the announcement in the following lines:

Listen, Endeavorers, and you will hear
Where our clans will gather another year:
To the city whose gates have stood open so long,
Will we go with our banners and jubilant song.
We pledge you our word, and truer there's none,
That next year we'll meet you in fair Paterson.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

Rev. E. W. Thompson, president of the Paterson local union, made a happy speech in reply, invited everybody, and promised to give a delightful time to all who came.

Rev. George H. Ingram, of Trenton, the efficient superintendent of the press department, now made his report, which was as follows:

The object of this department is to publish Christian Endeavor news in the papers of the State. At the present time 21 Unions have press committees, who are in correspondence with the department.

Twenty-two type-written mimeograph bulletins have been sent out during the year, each one averaging 600 words. In addition to these, special bulletins were issued concerning the Washington and Plainfield conventions. The department would make special mention of the aid received from the following unions: Essex, A. B. Johnson, chairman; Camden, Rev. John E. Peters, chairman; Hunterdon, John Y. Bellis, chairman; Plainfield, D. W. DeForest, chairman.

Three thousand five hundred pieces of mail matter were distributed by the department during the year. The department also attended to the publication and distribution of President French's address of '95, upon "The Pledge." One thousand four hundred copies were distributed thoughout the State, and were sent to 216 different societies.

Rev. J. Lester Wells, of Jersey City, secretary of the International Committee on Christian Endeavor Work for Life Savers, made a brief but interesting report of the life saving work.

His report was in substance as follows:

"Nearly all the 2,466 stations in the United States have been communicated with by the secretary and about half have reported. These reports reveal the fact that on the average there are five persons to each family. In the life-saving stations there are eight families represented in a crew; eleven in the lightship and one family in the lighthouse, 21,320 souls are connected with the life-saving stations, 6,215 in the lightships and 34,025 with lighthouse, making a total of 61,560 persons. At the most of the stations there are fishermen, oystermen and clammen plying their business day by day, and are more or less associated with the crew, coming also under the influence of Christian Endeavor work and they may be estimated together with the squatters at as many more. He reported over 100,000 souls who may or are coming in touch with the influence of Christian Endeavorers in the four countries mentioned. There are in the world 10,000 life-savers, 28,000 lighthouse keepers and 4,400 in the crews of the lightships, who with their families and associates, comprise 250,000 who come into our field of labor.

Since the Secretary sent out his first letter, in August, 1892, 6,040 letters have been mailed; 16,800 letter circulars, 1,100 typewritten letters, 21,600 reports of the International committee, and have been sent broadcast throughout this country and the foreign nations. Over 1,000 comfort bags have been provided, and tons of literature sent in packages from different parts of the country to the stations. Wherever feasible Christian Endeavor societies have visited the stations, and held thousands of appropriate services for the surf men. In many locations revivals are reported along the Jersey coast, where the work for life-savers first commenced, many from the crews have been converted.

Several brief addresses by Endeavorers for the ministry followed.

J. M. Brodnax, of Princeton Theological Seminary, was the first to speak. He spoke of the relation between the pastor and Christian Endeavor society. The pastor, he thought, should be ex-officio head of the society, and have a personal acquaintance and understanding of the society and its members. Some pastors think they have not time to look much after the society, they are wrong. He did not believe, he said, in long faced Christianity. While the pastor should enter in the plans and work of the society, he should not do all the work. The pastor's duty is to save souls and the Christian Endeavorers should aid him. He talked of the way in which all Endeavorers should go to their pastor for advice and guidance. Christian Endeavorers should attend the same church to whose society they belong.

The next speaker was Otto F. Mohn, of the New Brunswick Theological Seminary. He referred to the wish of all to be like Christ and said while that was not possible, everyone could by conscientious effort go forward. He spoke of the efficacy of prayer and talked very eloquently on the wonderful character of Jesus.

Drew Theological Seminary was represented by Rev. M. J. Trenery. He spoke of the loss of denominational feeling in the Christian Endeavor society. The world, he said, needs young people with lofty ideas. Satan is working continually to drag you down, and a strong trust in God is needed. A firm, aggressive spirit is what the Christian Endeavorers should have.

This address was followed by a harp solo by Prof. Farniley, "The March of the Men of Harloc." The instrumental trio followed with the well-known song, dear to all Jersey people; "Ben Bolt."

Rev. Isaac J. Lansing, D. D., of Boston, delivered an address entitled, "Who Preaches the Whole Gospel? Before speaking he asked the delegation to arise and sing "Onward Christian Soldiers." He thought that all would fell better after a little time to rise and rest themselves from the fatigue of sitting so long.

The fact emphasized by Dr. Lansing were that we were incompetent of preaching the whole gospel as individuals; there is too much of it for us to hold; that we can only preach the whole gospel by each one giving to some one else the gospel touched with the color of our own experience.

He said that some people say "Send the word of God to every land, having it translated into every tongue." But this will not do because the Bible is not the entire "Word of God." It has to have a personal element to be entire. If myriads of unconverted souls would be reached, it is necessary for myriads of converted persons to touch them and give to them the Christian life as have experienced it. The only way for a church to preach the whole gospel is for every member to give to some unconverted soul about him the life of Christ as he has experienced it in his own life. He left the following message to the Christian Endeavorers: "Let us all go home believing that we have been ordained by God to preach the Gospel to some one near us."

William Shaw, treasurer of the United Society of Christian Endeavors, was assigned the last part of the morning programme. His subject, "The Call Service," was one of the most impressive of the convention. A digest of his remarks follows:

"I speak to you as a layman. Neither Dr. Talmage or Mr. Moody can speak your message. I beseech you, therefore, that you present your bodies a living sacrifice unto God, which is your reasonable service. Perhaps you would be willing to die for Christ, yet find it hard to live for Him. What Christ wants is a living sacrifice on your part. Every Christian Endeavorer should say that by the grace of God I will give to the world the largest sacrifice possible. God has something for every soul that He has created. Too many Christians belong to the church of the heavenly rest and want to be carried to the skies on flowery beds of ease, when they ought to be standing up like strong men to bear the burdens of the world. 'It is not I, but Christ, that liveth in me.' Oh! that we might realize what those words mean and be living epistles known and read of all men.

"Young people! by the inspiration of this convention go home and be the largest Christian you can; give the strongest impression of Christ possible. Christ is waiting to fill us, but He cannot if we are filled with self. Lay yourself upon the altar today a living sacrifice. Don't be a spiritual bog, but endeavor to be a well springing up with living water. Again, don't be content with what you are. Oh! that we were God-filled men and women reflecting and shining out the great message God has given us, then the world would be saved and our watchword would be ready service or sacrifice."

President French then announced that Mr. Moody had a word to say. The latter briefly stated that he would be at the Y. M. C. A. building today and anyone could have copies of his books free if they would distribute them to prisoners in the various county jails. In closing he gave several incidents where the books had resulted in great good.

The benediction was then pronounced by Dr. Lansing, of Boston.

JUNIOR WORK.

What is Being Accomplished Among the Little Ones.

A Junior Worker's session was held this afternoon in Convention Hall begining at two o'clock. State President French presided. Rev. J. O. McKelvey read a selection of Scripture and then made an earnest prayer. Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., of Camden, made his report as superintendent of the Department of Junior Work. It was as follows:

Dear Endeavor Friends—There is much more to be said today about the Juniors of New Jersey than when you called me to the office of superintendent three years ago. Steadily their numbers have kept increasing, their service for Christ and the church becoming with each passing year more efficient, until, today, this "Junior band," a great army of little folks, with big banners and big, warm hearts, is recognized as one of the potential factors in the church, helping to hasten the conquest of the world for Christ, and the dawning of the blessed millennium for which we wait and hopefully pray. It is a record of history that one of the pagan emperors of Rome testified to the numbers and influence of the Christians of his time by exclaiming "If they were all removed what a silence would ensue." Surely the pastors of our churches and the more advanced Christian workers can but feel that the removal from the ranks of toilers of the earnest-hearted, devoted children, would entail a loss to the church which she could scarcely surmount. And yet it is but a few years since we awoke to the importance of organized child laborers in the Master's vineyard.

Somehow there seemed to be a deep-seated conviction that little hands could not sow and plow and prune and reap; that this was reserved for men and women of mature years and fully developed brawn and brain. How strangely have our old-fashioned notions been controverted by the triumphs of our little brothers and sisters. There are still many churches that fail to "know a good thing when they see it," and stand yet in a doubtful attitude with reference to this new department of Christian Endeavor. We can only pray that ere long they may "awake from sleep" so that God shall be enabled to give them light on this question of vast moment to themselves and the lambs of the flock. The work among the Juniors of New Jersey during the past year has been marked by

INTENSE EARNESTNESS.

This is testified to by the character of the reports received, and corroborated by facts gleaned by your superintendent from his contact and personal acquaintance with many societies all over the State.

Among the older societies the novelty of the organization has worn off, and the members are held together simply by their love for the society, and their passion for actual service in the Dear Master's name.

The little people are themselves surprised at what they can accomplish under sympathetic and skillful leadership. The sweet ministration of "sunshine committees" in sick rooms, at hospitals, and among the aged and infirm, is one of the forms of Christian service upon which the Master must look with a smile of approval. This is "inasmuch endeavor" for which God's "well done" waits. Could we but hear the prayers, and listen to the songs, and mark the activities of these "busy little bees," we should discover in the society of the Junior Christian Endeavor a prophecy full of promise of a glorious triumph in the immediate for Christ and the church.

The reports which have come to us from the faithful superintendents, are so many polished mirrors, from whose surface we see the heart of the society reflected.

I wish you could look into them all as I have done, and see how beautiful is the image reflected therefrom.

Take for example a report which declares that the lookout, prayer meeting, miissionary, music and sunshine committees, are organized and doing faithful work—that fifty, or a hundred, or as in one instance two hundred dollars had been contributed to missions—and best of all five, ten, or fifteen had been led to the Saviour and into the church during the year—and who can fail to perceive that beneath the surface, and back of the figures there has been constancy of prayer and effort upon which the seal of divine approval has been set by the Holy Ghost.

The entire church of Christiandom is experiencing a spiritual quickening in view of her enlarged conceptions of her mission, which finds expression in this rallying cry—

"THE WORLD FOR CHRIST!"

The Juniors have caught the Spirit of conquest which breathes from the battle hymn of the church;

The morning light is breaking
The darkness disappears:
The sons of earth are waking
To penitential tears.
Each breeze that sweeps the ocean
Brings tidings from afar,
Of nations in commotion
Prepared for Zion's war.

If one's confidence in an enterprise is shown by what he is willing to invest in it, then, judging from the amount of money contributed to that cause during the year, Jersey Juniors believe in missions.

LOOK AT THE FIGURES!

Undoubted these figures tell but a part of the truth. Had all our societies reported, the sum would have been increased by hundreds of dollars.

Two years ago we reported $1,333.67 for vissions. Last year the contributions were somewnat larger while this present year the contributions actually reported aggregate $2,906.91 an increase of over one hundred per cent. in two years.

The gifts from many of the junior societies are larger than were once expected from ths entire church. One society in Essex county reports $200 contributed to missions alone.

HOW IT WAS GIVEN.

One year ago, as an incentive to strive for larger things for Christ, it was decided to prepare a "roll of honor" upon which should be written the name of all the societies contributing during the year, through the channel of their own church boards not less than five dollars for missions and to prepare a "badge banner" upon which should be placed the badges of these societies contributing not less than $10.00 this there own boards

We believe that the societies have felt the influence of this anticipated honor and that the large increase in gifts is due, in part, at least to this fact. The following figures will be of interest to all: Forty-five societies gave $5.00 or more through the church boards, 6 societies gave $5.00 or more not through the church boards; 65 societies gave $10.00 or more through the church boards; 10 societies gave $10.00 not through the church boards; 45 societies gave less than $5.00 to missions; 89 societies gave nothing.

One society reported having given seventy six cents, "and all through the boards." The superintendent making that report is to be most highly commended for having given the little society credit for all that it did, though it seems to be small.

All honor to the society great or small that does its best!

What higher compliment, what nameless praise ever fell from the blessed lips of the Son of God, than that which was spoken with reference to a poor thinking woman eager to render some service of love.

"She hath done what she could"! In summarizing the work of the year, I have endeavored to group it by counties so that all may in the conditions of the work in different parts of the state. Let it be home in mind that this is not strictly accurate, for in all the counties there are some societies whose superintendents failed to report the work of last year.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Democratic Primary.

The Democrats of North Plainfield are hereby notified that the primary for the election of four delegates to the Congressional convention of the Third district, to be held at Somerville, Saturday, October 10th, at 12 o'clock, will be held in the basement of the public school house on Friday evening at 8 o'clock.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disagreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

CLEVELAND RETURNS

Arrived in Washington at an Early Hour This Morning.

MRS. CLEVELAND VISITING IN JERSEY

Nothing at Present Demanding the President's Attention, He Will Get Down to Work on His Message to Congress.

Washington, Oct. 9.—President Cleveland, accompanied by his private secretary, Mr. Thurber, arrived early this morning in a private car over the Pennsylvania railroad. A carriage was in waiting and the president and his secretary were driven to the white house. The president will get to work as soon as possible on his message to congress, and as there are no matters now demanding his immediate attention he will not likely be interrupted in its preparation. The president journeyed from Buzzards Bay to New York in Mr. Benedict's yacht Oneida and last evening, accompanied by his physician, Dr. William C. Bryant, Miss Bryant and Mr. Thurbur, drove to Daly's theatre, where they witnessed the play "The Geisha." At the close of the performance Mr. Cleveland and Mr. Thurber were driven to Jersey City, where they took the midnight train for Washington. Mrs. Cleveland spent yesterday with friends at Lakewood, N. J., and did not accompany the president. The report from New York that President Cleveland had purchased a tract of land at Hempstead, L. I., and next spring will erect a summer residence there is confirmed. He has abandoned the idea of making a tour of the world at the expiration of his term, mainly for the reason that domestic causes will compel Mrs. Cleveland to have peace and quiet for a time. The property at Hempstead immediately adjoins that of ex-Secretary Whitney, and is within a short distance of E. D. Morgan's home. It is expected that the president and his family will also spend some time here next summer.

FIERCEST BATTLE OF THE WAR.

Gen. Bernal Describes the Battle with Cuban Rebels at Ceja del Negro.

Havana, Oct. 9.—Gen. Bernal, whose troops were recently in battle with Maceo's forces, has arrived here. He is ill. He gives further details of the engagement at Ceja del Negro. After the rebels were dislodged from their first position the troops encamped on their ground. Later, the rebels, 2,000 strong, tried to surround the troops. A desperate fight ensued, a fight which Gen. Bernal states was fiercer than any that has ever before occurred in a Cuban war. The rebels were finally repulsed. They retreated in the direction of the Great Hills. Besides the officers previously reported killed, a lieutenant colonel lost his life in this engagement. The steamer Guanicaunio, which arrived here last evening brought 175 sick soldiers from the province of Pinar del Rio. Casimiro Piedrahito will be shot to-day at the Cabana fortress for the crime of rebellion.

Upholds Gould's Protest.

London, Oct. 9.—The Yachtsman, in a long editorial on the subject of Howard Gould's protest against the action of the committee of the Yacht Racing association in boarding and examining the yacht Niagara without Mr. Gould's knowledge, contends that Mr. Gould is certainly justified in claiming that the council of the Yacht Racing association should explain its conduct. The paper criticizes the council for its action in the matter.

Denounced as a Fake.

Montreal, Oct. 9.—A Chicago Associated Press dispatch dated Winnipeg, Man., of yesterday's date says that the head of the Telegraphers union had ordered another strik on the Canadian Pacific railway. The management of the Canadian Pacific railway were seen last night and declared that the Winnipeg dispatch was a fake and nothing more. They say there is no truth in the story that another strike has been ordered and wish it denied.

Declined Nomination for Congress.

Buffalo, Oct. 9.—William C. O'Neil, nominated on Saturday last as democratic candidate for congress in the Thirty-second district, has declined, and Charles Rung, a prominent furniture dealer, has been substituted in his place. Mr. O'Neil gives as his reason for withdrawing that he believed a stronger nomination could be made.

Believed To Be the Bicycle Bandits.

Estherville, Ia., Oct. 9.—Two men, suspected of having committed the murders at Sherburne, Minn., Wednesday afternoon, were arrested at Svea City, near here, yesterday morning. They gave the names of Armstrong and Graetlanger and tally with the descriptions sent out. Both are bicyclists.

Union Ex-Prisoners' Banquet.

Hackensack, N. J., Oct. 9.—The 10th annual reunion of the Union ex-prisoners of war in New Jersey was held at Englewood yesterday. There were present delegates from all parts of the the state. After a business meeting in the rooms of Dwight Post, a banquet was held.

For Loss of Her Husband's Affections.

Lockport, N. Y., Oct. 9.—The jury in the case of Mrs. Elizabeth Wilson vs. Mrs. Mary Coulter and Margaret Brockway, her sisters-in-law, whom she sued for $10,000 for alienating her husband's affections, gave her a verdict of $1,750.

To Meet Next Year in Richmond.

Philadelphia, Oct. 9.—The committee of the Wholesale Druggists' convention, to which the choice of selecting a meeting place for next year's convention was left, decided upon Richmond, Va.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redying. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

THE COAL DEMON

has an unsatiable thirst for money, hasn't he? Eats it up faster than anything else, doesn't he? The only way to save money on coal is to get the most for your money—to get clean, solid coal that will burn down to fine ashes without stopping half way between coal and ashes. We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

THE C. E. CONVENTION.

The order of arrangement is with reference to the amount of money contributed during the year to missions through the channel of the church boards.

Counties	Con't thro' Boards.	Whole amount.....	No. of societies reported.....	No. added to ch....
Cape May	5.00	5.90	2	12
Sussex	10.00	10.00	4	5
Salem	18.76	18.76	4	21
Warren	25.10	26.40	7	12
Somerset	27.00	27.00	10	19
Gloucester	33.00	37.00	5	6
Burlington	38.54	41.54	10	20
Hudson	53.25	56.25	22	51
Huntingdon	61.00	71.00	11	27
Middlesex	65.44	67.50	15	50
Camden	85.00	127.00	12	42
Mercer	100.00	174.00	15	32
Cumberland	104.98	115.13	19	61
Passaic	105.00	120.00	14	31
Atlantic	110.00	110.00	9	30

Bergen	183.85	228.35	11	6
Essex	345.56	512.31	35	66

From this table it will at once be seen that the "prize banner" becomes for this coming year the property of Essex county—an honor of which we may well be proud.

The ten counties reporting the largest accessions to the churches are as follows: Essex, 67; Union, 62; Cumberland, 61; Hudson, 51; Middlesex, 50; Camden, 42; Monmouth, 36; Morris, 35; Mercer, 32; Passaic, 31.

FINAN SUMMARY.

Our final summary is as follows: Numer of societies (including those not reporting), 361; membership, 10,526; received into the church since October, '65, 559; contributed to missions through the church boards, $1,838 36; total amount contributed to missions, $2,906.91.

CLOSING REFLECTIONS.

In analyzing the reports sent in by the different societies now for the third time, I have been profoundly impressed with the magnitude of little things, little children, little societies, little pennies, little hands, little feet, little hearts! but when they are brought together about the cross what magnificent results are achieved.

I have also felt anew the importance of the superintendent's work. Did it ever occur to you that you as superintendents are under God.

THE HINGE

on which the door of your society swings? either opening wider and wider to the green fields of opportunity beyond, or closing tighter and tighter against the needs of the world and the call from on high. One superintendent wrote across the corner of her report, "I am proud of my Juniors!" Well may she be; and it is an open secret that her Juniors are proud of their superintendent. Nearly all of the superintendents are ladies — one exception, however, among a few others, attracted my attention; in one of the societies (no matter which one) the pastor is superintendent, and the assistant is also a gentleman. One thing is certain—whatever else you may say about that society it is well "manned." I also observe this, which is suggestive—the assistant lives on Summer street, which must be not far from Sunshine corner, where every Junior worker ought to pitch his tent.

In closing this my third and last report as state superintendent, I desire to make two recommendations:

First—That the badge banner be kept in the field as a perpetual incentive to increased gifts for missions, each year to be held by the county contributing the largest sum to this work through the boards of the churches. It should also be understood that the societies not yet represented by badges on the banner, may enjoy that honor as soon as they have contributed in any year the necessary $10.

Second—I would also recommend that a second banner be procured on which shall be placed the badges of all societies contributing at least five dollars to missions in one year. This banner to become the property for the ensuing year of the society in the state contributing to missions through the church boards the largest amount per capita.

And now, dear Endeavor friends of New Jersey, as state superintendent of Junior work, I bid you farewell.

You have been considerate, happy and always kind. I lay down this office with deep regret; but having filled it for three years I am convinced that it should be passed along to some one else.

Let me assure you that, though I lay down the office I shall not abandon the work—I love it too well.

May God's blessing in ever increasing richness rest upon the Juniors and Junior workers of New Jersey.

Convention Notes.

Several Christian Endeavor delegates left for home this morning, while nearly every train brought a host of Endeavorers who have come just for today and evening.

A number of people have taken it upon themselves to set the price for which Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage came to Plainfield and addressed at the Christian Endeavor convention. The fact is that his services were given gratuitously. If the committee in charge desired to compensate him for his services that is their business alone.

Evangelist Moody will leave Plainfield this evening on the 10.17 train for New York, where he goes to keep an engagement with the Christian Alliance. His last appearance will be this evening at Convention Hall where he will preach the convention sermon and conduct the consecration service.

E. J. Hutchinson, traveling passenger agent for the Union Pacific Railroad system, was in town, yesterday looking over the field and the interest taken in the C. E. convention here, next year the National C. E. convention is to be held in San Francisco, Cal, and the Union Pacific road is already making arrangements and plans to accommodate its patrons.

Among the musical attractions at the convention is Plainfield's only organization of male voices, the Midmer Glee Club, and its reception is very enthusiastic. The club is under the leadership of Prof. William E. MacClymont. It is composed of the following: First tenors, Smith and R. M. Clark; second tenors, Angleman and E. O. Clark; first basses, Holmes and MacClymont; second basses Cornish and Barnes.

During Rev. Cortlandt Myers address yesterday afternoon, he referred to his independence of thought and how a person was criticising him for making the statement that "the Chicago platform was made in hell." "Was I right?" exclaimed the speaker, addressing the delegates. "Yes," yelled a delegate towards the front. The incident caused considerable applause and much laughter.

Noonday Services.

Evangelistic services were again held this noon and a large number of Christian Endeavorers were present to assist. The meetings were full of Christian enthusiasm and seemed to be productive of much good. Rev. T J. Cross, of Atlantic City, led the meeting at the Potter Press Works. The meeting in the Pond Tool and Machine Company's Works was led by Rev. A. Duryee, of Cherry Hill. In Scott's Press Works the leader was Rev. W. E. Davis, of Lebanon. The open-air meeting near the Babcock building was under the direction of Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., of Camden.

For Colored Voters.

Rev. Philip A. Herbert, who addressed a meeting of the colored Republicans in their hall on East Front street last evening, was a fluent talker. He was born in the West Indies, was educated for the priesthood, but subsequently turned to the Protestant belief and became a Methodist preacher. The meeting was held under the auspices of the campaign committee.

Celebrate Their Anniversary.

Miantonomah Tribe No. 118 I. O. R. M., will celebrate its seventh anniversary this evening at which time the Grand Lodge officers and visiting tribes will be present. An elaborate programme and collation has been prepared by the committee for the occasion.

Republican to Address Democrats.

J. S. Beckwith, of Ohio, a life-long Republican, will address a Democratic mass meeting tomorrow evening in the hall of St. Mary's Parochial School, corner of Sixth and Liberty streets.

—The Crescent Wheelmen will hold their regular meeting next Wednesday evening.

—Perfect in every detail of construction, and the largest line of children and young mens clothing in the city can be found at Jaquetts.

—J. Linn Edsall's "new methods" are drilling up the sales at the Commercial Palace as was anticipated. Yesterday they were more than doubled.

—Driver Geo. Feiring, of the chemical engine, has just finished clipping his team, and they present a fine appearance.

The home of Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Martin, of LaGrande avenue, was brightened today by the arrival of a bouncing baby boy.

Miss Jennie Hoagland, daughter of Freeholder Hoagland, of Neshanic, Somerset county, is visiting Mr. and Mrs. C. V. D. Corle, of New street.

Miss Georgie Corle, a prominent Sunday-school teacher of White House, Hunterdon county, is spending a few days with Mr. and Mrs. C. V. D. Corle, of New street.

Invitations have been issued by Mr. and Mrs. Sheppard Smith, of Park avenue, for the celebration of their golden wedding anniversary, which will take place Wednesday evening, October 21st.

Upset the Grocer's Wagon.

A bay horse attached to a grocery wagon, the property of Turton & Co., the Scotch Plains grocers, was left tied to a post near the corner of Front and Somerset streets, yesterday afternoon at 3 o'clock, when Henry Rogers' team of grey horses walked away from the curb, where they had been left standing, and striking Turton & Co.'s wagon upset it, throwing the horse to the ground. The running-gears on the Scotch Plains rig were considerably bent and twisted and the bridle was badly damaged. Mr. Rogers very generously purchased a new bridle at a nearby store and presented it to Mr. Turton's driver.

A Baby Christened.

A pleasant event occured at the home of Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hauser, on Duer street, yesterday afternoon, when their infant daughter was christened by Dr. Oerter, of New York, founder of the German Reformed church. of the borough. Mrs. Alterhain, of Jersey City, grandmother of the daughter and Mrs. Case, of Plainfield, acted as sponsors. The given name is Viola Irma Amelia Anna Hauser. After the ceremony a social time was enjoyed by the few guests present.

Got His Bicycle Afterall.

Fred Stack, who had his nickle-plated bicycle stolen off the porch of his boarding house on East Fifth street, recently, wrote to McKee & Harrington, the makers, at New York, at the time, and they kept a lookout for the missing wheel. Yesterday they notified Mr. Stack that they thought they had located the wheel in a "fence" in New York. He went to the city, and after considerable detective work he found the bicycle. Wtth the aid of the police he secured possession and brought it home with him.

Not Yet Settled.

The case in tort of Stevens against Nankin. judgment in favor of the plaintiff having been rendered by a jury in Justice Mosher's court, some two weeks ago, for $50 and costs, is not yet settled. An execution was issued yesterday, but it was found that there was not enough goods and chattels to satisfy the claim. The matter has been laid over until today, in view of a settlement.

Grand Officers Entertained.

The members of Central Lodge, No. 48, A. O. U. W., entertained several Grand Lodge officers last evening at their meeting. Two candidates were initiated and in the good of the order excellent speeches were made by the visitors and members of the home lodge. A collation was served during the evening by the Good and Welfare Committee.

Danced to O'Reilly's Music.

The first anniversary of the Ladies' Auxiliary, of Division, No. 4, of the A. O. H., was held in T. A. B. Hall, Wednesday evening, and fully three hundred yonng persons were present and tripped the light fantastic, until a few hours before sunrise. Prof. O'Reilly furnished the music.

Somerset County Court.

The two North Plainfield liquor license applications were again laid over at Somerville this morning until the murder trial of Elmer Clawson shall have been completed. The court house was densely thronged with witnesses and curiosity seekers, and a detachment of officers stood guard to keep the crowd away.

Mr. Newman, of Newark, was the guest of Plainfield friends yesterday.

The Rev. and Mrs. Casselbery will receive their friends at their home in Haddonfield on Tuesdays after December 1.

Mr. and Mrs. John Ward Hurd, of Dover, N. J., have issued invitations for the marriage of their daughter, Miss Mary Hoagland Hurd, to the Rev. William Winfield Casselbery on Tuesday afternoon, October 20. A reception will follow at the home of the bride's parents on West Blackwell street from two until four o'clock. Miss Hurd was a student at the Plainfield Seminary for a number of years, and she has the congratulations of many friends.

—The Allen Pharmacy Manufacturing Company, of this city, manufactures Royal Borated Talcum and Royal Tooth Powder, and sell either at 10 cents each. The Allen Company have built up a very large business in a very short time and ship these powders every day to all parts of the world. They are both warranted strictly pure, containing no acid or grit. See advertisement in another column.

—"I felt tired all the time and I also had headaches. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine made me better very quickly after I had taken it for awhile, and I am now all right." Miss B. J. Sehing, 116 Pearl street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

FOWLER RENOMINATED.

The Eighth District Republicans Name Him for Congress.

Congressman Charles N. Fowler was renominated yesterday afternoon by the Republicans in the Eighth Congressional District. The convention was held at the Lyceum Theatre, Elizabeth, and was quite enthusiastic at times.

Mayor Alexander Gilbert, of this city, placed Chas. N. Fowler in nomination on behalf of Union county.

Essex and Hudson counties seconded the nomination, which was then made by acclamation.

A committee found Mr. Fowler at the Mattaue Club, and he was given an ovation on entering the hall.

Congressman Fowler made a short speech, and reviewed the issues of the campaign.

—The landlord and tenant case of Bird against Barry was tried yesterday morning before Justice Crosley. Borough Counsel C. A. Reed represented the plaintiff and Lawyer Swackhamer the defendant. After a review of both sides of the case the Justice reserved his decision for a few days.

OF THE COMMERCIAL PALACE,

Will, from this date, inaugurate the most unique and LIBERAL METHODS ever attempted in this section in selling goods, and prove to the people that there is no place where their needs can be supplied at as little COST and TROUBLE as he can offer.

We know this means the Giving of Great Values!

But we feel confident we can make good what we promise to do, and all we ask of the citizens of Plainfield and vicinity, is to come in and see and judge for themselves. This is the way we make good

THE LIBERAL METHODS!

The Price of Every Article in the Store has been changed to a Lower Figure. FOR INSTANCE:

ANY ARTICLE AT		$5.00,	CHANGED TO		$4.25
do	do	$4.75,	do	do	$3.99
do	do	$4.50,	do	do	$3.83
do	do	$4.00,	do	do	$3.40
do	do	$3.00,	do	do	$2.55
do	do	$2.00,	do	do	$1.70
do	do	$1.00,	do	do	.80
do	do	50c,	do	do	.42
do	do	25c,	do	do	.21

And so on all through the entire store.

This is Our Idea About the New Method.

The Commercial Palace is now stocked with the largest and most complete assortment of that we have ever shown, and thoroughly equipped with competent salespeople, it won't cost us any more to sell $200,000 a year than to sell $100,000 and by selling the larger amount at a less profit we make just as much money, and our patrons are supplied at much lower rates and are the real gainers. We believe by introducing this new method we will double our trade inside of three months. Will you be one to encourage this new departure? In addition to this new change we will also offer from week to week EXTRAORDINARY VALUES such as these:

1 Case of Children's Natural Wool Winter Vests and Pants, neatly finished with silk stitching and binding, front and neck, regular made cuffs, finished seams, and guaranteed to us by the Mills to be all-wool, 16-in at 4c., and rise 5c a size. Don't delay or you may get left.

1 Case best quality 64x64 soft finished Kid Cambrics, all colors and black, 3c. 1 lot of real good quality Selisia, in colors and black; we always have sold for 15c., now 7 1-2 cents. 1 lot Hairlene, sold all over for 25c. Our price now 18c. Wool mixed Suits, 6 to 13, double-breasted coat, well-made and will wear well—just the thing for school wear at

ONE DOLLAR THE SUIT.

Cheaper ones at Eighty Cents the Suit.

IN FINE WOOL BLANKETS.

We have made a tremendous big deal in securing several cases at actually below the wholesale price, and our patrons may have the whole benefit of the deal, just to prove our new method is genuine. You will be surprised to see the goods. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, very pretty borders, guaranteed 75 of wool, at $2.50 the pair. 1 lot 10-4 all-Wool Blankets, handsome pink and blue borders at $3. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, elegant pink, blue and red Jaquard borders, at $3 25. 1 lot 11-4 Wool Blankets, extra fine and handsome, with beautiful Dresden borders in pink, red and yellow, only $5.50. The wholesale price of these is $6.50. See what a bargain they are. We sell Canton Blankets as low as 40c. We offer one lot of all-wool Storm Serge, 52-inches wide, at 25c. Did you ever hear of such a low price before?

CARPET DEPARTMENT!

Smith Best Moquette Carpet at	89c	2½x3	yards	at	$4.89	regular	$6.00
Best 5-frame body Brus. 89c reg.	$1 25	3x3	"	"	$5.39	"	$6.50
" all-wool Ing. carpet, 59c "	75c	3x3½	"	"	$6.89	"	$7.50
" " Art rugs in following sizes:		3x4	"	"	$7.69	"	$9.00

A full line of Window Shades at 15 and 19c., 29 and 39c each. Window Poles complete in Ash, Cherry, Walnut and Oak, with brass trimmings at 19c. each.

HOUSEFURNISHING DEPARTMENT!

1 lot Decorated, Underglazed, semi-Porcelain Dinner Sets, 112 pieces, at	$4.75
" Tin Wash Kettles, 24 quarts at	19c
" Tin Sauce Pans, 6 quarts, at	7c
" Pieced Tin Rincing Pans, 18 quarts, at	9c

" Star Dinner Pails	17c
" Bissel Carpet Sweepers, full size	98c
" Patent House Lanterns, 3-4 in. burner	19c
" Glass Hand Lamps, complete	9c

Do you realize what this new, liberal method we advertise means? Well, it is this. The Kid Glove, or Corset, or Wool Vests, or Nightgowns, or Dress Goods that you have been paying $1 for—the new method makes it only 80c. And all through the whole store it cuts the price of every article. If you do a little figuring you will soon see that it means to you a big saving in your everyday needs.

DRESSMAKERS will find a big saving in the Dress Lining Department. Come in and see how the new plan works.

END OF THE ENDEAVORERS GREAT CONVENTION

IMPRESSIVE SERVICES MARKED THE FINAL GATHERINGS IN HALL AND CHURCHES LAST NIGHT.

An Elevating and Helpful Spirit Dominated the Consecration Services—Dr. Moody Made a Passionate Appeal for the Saving of Souls—Nearly All the Old Officers Were Re-elected to Serve for the Ensuing Year.

Who that was present will ever forget the last service of the '96 convention, the consecration meeting? The other meetings were impressive, they were crowded, but in none was the spirt of intense earnestness so great. The delegates seemed to realize that they met for the last time and they came determined to obtain as much spiritual strength as they could to keep them during the days of trial in the future. It was, indeed, a fitting close for one of the grandest Christian Endeavor conventions ever held in the State, yes, even in the United States. Long before the doors were unlocked the crowd began to gather outside of Convention Hall. Fifteen minutes before the meeting was to open, the hall was filled while the crowd outside extended far out into the street. Even the fact that there were two other meetings to be held during the evening did not seem to lessen the number, although both overflow meetings were crowded. Three sturdy policemen were hardly able to prevent a general rush into the hall. Every seat was filled while many delegates had to stand. Then the doors were closed, while several hundred delegates had to go away disappointed.

Those who were fortunate to be admitted found the hall divided by counties, the delegates gathering around a banner carrying the name of their county. That grand white-capped choir crowded the platform and sang as it never sang before, for the Endeavorers there had caught the consecration spirit, and they too were anxious for spiritual benefit. It was the culmination of the events of the three days.

While waiting for the service to open, the Endeavorers started some of their rousing songs and soon the vast hall was filled with a volume of song. At last, F. H. Burke started the song service, and what a song service it was! Everybody sang with their whole soul, and the leader seemed to possess more than his usual power, Wm. E. MacClymont is an inspiring accompanist at any time, but his fingers seemed to fly with greater skill than ever. Whitney Frazee assisted with his cornet, while the instrumental trio did their part.

The Scriptural selection was read by Rev. J. W. Richardson with great feeling, and then he prayed very earnestly.

State President French then announced that the Union County Junior Union had been awarded a banner for their efficient work of the past year. Mrs. Wheaton S. Lowry, the superintendent of the union, received it amid loud applause.

Dr. French then called for the reports of committees.

The report of the nominating committee was first made by its chairman, Rev. C. Rudolph Kuebler. The report report was as follows:

President—Rev. J. Clement French, D. D., Newark.

First Vice-President—Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., Jersey City.

Second Vice-President—Rev. L. R. Dyott, Newark.

Third Vice-President—Rev. Titus E. Davis, Bound Brook.

Secretary—Miss Ida B. Stephens, Hackettstown.

Treasurer—E. E. Anthony, Plainfield.

Executive Committee—Rev. Lewis W. Mudge, D. D., Princeton; A. S. Johnson, Orange Valley; Rev. E. W. Thompson, Paterson; J. L. Connet, Flemington; Rev. C. C. Tilly, Bridgeton; Hamilton Turner, Wenonah; Rev. Edward Mason, Basking Ridge.

Dr. French was also nominated as a vice-president of the World's Christian Endeavor Union.

Rev. Mr. Kuebler then moved that the report be approved, and it was unanimously carried. The officers were then announced elected.

The report of the committee on resolutions was made by its chairman, Rev. E. W. Thompson, of Paterson.

The committee on resolutions presented the following report:

First, That the heartiest thanks of the Endeavorers of New Jersey are due to the city of Plainfield for entertaining this convention, to the faithful committee who have made arrangements, to E. E. Anthony and his corps of assistants, to the reception committee who met us at the railway station, to the pages who guided us to our destinations, to the firemen for the services they voluntarily offered to the ushers, to the press for the complete and accurate accounts of the addresses and doings of the convention, and to the choir for leading in the singing.

Second, That we heartily recommend to the society and the local union conventions the deputation work in behalf of missions by the students of the Theological Seminaries and Colleges at Princeton and New Brunswick.

Third, That the suggestion of President Clark and Secretary Baer, to the effect that the Endeavorers of America join in universal prayer for Armenia the second week of November and spend that week in special prayer and holding of special prayer-meetings, that God will stay the hand of that great assassin in that afflicted region.

Fourth, That the formation of the World's Christian Endeavor union, which was inaugurated at the convention in Boston and which held its first regular meeting in connection with the Washington convention, receive the consideration of the Endeavor societies of New Jersey, and that the constitutions and circulars furnished by the World's Endeavor union be secured by all, in order that the matter may be brought clearly before them.

Fifth, That the recommendations of the evangelistic department, advising the local unions and societies of the local churches to take up the work of evangelism in their several communities, be heartily endorsed by this committee.

Sixth, That suggestions made by all departments receive the attention of the delegates and be reported to the societies on the return from this convention.

This report was unanimously adopted. Mr. Dunham, chairman of the auditing committee, reported that the committee had examined and approved the accounts and found them correct in every detail. This report was accepted.

The last announcements of the convention were made by President E. E. Anthony of the local union. Dr. French now stated that the departments were appointed the same as last year as follows:

Missionary Department—Miss Alice B. Spangenberg, Plainfield, N. J., superintendent.

Junior Department—Rev. A. W. Spooner, D. D., Camden, N. J., superintendent.

Evangelistic Department—Rev. F. B. Everitt, Trenton, N. J., superintendent.

Press Department—Rev. George H. Ingram, Trenton, N. J., superintendent.

Correspondence Department — Dr. William R. Ward, Jr., Lyons Farms, N. J., superintendent.

Christian Citizenship Department—Rev. W. E. Davis, Lebanon, N. J., superintendent.

The report of the committee on greetings, of which Rev. D. J. Yerkes, D. D., is chairman, was as follows:

To the Pennsylvania State convention in session at Scranton, the following greeting was sent: "The New Jersey Christian Endeavorers now in session in Plainfield, greet our brethern and sisters of the Keystone State. II Corinthians 6: 1, 'We then as workers together with him, beseech you also that ye receive not the grace of God in vain.'"

To the United Society the following was sent to John Willis Bauer, at Boston, Mass.: "The New Jersey Christian Endeavor convention 3,000 strong, send cordial responsive greetings to you and President Clark. Psalms 134: 3, 'The Lord that made Heaven and earth bless thee out of Zion.'"

To Dr. Talmage's Society in Washington, D. C., where the New Jersey Endeavorers were entertained during the last National convention, the following was sent: "The Endeavorers of New Jersey assemble in convention at Plainfield, most heartily greet you with pleasant memories of Washington hospitality. III John 8, 'We therefore ought to receive such, that we might be fellow helpers to the truth.'"

To the Christian Endeavor convention of California, the following was sent: "The Christian Endeavor convention of New Jersey respond to your welcome greeting. Brotherly love reaches from ocean to ocean. Phil. 4: 8, 'Finally, brethren, whatsoever things are true, whatsoever things are honest, whatsoever things are just, whatsoever things are pure, whatsoever things are lovely, whatsoever things are of good report; if there be any virtue, and if there be any praise, think on these things.'"

INTENDED TWO MURDERS

DEPRAVED CONFFSSIONS OF YOUNG ELMER CLAWSON.

Admits That He Killed Harry Hodgetts and Says He Intended to Shoot Reuben Abel—Expert Testimony Offered.

The defence in the trial of Elmer Clawson, the youthful murderer of Harry Hodgett, completed their case in the Somerset court yesterday morning.

Clawson was placed on the stand and told a startling story. He admitted that he planned to shoot Hodgetts and accomplished his purpose. He then hurried to Bernardsville to "get the other man." The second man was Reuben Abel, ticket agent at Bernardsville. Clawson said the reason he wanted to shoot Abel was because he helped Hodgetts. The witness said he was whipped by Hodgetts when he lived with him, and did not like him much for it.

The witness was wary in answering questions. He said he gave himself up because he knew the men were after him. His mother had told him they would be after him if he shot Hodgetts, and that he would then be hung.

In reply to a question as to whether he thought he did wrong, he answered: "No, sir!" He said the reason he shot Hodgetts was because he had to.

The State began rebuttal evidence, showing that Clawson always acted like a boy with sound mind, and Dr. John Ward, of the Trenton Asylum, will be the expert witness for the State.

Thursday, Mrs. Phillips, of Bernardsville, testified that while Clawson was staying in her family last July she had occasion to reprimand him for staying out too late at night. The next night she saw Clawson mixing some green stuff with apple sauce. The following morning she saw him at the barn vomiting, and some of the green apple sauce was near him. He admitted that he had taken Paris green and said that he had to do it.

When Dr. Gray was on the stand the counsel for the defence put hypothetical questions to him. He was asked what would be his opinion of a boy who had not walked until two years old, nor talked until three years old, had scarlet fever and diphtheria at six, injured on the head between nine and ten, had another blow between ten and twelve years, attempted suicide, and had occasional hallucinations until seventeen years old. The doctor replied that such a boy must have been born an imbecile.

GOLD MEN NOMINATE IN SOMERSET.

Sound Money Democrats Form a Permanent Organization.

The Sound Money Democrats of Somerset county met at Somerville, yesterday for organization. E. M. Wright, Esq., was elected as Chairman and George M. LaMonte as secretary.

A central committee was appointed, who will appoint a committee from every polling place in the county to look after the sound money Democratic vote. The following gentlemen compose the central committee: Wm. V. Steele, chairman, Hon. George W. Pace, Joseph W. Ballantine, of Somerville, Calvin Corle, of Bedminster, Geo. M. LaMonte, of Bound Brook.

Geo. V. Vanderveer was nominated for State Senator and Charles A. Moran for the Assembly. The meeting was a very enthusiastic one.

Geo. V. Vanderveer, the nominee for Senator, is a very popular man. He is vice-president of the Second National Bank, in Somerville, Treasurer of the People's Building Loan, of the Somerville Publishing Company, and of the Central Hook and Ladder Co. He is a brother-in-law of Judge J. D. Bartine.

Boys Wanted.

Miss Anna O. Marsh, of 915 Madison avenue, is forming a class in vocal sight reading for boys between 10 and 15 years old. $3.00 for ten lessons. Prompt applications are desired so that the class can be formed without delay.

SEVEN YEARS' GROWTH

MIANTONOMAH TRIBE OF RED MEN CELEBRATE THEIR ANNIVERSARY.

All the Great Chiefs and Several Visiting Tribes Were There—Speeches by Many of Them—Names of Some of the Visitors.

Anniversaries are always pleasant events, and when the Miantonomah Tribe No. 118, I. O. R. M., celebrated its seventh year of existence last evening, the celebration was in no wise an exception to the rule. All the great chiefs were present, and a number of visiting tribes who entered into the festivities with a will. It was seven years ago than Miantonomah Tribe was instituted, with eighty-five charter members, by Norman C. Mague. Since then the tribe has grown steadily. At the present time there are 120 members. The lodge is in a healthy, prosperous condition and bids fair to be one of the best in the State.

William Newcorn was master of ceremonies last evening, and his peculiar, happy style, mingled with the speeches by the great chiefs and visiting Indians, made the event one of pleasure to all. After the speeches a bountiful collation was served, followed by a smoker. The State officers present were:

Great Prophet, W. J. Forsyth, of Jersey City; Great Sachem, John Russell, of Washington; Great Senior Sagamore, D. B. Peterson, of Camden; Great Junior Sagamore, W. J. Smyth, of Asbury Park; Great Chief of Records, D. M. Stevens, of Camden; Great Sanap, G. C. Mague, of Plainfield.

Tribe delegations were present from Perth Amboy, Cartaret, Somerville, Raritan and Paugh-Caugh-Naugh-Sin gue Tribe, of Plainfield. The committee in charge of the anniversary consisted of D. C. Allen, William Newcorn, William Westphal, C. L. Holstein and George Houseman.

Anniversary of the Turn Verein.

The tenth anniversary of the Plainfield Gesang and Turn Verein will be celebrated on October 19th with appropriate exercises. The committee have been tireless in their efforts to arrange an entertainment that promises to make this event one of the greatest in the history of the society. Societies from different parts of the State, including the Arion Singing Society and National Turn Verein, of Newark, will attend.

Borough Delegates.

The Democratic voters of North Plainfield met in the public school building last evening, to elect delegates to the Democratic Congressional convention. The meeting was called to order by David D. Smalley. John Becker was the chairman and Lambert Bodine secretary. The following delegates were elected by acclamation: Andrew E. Kenney, Charles Lyman, John H. Carney and J. P. D. Kirch.

An Aged Man Dead.

Dennis Moran, aged eighty-three years, died at the home of his daughter, Mrs. M. Bagley, No. 30 Harrison street, North Plainfield, at 8 o'clock this morning. Funeral services will be held from the house on Monday morning at 9 o'clock and from St. Joseph's church, North Plainfield 9:30. Interment will be made in St. Mary's Cemetery.

Vote of Thanks.

At a regular conclave of Trinity Commandery, No. 17, K. T., held at its asylum Monday evening, October 5th, it was unanimously adopted that a vote of thanks be extended to the citizens of Plainfield who so generously and tastefully decorated their residents and places of business in honor of the Knights Templar field day, Thursday, October 1st.

Salvationists on Wheels.

The Salvation Army are having a bicycle parade this afternoon. Several soldiers, including a brass band from New York, arrived here at 4 o'clock and were met at the North Avenue station by the local corps. The band play their instruments while riding on bicycles. Tonight they will participate in a musical symphony at the barracks in the Elkwood building.

THE JUNIOR ENDEAVORERS PARADE 983 STRONG

A NOVEL AND IMPOSING DEMONSTRATION OF HOW THE LITTLE PEOPLE ARE INTERESTED.

Boys and Girls Hardly Out of Their Babyhood or Just in Their Teens Trudged About to Show Their Forces—Afterward They Had a Meeting All to Themselves at Convention Hall—What Was Said and Done

Never did Plainfield see such an army of invaders as marched through her streets yesterday afternoon and finally took possession of Convention Hall. It was a wonderful army and what was most noticeable of all was the size of its soldiers. They were children, bright happy-faced children, and they all wore the orange and black convention badge, and every child carried a little American flag. 'Twas the Junior Endeavorers. There were hundreds of them; some little tots of barely four years whose baby eyes looked innocently about, and others who had just entered their teens, sturdy little lads and pretty little lassies. It was a sight well worth seeing, this great army of children, and then to realize that here were the future rulers of our country, the Christian Endeavor Society of the next century, all thus testifying their allegiance to the King of Kings. Curly haired little misses of wealthy families marched contentedly by the side of their bright-eyed companion of less fortunate circumstances. Here was equality for all. How proud they all were, too, of being Juniors.

The senior societies have been in the majority at the other sessions of the Christian Endeavor convention but the juniors were not forgotten and yesterday afternoon they held their service at Convention Hall.

The service was preceeded by a grand parade of juniors and truly it was a great sight. The Juniors began to assemble soon after two o'clock and from that time until the parade started soon after three o'clock, the streets in the vicinity of the Crescent Avenue church were crowded with the bands of expected Juniors and the many spectators who came to see this wonderful juvenile army.

The chief marshal of the parade was Rev. Charles L. Goodrich and the three divisions were under the charge of David E. Titsworth, Walter Harris and Rev. W. C. Donnell. After the excitement attendant on the distribution of the flags and badges, the little Endeavors were, at last, arranged in line and headed by Sergeant Kiely in command of a squad of police, and the Independent Fife and Drum Corps, the long procession started. The tiny feet could not tramp in the dust and mud of the streets and so along the sidewalk they marched out Crescent avenue, to Park avenue, to West Seventh street, to Madison avenue, to West Fifth street, to East Fifth street, to Watchung avenue, to the Convention Hall, into which they marched.

The Junior societies in line were the following churches and under the charge of the following: Trinity Reformed of Plainfield, seventy children, Mrs. Cornelius Schenck; First Presbyterian of Plainfield, forty children, Miss Pruden; Warren Chapel of Plainfield, fifty-five children, Mrs. J. O. McKelvey; Seventh-Day Baptist of Plainfield, thirty-two children, Mrs. H. M. Maxson; Congregational of Plainfield, twenty children, Rev. C. L. Goodrich; Crescent Avenue of Plainfield, eleven children, Miss Carrie Dewey; East Third Street Mission of Plainfield, six children; Washingtonville Chapel, twenty-one children, Miss Nettie Beeching; Park Avenue Baptist of Plainfield, twenty six children, Mrs. W. S. Lowry; First Presbyterian of Westfield, thirty children, Miss Clark; First Baptist of Westfield, thirty-two children, Mrs. C. F. Conant; First Presbyterian of Cranford, fifty children, James Watson; First Presbyterian of Roselle, twenty children, Miss Tenney; First Baptist of Roselle, eleven children, Miss Bogert; Third Reformed of Raritan four children, Miss Coleman; Baptist of South Plainfield, thirty-two children, Walter L. Harris; Monroe Avenue chapel, of Plainfield, seventy-six children, Rev. W. C. O'Donnell; First M. E., of Plainfield, fifty-two children, Rev. C. R. Barnes, D. D.; First Presbyterian of Dunellen, forty-seven children, Miss Lowe; Bound Brook Juniors, thirty-six children, Rev. T. I. Davis; Willow Grove Junior Union, thirteen children, Miss Lee; Elizabeth Junior Union, twenty-eight children, Mrs. Louis Williams; First Baptist of Scotch Plains, thirty-two children Rev. J. S. Braker; Grace M. E., of Plainfield, seventy-six children, Rev. H. J. Johnston; Reformed of Lebanon, four children.

In they marched, singing as they came, while the chorus choir on the platform, led by D. E. Titsworth, sent back the song, "Our Junior Band." Just 983 Juniors entered the hall and filled the center sections of seats. When they had settled themselves the tiny American flags began to flutter in welcome. Rev. A. W. Spooner, State superintendent of Junior work, who presided, waved a response with his handkerchief, in which the choir joined, while a perfect sea of moving flags re-echoed the welcome. A silent prayer, closing with the Lord's Prayer, followed. Then all united in the hymn, "Sunshine in the Soul." The twenty-fourth Psalm was read responsively and then, while the Juniors offered up their mites, the instrumental trio gave several well-rendered selections.

When the last penny had been deposited in the collection baskets, Rev. Dr. Spooner introduced Miss Rita Pond, a Plainfield Junior, who made the address of welcome. And right well did she do it, for her clear voice rang through that entire hall and she spoke and acted so unaffectedly and sincerely that the hearts of her hearers went out to her on the spot. The remarks were short but well chosen and the welcome made as general and hearty as could be wished. Dr. Spooner was greatly surprised but highly pleased and as he replied to the welcome he said so.

"I didn't know," he exclaimed, "that we had a girl orator of the east that is a peer of the Boy Orator of the West. That's a compliment to the Boy Orator." And really his praise was well deserved.

He then told of his reception at the depot by Juniors and told of his delight in the city and its Endeavorers. Another hymn followed his response.

Then Rev. C. H. Tyndall, Ph. D., of New York, preached an illustrated sermon to the Juniors on "God's Contract Between the Righteous and the Wicked." His text was from the first Psalm. His remarks were very simple, so that the youngest might easily understand. He showed his comparison with examples of goodly and stunted apples and the dead branch and the branch of an evergreen tree. It was like the latter, he said, that God wished his Juniors to be.

After another hymn the Consecration service was held, with Rev. W. R. Ackert, of Hoboken, leader. A few words of counsel and cheer and then he called the roll of the different societies, each responding with a verse of Scripture or a song.

The junior societies from the M. E. churches were not Junior Endeavor societies, but Junior Epworth Leagues. They fell in line with the rest, however, and took their share in the services at the hall.

Then all united in singing the hymn "Onward Christian Endeavorers" and the great assemblage of youthful Endeavorers was dismissed with the Mizpah benediction.

THAIN THE CHILDREN.

A Minister Who Would Rather Preach to Children Than Bald-headed Sinners.

The closing feature of the Junior worker's reunion yesterday afternoon was the address of Rev. J. Whitcomb Brougher, of Paterson, on the subject of "The World of Childhood."

Being introduced by a few well-selected words of Dr. French, Mr. Brougher spoke as follows:

"I never felt so important before in all my life nor so honored as when I was asked to deliver the address at this Junior session of the convention. I fell as the old German professor did when he he said: 'I always take off my hat when in the company of a large gathering of children, because I cannot tell what very great person may possibly be among them.' In my mind there is nothing better than a boy, unless it is a girl, and nothing grander than a good boy unless it is a good girl. I would rather have the children to mold than all other classes of people put together. At one of my services in Paterson a short time ago a grand old man said to me, having seen the Junior Society and the boys' brigade march into church and fill one entire section: 'You have a large congregation to be sure, but they are most all children.' I quickly replied: 'Yes; but if you will give me all the children to preach to I will give you all the bald-headed sinners in Paterson.'

"The great sign which points to victory is the sign found in the boys and the girls. In the first place, convert the young. Do you mean to tell me that there is no wrong in these bright-faced young children. They are like a beautiful flower, exquisite to look

Our Kitchen

No kitchen is kept cleaner than the premises devoted to the manufacture of NONE SUCH Mince Meat. No housewife can be more fastidious in the matter of preparing food than we are in the selection and preparation of the materials of which it is made. The cleaning of the currants (for one thing) is more thoroughly done by means of perfected appliances, than it would be possible to do it by hand.

Its cleanliness, purity, wholesomeness and deliciousness are good reasons for using NONE SUCH Mince Meat. The best reason is its saving—of time, of hard work, of money. LATHROP SUSTAINED

Charges Against New York Prison Superintendent Dismissed.

THE MATTER HANGING FOR A YEAR

Charged with Malfeasance in Office, Gov. Morton Concurs in the Report of Special Commissioner Brown, Favorable to the Superintendent.

Albany, Oct. 10.—The oft-repeated charges which have been made during the past two years against Gen. Austin Lathrop, as superintendent of state prisons, have at last been dismissed by Gov. Morton. In thus acting the governor has disposed of a question which has been before the legislature and himself for upwards of a year and a half. The charges were originally made against Gen. Lathrop in February, 1895, and a special committee of the senate was appointed to investigate them and to report if they would warrant the removal of the superintendent. This committee reported and its findings were transmitted to Gov. Morton. The governor refused to act thereon because no specific charges accompanied the report. In September, ex-Congressman Weaver, and former Sheriff White of Plattsburg, presented formal charges to Gov. Morton against Gen. Lathrop, which were based upon the report of the senate investigating committee. Upon these charges the governor was asked to remove Gen. Lathrop. At the time the prison superintendent filed an answer denying the charges specifically and generally. The governor appointed A. H. Brown of Watertown as a special commissioner to investigate the charges and report his findings to the governor. The report of Commissioner Brown was filed with the governor in June last, and the decision of the governor is based upon that report. Accompanying the decision the governor writes an exhaustive opinion of 12,000 words, in which he reviews each of the thirteen specifications contained in the charges and the whole case in detail. Briefly stated, the charges were that Gen. Lathrop was guilty of gross malfeasance and neglect of duty through the purchase of inferior beef; the selling below market value of the products of the prisons; the payment of excessive salaries to certain employes of the prisons, and in permitting cruel and inhuman punishments to be inflicted upon refractory prisoners by subordinates. A number of other charges are also made. The governor reviews with painstaking detail the testimony relating to each charge, and the result of his conclusions as to each specification is given in the summing up of the proof and is in almost every instance favorable to the superintendent, or, if not exculpatory, at least fairly and reasonably explanatory of his actions so far as his subordinates were concerned. As to the twelfth count, that Gen. Lathrop permitted some of the wardens and other officers of the prisons to use the property of the state in such a manner as to secure for themselves some gain or advantage, the governor finds that Albert Thayer, a brother of the warden of Clinton prison, while employed as an officer in the prison, acted as agent of a firm who had a contract in 1895 for the manufacture of chairs by prison labor, and that he received $30 a month therefor for almost two years. The warden denies all knowledge of this, and there is no direct evidence that he knew of it, nor is it claimed that the superintendent was aware of it until he learned of it in this investigation. The governor says, however, that it is "a matter which should be carefully investigated by the superintendent," as such employment was improper.

Comment on Rosebery's Resignation.

London, Oct. 10.—The Standard, conservative, says that there is a disposition among the liberals to attribute Lord Rosebery's retirement to Sir William Vernon Harcourt's speech at Ebb Vale on Monday. Sir William avoided any reference to his chief, while John Morley, who formerly warmly supported him, has lately avoided any public reference to Lord Rosebery and has been supposed to favor Sir William Vernon Harcourt. The Standard alleges that Lord Rosebery was very sensitive at this ostentatious neglect.

DUMMY FOUND IN HIS CELL

Mysterious Disappearance of a Twenty-five-Year Convict at Auburn Prison.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Seldom have the officials of Auburn prison met with so clever and mysterious a disappearance as confronted them yesterday when the door of Lewis Sarles' cell was thrown open and a guard went in to arouse the form on the cot. He was dumbfounded to find that the apparent sleeper was nothing but a dummy of straw topped off with a bunch of hair. Investigation showed that eight inches of the heavy iron cell door had been skilfully sawed off at the bottom, and through this small opening the convict had wriggled with undoubted difficulty. How Sarles passed through the corridors unobserved by the guards and how he obtained egress through several locked doors between his cell and the prison yard are matters of the greatest perplexity to the officials. It is known that he did this, however, for in a distant part of the prison was found the only other obtainable clue to the man. He attacked a thick iron bolt on a door in the mess hall and sawed it through but his plans failed in this direction, for there was another bolt on the other side of the door. Sarles is under sentence of twenty-five years for burglarizing the Westchester county store of Walker B. Adams, who was recently killed by burglars. The offense was committed in the fall of 1889. Sarles, in company with another convict, attempted a strike for freedom a month ago, but failed while in the act of scaling the walls at night. Sarles fell from the top of a ladder to the ground, nearly breaking his back. On this account he has remained most of the time since in his cell. As soon as the man's absence was detected all of the prison shops were shut down, the convicts were marched to their cells, and search within the walls of the prison was begun.

Health

Depends upon keeping the blood in a pure condition, free from disease germs, and yet there are very few people who have perfectly pure blood. Hood's Sarsaparilla cleanses, vitalizes and enriches the blood, throwing out the impurities that clog and irritate the system and permits no lodgment of the seeds of disease. Read the following:

"I cannot recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla too highly for it has done wonders for me. I was

and all run down and my health was so poor I could not get out of doors. I was not able to do anything, being troubled with asthma and heart disease. I was nervous and could not sleep nights. I had become completely discouraged when I happened to read an advertisement of Hood's Sarsaparilla and concluded to give it a trial. After taking the first bottle I felt better and since taking five bottles I am so much improved that I feel like a new man. I am now able to do a fair day's work and sleep at night. My heart does not trouble me and I have realized great relief for asthma. I feel full of courage once more and life seems brighter and worth living. I would recommend Hood's Sarsaparilla to all afflicted as I have been, for I know it will help them. If this statement of facts will be of benefit, you are welcome to use it as you please." HENRY J. Indicted for Wife Murder.

Auburn, N. Y., Oct. 10.—The Cayuga county grand jury has presented an indictment against Frank N. Sheldon for the murder of his wife on April 3 last. At the time of the woman's death conflicting theories of suicide and murder were equally advocated. But the community was startled when a brother of the dead woman openly charged the husband with being a wife murderer. People generally were incredulous and loath to believe the truth of the accusation, for the Sheldon family had a long established record of probity and prosperity. The 20-year-old daughter of Sheldon also openly accused her father of the murder, and the district attorney began an investigation which resulted in the indictment.

Central New York M. E. Conference.

Towanda, Pa., Oct. 10.—At the third day's session of the Central New York Methodist conference, six candidates for the ministry were admitted to full membership. A motion prevailed to bring the matter of increased salaries before the officials and laymen of the churches, and a committee was appointed to investigate the matter of legally incorporating the conference. This committee will make its report next year.

Saulte Ste. Marie Canal.

Toronto, Oct. 10.—The total number of vessels which passed through the Saulte Ste. Marie canal from the opening of navigation in May until Sept. 30 was 4,264, with a tonnage of 3,749,472 and freight amounting to 3,840,000 tons. It is not possible to give comparative figures, as the canal was only opened for about ten weeks last year, the total number of vessels passing through in that period being 1,175.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

The Tide of Public Opinion is all Favorable to Paine's Celery Compound.

There is just now no lack of news from the western states.

Public opinion in Colarado and Iowa is as promptly and accurately heard of as from any New England state.

From all over the west come reports that Paine's celery compound occupies practically a clear field in the cure of diseases arising from a tired or otherwise impaired nervous system.

No other remedy was ever used by so many men of sound and reliable judgment. No remedy but Paine's celery compound has ever been recommended by so conspicuously fair minded a body of men and womens The half hearted experimental effort, of scores and scores of sarsaparillas-tonics, and so-called nervines, with which the market is constantly recruited, are in startling contrast with the confident — because thoroughly scientific—way in which Paine's celery compound sets about restoring health and vigor to the worn out body.

Why will people be silly enough to jeopardize their lives and lessen their chances of getting well by taking anything else?

There is no help so sure and so immediate as one gets from the use of Paine's celery compound. Detailed information of innumerable cases of rheumatism, neuralgia and dyspepsia, completely cured, has established this great invigorator as the most valuable remedy those run down in health can make use of.

Women whose stock of nervous energy was well nigh exhausted have been restored to a joyful, contented state of body and mind by this same great nerve and brain restorative.

Paine's celery compound is the greatest achievement in modern medicine. It banishes weakness and pain as surely as its famous contemporary, the electric light, dispels darkness.

Paine's celery compound frees the body of vicious humors that causes kidney and liver complaints. Only a great remedy based on a deep knowledge of these diseases could do the work that Paine's celery compound is now doing. Better nutrition for the nerves, an awakened appetite, purified blood and complete assimilation—these follow the conscientious use of Paine's celery compound as surely as day follows night.

If you are alarmed by a throbbing of the heart, an irritable stomach, or general debility be fair with yourself, use the best means there is, examine what Paine's celery compound is doing. It has cured an astonishing number of men and women of Bright's disease, rheumatism, neuralgia, heart and liver trouble. No sufferer can pass lightly over the remarkable record that Paine's celery compound has to show to every sick and ailing person.

Among the thousands of testimonials received this year is one recently sent by Congressman John C. Bell of Colorado, who says he has used three bottles of this best of all remedies for dyspepsia and rheumatism, with the most satisfactory results. Among the testimonials received since January there have been no less than 16 from Congressmen from different states.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—A large culvert is being erected on Giraud avenue by the borough authorities.

—The Socialist-Labor party will hold a meeting in Reform Hall on Monday night. H. Carless, of Newark, and others will speak.

—George R. Leland has been awarded the contract for the heating and tinning on L E. Hart's new $2,500 house at Westfield.

—All purchasers of hats of J. R. Blair, 126 Park avenue, tonight night next, will be presented with a handsome souvenir.

—The members of the Woman's Relief Corps are making great preparations to assist Post No. 73, G. A. R., in their coming fair to be held in November.

—Monday night burglars made two attempts to enter the house of David Snediker, of Grove street, but were frightened away by the inmates before they had effected an entrance.

—The political meeting to be held next Tuesday evening in the West End under the auspices of the National Democratic Association will be addressed by President Atterbury.

—John G. Bicknell has sold his blacksmithing business on Somerset street, near Johnston drive, and is having a shop built on his lot at the corner of South avenue and Central treet, by Pope Bros., contractors.

—On Wednesday evening, October 21st, the newly organized Republican club will have charge of the mass-meeting to be held at Music Hall. Congressman Fowler and Senator Voorhees will be the speakers. There will also be good music.

Edward Cooley, of Watchung avenue, has returned from an extended business trip.

GOLF.

The preliminary round in the contest for the cup to be presented by Charles J. Fisk to the junior members of the Plainfield Golf Club took place on the Plainfield avenue grounds, Wednesday afternoon. It was a handicap play at nine holes, and the eight players making the lowest net scores are to compete today in the match. Below is the score in detail:

	Gross	Handicap	Net
Fisk, Augustus	52	0	52
Wadsworth	66	2	64
Glenny	55	2	53
Rowland	67	8	59
Reinhart	63	8	55
Richards	59	7	52
Dumont	62	9	53
Fisk, Charles	48	7	41
Baker	57	12	45
Talmadge	76	12	64
Schoonmaker	66	12	54
Stockton	71	12	59
Mason	66	12	54
Fisk, Harvey	68	15	53
Waring	67	9	58

Thus it will be seen that Messrs. A. Fisk, Glenny, Richards, Dumont, Charles Fisk, Whitney Baker and Harvey Fisk, are the seven out of the eight to be selected, and Messrs. Schoonmaker and Mason being tied for the eighth honor, they will necessarily have to play off the tie.

Public Installation Planned.

A regular meeting of the Templars of Liberty of America was held in Red Men's Hall last evening, with President Robert Laramore in the chair, assisted by Worthy Recorder John McClurg. In the routine of business it was decided to have a public installation some time in December, probably on the second Thursday, when it is expected the Grand Temple and other subordinate officers will be in attendance. This is a comparatively new organization, and is rapidly increasing in membership.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry Green, of Manning avenue, have returned from Newburg-on-the-Hudson.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. and Mrs. Smock, of Red Bank are stopping with relatives in Plainfield.

Miss Jacobs, of Toledo, O., is visiting her friend, Miss Mary Chapman, of East Front street.

Frank Green and family, of Somerset street, are spending their vacation with friends at Goshen, N. Y.

Miss Florence Dodge, of New York city, is the guest for a few days of Mr. and Mrs. Charles VanWinkle, of Central avenue.

Miss Sarah Kane, of West Third street, has gone to Brooklyn for a week's vacation.

Mr. and Mrs. August O. Trust, of Somerset street, will leave in a few days for Virginia, where they will remain for some time.

Miss Wyckoff and Miss VanCleef, of East Millstone, are visiting relatives in town and are attending the Christian Endeavor convention.

Rev. Garrett Conover and family, of Hawthorne, are stopping at the home of Mrs. Conover's mother, Mrs. J. K. VanArsdale, of Grove street.

Miss Wyckoff, of Millstone, returned home today after spending a few days with Plainfield friends.

Two large Christian Endeavor delegations from New Brunswick came to Plainfield last evening by stages to attend the opening of the convention.

Geo. Feiring, of the fire department, is suffering with a painful sore on his thumb, which is considerably swolien.

Miss Ella VanHorn, of Dayton, O., is visiting her uncle, J. W. VanHorn, of Duer street. She will remain over Sunday.

Mr. Alfred Zimmerman, circulation Superintendent of the Newark Evening News, represented his paper at the Christian Endeavor meetings in this city.

Eli Odam has been extended an invitation to sing at the Odd Fellows' anniversary in this city the latter part of this month.

George Rockwell, a former partner in the firm of Smith & Rockwell, of this city, and now of Newark, is the father of a bouncing baby boy.

Miss Laura Le F. Hummer, of New Brunswick, who has been visiting her friend, Miss Minnie Force, of the Giraud avenue, has returned home.

Col. Beckworth, of Ohio, who has been a lifelong Republican, will speak to the Democratic voters of Plainfield in St. Mary's hall this evening.

Mrs. Margerum and daughter, Miss Cora Margerum, of Princeton, returned home today after spending a few days with relatives on East Third street.

Mrs. I. N. Wyckoff, of New street, who has been ill for some day's past, has had a relapse, but now she is doing fairly well and is on a good road to recovery.

Rev. W. D. Johnson, of Westfield, who is the pastor of the Filmore Avenue Baptist church in this city, will next week take up his residence on East Second street.

The condition of Gilbert Sutphen, who is at the hospital, owing to injuries received last Saturday, is much improved and will soon be able to leave that institution.

The Misses Anna Stryker, Jennie Stryker, Tillie Stryker, Lizzie Romb and Peliv Voorhies, of Trenton, are guests of Mr. and Mrs. Geor Saums, of East Second street.

A. C. Stebbins, vice-president and superintendent of the Pond Machine Tool Company's Works, and Mrs. Stebbins, arrived home Thursday from a two-weeks trip to Mt. Pocono, Pa.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson J. Hoffman, of Lebanon, are stopping with Mrs. Hoffman's sister, Mrs. H. F. Bowen; also Mrs. Bowen's sister, Mrs. J. G. Apgar, of New Germantown. They are all members of the Christian Endeavor society.

About twenty-five members of the Christian Endeavor Society of the First Presbyterian church, of Orange, who ride bicycles, rode to Plainfield last night to attend the State Christian Endeavor convention here.

An amusing sight was witnessed yesterday afternoon when a large crowd of delegates took possession of the North Avenue station and enjoyed their lunch. Every seat was taken and the Endeavorers had a jolly time.

Miss Julia G. Shinn, of Lakewood, a graduate of the Woman's Training School at Philadelphia, addressed the Woman's Foreign Missionary Society at the First Baptist church Thursday afternoon. Her theme was the life and character of Paul concentrated in the one thought of service of God.

Considerable fault was found with the assignment committee, on the part of those who agreed to take delegates. It was not the fault of the committee. Delegates had been assigned, but for some reason or other they did not go where they were sent.

Speed and safety are the watch words of the age. One Minute Cough Cure acts speedily, safely and never fails. Asthma, bronchitis, coughs and colds are cured by it. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

GONE, BUT NOT FORGOTTEN.

Plainfield has again resumed its wonted quietude. The visiting Christian Endeavorers have gone and the tenth annual State convention of the Christian Endeavor societies of New Jersey is now a thing of the past. For three days Plainfield was in possession of these bright young people and everything else was given up on account of this gathering. Last night they met together for the last time and now scarcely one of that great army remains. Although the convention is over and the delegates gone, it will be many a day before Plainfield forgets them. The spiritual life of the city has been quickened and the local Endeavorers given renewed strength to fight life's battle. The convention was the most successful of any ever held in the State, and great credit is due to the committees, thanks to whose efforts the convention passed off so successfully. To E. E Anthony, chairman of the '96 committee, unbounded credit is due, and his election to a State office by the society was but just recognition of his labors in behalf of the Endeavorers. The secretary of the convention, Jos. M. Hawkins, seemed to have the happy faculty of doing several things at the one time, and without him it would have been impossible to accomplish what was done. The other members of the committee and its treasurer, David M. Runyon, were also responsible for the grand result. The other members of the committee were: J. M. Hawkins, printing; Wm. E. MacClymont, music; H. J. Martin, reception; Mrs. W. S. Lowry, Juniors; J. G. MacLaughlin, entertainment; Herbert Bonnell, finance; Harry W. Marshall, hall and decorations; Miss Florence G. Hawkins, evangelistic; Harold Serrell, ushers; Miss Emma V. Fish, press; Rev. C. E. Herring, Rev. J. W. Richardson, Rev. A. I. Martine, pastors' advisory.

The representatives of the press to whose lot it fell to record the proceedings of the State Christian Endeavor convention were greatly assisted in the performance of their work by Rev. George H. Ingram, superintendent of the press deprrtment. Many little details were furnished that would otherwise have made the newspaper men hustle, and the courteous and accommodating spirit of Mr. Ingram made him exceedingly popular with the reporters.

WILL FOWLER DEBATE?

Candidate Willey Wants a Contest on the Public Forum.

F. O. Willey, the Free Silver candidate for Congress in this district, has challenged Hon. Chas. N. Fowler, the Republican candidate, to a joint debate. The letter was presented to Mr Fowler by James P. Powers, formerly of this city, and when urged for a reply, Mr. Fowler said that he would answer it in the regular order of his correspondence. The letter of Mr. Willey's is as follows:

37 Hawthorne St., Orange, N. J.,
October 8th, 1896.

Hon. Charles Fowler, Elizabeth, N. J.

Dear Sir—You have been made a candidate for Congress for a second term. I ur derstand that the nomination has been given to you as a justly merited reward for your faithfulness to the policy of the Republican party durirg the two years you have served in the National Legislature.

The Democratic party has placed me in nomination for the same office. Both parties are agreed upon one proposition, to wit:—The question put in issue by the Chicago and St. Louis conventions are more vital than any that have ever before confronted the nation. I think the people of this Congressional district are anxious to hear both sides of the questions involved, especially that of finance, which is generally re ognized as overshadowing all others.

I therefore respectfully invite you to a series of public debates at; say six of the most populous centers in our district, the same to take place at your earliest convenience.

Awaiting your reply, I have the honor to remain, Sincerely yours,

F. O. Willey.

—The contract case of Stevens against Nankin has been settled in Justice Mosher's court.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

To the Connecticut Endeavorers the following was sent: "The New Jersey Christian Endeavor convention now in session, heartily respond to your kindly greetings. Heb. 13: 20, 21, 'The God of Peace, etc.'"

The choir rose and joined in the chorus to an impressive solo by Mr. Burke.

The text of Dwight L. Moody's convention sermon was acts I; 8: "Ye shall receive power, after that the holy ghost is come upon you." Seldom, if ever, have Endeavorers listened to more stirring and inspiring words than those which followed. I can look back upon two great epochs in my life, said Mr. Moody; one, when I was born of the Spirit; the other, when the truth of this text came into my heart. If we could only get the ministers and the people of the churches to seek the power of the holy Spirit, we would have streams of salvation breaking out all over the country. When the power came down on the Day of Pentecost, the whole Church received the blessing; it is not only for the ministers.

We get in this world very much what we seek for; if a man or woman seeks for the power of the holy ghost and don't believe God is going to disappoint them. We have Christ's own promise: "Greater works than these shall yet do, because I go unto the Father."

We have an example of one kind of Christian in Nicodemus, who came to Jesus by night, but did not stand up for him by day. He would have lost caste, very likely been put out of the Sanhedrim, if he had allied himself to Christ. He was a son of the Kingdom, but he had no power. In the woman of Samaria we see a woman testifying for Jesus, turning the whole town in which she lived upside down, bringing men to Christ.

You can have just a little Holy Ghost power, or you can have it as a great well of water springing up within you, and flowing forth as a river. Would you like to see a mighty revival? Begin and pray, and believe God's glorious promises to you. No man or woman is fit for service who is not filled with the Spirit. Often I've upbraided myself for trying to work without God. He never meant us to work without him. If you are filled with God's Spirit, you can't help letting your light shine. What we want is not to go on vainly striving to work without him, but to just pray to be filled. You can't empty yourself; no man has that power. Every heart here tonight is full of something; if not of God, of something else.

It may be of envy, selfishness, worldliness. Go to God and ask him to fill your hearts with himself, and all these other things will be crowded out. The way to get the air out of a glass is to pour the water in, and crowd it out.

When we are filled to overflowing, ministers won't have to urge us to service. The easiest and best way to live is to be out-and-out, to be entirely for Jesus. We may have all the power we want, if we are only willing to ask for it. I believe Pentecostal fire might come down upon this earth again if we had only faith to believe it. There are enough of you Endeavorers to set the whole world afire. What mighty instruments you might be in God's hands if the Holy Spirit should come upon you.

You may ask me how to get this power. Don t wait for any feelings or emotions. I once knew a man who expected to feel a cold chill down his spine when he was converted. Don't wait to feel cold chills or anything else. Just lay hold of a promise of Almighty God and walk right out on that promise. Just take Him at His word. Jesus says, "All power is given unto Me." Look, look, look unto Him. Don't you want power to bring to Christ the unconverted around you, to go out and do God's work in the world? Lay hold of God's promise now, this very hour, before you leave this room. Will you do it?

Mr. Moody followed his sermon with a powerful prayer, and then came the final consecration service, with the roll-call by counties. The roll was called by Dr. French. Atlantic was the first county to be called. "Forgetting the things that are behind, press forward on to victory," her delegates responded. Bergen's response was, "Not by might nor by power, but by My Spirit, saith the Lord." Then the Burlington delegation answered to their name with the verses: "Yea, though I walk through the valley of the shadow of death, I will fear no evil; for Thou art with me; Thy rod and Thy staff they comfort me. Surely goodness and mercy shall follow me all the days of my life; and I will dwell in the house of the Lord forever."

Camden's Endeavorers responded to Dr. French's call with, "Be ye steadfast and immovable always, abounding in the work of the Lord."

Powerful was the response of Camden: "Praise the Lord. Let everything that hath breath praise the Lord. Praise ye the Lord!" But the keynote to the meeting was given by the Cumberland delegation when they recited the preamble to the pledge: "Trusting in the Lord Jesus Christ for strength I promise Him that I will strive to do whatsoever He would have me do." Then, at the suggestion of Dr. French, Cumberland's answer was repeated slowly and impressively by all the delegates.

The Essex delegation was a large one and they recited in concert, "Forgetting the things that are behind, press forward on to victory" and then all united in the song "To the Work."

Gloucester was represented by only one delegate but she responded in a loud clear voice "The Lord of Hosts is with us; the God of Jacob is our refuge.

"More holiness give me" sang the Hudson delegates as their response. The Mercer delegates recited the verse, "Therefore by beloved brethern, be ye steadfast, immovable, always abounding in the work of the Lord for as much as ye know that your labor is not in vain in the Lord."

The response of the Hunterdon delegation was short, "Sanctify theirs through Thy faith; Thy word truth."

Then the Middlesex Endeavorers rose up in a body and responded to Dr. French's call, "This is the victory which overcometh the world, even our faith."

Monmouth's response was "He that glorieth, let him glory in the Lord, for not he that commendeth himself is approved but whom the Lord commendeth."

No response came to the call for Ocean county and that was the only one not to respond. "The Lord is my Rock and my Fortress and my Deliverer; the God of my Rock; in Him will I trust," was the response from the big Morris county delegation. There was one delegate to respond to the call for Salem

The Somerset county Endeavorers were there in large numbers and responded "Sanctifying them through thy truth, thy word is truth." Then they united in the well known Endeavor song "Showers of Blessing." The Endeavorers of Sussex and Warren recited, "His banner over us is love, our sword the love of God."

Last, but not least, came Union county and at the call Endeavors rose all over the hall while the choir rose in a body.

"Our soul waiteth for the Lord, he is our help and our shield.

"For our heart shall rejoice in him, because we have trusted in his holy name.

"Let thy mercy, O Lord, be upon us according as we hope in thee." they recited and then "The Wondrous Story" was sung. Passaic's response was "I will up with thee; I will not fail thee nor forsake thee. Be strong and of good courage."

When the roll was completed, Dr. French addressed a few loving words to his fellow Endeavorers exhorting them to renewed efforts during the coming year. Mr. Burke then sang "The Home Land" and made that pathetic selection doubly touching by the feeling that be put into the selection. Many an eye was filled with tears as he closed and Dr. French's voice was husky as he declared that after the mizpah benediction and the benediction by Rev. Cornelius Brett, D. D., the tenth annual state convention of the Christian Endeavor society would be adjourned.

Everybody rose, the mizpah benediction was said and Rev. Dr. Brett pronounced the regular benediction. The convention was over. Feelings of regret and pleasure mingled at the thought. Then there was a rush for the platform by many of the delegates and Dr. French and the other state officers held an informal reception, after which they departed for the well-earned rest.

THE FINAL OVERFLOW MEETING.

A Great Outpouring of People and Spirit at This Assemblage.

The last overflow service of the convention, held in the Crescent Avenue church, was a very impressive service. The usual song service was under the direction of Rev. A. I. Martine. Rev. G. Kennedy Newell read the fourth chapter of Phillipians as the Scriptural lesson and offered prayer.

The opening address was delivered by Rev. Charles H. Jones, D. D., of Bayonne. He spoke somewhat as follows: "It is fitting that I should call your attention, at this, the last service of this great convention, to the subject of deep spiritual living. When Christ's disciples were in that upper room praying for a deeper spirital life, the spirit of the Holy Ghost came came upon them. If the words of Mr. Moody, that great spiritual light who we have had the pleasure of having with us, are true. Is it not that you and I, who love the Lord Jesus Christ should strive to live more like him, should live a more spiritual life.

"If I could lay open your hearts tonight; and could look within them, into their deepest recesses would I find that longing desire which leads you and me to live more like our blessed Lord and Master. Yes, we should see the importance of such a life but we should see more, we must see the necessity of it. You and I must be clothed with the spirit of the Master if we would see this spirtual life take possession of the minds of our fellow beings. We are holding our position for our Lord. Are we holding it as He would have us hold it. Are we willing to die for His cause. Only with such a mind can we do the work of rescue, given us to do.

"We must have the love of the Lord Jesus Christ in our hearts; we must manifest it in our daily lives. We should go out to tell others of Jesus. How many of you, dear friends, have told other thirsting souls of Christ. How many of you have prayed with them. Oh, young people while I have the opportunity, for I may never address you again, let me leave this message with you.

"As you value the precious sou's about you: I beseach you to seek that migaty Spirt of God which came dawn upon the deciples at this time of Pentecost, and which can give your power. Then by His aid we can lead other souls to Christ."

The sermon of the evening was delivered by Rev. James F. Riggs, D.D., of New Brunswick, and it was one of the most powerful discourses delivered during the convention. He took for his text a portion of the fifteenth verse of the fourth chapter of Phillipians, which reads as follows: "No church had fellowship with Me in the matter of giving and receiving, but ye only; for even in Thessalonica ye sent once and again unto My need." Prof. Riggs then spoke in substance as follows:

"It is not the church, society or association, but the Lord that gives us power. It is no small thing that God should ask us for our service. If you don't believe in missions, the Sunday-school or the Bible, you don't believe God. I say that every young Endeavorer that draws from God has obtained new life and blood. We see the world struggling with intemperance and man is unable to do his own work much less God's work. One hour's intercourse with God is worth more than seventy years of service. God speaks through his Apostle and promises to supply our needs. If we call on Him for it He will supply us.

"The question now is, where is our need and what is our need? The need is failure at the heart, not in plans or thought. Everyone knows he ought to be better. Of what avail is it if our efforts are downward. There seems to be a wild rush on and on away from God, and the well of spiritual refreshment seems to be dry. The child thinks that if it could have all that there is in a toy shop its needs would be supplied, but older people smile and say that a few years will clear up that matter. The young man seeks society and thinks that there he will find his needs supplied, but again older people laugh at his folly. Another man says leave me with my books and I shall be satisfied, but there is no true satisfaction in that simply because it is not true. Nothing can fill our soul but God and we need him absolutely.

"God calls us into the common center and the diffusion of energy is a hinderance to the Christian. In the next place it is necessary to acknowledge our need and God's supply. Did you ever see a man groping about in the dark looking for a door and not able to find it? The world has a popular field of supply, and that is if you call long enough the demand will create the supply. In spiritual things this is not true, for it does not create a supply. Mystery and revelation mean the same. It is only two names for one great fact. God tells us some great truth and he reveals it, but the old nature tells you that it is mystery. God does not make his word difficult. It is our slowness of understanding. There is no punishment for the Christian, but he is chastened instead."

"There is a French proverb which reads 'To know all is to pardon all.' Every sin we commit is against God, and according to the Bible to know sin is to hate it. Again we must consider the supply. There are two ways of supply. God's way, which is to BLAZE IN THE NOTCH.

Barns Outbuildings on Wm. Demler's Place Destroyed by Fire.

The bright reflection on the skies last evening at 7 o'clock was made by the burning of the barn on William Demler's property in the Notch.

Mr. Demler went to his barn with a lighted lantern about 7 o'clock for the purpose of feeding his horses. He was standing in front of one of the stalls with the lantern in his hand when a trapdoor, which hung overhead, came down with a crash and knocked the lantern out of his hand, at the same time breaking the glass. In an instant the dry hay was all in a blaze, and it was with difficulty that Mr. Demler rescued his three horses. By the time the animals were removed the whole barn was one mass of flames, and another barn belonging the Stewart estate was consumed, also.

The neighbors responded quickly and assisted as much as possible, but the buildings could not be saved. The houses belonging to Andrew Wilson and Wm. Demler narrowly escaped destruction. Besides an immense quantity of new hay just put in the barns, three sleighs and three sets of single harness were consumed, also three election booths belonging to the township. Mr. Demler says that his loss will be about $2 000.

Time-Saving Invention.

Labor-saving machines are constantly being invented, but many of them do not accomplish their purpose. Manning & Son, the enterprising West Front street monument dealers, have just introduced something new in his workshop that does the work much more rapidly and with greater skill than by the old hand method of hammer and chisel. It is a rapid, vibrating hammer, the power for which is furnished by air compression. Any chisel may be used. With this machine, the operator is able to do the work of three men and with more precision. Messrs. Manning have a large selection of granite and marble monuments, which they are selling at low figures. This new machine will enable them to do more and better work at a less charge. They have not only a large local trade, but control much of that in the outlying districts.

Former Newspaper Man.

R. Henri Herbert, of Trenton, has been in Plainfield the past few days, combining business with pleasure, and incidentally looking after the interests of the Republican party among his people in this section. Mr. Herbert was some years ago connected with the New Jersey State Republican, as associate editor. The paper was published in this city, its editor being Rev. John D. Bagwell. Mr. Herbert is one of the best known colored men in this State, a man of education, refinement and scholarly attainments. Mr. Herbert, however, has given up newspaper work, and is now with the National Cigar Manufacturing Company, of Trenton, as secretary and treasurer.

Putting on the Winter Dress.

Marsh, Ayers & Co., the painters and decorators, will on Monday begin the exterior decorations on the beautiful houses of George A. Chapman on Stelle avenue, George H. Goddard, of Third place and Ninth street and Alex. Thorn on Craig place. The work of painting Dr. Hedges' house, at Watchung avenue and Seventh street, will be completed today.

Committee Conferences.

Many beneficial suggestions were made at the different committee conferences that were held in the churches yesterday afternoon, beginning at 3:30 o'clock. Capable leaders had been provided, and the time proved for too short to discuss the many questions that arose. The conferences were very largely attended.

Threw Stones

Joseph Sweeney and William Firstbrook were arraigned before Judge DeMeza this morning for throwing stones. They pleaded guilty and sentence was suspended.

If Troubled with Rheumatism Read This.

Annapolis, Md., Apr. 16, 1894.—I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and found it to be all that is claimed for it. I believe it to be the best preparation for rheumatism and deep seated muscular pains on the market and cheerfully recommend it to the public. Jno. G. Brooks, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., No. 18 Main street.

ALSO READ THIS.

Mechanicsville, St. Mary County, Md. —I sold a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm to a man who had been suffering with rheumatism for several years. It made him a well man. A. J. McGill. For sale at 50c. per bottle by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Leggett, the druggist, commencing with today, will be prepared to serve hot soda.

—The co operative store at the corner of Central avenue and West Second street is now open for business.

—The gospel service at the East Third Street Mission will be conducted tomorrow night at 8 o'clock by the superintendent.

—The interior work at thv new City National Bank building is now being pushed rapidly, and when completed will be very handsome.

—Plainfield has been having a sort of tidal wave in the shape of conventions and celebrations of late, but soon this city will again settle down to its usual quietude.

—It was reported last evening that Hugh Boyd, a machinist living on Richmond street, sustained a severe injury yesterday, but inquiry fails to substantiate the report.

—The Borough Council did not meet last evening in adjourned session, as there were not enough members present. The next meeting will be on the first Friday in November.

—The Somerset county court yesterday gave notice that proper notification would be given as to when the North Plainfield liquor license applications would be acted upon.

—A most attractive decoration for the Christian Endeavor convention can be seen at Randolph's drug store where the windows are prettily arranged with both the State and local colors.

—Through the insurance agency of M. M. Dunham, the Sun Insurance Company, of London, has settled the claim with John Reid for the damage to his house by fire. The amount paid was $400.

—An empty wagon belonging to E. H. Holmes, the Madison avenue coal dealer, broke down yesterday afternoon on East Second street, near Watchung avenue. Later it was sent to the repair shop.

—William Leland, of West Third street, a machinist in Pond's, fell from a ladder while at work there a few days ago, and severely wrenched the tendoms of his left leg. Dr. Simpson is the attending physician.

—City Physician Manning reports the health of the city very good at the present time, especially among adults. There is, however, he says, much sickness among children, mostly the result of the change in the weather.

—The wall paper sale at Love's, corner of North and Watchung avenues, is attracting a great deal of attention. Many Christian Endeavorers from out of town are taking advantage of their visit to get paper for their homes.

—Judging from the crowds that have visited J. Linn Edsall's Commercial Palace, and made such liberal purchases during the past few days, the people must be satisfied with the new arrangements of prices and the new fall and winter goods shown there —The Sussex County Sunday-school Association will hold their annual convention at Stanhope, Friday, Oct. 16th, at which time Miss Beeching, president of the Primary Teachers' Union, will teach the lesson. Miss Beeching will attend Sunday-school conventions at Newark, Oct. 19th, and New Brunswick, Nov. 1st.

—The Plainfield confectioners at 112 West Front street, formerly known as the New York and Philadelphia Confectionery Company, have in their new store heavy plate-glass show windows, and the same, with the beautiful assortment of candies exhibited, makes the front of their store look very imposing.

—Gilbert Van Nest, of North Plainfield, is one of the "tried men and true" who are to decide upon the fate of young Elmer Clawson, the boy murderer, now on trial for his life in the Somerset County Court at Somerville. Juryman "Billy" Campbell was also drawn on the jury, but counsel for the defence offered objections.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits: 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

upon, and yet they are like the serpent. The evil spirit which sometimes seems to be nothing more than the cunning traits of childhood will burst forth, sometime in the form of an ill temper. Sin is wrapped up in the heart of a child like dynamite in the bomb shell. Throw it out into the sparks of strife and of evil of the world and it will burst forth and do inestimable damage. You may pluck the sin in the bud, but when it has blossomed it is impossible.

"The child may become a great and mighty power in the world if you train him from youth. Very early is not too early to begin. You may begin as early as you desire and never do any harm. We want more trained workers, and to obtain them we must begin with the children and train them until they have become of sufficient age and ability to carry on the work.

"Train the children, for in them lieth the greatest power of the land for saving souls and carrying on the work of Christ. Do not pass over the children; train them and they will ever be a power in 'the world for Christ.'"

In Honor of a Guest.

Mrs. John H. Carney, of 40 Craig place, tendered a reception to Miss Mary Francis Higgins of Mount Saint Mary's Academy Newburgh-on-the-Hudson last night. The evening was delightfully spent. Mr. Brown, of Madison N. J., furnished the music and Miss Libbie and Alfred Springer favored with solos and duets which were delightfully rendered. John H. Carney had a few words in dialect which drollery put many smiles upon the young people featnres.

Dunellen Wins.

The Dunellen and Independent Gun Clubs competed for the third time Thursday, and it was unfortunate that the latter did not turn out better. Each shot at 25 targets. The score follows:

Plainfield.		Dunellen.
Wedemeyer	16	Gray	19
Kellar	14	Brokaw	16
Haurand	11	Lindzey	18
Swody	20	Manning	19
Hull	12	Baron	19
	73		91

The Dunellen team won by 18 birds. Several sweepstakes were also shot. All the money was divided by the Rose system.

Plenty of Political Talk.

Lee Fairchild, of California, will address a Republican mass meeting in Music Hall, Tuesday evening, October 27th, and it is possible that ex-Congressman Roswell G. Horr will speak at a meeting to be held in the same hall October 31st. The meeting to be held in Music Hall next Tuesday evening will be in charge of the Young Men's Republican Clnb and there will be music by a glee club.

Grand Endeavor Rally.

Prayer, praise and testimony tomorrow afternoon at 4:15 in Convention Hall. Last opportunity to hear the great convention choir. Everybody invited.

—The choir at the First Baptist church will render several special selections at the services tomorrow.

—No meeting will be held at the Y. M. C. A. building tomorrow at 4:15 p. m., as a meeting will be held at the Convention Hall at that hour.

—While the audience was leaving Convention Hall last evening one young woman dropped her gold watch in front of the building. Sergeant Kiely saw it fall, picked it up and returned it.

Invitations are out for the wedding of Robert Giddis and Miss Ida Fletcher. The date is October 21st.

The Dunellen Athletic Club will hold a reception at Friendship Hall, Tuesday evening, October 13th, at 8 o'clock. An excellent programme of music and dancing has been prepared.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disagreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

STATE OF NEW JERSEY.
OFFICE OF ATTORNEY GENERAL.
Trenton, October 5th, 1896.

To Brock Veneered Lumber Co:

Please take notice that pursuant to the provisions of an act entitled "An act to provide for the imposition of state taxes upon certain corporations and for the collection thereof," approved April 18th, A. D. 1884, I shall apply to the Chancellor of the State of New Jersey, at the State House, in the city of Trenton, on the 10th day of November, A. D. 1896, at 10 o'clock in the forenoon, or as soon thereafter as he can hear the same, for an injunction to restrain the Brock Veneered Lumber Co., a corporation incorporated under the laws of the State of New Jersey, its officers and agents, from the exercise of any franchise of said corporation or the transaction of any business for the non-payment of the license fee or tax of one tenth of one per cent. on the amount of the capital stock therefor, for the year eighteen hundred and ninety five, amounting to the sum of $250.00.

Yours very respectfully,
JOHN P. STOCKTON,
Attorney General.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE.

We Sell Goods Cheaper than any other Store in Town

There Are

Two little words that are frequently used in our every-day life; words of deep meaning—COMMON SENSE are the words, and the common sense of the people tells them that the merchant who buys for cash and sells for cash is in a position to sell you merchandise cheaper than all others, and when you read advertisements that tell of goods worth $1.00, and sold for 50c., your common sense tells you it IS NOT SO.

Ladies' and Children's Coats, Suits and Capes.

We ask an inspection of our assortment of suits, jackets, skirts and capes for ladies. We are in a position to sell you better goods for less money than all others, and make a specialty of making suits and jackets to order for ladies and children. There is a beautiful line of cloakings in all the latest colorings, and you can make your own selections, and we make them to your order.

ROSEBERY EXPLAINS

Eastern Question Not Alone Responsible for His Retirement.

NOT GIVEN SUPPORT A PEER NEEDED

His Party Defeated by Its Own Followers. The Policy He Suggested for the Election Ignored---Mr. Gladstone Innocently Gave the Coup de Grace.

Edinburgh, Oct. 10.—Speaking in this city last night Lord Rosebery, the ex-prime minister, discussed the remedies that had been suggested for the settlement of the Turkish question. He addficed reasons against nearly every one of the remedies. Regarding the proposal that Russia should take possession of Constantinople, Lord Rosebery said that the late government (his own) had been extremely anxious to arrive at an entente with Russia, and he was still in every way hopeful that a satisfactory understanding between Great Britain and Russia on the Turkish question would be reached. He urged the advocates of the proposal, however, to remember the treatment that had been accorded the Poles by the Russians. Moreover, he asked, how is Great Britain to give to Russia what is not hers?

Differs with Gladstone.

Avowing veneration and unaltered friendship for Mr. Gladstone, Lord Rosebery said that he could not agree with the proposal made by the latter in his Liverpool speech to withdraw the British ambassador from Constantinople, or to threaten action which could not be effected if the powers did not approve. Such a course would lead to humiliation. He differed with Mr. Gladstone in the opinion that Great Britain was bound by the Cyprus convention to intervene in Turkey. This convention had been a dead letter since it had been signed. He did not desire specially the retention of Cyprus and would willingly give it to any power, except Turkey, as the price of a European concert.

Would Threaten Great Britain's Existence.

Lord Rosebery further declared that he was emphatically opposed to isolated action by Great Britain on the Turkish question and would fight the proposal that she act alone tooth and nail. Such action would mean a European war, with the slaughter of hundreds of thousands, threaten the existence of Great Britain and, perhaps, precede the extermination of the Armenians. He could conceive of nothing more futile, dangerous and disastrous than such a policy. Any British minister incurring a European war except through the necessity of interests distinctly British would be a criminal to his country and to his position. He believed that any just war would have the assistance of the British colonies.

Had Not Received Loyal Support.

Lord Rosebery then referred to his retirement from the leadership of the liberal party, saying that the difference of opinion on the eastern question was only one of a series of incidents that had induced him to resign the leadership. Hs added that he had not received the loyal support that a peer needed if he was to lead his party successfully. His government in its early days had been defeated by its own followers. The policy he had suggested for the election had not been adopted. Finally, Mr. Gladstone had innocently administered the coup de grace. The internal differences in the party had been equal to the external differences. His action had been so hampered as to render his position untenable. He had tendered his resignation to his colleagues after the election. Lord Rosebery, in conclusion, thanked Messrs. Fowler, Asquith, Bryce and Arnold Morley for their cordial support. The meeting unanimously adopted a resolution expressing gratitude for the manner in which Lord Rosebery had led the liberal party, deeply regretting his retirement, and earnestly hoping that he would reconsider his action and resume the leadership.

Great Interest at the Clubs.

The clubs here last night were filled with members, who eagerly awaited a report of Lord Rosebery's speech at Edinburgh. The Central News was alive to the importance of the occasion and caused a column of the speech to be put on the "tickers" concurrent with its delivery. This report was devoured with avidity, and the references to the reasons that caused Lord Rosebery to throw up the leadership of his party were excitedly discussed. A great throng filled the National Liberal club, which presented the appearance it does at the time of a general election. Lord Rosebery's reference to Messrs. Fowler, Asquith, Bryce and Arnold Morley, which defined the Cleveage in the Rosebery cabinet, especially interested the readers of the speech. His response to the resolution adopted at the meeting was regarded as leaving open the question of his possible resumption of the leadership. Alexander Asher, who was solicitor-general for Scotland in Mr. Gladstone's last cabinet, stated afterwards that he believed that Lord Rosebery would soon be re-elected as leader of the liberal party.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

We know we can give you perfect satisfaction, but don't want you to buy here until you know it.

CAPE ANN BANK ALL RIGHT.

Transacting Business To-day as Usual—Suicide Marsh's Defalcation.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 10.—The excitement occasioned by the suicide and defalcation of Treasurer Marsh of the Cape Ann Savings bank has almost entirely been allayed, and the bank today is transacting business as usual. Confidence was restored when it was found that men of wealth had offered to pay depositors at the savings bank 97 cents on the dollar if they were going to draw out their deposits; hence, the deposits drawn from the bank did not aggregate more than $2,000 to $3,000, while there were quite a number who made deposits. No other defalcations have as yet been discovered, other than that of the Gilbert trust funds, about $38,000, and $20,000 of that is made good by John E. Somer, Allen Rogers, John Corliss, John L. Dustin, jr., and Sylvester Cunningham, who were on Mr. Marsh's bond, which leaves a deficiency of about $18,000, or less than one-half of what was first expected. As no new developments have come to light it is thought that the other funds of which Mr. Marsh was trustee and guardian may be intact. Mr. Marsh's downfall, it is stated, was due to speculation in stocks, not altogether in regular houses, but in "bucket shops" which have been established in Gloucester for more than fifteen years.

Hildreth Estate Said To Be Missing.

A hasty investigation into the affairs of the late Dr. Dharles H. Hildreth, who died a few years ago leaving an estate valued at from $28,000 to $30,000, mostly personal property, and of which Marsh was guardian, reveals the fact this morning it is said that the property has about been wiped out. Those who claim to know say that not more than $5,000 of the estate can be accounted for and that about $25,000 must have been embezzled, but a further examination will be made as soon as possible. Dr. Hildreth left a wife and one son in this city, from whose residence the funeral of Mr. Marsh will take place this afternoon.

NO MONEY TO GET MARRIED.

A Government Clerk Kills Himself Only a Few Hours Before Funds Came.

Washington, Oct. 10.—Dillard Ragland, 27 years of age, a native of Texas, employed in the internal revenue bureau of the treasury department with a rating and salary of a messenger ($80 a month), committed suicide during the night, by inhaling gas, because he could not raise money enough to go to Atlanta, Ga., to get married next Monday. He was engaged to Miss Bessie Rosamond Gurley, daughter of a widow lady of Dallas, Tex., and the date and details of his approaching wedding had been announced with a flourish in some of the Atlanta newspapers. Failing to receive pecuniary aid from his relatives in Texas, and having only five dollars in his possession, Ragland killed himself. Soon after hir death was discovered a telegram came to the dead man from his father in Texas, stating that funds for his trip and for his marriage expenses had been placed to his order in a local bank.

SYMPATHY FOR THE CASTLES.

Americans Arrested in London as Thieves Are Vouched for by High Officials.

London, Oct. 10.—The United States embassy here is making every possible effort to ameliorate the position of the Americans, Walter Michael Castle and his wife, Ella Castle, who were arrested on Wednesday on the complaint of several furriers, charging them with stealing valuable sable and chinchilla skins. Upon arraignment in the police court, the two were remanded for a week without bail. The prisoners, who claim to be well known in New York and San Francisco, are receiving many telegrams and letters of sympathy, and are also receiving offers of assistance from all parts of America and England. It is learned at the United States embassy that Secretary Olney vouches for the good character of Mr. and Mrs. Castle, and that the mayor of San Francisco, the attorney general of the state of California and Baron Rothschild will also certify to their respectability.

Two Paintings for Fairmount Park.

Philadelphia, Oct. 10.—The commissioners of Fairmount park have decided to purchase from Lowin & Co., of London, two paintings, at a cost of £5,600. For one of the paintings, by Carlo Creville, £4,000 will be expended, £1,000 being paid on April 1 next, and the balance during the year, as the revenues of the commission will warrant. The other picture is by Nondecoster, and will cost £1,600. It is to be paid for as the revenues will permit.

Germanic Ships a Big Sea.

Liverpool, Oct. 10.—The White Star line steamer Germanic, Capt. McKinstry, at this port from New York, reports that while making for Liverpool during the heavy gale she shipped a sea which tore off the hatches of her No. 2 hold. A large quantity of water went down the hold and damaged the cargo.

Ten Per Cent. Reduction in Wages.

Jamestown, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Notice has been posted on the doors of the carpet mills of S. Sanford & Sons to the effect that a reduction of 10 per cent. in wages will be made on Monday. The reduction will affect about 2,000 operatives.

College Tennis at Middletown.

Middletown, Conn., Oct. 10.—Trinity and Wesleyan will have a tennis tournament in this city this afternoon on the courts on High street. Next Monday the freshman class will hold a tennis tournament for the class championship.

Daunt Rock Lightship Safe.

London, Oct. 10.—The missing Daunt Rock lightship has arrived safely at Tramore.

ACCIDENT TO PARIS

The Big Ocean Liner Probably Going Ahead with One Engine.

AGENTS DO NOT FEEL ALARMED

With Fair Weather She Should Reach Southampton Friday Next, Two Days Late—Story Told by an Officer of the Fuerst Bismarck.

New York, Oct. 10.—The report sent out last night by the marine observer at Fire Island that he sighted an American line steamer south of Fire Island coming in, and that he believed it to be the steamer Paris, proved to be erroneous, as the vessel he saw was the St. Louis, which reached her dock early this morning. The captain reports passing the Paris at 11:46 p. m., Oct. 8, and exchanged night signals with her when 458 miles east of Sandy Hook lightship, but did not know of her having been disabled. The agents of the American line in this city say they feel no anxiety for the safety of the Paris, and that she can make about seventeen knots with one engine, and with favorable weather she should reach Southampton next Friday, two days late. If the engine now working should break down, as, it is claimed by some, is not all improbable, considering the additional strain she is forced to undergo, the vessel would be practically helpless. The agents say, however, that there is no cause for apprehension, for if there had been any danger the vessel would have put back. The Paris was sighted 350 miles from Sandy Hook by the Fuerst Bismarck Thursday afternoon. She was disabled; one of her engines had broken down. The Paris did not ask for assistance, and her officers stated that they would be able to proceed without danger. The story of the meeting with the Paris as told by first officer C. Pesvora of the Fuerst Bismarck is as follows: When in latitude 41.07, longitude 66.19, at 1 o'clock Thursday afternoon, the Paris was sighted lying to and directly in the path of the German steamship. She was flying a signal that she had something to communicate and the Fuerst Bismarck was stopped within a ship's length of the American liner. A boat was lowered by the crew of the Paris and in a few minutes the chief officer was aboard the German vessel. He explained to the captain that one of the engines had broken down, and, handing over a sealed letter, added:

Boarded by an Officer of the Paris.

"All the particulars are in this, which I hope you will have delivered at the American line office in New York as soon as possible." Then the officer handed over a large bag full of letters written by the passengers to their friends in America. These were taken charge of by the purser, who posted them in New York upon the arrival of the Fuerst Bismarck. The Paris' officer was only on board the German steamer for about ten minutes, but he explained that the accident was not a serious one. He said that about 10 o'clock on the same day the starboard engine had broken down. The port engine was still in good condition, however, and the opinion on the Paris was that, even if repairs to the injured engine could not be made, the vessel would be able to get along at a respectable rate of speed.

Says Passengers Were Excited.

As soon as the American line's small boat left, the Fuerst Bismarck continued on her course. Officers and passengers aboard watched the Paris through telescopes as long as possible and agreed in saying that to all appearances she was still lying hove to when they last saw her. Although officers of the Fuerst Bismarck say that there was no excitement aboard the Paris, a different story is told by the passengers. Among the latter was James L. High of Chicago, who was seen at the dock by a reporter. He said: "Why, there was great excitement. I never saw such a time in my life. The bulwarks were lined with the passengers who were shouting and waving handkerchiefs and flags. Every now and then some of them would yell at us, but we couldn't hear what they said because so many of them were shouting at once. If they were not excited I do not know who was. It was a pretty sight to see two vessels close together, almost within a stone's throw of each other, and all the people cheering and waving the flags. Our band played to enliven the people on the Paris."

To Lay a New Cable.

Montreal, Oct. 10.—The French Cable company's steamers Seine and Francois Arage are at Halifax preparing to begin the laying of a direct cable from New York to Martinique, Guadaloupe, and French Guiana. This will be an extension of the French Atlantic cable and will give France what she deos not now possess, the control of her own system of communication with all her American dependencies.

Bicycle Rider Killed by a Train.

Bridgeport, Conn., Oct. 10.—Wm. H. Hayden, ex-councilman and a foreman in the Wheeler & Wilson sewing room, was killed at the Iranistan avenue railroad crossing last evening by the Boston express. He was riding a bicycle and tried to sprint across the tracks in front of the train. The flagman warned him but he did not stop. He was 52 years old and leaves a wife and daughter.

An Old Rochester Resident Dead.

Rochester, N. Y., Oct. 10.—Patrick Cox, the well known manufacturer of this city, died at his residence last night, aged 57 years. Mr. Cox has been intimately connected with the business enterprises of Rochester for many years and the executive officer of the Cox Shoe company.

THE GREAT CONVENTION

develop, and man's way, which is to give. God's way is better, for He is wiser than we are and the end is right. He makes it possible for us to do His work according to His riches. No one can bear the sins of another, and when you believe that God did bear our sins then it is that we realize the great truth. God bears the cost of it all and we should put our faith in Him the same way that we trust in a bank. It is hard to lead a Christian life and that is why God tests us. May God supply our needs to the praise of His glory through Jesus Christ."

At this point Mr. Lewis sang very affectively "Oh! Tender and Sweet Was the Master's Voice."

Mr. Jones then introduced Wm. Shaw, treasurer of the United Christian Endeavor Society, who took charge of the consecration service. Mr. Shaw spoke in substance as follows:

"I wish that at the close of this great convention I could say something that would stimulate you to do more for the Master. I want you to consider for a few minutes an old man who went to the pool of Bethseda to be cured. He was a helpless cripple and there was no one present that would help him to get into the water to be healed. One day Christ appeared at the pool and asked him a question that I want to ask you tonight, and that is, 'Wilt thou be made whole.' Christ doesn't ask you if you don't want to be just a little more respectable or better than you are. Do you know what it means to be whole? There are lots of people who don't want to be whole, for they think the responsibility will be too great. Do you want to be strong enough to work in the church and teach a Sunday-school class or do you want to be just a little sick? How often the excuse is made by a Christian that they would rather not teach, as others can teach better than I can.

"Christ asks you the question now, 'Wilt thou be made whole?' Oh! that He would speak to you at this closing moment. Will you hear Him speak to you tonight and be made whole. It means that you will say that you will give up all in the strength of God for His service." A deep and pro found feeling seemed to pervade the audience while Mr. Shaw was speaking, and while he was talking not a sound save the speaker's voice could be heard. A few minutes was then spent in silent meditation, after which several sentence prayers were offered.

An impressive part of the service followed when every one, except two, in the exceedingly large audience, arose and re-consecrated themselves to the Lord. During this part of the service the congregation sang, Just as I Am," and as a closing hymn, "God Be With You Till We Meet Again" was rendered most effectively by all present. The benedictson was pronounced by Rev. Mr. Jones.

ALL NEED HELP.

Tenor of the Remarks Made by Rev. Mr. Stryker at the Baptist Church.

The overflow meeting, held in the First Baptist church last evening, was largely attended. The speaker was Rev. Dr. Stryker who said he had just come from Pittsburg, and was unprepared for the occasion. He, however, gave a sound practical talk taking his text from Zachariah I, and the last four verses.

Zachariah was living 2,400 years ago, said the reverend gentleman, but he needed instructions and God revealed revelations and directed him in his work. The Lord Jesus Christ was engaged in the work of building up most diligently, constantly and industriously until he was thirty years old, when taken away. Peter, of Biblical fame, learned to teach people to be good, but then the Lord of Heaven came down to do carpenter work—to intercede for the four Smiths, the four fabricators or the four carpenters and to teach the bodies to do something great. People were trying to rent asunder the teachings of Jesus Christ.

What we want now is to come forward and build up the Christian Endeavor, which is composed of four classes, viz., the child, the young people, the middle-aged and the aged. The young have many opportunities in this world, such as schools, choirs literary advantages, etc.

The church couldn't very well get along without women, said the learned speaker, and women want encouragement. All should be stirred up to activity. Children, apprentices, journeymen and those in middle life—boss carpenters, elders, deacons, stewards and contractors, and even those who look over the pastors and superintendents, should be imbued with the spirit of the Holy Ghost to get the Church in proper working condition. Don't leave your pastor; stand beside him. Some times they become tired and discouraged and go to a different field of labor. But don't forget your pastor; pray for him and you will thus be a carpenter, helping him in his work.

In the Sunday-school the superintendent gets weary sometimes, but let us all consecrate ourselves to the glory of God—work for God as long as we shall live, resolve to do the best to our ability, honestly and humbly, and God will crown our efforts with success.

In conclusion the preacher said: "Let God bless us and our overflow meeting and let many be consecrated who, if faithful to Him, will be crowned with love."

After singing a hymn, the benediction was announced and one of the annual Christian Endeavor meetings came to a close.

DENOMINATIONAL RALLIES.

They Were Held in the Different Churches Yesterday Afternoon.

The denominational rallies were held in the different churches yesterday afternoon beginning at 4:45 o'clock and all were well attended.

The Presbyterian rally in the Crescent Avenue Presbyterian Church was well attended. Rev. Samuel M. Studdiford, D. D., presided. Miss Catherine Jones spoke in behalf of the Board of Home Missions. Rev. William Dulles, Jr., treasurer of the Board of Foreign Missions spoke briefly in behalf of the work of that Board Rev. John Dixon, D. D., chairman of the committee on Synodical Home Missions briefly presented the work of the committee. President French spoke on the resolutions of the Presbyterian church and our young people, making special mention of the action taken at the last General Assembly. All in all the meeting was a most interesting and profitable one.

The congregational rally was held in the Congregational church. Dr. Amory H. Bradford, of Montclair New Jersey, presided. In his opening remarks he emphasized the fact that their must be intelligent faith and loyal service in the church. The meeting was then thrown open and a number of short and pointed speeches made. It was brought out that the Endeavor movement was founded in the Congregational denomination and they were proud of it.

Between 200 and 300 enthusiastic Baptists gathered in the First Baptist church for their rally. A spirited address was made by the leader Rev. J. A. Francis, and he was followed by Rev. Judson Conklin, M. T. S. Lumbor, T. J. Cross and Dr. Yerkes, who all spoke along the line of denominational fellowship. A delightful spirit of prayer also pervaded the meeting.

The other rallies were held as follows: Methodist, Rev. N. D. Aspinwall, of Hancocks Bridge, leader, at Methodist (Vincent) Chapel. Methodist Protestant, Rev. W. D. Stultz, of Bridgeton, leader, at First Presbyterian Chapel. Seventh Day Baptist, Rev. L. E. Livermore, of Plainfield, leader, at Seventh Day Baptist Church. Church of Christ (Disciples,) Elder B. W. Hand, of Plainfield, leader, at Liberty Street Mission. Lutheran, Rev. J. P. Krechting, of New Germantown, leader, at Y. M. C. A. Building.

Additional Locals on Page 7.

Trinity church was filled with a band of loyal Endeavorers devotedly attached to the Reformed church in America. Rev. D. H. Martin, D. D., of Newark, called the meeting to order promptly at the hour and offered the opening prayer. His introductory address was full of strong points and elicited much enthusiasm. His theme was "The Historic Place, and Essential Value of the Reformed Church." Rev. Mr. Thompson, of the Broadway church, Paterson, spoke on "Church Extension," and emphasized the necessity of occupying ground in the neighborhood of Reformed churches.

Convention Notes.

The order maintained during the sessions of the convention was noticeable. It is often found, in large gatherings of this sort, difficult to keep the people quiet in the remote parts of the house. The greatest commendation is due the committee of ushers and all who served at the hall for their success in this respect. This is the testimony of one who has attended many State and international conventions.

At a meeting of the executive committee this morning, Rev. J. C. Curry, president of Central Local Union, presented the following resolution:

"To the State Convention of Christian Endeavor of New Jersey:

"The Young People's Society of Christian Endeavor of the Jamesburg Presbyterian church would call the attention of the State union to the fact that it will be ten years December 1st next since the State union was organized in our church, and we would extend to the union an invitation to recognize that fact in connection with the meeting of the New Jersey Central Local Union in our church on or about that date."

The committee unanimously accepted the invitation, and appointed the president, J. Clement French, D. D., to attend the meeting and appoint a delegate to go with him.

Bad Conduct All Around.

After several adjournments, the case against Sigmund Frucht for being disorderly on West Front street was brought up in the city court this morning. The complaint was made by one of Frucht's neighbors, Mrs. Lane, who claimed that he used improper language and was too free in his distrubution of stones at the front of her house. The Judge reserved his decision for a week.

—"I felt tired all the time and I also had headaches. I began taking Hood's Sarsaparilla. This medicine made me better very quickly after I had taken it for awhile, and I am now all right." Miss B. J. Sehing, 116 Pearl street, Elizabeth, N. J.

Hood's Pills cure all liver ills.

A Pleasant Surprise.

A birthday surprise party was tendered to Louis Bimble, at his home on Harrison street, North Plainfield, last evening. About twenty couples were present and danced to music furnished by Messrs Blake and Keller. The guests met at J. Keller's home nearby, and went over in a body, where they surprised Mr. Bimble completely. The festivites continued until two o'clock this morning.

It Goes Without Saying

that when you are suffering from catarrh, you want relief right away. What is the use then of experimenting with blood "cures" upon a climatic disease? Use a local remedy. Use Ely's Cream Balm, which relieves at once the attacks of catarrh and cures chronic cases. This remedy can be used by all without injurious results. It contains no mercury nor injurious drug of any kind.

Satisfied the Chattel Mortgage.

The $450 chattel mortgage held by Charles H. Hand, of this city, on the goods and chattels of Howard Giles of Dunellen, was last night amicably adjusted, by a settlement of the claim to the evident satisfaction of all parties concerned.

Worthy Your Confidence.

The success of Hood's Sarsaparilla in conquering scrofula in whatever way it may manifest itself is vouched for by thousands who were severely afflicted by this prevalent disease, but who now rejoice over a permanent cure by Hood's Sarsaparilla. Scrofula may appear as a humor, or it may attack the glands of the neck, or break out in dreadful running sores on the body or limbs. Attacking the mucous membrane, it may develop into catarrh or lodging in the lungs lead to consumption. Come as it may, a faithful course of treatment with Hood's Sarsaparilla will overcome it, for working upon the foundation of all diseases, impure blood, the system is clarified and vitalized, and vigor, strength and health restored to the body.

Looking After the Game Laws.

It has been said, and truthfully, too, that there's no use in making laws unless they are enforced. Thursday, Game Wardens Sisty and Sebring detected two Italians shooting highholders on the mountain back of Dunellen, and they were forthwith arrested, arraigned and fined $20 and costs.

Can Be Used by Both.

Mayor Gilbert last night announced his decision in reference to the dispute between the American Volunteers and the Salvation Army as to whether or not the former should have exclusive use of the vacant lot near the Babcock building for open air meetings. The Mayor decided that the same plan which has been in vogue since the Volunteers were formed should be continued, which is the use of the ground on alternate nights by the two organizations.

Opening Up a New Territory.

Recently, New York parties purchased thirty acres of land on Clinton avenue for the purpose of grading and laying out the same for building sites. Yesterday, Contractor Bowden, with twenty-five men and seven teams commenced the above work. The property is near the Church of the Heavenly Rest, and will be most desirable when put into good shape.

A Democratic Mass Meeting.

In all probability there will be a very large attendance at the Democratic meeting in T. A. B. hall, corner Fourth and Liberty streets, this evening. Charles Lyman will preside at the meeting and Colonel Beckworth of Ohio, a life long Republican, and Hon. James E. Martine, of this city, will be the speakers of the evening. Mr. Martine will entertain Colonel Beckworth during his stay here.

ECHO OF THE CONVENTION

CHRISTIANS GATHER TO ENJOY THE AFTERMATH OF THE BIG EVENT.

The Immense Audience Rose Up Almost Solidly When Asked if They Had Been Bettered Spiritually by the Meetings.

The lowering sky of yesterday afternoon, with its foreboding of storm, had no effect on the earnestness and enthusiasm of the large number of Endeavorers who gathered in the Convention Hall, at 4:15 o'clock, to hold a convention echo meeting. The chorus choir crowded the platform and front seats, while the congregation filled almost the entire building. President E. E. Anthony presided over the meeting, Horace J. Martin led the singing, while William E. MacClymont acted as pianist, assisted by Whitney Frazee with the cornet.

The meeting began with the usual song service, the stirring Endeavor hymns ringing out with the old convention fervor. Scripture reading and prayer followed, then came a few very earnest words from President Anthony. He said that if any city in New Jersey had cause for thankfulness and self-congratulation, it was Plainfield. It had just witnessed one of the grandest conventions ever held, and listened to the finest speakers that could be heard. And now what would be the result of all these grand opportunities for spiritual uplift and increased consecration? Would all these young people merely say to one another, "What a splendid time we have had! Wasn't Moody fine? Wasn't Cortland Myers inspiring?" and then go back into inactivity and uselessness in their churches.

He then asked all those who felt that as a result of the past week's experiences their lives this coming winter ought to be better and more fruitful than ever in the past, to rise. Almost every one present responded. Then he said that it was not enough to feel that one ought to do these things; how many would promise to actually go forth and do them? Once more the greater part of the audience rose, the leader thanking them for this proof that the great convention should have lasting results, in the increased usefulness and beauty of character of those who attended it.

Ten minutes were now given to short, earnest testimonies, many Endeavorers telling how they had been helped by the convention, and of their desire for a more consecrated and helpful Christian life. Then each of the pastors present, Rev. Cornelius Schenck, Ph.D., Rev. J. W. Richardson, Rev. C. E. Herring, Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., and Rev. D. J Yerkes, D. D., spoke briefly and earnestly to the young people, emphasizing the increased responsibilities which the great privileges of the past week had laid upon them, and urging that they press onward with new energy in their service for Christ and his church. Ten minutes of prayer followed, many prayers being offered from all parts of the house.

One final hymn and Dr. Yerkes' benediction closed the meeting with which ended such a week as Plainfield Christians Endeavorers have never known.

THE G. A. R. FAIR.

The Event to be Held November 2d to 7th, Inclusive.

Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., have decided to hold their fair the first week in November. It will open Monday evening, the 2d, and close Saturday evening, the 7th. The place has not yet been decided upon, but probably will be in a few days. The committee in charge is composed of the following: Chairman, W. C. Suith; treasurer, W. W. Coriell; secretary, Andrew Cox; Charles Stephens, E. C. Morse and Charles Westphal. The Woman's Relief Corps have decided to assist all that is possible in making the fair a success and they will appoint a committee at the meeting next Friday evening. The Sons of Veterans will also assist. If possible it will be arrange so that the election returns will be received at the fair Tuesday evening, November 3d. The committee is well organized and doing splendid work in each department.

Recognized at Yale.

Plainfield is being well represented at Yale College this year by the party of young men who entered there from this city. Raymond A. McGee and Wm. M. McCutchen were both candidates for the freshmen team and the former secured a place on it which he kept until an accident, resulting in water on the knee, forced him to stop practice. McGee was one of two freshmen that were taken into the Yale Glee Club, where he sings second bass. The manager of the club was so pleased with McGee's voice that he suggested private lessons to him with a view that McGee should become a soloist of the club.

NOMINATED A MINISTER.

Rev. J. W. Wells the Free Silver Representative in the Third District.

Rev. J. W. Wells, the Presbyterian minister of Liberty Corner, captured the Congressional nomination at the convention of Democrats held at Somerville Saturday afternoon. Neither Monmouth nor Middlesex had a candidate for the honor, and in a caucus before the convention convened the Somerset county decided to abide by the unit rule. Rev. Mr. Wells had the support of the delegates from the agricultural districts and thus crowded Hiram O. Hance out of the race. The delegates from the farming communities said they had too many lawyers already in Congress and they were opposed to electing any more.

The convention passed resolutions endorsing the Chicago platform and candidates, and Rev. Mr. Wells addressed the delegates. He is well posted on the currency question and will doubtless make a strong canvass for election.

AT A RIPE OLD AGE.

Miss Margaret Ewing Dies at the Age of 99 Years—Conscious to the Last.

In connection with the death of Miss Margaret Ewing who died at her home in Fanwood Township last Thursday night, at the age of ninety nine years, there is quite a little history. Her death was quiet and peaceful. Last Thursday night she went to bed as usual, suffering from a two days illness but the next morning she was dead. She was the daughter of John Ewing, and she was one of eleven children, and the last of the family in the country. She had been a resident in this neighborhood for the past fifty years, living alternately with her nephews, Charles and William Thoms. She came here from Johnstone, Scotland, about fifty years ago.

In Scotland she was a member of the Presbyterian church, and to the faith she strictly adhered during her long residence here. She was one of God's chosen people, inasmuch as she had led a pure Christian life.

To Rebuild the Terrill Road Bridge.

Superintendent R. A. McCarthy and George Look, C. A. McCarthy, G. B. Stees, Geary Clemson, James Kelly, William Woodring, John Gorman, Wilson Ritter and Charles Walde, are all new arrivals at "Billy" Lee's West Side Hotel, Scotch Plains. They are railroad employes, and came from Pennsylvania to erect the new wagon road bridge over the Jersey Central tracks at Terrill road, to replace the one destroyed by fire several months ago. The bridge is to be of steel frame and girder, 30 feet wide and 100 feet long. The material is to be furnished by the Pennsylvania Steel Company, and it is expected that the new bridge will be completed with a month.

All Smoke; No Fire.

Saturday evening, shortly before 7 o'clock, a young man, whose name is unknown, saw volumes of smoke coming from the rooms over Ulrich & Blatz's meat market. Thinking the building was on fire he secured a key and pulled Box 12. The department responded quickly and an investigation showed that an employe of Mrs Soden, who conducts a clothing business at that place, was burning a surplus of old rags. This caused the room to be filled with smoke and it soon found its way out of the windows. The apparatus was not used and the recall was soon sent in.

Prominent Elizabethian Dies Suddenly.

Moses W. Mulford, a prominent lumber dealer of Elizabeth, dropped dead in his office this morning. His death was caused by heart failure. He was a prominent Democrat and was well known in this city and, during its existence, was one of the directors of the Middlesex Gun Club. He was about forty years of age.

The Best Yet Held.

E. E. Anthony, president of the Christian Endeavor Local Union and chairman of the '96 committee of arrangements for the State convention, is in receipt of a letter from Rev. J. Clement French, president of the State society, stating that the convention held here last week was the best yet held by the society.

To Have a Pleasant Opening.

At the opening of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. tomorrow evening, a string quartette composed of Messrs. Martin Korff, W. F. Gaston, M. D., G. W. V. Moy and J. F. Berg, M. D., will render several selections. Dr. Richards will address the gathering. All persons interested are invited to be present.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

LOST HOUSE AND HOME.

THE FAMILY OF JOHN WATSON JUST ESCAPE THE FIRE FIEND.

Were Awakened by the Stifling Smoke and Did Not Have Time to Save Any of Their Possessions—Partly Insured.

John Watson and his family, living in an old farm house on Clinton avenue, about a quarter of a mile outside of the city limits, were turned out of house and home this morning about 3 o'clock when the house and all the contents were entirely consumed by fire. Mr. Watson and the family were awakened by the smell of smoke and they had all that they could do to escape with their lives. They have no idea how the fire originated. Mr. Watson came to Plainfield this morning and informed E. C. Mulford and Son of the fire, as they hold an insurance on the house. Mr. Watson had about $40 in money and that was also consumed. When they discovered the fire they gathered together what clothes they could to put on, and it had to be done quickly.

The house was an old one and the wood being very dry, the flames succeeded in getting a good start. No one outside of the family knew anything about the fire until this morning when the fire department officials were notified. Chief Doane thinks it is strange that he was not called. As Mr. Watson has lost everything, he is unable to tell at present just what he will do until after the insurance is settled. The agents will visit the place today and determine the amount of insurance.

SALVATIONISTS AWHEEL.

The Cycle Brigade and Band Parade Saturday Night.

The cycle brigade and band from the New York headquarters of the Salvation Army visited the local corps Saturday afternoon and remained until this morning. Ensign Gooding, the captain of the brigade, was in command. Brigadier George French, chief divisional officer, Adjutant Rhinhardson, national cashier, and Ensign Gercopazzi, private secretary to Mrs. Booth-Tucker, were also present and assisted at the meetings here.

The bicycle band rode out on their wheels and expected to arrive in time for a parade at 4:30 o'clock. Several punctures had to be repaired and so they did not arrive until an hour after that time. A parade was held in the evening and a large number attended the meeting that followed. Good meetings were held yesterday and largely attended, despite the heavy rain in the evening.

JUST SIXTEEN.

Miss Louise Wilbur Tendered a Dinner Party on Her Birthday.

Miss Louise Wilbur, daughter of ex Councilman and Mrs. S. P. T. Wilbur, of East Third street, celebrated the sixteenth anniversary of her birthday on Saturday, and in the evening her parents gave her a dinner party in honor of the event.

There was present only the intimate friends of the young hostess. After dinner the evening was passed in the playing of games, interspersed with vocal and instrumental music. Miss Wilbur received several handsome and costly presents as tokens of regard. Those present were Miss Josie Banks, Miss Nettie Chandler, of this city; Miss Gertrude Fursman, of Cranford; Fred Bettman, Ernest Duffy and Ralph Tolles. When the guests departed they wished their hostess many happy returns of the day.

A GOLD STANDARD MAN.

Frankin Noyes, Financial Editor of the Post, to be Nominated by Petition.

The petition for the nomination of Franklin Noyes for Congressman in this district was circulated in Plainfield last week by the National Democratic Association and some fifty names were secured in a few days without difficulty. The number of names required by law has been secured and the nomination will now be filed with the Secretary of State. Mr. Noyes is a resident of Montclair and is the Financial Editor of the New York Evening Post, being the author of the "Free Coinage Catechism" issued by that paper.

Transfers and Contracts.

The following transfers of real estate were recorded in Union County Clerk Howard's office, during the seven days ending with October 7: William H. Moore et ux to Maria Kuenlen, Plainfield, lot West Front street, $2,500; Sarah A. Dickinson to Annie B. Mills, lot Carleton avenue, $622,50; Fred C. Lounsbury et ux to Lemuel W. Serrel, lot Plainfield avenue $3,000. The following contracts were filed for seven days ending October 7: John Abbott, with S. L Schoonmaker, mason, carpenter, tinning, etc., house Plainfield, $26,900; John M. Mortimer with Galbraith & Walsh, plumbing and heating house, Plainfield, $385.

PLAINFIELD WINS AGAIN

THE Y. M. C. A. FOOTBALL TEAM DEFEATED DUNELLEN'S ELEVEN.

The Score Was 34 to 0 and the Plainfield Boys Had No Trouble in Making It—How Both Clubs Were Lined Up.

The advantages of team play were manifest at the football game on the local grounds Saturday afternoon when the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. defeated the Dunellen football team by a score of 34 to 0. The Dunellen boys had never played together before, but were good individual players. The Plainfield line was as a stone wall to them, however, while the Y. M. C. A. backs managed to get around the end in a remarkably short space of time, thanks to good interference. Lovell was tried at quarter and handled the ball quickly and without fumbling. In the last half Freeman took his turn there. Darling had not quite recovered from his injuries of last week and Dupee was put back at full. He did excellent work, especially in punting, when he far outkicked his opponents. The teams lined up as follows:

PLAINFIELD Y. M. C. A.		DUNELLEN.
Serrell	right end	H. Richardson
Titsworth	right tackle	Craig—Kaufer
Brown	right guard	G. Richardson
Cuming	centre	Kashlyne
Milne	left guard	McNabb
McClure	left tackle	Anten
Peck	left end	D. Richardson
Lovell	quarter back	Perrine
Freeman (Cap)	right half back	Hardingham
Smith	left half back	Thomas
Dupee	full back	Negus

Touchdowns—Smith 2; Dupee 2; Freeman. Serrell. Goals—Lovell 5. Referee—Volney F. Green. Umpire—Louis Darling. Linesmen—A. Willis West, Carroll Barton.

Freeman chose the western goal and Dunellen took the ball. In three minutes after play was called the ball had been carried to Dunellen's 30-yard line and then Smith was sent around the right end. The interference carried him through the line and then he raced away to the goal line, scoring the first touchdown, Lovell easily kicked the goal. Score—Y. M. C. A., 6; Dunellen, 0.

Lovell caught the ball on the kick-off and returned it. The ball changed hands several times and then Negus tried to kick. The kick was blocked and Cuming fell on it. Smith again circled the right end, and after a run of 30 yards crossed the line, the interference following him to the line. Lovell kicked the goal. Score—Y. M. C. A., 12; Dunellen, 0.

McClure and Milne made pretty gains and the ball changed hands on a blocked kick. Negus kicked weakly and Smith caught. Time was called with the ball in Plainfield's possession on Dunellen's 25 yard line. In the second half Lovell kicked and Hardingham returned it. The local team then rushed the ball right up the field Smith was thrown on his side on the hard surface of the old baseball diamond, and retired. Serrell took his place and Pope was put at end. At last Dupee was pushed through centre for a touchdown. Lovell kicked the goal. Score—Y. M C. A., 18; Dunellen, 0.

Milne caught the ball and carried half the opposing team on his back for several yards before they could down him. Dupee was carried around right end by good interference and ran sixty yards to the goal line, making another touchdown. Thomas almost caught him, but Freeman was too quick and saved the runuer by timely interference. Lovell kicked the goal. Score—Y. M. C. A., 24; Dunellen, 0.

After five minutes of play Freeman gained a clear field and ran forty-five yards before Kashlyne tackled him. He fell across the line. Lovell missed the goal, which was a hard one. Score—Y. M. C. A., 28; Dunellen, 0. Plainfield kicked at every chance. Milne carried the ball through tackle for twelve yards and then Serrell was pushed over the line. Lovell kicked the goal. Score—Y. M. C. A., 34; Dunellen, 0.

Plainfield's kicking game was continued. Time was called with the ball on Dunellen's thirty-yard line in their possession. Halves of fifteen and twenty minutes were played.

DR. LEWIS FORMALLY ACCEPTS.

Tract Society Notified of His Willingness to Become National Lecturer.

At a meeting of the executive board of the American Sabbath Tract Society, held in the Seventh Day Baptist church, yesterday afternoon, Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis formally accepted the call of the general conference of the church to become National lecturer for the propagation of Sabbath reform in the United States. He will commence his duties very shortly and they will take him all over the country.

Rev. Dr. A. E. Main, of Arkaway, Rhode Island, has been selected to supply the pulpit of the church for a period of six months, or until April, 1897, when the annual meeting of the church will choose a successor to Dr. Lewis.

HOT STRUGGLE IN UNION.

Trouble in Republican Circles Because Elizabeth Wants All the Nominees.

The struggle for the Republican nomination for Sheriff of Union county promises to be one of the hottest on record. There are now five candidates in the field—William T. Kirk, of Plainfield; ex Freeholder Robert Houston, former Sheriff Fred Glasby and Captain Joseph G. Ogden, of Elizabeth, and Freeholder John Frrrell, of Rahway. The latter is not exerting himself, but is posing in the light of the dark horse. He has many friends who think he may stand a show if the fight becomes too bitter among the leading candidates.

The real battle lies between Kirk, of Plainfield, and Houston, of Elizabeth. The Plainfield men have blood in their eyes, and say it must be Kirk. Elizabeth, they declare, wants entirely too much, and the other parts of the county are getting tired of this thing. The supporters of Kirk point out the fact that it is Plainfield that always rolls up the Republican majority that pulls the ticket through, and they now demand recognition. The indications today are that Rahway will fall solidly into line in support of Plainfield's candidate.

Elizabeth now has the Congressional nominee, expects also to furnish the Senatorial candidate, and the rest of the county think that is quite enough.

The Democrats of course, would be delighted to see all the Republican candidates taken from Elizabeth, as that would make a sectional issue, and they are purposely holding back the calling of their county convention until they see what the Republicans are going to do.

BOOT WAS ON THE OTHER LEG.

McCauley, Who Prosecuted a Neighbor, Gets a Taste of His Own Medicine.

Alexander McCauley, of Scotch Plains, who gained so much unenviable notoriety among his neighbors for his prosecution of his old neighbor, Carl Bierstetter, whose chickens had eaten some of McCauley's corn, was himself brought before Judge Clark Saturday in a suit for damages brought by Philip Radin, a neighbor.

From the evidence presented it appeared that the young sons of McCauley had frequently walked over the grounds of Radin, as a short cut to their house, and in so doing had destroyed a tomato vine. Radin had afterward said that he would give McCauley a taste of his own sauce, served out on the old German, and hence the suit.

Judge Clark said he believed that the suit was brought solely to annoy McCauley, but the latter's own admissions left the Court no other course to pursue than to render a verdict for Radin, which he did for the sum of six cents and costs, which were paid by McCauley, who was loud in his criticisms.

SEEN ONLY IN THE MIND NOW.

The Old Freighthouse Removed From the North Avenue Station.

The old freighthouse has gone and no one regrets the fact one bit. Yesterday morning about 8 o'clock it was transferred to several flat cars and a half hour later it had reached its destination in the West End. Only two tracks were blocked at the time and very little trouble was experienced in the work. The old structure has not yet been placed in its proper position, but stands away from the tracks on the embankment near Plainfield avenue. The place of its former location will now be cleared of the old rubbish and prepared for the erection of a handsome station.

About the Convention.

The Rev. Dr. Yerkes of the First Baptist church, in his sermon yesterday morning on "Personality," referring to the recent convention services and the marked personality of Mr. Moody, said, any lasting good that would result from the convention, would depend on the personal piety, consecration and effort of those who had been interested in the services and who would carry this personal influence and power in their homes, in business and in society.

The Press Appreciated.

Rev. J. Clement French, President of the State Christian Endeavor Society, sends The Press the following testimonial of its enterprise in covering last week's convention in detail:

"Let me express my high appreciation of the fine enterprise and generosity which marked your reports of the great Christian Endeavor convention."

Another Bicycle Stolen.

Miss Eleanor Williams, of West Seventh street, is mourning the loss of her wheel. Last Thursday night the wheel was left outdoors all night and the next morning there was no wheel to be found. It was a ladies' Crescent Special. There is no trace of the thief

FARMER JIM'S HOT SHOT.

TURNED HIS ORATORICAL BATTERY ON REPUBLICANS AND BOLTERS.

The Democrats at the Mass-Meeting Gave Him a Great Ovation—Many Local Hits Worked in His Address for Free Silver.

The local supporters and advocates of William Jenning Bryan and free silver assembled in T. A. B. Hall on West Fourth street, Saturday evening, and held a rousing mass-meeting. The sentiments of that portion of the Democratic party were proclaimed in no uncertain tones and those present were enthusiastic to the highest point imaginable.

When James E. Martine entered the hall escorting Hon. J. S. Beckwith, of Ohio, round after round of applause was given.

Mr. Martine called the meeting to order and Charles H. Lyman was made chairman. When he took the position of honor the heartiest applause was accorded him. Mr. Lyman spoke somewhat as follows:

"Gentlemen, I consider it an honor to preside over a meeting of this kind, which stands for the principles of William Jennings Bryan and his party. I am a good American citizen and would fight for my country if necessary. I stand on the Chicago platform first, last and all times, no matter what the enemy calls me."

Hon. J. S. Beckwith, of Ohio, was then introduced by Mr. Lyman, and again loud applause was given. The address of Mr. Beckwith was substantially as follows:

"I am a good deal Ohio and considerable New Jersey. I am here tonight to help drive out of this country a pack of wolves. I have been a Republican since the party was known and was one of the original forty. The delegates who went to St. Louis wanted free silver. A certain delegate present said, 'We have an Ohioan of whom we think a great deal, but you can't place him in nomination unless you swallow our gold-coated pill. The pill was taken and it made many sick at their stomach, and I am one of those who was made sick. I am a Republican, but I am here to plead the cause of the Democrats. There were eight-tenths of every State that declared for bimetalism, but the Republicans revolted and repudiated. They are not Republicans, for they want to help England instead of the American citizen and his country. I am now an old man and you may wonder why I am here. I will tell you. It is because the present issue is more serious than any since the war. It is a contest of the American citizen to be freed from a moneyed power. You people of the east are only new in the fight. You have not felt the effects of the enemy like we have in the west, where heart-rending scenes have been witnessed. Just think of potatoes selling for seven cents a bushel and onions for four cents a bushel. What kind of a living can a farmer make on such prices. It is one story like the Lord's Prayer, for the more times it is repeated the better it is. A trust, what is it? It takes away the rights from man to live. It won't let you have a match to light yout pipe without first fixing the price on it. Monopolists are reducing the soil producer to want, but we are going to build America anew. We have a responsible duty on our hands. The question is American freedom or gold oppression by wealth.

"All-wise Providence gave man coal, but the trust seized it and now families are obliged to suffer because they can't pay the price. Again, God is just, and he gave us oil. But the Standard Oil Company has seized the product of the Almighty and controls every gallon that is consumed. No American in Congress or out would have stricken the silver measure from our statute books unless he was under English control. Shall silver be restored? The swayback Democrat or nondescript has got around his neck a chain of gold, and we should bury them in a grave and mark it 'unknown-' They tell us we claim alone for free silver, but at Chicago you demanded free coinage of gold and silver. One is as fair as the other. Shall the money of our fathers be restored to us? Money is the product of God for man's use and a value has been placed upon it carefully and they went to the trouble of using the French scale to do it, and silver has been kept at a parity with gold all the way through. Money is life and the blood of the nation. The colors white and yellow are significant, and white and yellow it shall remain for the American people. In 1874 silver money was drawn out of body politic, and we are now here to send John Sherman out of remembrance. Anyone that says aught against McKinley is doing so against an honest man, but anyone

BRYAN IS CONFIDENT

Has No Doubt of the Result of the Presidential Campaign.

PROMINENT MEN CALL UPON HIM

His Programme for the Remainder of the Canvass Made Public—The Candidate Will Spend Election Day at Lincoln.

St. Paul, Minn., Oct. 12.—There were many callers this morning upon William J. Bryan, but having had a good rest yesterday he is now in shape to continue the arduous work of the remaining days of the campaign. He is cheerful and confident of the result, as are the many friends who called upon him yesterday and this morning. Among the prominent men in this city to confer with Mr. Bryan are Senator Watson of Washington, Senator Tillman of South Carolina, Ignatius Donnelly and representative Chas. A. Towne. A general outline of Mr. Bryan's programme for the remainder of the campaign has been made out. It is as follows, subject to change: Minneapolis to Duluth, Tuesday, October 13, Wisconsin and the northern Michigan peninsula October 14, speaking at Marquette in the evening. From Marquette to Grand Rapids, October 15; Grand Rapids to Lansing, October 16; Grand Rapids to Detriot, October 17; Detroit, Saturday night and Sunday; through Ohio, October 19 and 20; through Indiana, October 21 and 22; Illinois from October 23 to 30, going as far south as Cairo and spending the 28th, 29th and 30th in Chicago; leave Chicago 10:30 p. m. October 30 for Council Bluffs, Ia., and speak there on the afternoon or night of the 31st; Sunday, November 1, probably in Omaha; Monday night, November 2, will end the campaign somewhere in Nebraska, probably at Kearney; election day, Lincoln.

SENATOR BLACKBURN ILL.

May Not Be Able To Make Any More Campaign Speeches This Year.

Versailles, Ky., Oct. 12.—Senator Blackburn is confined to bed very sick from throat and lung trouble, the result of a cold contracted at Tammany Hall, New York, last week. He had high fever last night and his physicians have forbade him seeing anybody. Mr. Blackburn became ill Friday at Mount Vernon, where he had an appointment to speak. Doctors say he may not be able to make any more speeches before election.

Murderous Fight Near Scranton.

Scranton, Pa., Oct. 12.—The brutal and murderous fight, which occurred Saturday night in the outskirts of Dunmore, resulted in the fatal shooting of George Schimma, who is now dying at the hospital in this city. A ball lodged in his head and he was also stabbed in various portions of his body. Over a dozen other men were injured, several quite severely, in the melee. A Hungarian boarding house keeper and a German saloon keeper are suspected of having done the shooting, but they have not as yet been arrested.

Found After Six Years.

Medford, Mass., Oct. 12.—Frank T. Lynch, who disappeared from his home in New York city six years ago when 16 years old, and of whom all trace was lost until last month, when a letter was received by his family from him, has been found here and will go at once to his parents' home. Lynch has been at work on the boulevard now being built near Mystic lake. He will say nothing as to why he left home.

Death of Capt. Lawrence Frazee.

New York, Oct. 12.—Lawrence Fisher Frazee, one of the oldest and best known steamboat captains in this vicinity, is dead at his home in Jersey City. Capt. Frazee was born in New Brunswick, N. J., on May 22, 1813. Capt. Frazee invented a life raft which was adopted by the United States government and the safety gates which are now used on ferry boats.

Against Tynan's Extradition.

London, Oct. 12.—The Morning Post to-day publishes a dispatch from Paris saying that at the next meeting of the cabinet M. Darlau, minister of justice, will recommend the rejection of the British demand for the extradition of Patrick J. Tynan, the alleged dynamiter, who is now under arrest at Boulogne-sur-Mer.

Work for 1,300 Men.

Anderson, Ind., Oct. 12.—The American Plate Glass plant at Alexandria now the largest in the world, since it was rebuilt and extended this summer, resumed this morning. Five hundred hands will be employed to begin with. The American Wire Nail company of Anderson put on their full force of 800 men this morning.

Heavy Storm on the Coast.

New York, Oct. 12.—The heavy storm which burst upon the Atlantic coast from Cape Henlopen to Maine ports yesterday continues with unabated fury this morning. Advices from many points along the coast report much damage done, and that there is grave doubts as to the safety of several vessels.

Motor Omnibuses in London.

London, Oct. 12.—The London Road Car company, which runs 900 omnibuses, intends eventually to do away with the use of horses in its business and to run motor omnibuses. A hundred of these vehicles will be placed on the streets in November and 300 more in January.

Snow in the West.

Omaha, Neb., Oct. 12.—Reports to the railroads on the weather show that it is cold and that in some parts of the west there is snow.

WHEAT, RYE, BARLEY AND OATS.

Large Decrease in the World's Product of Four Principal Cereals.

Washington, Oct. 12.—United States Consul General Karel, at St. Petersburg, has supplied the state department with exhaustive statistics of the world's wheat harvest of 1896. His figures, he explains, are in cases preliminary and approximate, only based in instances on last year's returns. They show that in general the harvest of 1896 decreased 185,485,543 bushels as compared with the harvest of 1895. The harvest in the United States, Canada, Argentine, Uruguay, Chili, Australia and the East Indies show a decrease of 165,322,959 bushels. Of the European production countries, Russia only shows a large decrease of 56,575,467 bushels. The countries of consumption harvested 37,205,123 bushels more than last year; only Spain and Portugal among them had a bad crop. France harvested nearly as much as last year, while an increase is observed only in Italy and Great Britain. The decrease is attributed to reduction in the wheat acreage, owing to the low price of the last three years. The rye harvest shows a still greater decrease proportionately, it being estimated at 154,765,714 bushels. A decrease in oats and barley is also noticeable but not to so great an extent. The exports of cereals from Russia during the first eight months of 1896 show a big decrease compared with the preceding year, being 192,440,651 bushels, as against 241,254,578 bushels.

THE WORLD'S SUGAR CROP.

Estimated at 7,069,765 Tons, 138,605 Tons Less Than in 1895.

Washington, Oct. 12.—A report received at the department of state from consul Eugene Germain, stationed at Zurich, gives the estimates of the world's sugar crop for the season 1895-96, as calculated by the Deutsche Zuckerindustrie, a paper devoted to sugar interests. The estimate places the crop at 7,069,756 tons, against 8,208,361 tons for the previous season. In this estimate the beet sugar-producing countries, excluding the United States, participated to the amount of 4,236,100 tons, against 4,688,500 in 1894-95. The visible world's supply, excluding the new crops, but including cargoes afloat, is estimated to be 1,331,306 tons, as against 1,500,413 tons last year this time.

THE PHILIPPINE REVOLT.

One-Sixteenth of the Entire Population Combine Against Spanish Rule.

Madrid, Oct. 12.—The Imparcial has received advices from Manila showing that the situation in the Philippine islands is serious. He adds that the rebels have formed lodges in every place of any importance, and that the membership of these organizations is 500,000, which is about one-sixteenth of the entire population of the islands, men, women and children. Murder and outrage are everywhere rife. There is much opposition, even among the loyal element, to Capt.-Gen. Blanco, and threats have been made to expel him, and substitute in his stead the Archbishop of Manila.

NEW PROCESS NICKEL ARMOR.

Test Made with Plates Treated with a Secret Process Not Satisfactory.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The naval ordnance bureau Saturday began an experimental test with two nickel steel armor-plates made by the Carnegie company. The plates are treated by a new and secret process, the proportions of nickel and steel differing from those of any plates heretofore made. The test was made with 8 and 12-inch guns at a high velocity, averaging over 1,900 feet per second. The plates were penetrated and cracked in places and did not entirely meet the high expectations entertained, but further experiments will be made.

German Emigration.

Hamburg, Oct. 12.—The officials who have been charged with the duty of considering the emigration question are agreed upon the principle of the establishment of a special office, forming a sort of board of emigration. The matter of emigration is now normally under the supervision of the home office, which lacks the means of dealing with the question adequately. One of the functions of the new board will be to direct German emigration into proper channels. In plain language, this will be to divert emigration from America and Australia to the German-American colonies.

New York Methodist Conference.

Towanda, Pa., Oct. 12.—The Sunday services of the Central New York Methodist conference were largely attended, many hundreds from the surrounding country coming to the meetings. Bishop Newman preached in the morning and in the afternoon conducted an impressive ordination service, eight being ordained as elders and three as deacons. All the Evangelical churches of the place were addressed by prominent members of the conference.

Germans Defeat the Wahehe Tribe.

Berlin, Oct. 12.—Col. Trotha, commanding the German troops in German East Africa, has had another engagement with the Wahehe tribe with the result that he has completely routed them, making a prisoner of the Wahehe chief and carrying him off to Dar-es-Salam.

Ex-Gov. St. John's Son Dead.

Oklahoma City, O. T., Oct. 12.—Harry St. John, son of ex-Gov. St. John of Kansas, is dead here of la grippe. At the time of his death young St. John was under indictment for the murder of his wife.

Bishop Keane's Successor.

Rome, Oct. 12.—It is reported here that the Right Rev. John L. Spalding, bishop of Peoria, will succeed Bishop Keane as rector of the Catholic university in Washington.

HUMOROUS.

—Practical.—Chawley Gotrocks—"My dearest Margaret, I love you tenderly, devotedly. Your smiles would shed—" Margaret—"Never mind the woodshed. How about a residence built for two?"—Washington Times.

—Mrs. Colonial Dame—"I am proud to say that my grandfather made his mark in the world." Mrs. Rev. Lution—"Well I guess he wasn't the only man in those days who couldn't write his name."—Northwest Magazine.

—"I demand to be recognized!" screamed the memberess from the Umpty-eighth district. "Impossible," said the speakeress, looking freezingly through he lorgnette; "the lady is not in our set."—Cincinnati Enquirer.

—"Gracious!" said the summer boarder. "What is that tower with the great wheel on top of it?" "That there is a windmill" the farmer explained. "Really? About how much wind will it turn out in a day?"—Indianapolis Journal.

—"Isn't the country air perfectly lovely?" The Modern Girl shrugged her shoulders coldly. "Oh, I don't know," she rejoined; "I had my wheel inflated with it this morning, and I don't notice much difference."—Detroit Tribune.

—Clever Popkins.—"Popkins is a clever fellow." "What has he done now?" "He's put a spring gun in his back yard, a burglar alarm at every window, an electric mat at each door, and a bulldog in the kitchen. It cost money, but he accomplished the purpose he aimed at." "What was that?" "He's got the hired girl so scared that she's afraid to stay out late at night."—Cleveland Plain Dealer.

UP-TO-DATE BURGLAR.

Breaks Into Safes with Machinery and Saves Time.

The modern burglar is adopting modern appliances. The jimmy bids fair to become a relic of the past before long. A recent burglary in France illustrates this fact, says the New York Journal.

A gang of ingenious cracksmen entered a banker's office armed with a steel saw of the newest construction and a handy little gas engine. There was no need for the exercise of muscle, nor was there any necessity for a good strong wrist at the saw as there was at one time in the annals of famous robberies.

The little engine was started, the saw put in the proper place, and the connections made. Seating themselves serenely upon a couple of chairs near at hand, these modern burglars watched the true and rapid work of their appliances.

The big safe might have resisted for hours the force of human hands, but the saw, impelled by the engine, it could not stand against. It promptly yielded up its contents of over $3,000 worth of gold and bonds, and in a quarter of the time it would have taken to have committed the robbery under the old conditions the burglars were well out of the building with their booty.

Photography and Ducks.

Photography is killing more ducks than are hunters is an alarming claim made by an enthusiastic sportsman, who goes on to explain that the universal practice of photography is creating an immense demand for an albumen in finishing the pictures, and that this albumen can be produced only from eggs. The eggs from the ordinary domestic hen are too valuable for food to be sacrificed to art, and as a consequence the breeding grounds of wild birds are gleaned for the desired fluid. The Hebrides islands of Scotland, Lofoden of Norway, Labrador, Greenland, South America and all other extensive haunts of large birds are robbed constantly by the natives or men from sailing expeditions, and the result is especially hard on the ducks. Labrador is a particularly unfortunate land in this connection, for the miles of crowded nests offer an irresistible temptation to the egg hunters.

A Great Battle.

Do consumptives recover? Yes, thousands of them. Even after the disease has a firm hold? Yes, no doubt about it. After cavities have been formed and hemorrhages have occurred? Yes, even then. If the system is too weak, the disease will probably conquer, but if the body can be reinforced there is a fair chance for a winning fight. For twenty years, thousands have testified how they gained the victory.

Scott's Emulsion

of Cod-liver Oil with the Hypophosphites is still coming to the rescue. Out-door life, fresh air, and good pluck are of immense value. But in addition to these the body must be supplied with that peculiar kind of fat which is found only in cod-liver oil; combined with valuable medicinal agents; and there must be the tonic effect which comes from the hypophosphites. It is a great battle, and a great victory is often gained.

SIGNS OF APPROACHING AGE

How a Man Showed That He Was Growing Old Without Knowing It.

A man, apparently slightly past middle life, whose hair was tinged with gray and noticeably thin on top, sat near me at the theater. As the curtain rose for the first time a spectacled man of about the same age entered and occupied the vacant seat between us. He looked at the other fixedly. The look was exchanged, and in a second each had the other cordially by the hand. The conversation told me that they had been schoolmates who had not met in many years.

"By Jove, Charlie!" exclaimed the first, "it does me good to see you. You haven't changed much more than I have and I am not a day older than when we got our diplomas."

"I can't quite agree with you, Tom," answered the other, "but I don't feel very old yet. I see you still enjoy the theater, and expect you have kept up your literary taste for the last 30 years?"

"Thirty years!" repeated Tom. "How the years fly! Do you remember how they used to drag? Theaters! Well, I do go now and then, but the plays and acting are not what they used to be. As to books, I still read them, but none of the modern trash. There hasn't been a good book written for a quarter of a century. The new ones give me the dyspepsia worse than what I eat. Do you remember the meals we had on the old Vermont farm? Those were happy days! Thirty years and more ago! Strange; but I don't show a sign of age. I wonder where this confounded draught is coming from. I feel neuralgia on top of my head now."

"Tom, old boy," replied the other, "you are deceiving yourself, for you have shown marked signs of approaching age within three minutes. Your belief that theaters and actors have degenerated, that new books are below the standard, that childhood, cooking was perfection and that time flies so very fast are all indications that you are on the downhill side of life. The slight draught that you say brings a tinge of neuralgia to the top of your head, where, I notice, the hair is rather thin, wouldn't have been thought of 30 years ago. Then here you are in the very front seats of a theater. No use denying the signs, Tom. We are getting along, and must admit what others plainly see."—N. Y. Herald.

The Prince's Cast-Off Clothing.

As the prince of Wales has set the pace in fashion for many years past, it is something of interest to know how his purchases are made. According to one of the British papers the prince never orders less than eight suits of clothes at a time, for each of which he pays the uniform price of $40. He never wears a pair of trousers more than four times, and since his valet does not fall heir to his discarded wardrobe, and as his discarded clothes are not among the perquisites of his valet, there is a stock of thousands of them at Marlborough house. At his death he will doubtless have as large a collection as did King George IV., the auction of whose clothes extended through three weeks. All the prince's clothes, old and new, except his hats, which for some reason are kept at Sandringham—are stored at Marlborough house in what is known as the "brushing-rooms," where several men are kept busy looking after them. The uniforms and state robes alone at Marlborough house are insured for $20,000, so that his entire wardrobe must represent a very comfortable fortune.—Detroit Free Press.

SATOLLI AT HIGHLAND FALLS.

The Cardinal Celebrates Mass, Is Dined and Visits West Point.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Oct. 12.—At 8 o'clock this morning Cardinal Satolli again said mass in Father O'Keeffe's church and then went to West Point to witness a cavalry drill in the riding academy. Late this afternoon the cardinal will take the Central limited express at Garrisons for New York. Cardinal Satolli had a very delightful day yesterday. At 8 o'clock he said mass at the Church of the Sacred Heart and at 11:30 crossed over the river to the country residence of Hon. Hamilton Fish, where luncheon was served. He returned to West Point at 4 o'clock and witnessed dress parade by the battalion of cadets from the piazza at Col. Ernst's quarters after which he was entertained at Capt. Bellinger's quarters and then shown through the cadets' mess and barracks. Last night the cardinal was dined at the parish rectory by Rev. Father O'Keeffe. There were also present several prominent army officers.

PALMER AND BUCKNER'S TOUR.

Most of the Present Week To Be Devoted to Indiana.

Chicago, Oct. 12.—Gens. Palmer and Buckner will devote their attention today, to-morrow, Wednesday and Thursday to Indiana. They left here this morning over the Michigan Central railroad, making the first stop at Hammond. They will then go to Elkhart for a night demonstration. To-morrow they will visit South Bend, Plymouth, Logansport, Delphi, Lafayette and Lebanon, arriving in Indianapolis at 6:35 p. m. The start for Wednesday's journey will be made from Indianapolis at 10 a. m., taking in Anderson, Marion, Hartford City, Muncie, Newcastle and reaching Richmond at 5:45 p. m., where they will stay over night. Thursday's trip will take the party to Rushville, Shelbyville, Columbus, Seymour, Scottsburg and Jeffersonville. From there they will cross the Ohio river to Louisville, Ky.

TO BE ALTERED TO A CRUISER.

The Flagship Charleston, After Years of Service, Will Be Entirely Overhauled.

Washington, Oct. 12.—The flagship Charleston is to be altered to a single command cruiser at the navy yard at Mare Island, Cal. The vessel will also be put in thorough repair after seven years of the most arduous service of any ship in the navy, the work requiring eight months time and the expenditure of $200,000. The Charleston has been continually on the go since she was commissioned, Dec. 26, 1889. Besides her chase after the Itata and her long run to attend the naval review at Hampton Roads, she has steamed up and down the Pacific coast of this continent several times, made two voyages to China, and had tours to Hawaii during the exciting times there.

Humbert's Brother To Visit Us.

New York, Oct. 12.—Luigi, duca degli Abruzzi, the third son of the late Amadeus, Duke of Aosta, and brother of King Humbert of Italy, is expected here within the next two weeks, and arrangements have been made to give a dinner in his honor by the united Italian societies of this city. The duke is a lieutenant in the Italian navy, and the vessel to which he is attached is coming here from South American ports. She is expected about Oct. 24. Baron Fava, the Italian minister to the United States, is to come here to meet the prince, and the Italian societies will give a dinner in honor of the prince in the concert hall of Madison Square Garden on the evening of Oct. 31.

Levering To Stump the South.

Baltimore, Oct. 12.—Joshua Levering, the prohibition candidate for president, will begin his stumping tour through the south this afternoon, when he will leave for Alexandria., where he has an engagement to speak to-night. Mr. Lovering will be gone until the end of the month and during his absence will speak in seven states. He is in splendid trim physically and mentally for his tour and is promised a cordial welcome.

EXPIRED IN CHURCH

Primate of All England Succumbs to Apoplexy at Hawarden.

STRICKEN IN MR. GLADSTONE'S PEW

Carried to the Rectory, Where Death Occurred Almost Immediately—Brief Sketch of the Career of the Distinguished Prelate.

London, Oct. 12.—The Archbishop of Canterbury, primate of all England and metropolitan, the Right Hon. and Most Rev. Edward White Benson, D. D., and privy councillor, died suddenly yesterday while attending divine service in the church at Hawarden. The archbishop was the guest of Mr. Gladstone, through whom he was appointed to the archbishopric of Canterbury, and, in company with the Gladstone family, went to the Hawarden church. After the service had commenced a commotion was noticed in the Gladstone pew, and immediately thereafter church attendants were seen removing the archbishop, who, it was supposed, was suffering from a fit. He was taken to the rectory and medical assistance was hastily summoned. The doctors worked over him in vain and in a few minutes he expired. The physicians state that death was caused by apoplexy.

Appeared in the Best of Health.

The archbishop and his wife arrived at Hawarden castle, Mr. Gladstone's residence, Saturday evening. They had just come from the north of Ireland, where they had been visiting, and intended to make a short stay at Hawarden. The archbishop appeared to be enjoying the best of health. He attended communion at the Hawarden church at 8 o'clock yesterday morning and then returned to the castle where he partook of breakfast with Mr. Gladstone and his family. Later he walked through the park to attend the morning service. The Rev. Stephen Gladstone, the rector of the church, continued the service until he received a message from the rectory that the archbishop was dead. He then closed the service with the prayer for the dead from the burial service. As the congregation were leaving the church the organist played a dead march and a muffled peal was rung on the bell.

Esteemed by All Sects.

The death was announced in many of the Episcopal and other churches in London and the provinces at last night's services, and much regret was expressed everywhere. Archbishop Benson was esteemed by all sects for his moderation and broadmindedness. The death of the archbishop was announced at St. Paul's, London, at the afternoon service. Dean Farrar paid an impressive tribute to the deceased archbishop in Canterbury cathedral. He said, among other things, that of Archbishop Benson's more than ninety predecessors none was endowed with more graceful learning, more charming geniality, or holier or truer wisdom.

Sketch of Archbishop Benson's Life.

The Right Hon. and Most Rev. Edward White Benson, D. D., was born near Birmingham, in 1829. He was educated at King Edward's school, Birmingham, and at Trinity college, Cambridge, of which he was successively scholar and fellow, and where he graduated B. A. in 1852, as a first-class in classical honors, and senior chancellor's medallist, obtaining also the place of a senior optime in the mathemetical tripos. He graduated M. A. in 1855, B. D. in 1862 and D. D. in 1867, Hon. D. C. L. (Oxford), 1884. He was for some years one of the masters in Rugby school, and he held the head-mastership of Wellington college from its first opening in 1858 down to 1872. For several years he was examining chaplain to the late bishop of Lincoln, by whom he was appointed chancellor and canon residentiary of Lincoln, having been a prebendary of the same cathedral for three years previous. He was select preacher to the university of Cambridge (1864, 1871, 1876, 1879 and 1882), and to the university of Oxford (1875-76), honorable caplain to the queen, 1873, and chaplain in ordinary, 1875-77. In December, 1876, he was nominated by the crown, on the recommendation of the Earl of Beaconsfield, to the newly-restored bishopric of Truro, and was consecrated in St. Paul's cathedral, April 25, 1877. The diocese, which was taken out of the diocese of Exeter, consists of the county of Cornwall, the Isle of Scilly, and five parishes of Devonshire, constituting the old archdeaconry of Cornwall, with the church of St. Mary, Truro, as a cathedral. During his occupation of the see he began the building of a new cathedral at Truro, of which the outward shell has cost over £100,000, much of that sum having been gathered through the energy of the bishop. In December, 1882, Dr. Benson was appointed by the crown, on Mr. Gladstone's recommendation, to the archbishopric of Canterbury, in succession to Dr. Tait. He has published several religious works. The annual value of the see of Canterbury is $75,000, and the archbishop is the patron of 195 livings. Archbishop Benson was a member of the Athenaeum and Grillions clubs. In addition to his archepiscopal residence at Lambeth palace, he had a seat at Addington park, Croyden, Surrey.

ATTACKED BY A FOX.

A West Dunellen Man's Experience in a Hen Coop at Midnight.

Let the would-be hunters exhibit their skill, for Dunellen now has a real live fox and it is not tame either. Tom Jackson, a colored man employed on the Lyons farm in West Dunellen, is willing to swear as to the realness of the fox and can show the mark of the fox's teeth on his leg.

Last Thursday night Tom heard a noise in his chicken coop. He lives in a little house not far from the Lyons residence. It was midnight but Tom started out to investigate. He looked in the coop and something rushed at him and grabbed his leg. The faint light of his lantern showed it to be an animal of some kind. In his fright, Tom thought it was a panther or a bear at least, and gave a terrible kick at the creatures ribs. He kicked so hard that he sat down and the fox, for such it was, picked itself up and took its departure. Six chickens were missing. Tom saw the creature the next night wandering about the vicinity of the hen house but out of the reach of Tom's boot.

Mr. Stahl Explains.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—In the News of Saturday was published an account of the fire in Washingtonville, for which there was an alarm in the borough from Box 145 and not from Box 142, as stated. They state that when the alarm was given I was at the box waiting for the apparatus to come so I could ride to the fire, and while waiting some one came along on horseback and told me the fire was out of the borough. They said I then exclaimed that Warren Engine does not roll. I want to deny the same and say that when the alarm was given I was at my house and from there went to Somerset street and took the car to the box. Finding no apparatus there, I returned to the engine house after inquiring why the engine did not roll, and was told that First Assistant Bodine had ordered otherwise. They also stated that some time ago we went to Greenbrook, very much out of the limits. I want to say that on the night of the Greenbrook fire we went as far as John Stine's farm, and from there we could see the fire was out of the borough. I might say that I have been told on good authority that after the alarm on Friday night their reporter was told who ordered the apparatus not to roll, and why he should give me credit for stopping the same, I do not know. I hope you will give this space in your paper today, as I want to be placed in the right light with people at large.

Honest Railroad Employes.

Miss Christie, one of the Christian Endeavorers from Paterson, to this city, during the late convention, dropped a wallet containing $7 in money and some other articles of value only to the owner, in the car while on her way here. She notified the railroad officials and after a little telegraphing, Manager Schermerhorn of the Western Union office here ascertained that the wallet and contents had been found by a car sweeper at Somerville. It was returned to ticket agent Nelson in this city and through him was returned to the rightful owner.

Walter Beekman, of St. Paul, started for his home today after a visit to his parents, Mr. and Mrs. John V. Beekman, of West Eighth street.

FARMER JIM'S HOT SHOT.

saying aught against Bryan is a slanderer. Sherman took one half of the blood out of the nation and in consequence gold has gone up and will continue to go up at the present rate. If I had a boy ten years old who wasn't intelligent enough to understand these questions I would send for a brain specialist. I stand here to tell you that when the American people pay her bonds in the money she promised to that is honor enough to take to my grave. In 1874-'75 we were threatened with a panic and wages went down. Farmers formed an alliance of which you are the outgrowth. It will take seventy-three years to get the amount of silver that Congress secured by two single acts. The gold men are too mean to believe in our country's power and they want to get England to help them out. We believe in the Stars and Stripes and we are independent of every nation on the face of the earth. We are told that Congressman Fowler secured money at 5 per cent and loaned it at 12 per cent. The English people will never run us as the Republican party want them to do, and we will not suffer any more. You may go vote for McKinley, you may vote for Bryan, or you needn't vote at all, but we shall put Bryan in power. Will you work that the American people shall be free and rule this nation?"

Loud and continued applause followed Mr. Beckworth's address. Then the crowd called for Mr. Martine, and amid deafening applause the Farmer Orator ascended to the platform, and it was fully five minutes before he could speak. Just before he commenced a man present exclaimed "the only real Democrat in Union county," referring to Mr. Martine. The speaker then continued in part as follows: "It wouldn't be Jim Martine if there was a Democratic meeting in town and he wasn't present and had something to say. A Republican speaker, Mr. Moody, while in this city recently took the trouble to speak of Jim Martine, by saying that he would sell his soul for a political job. Now, this man doesn't know me. Ever since I was eighteen years old I have been in politics, and there was times when it cost something to be a Democrat, and you, gentlemen, know me. I believe that Mr. Moody has no soul to sell for a job or title. I believe that there is prosperity in the remonetization of silver. Evils are pictures which are ridiculous. They tell us that we will get a fifty-three cent dollar and that the silver mine owner will get a hundred cent dollar. A dollar is a dollar the world over, and the Republicans know that they are telling that which is absolutely false. They tell us that England will send our bonds back. If they want to send them back why Charley Fisk, the gold man, will buy them. The fact is that we would be so prosperous that it wouldn't be necessary to deal in bonds. The Republicans make use of the word "flooded" frequently. At one time they howled about our being flooded with pauper labor, and now they are crying about our being flooded with pauper money. Why, I believe that if McClure, Fisk and Atterbury should wake up some morning and find their yards flooded with silver, they would pray to God that it would be kept up for four days more. We produce the silver in our country, and other countries buy from us. Last year England bought $50,000,000 worth of silver. Suppose she should send silver here to be coined, it would be coined in American dollars, and then what would the German, Englishman and Frenchman do? Would they leave it on the docks or store it away? No! they would spend it in this country and we would hum with prosperity. The Republican tells us that free silver would paralyze business, but ex-President Harrison said it would stimulate business. McKinley once said that he favored bimetalism and silver as well as gold and the two should steadily be mentioned. If gold is the mecca, why is it that people living in gold countries don't stay there.

"The following statistics from the New York Tribune almanac gives us an idea of how people emigrate from gold countries last year. England sent us 31,000, Germany 36,000, Italy, who sends men here to dig John Kean's water ditches, sent us 43,966, France gave us 3,620, and Japan which has a silver standard, sent us only 489.

An Irishman was once given a small drink of whiskey which he was told was seventeen years old, and when asked what he thought of it replied that it was small for its age, and that is the same way with gold, it is small for its age. A man asked me the other day what my definition of 16 to 1 was, and I told him that it meant that for sixteen years we have been fooled, but by the eternal this one year we would not be fooled. When a pulpit orator stands before a Christian Endeavor audience, only two days ago, in our city, and says that the Democratic platform was born and drafted in hell, I think he is a blackguard and the assertion comes with ill grace. Those who fought for our country thirty years ago came from the ranks of the Democratic party. If the Mayor of our city should tomorrow require the assistance and help of men 90 per cent of them would come from the boulevard, while the gold men would skulk away and buy cheap substitutes. Mr. Republican, have you forgotten that Herr Most, anarchist, T. V. Powderly, the labor agitator, and Beckenridge, the young woman's friend, is with you! We have no money, but we have always had someone to come to our rescue and Wm. Jennings Bryan is our leader. Wealth is combined against us, but we can vote as we choose and we will. We can't send carriages after you to take you to the polls but the gold men will have lots of carriages. I appeal to you to stand firm and when the time comes to vote to do so."

When Mr. Martine finished his address the crowd went wild with enthusiasm, and in fact all through the address the loudest applause was given every few minutes. Mr. Wolfskeil, of Elizabeth, a member of the State Democratic committee, was present and was called upon for an address. He responded in a happy manner by saying that he had heard that there was no Democrats left in Plainfield, but he was convinced that there were a few left. He then continued and spoke concerning the gold and silver question, and explained in an impressive and clear manner his ideas on the same. At the close three cheers was given for Bryan and three more for Mr. Martine, after which the meeting adjourned. Among those sat on the platform was Frank M. Bacon, an earnest silver supporter.

EARLY INTELIGENCE.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 226, I. O. O. F., meets this evening.

—Lovers of delicious hot soda can now have their wants supplied at Randolph's pharmacy.

—The Women's Association of the Congregational church will hold its regular meeting on Thursday afternoon.

—Dunn, the grocer, the Golden Rule bakery and many private homes are putting in the Welsbach lights. J. W. Gavett is the agent.

—Weather prognosticator Farmer Dunn struck it all right yesterday. He predicted a storm, and it arrived on time. It is also responsible for the weather.

—The first dance of Martha Washington Council, No. 23, Daughters of America, will be held in Red Men's Hall, Thursday evening. A royal good time is promised all who attend.

—The special subject for the midweek prayer meeting of the Congregational church on Wednesday evening will be, "How to improve the prayer meeting and make it more attractive and interesting."

—Early in November the Ladies' Aid Society of the German Reformed church will give an entertainment, at which time the most popular member and the most popular young woman of the society will be voted for.

—Six cars in all were required to move the old freight house away yesterday. Men were at work about the building as early as five o'clock in the morning, and by nine o'clock the structure was well on its way to its new resting place near Plainfield avenue.

—The Junior Christian Endeavor Society of the Congregational church will hold its first meeting for the fall term on Friday afternoon. The superintendent will have the banner won by the Union County Union for the largest increase in numbers during the past year for inspection.

—The crowds of Christian Endeavorers, who have been attending the convention here during the past week, and who swarmed the station platform Saturday afternoon, put one in mind of the vast crowds which assemble at the Asbury Park station each summer during the camp meeting season.

—Complaint is made almost daily concerning the dangerous condition of the crosswalks at the intersection of Second street and Madison avenue. Where the road bed has been cut down to grade, the gutters have been left partially filled with water and debris, and in fact there are no crosswalks there whatever.

—Young men and boys have of late been raiding the chestnut trees on N. P. T. Finch's premises at Watchung and Belvidere avenues. Yesterday morning a lot of them were found there by the coachman clubbing the young trees and trampling down the grass. One of them was caught and spanked and the other dashed into a barbed wire fence, cutting himself quite badly.

—The Democratic banner raising at Bound Brook on Saturday night, was a big demonstration in favor of the Democratic candidates for President and Vice-President, Bryan and Sewall. Bound Brook is equal to the emergency in the matter of Democratic banner raisings and speech making, and the public demonstration on Saturday night was no exception to the rule.

Make Two Cakes

One with Cleveland's baking powder, the second with any other.

Note the difference. The Cleveland cake is fine grained, keeps its natural moisture and flavor; "the other" is coarse grained, as if the sugar were too coarse, soon dries out and becomes husky.

Cleveland's leavens best because its strength is produced by cream of tartar and soda only, not by ammonia or alum.

THEATRICAL.

The bright faces of farce comedy combined with the catchy songs and dances of vaudeville, is what will greet the audience at Music Hall on the evening of Thursday, October 15th. This company comes to us highly recommended and contains some of the best people in the profession. William Jerome, who heads this all star cast, is too well known as a song writer and parodist to need much mention. Some of the others in the cast are Miss Maud Nugent, the Mahr Sisters, Daly and Hilton, Barnes and Coakley, W. C. Davis, Master Tommy Meade, Charles Sedwick and others. Be sure and watch for the big show.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the regular monthly meeting of Division No. 4, A. O. H., held October 8th, 1846, the following resolutions on the death of Mrs. Catharine Canary, wife of Brother James Canary, were presented by the committee and adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our Almighty Father to call from her sphere of usefulness Catharine, wife of our worthy Brother James Canary; and

Whereas, Death, always a sad affliction, is especially so when one just entering the prime of life is suddenly called away, leaving behind her little ones to battle their way through life without a mother's care; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Division No. 4, A. O. H., while bowing to His divine will, do hereby record our deep grief and sorrow for the untimely death of our worthy brother's wife, and we extend to him our sympathy in his sad affliction hoping and praying that God in His goodness will watch over and comfort the little ones thus suddenly bereft of a mother's care and teachings; and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband; also to the daily papers for publication, and that they be spread in full on the minutes of this society.

DEMOCRATS CANNOT UNITE.

Somerset County Estimates Show That McKinley Will Have a Majority.

A strong effort has been made in Somerset county to keep the gold and silver Democrats united on a county ticket. The gold Democrats held a conference on Friday and sent word to the silver leaders that if they would nominate a county ticket without indorsing the Chicago platform they would unite with them. This the silverites refused to do, so the gold men decided to nominate a ticket of their own, as published in Saturday's Press. A petition is now being circulated, as the nomination must be made in that way.

The ticket has the support of all the strong leaders of the party, and they think it will poll a heavy vote. James J. Meehan and William J. Keys are the only leaders of importance left with the free silverites. It has also been decided to nominate a candidate for Congress in the Third district, on the Indianapolis platform. A petition is being circulated for W. S. Jones, of Red Bank, and it will be no trouble to get the number of names required.

James J. Meehan, who leads the free silver movement, says that he believes the county will give a small majority for Bryan and Sewall. The gold men and the Republican leaders say that McKinley will get more than one thousand majority.

The silverites hold their county convention on Monday, October 19th.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

The Press has repeatedly called attention to the cabbage thieving near Scotch Plains and told of the efforts that were being made to capture the thieves. But last Friday another raid was made on a patch on Terrill road, and some seventy-five or eighty full-grown heads were cut off and carried away. Suspicion has been directed to a gang of Italians who inhabit a shanty near the Fanwood cut, and it is thought the authorities are a little slow in not searching the place.

DUNELLEN.

Augustus Warden spent Sunday with friends at Junction, returning to his home last night.

William Carman and Edward Teel expect to go partridge hunting at Dingman's Ferry, Va., on November 1st. They will be gone about ten days.

The Republican flag bearing the names of McKinley and Hobart, got away from its fastenings during the wind storm last evening and this morning the Stars and Stripes were found twisted around the branches of a nearby tree, and the beautiful flag looked a sorry object. In a word, the flag was so badly torn that it will have to come down.

Justice Lucky claims that he was the first to advocate the erection of a Town Hall. If the town would furnish $1,000 toward the erection of the building, Judge Lucky, was able and willing to advance $5,000 more, so he says. This amount he left laying in the bank for some three months, in the hope that the Board of Borough Commissioners would eventually get together and come to an amicable agreement. But this has never been done, and now the new Town Hall stands on leased ground, with a possibility of its being thrown off at the expiration of the five years' lease from the railroad company. There may be, however, an opportunity for the borough to purchase the whole "shooting match," so to speak, but many of the residents and taxpayers express themselves in favor of paying a little higher rate of tax, by knowing that the borough really owned what its municipal building stands on.

More Coal Thieving Near Dunellen.

Coal stealing is still prevalent near the Greenbrook tanks, and despite the energetic efforts of railroad and other authorities, but few of the thieves have been captured. Yesterday a man and wife appeared before Justice Luckey and asked him to issue warrants for the arrest of two Plainfield persons for driving up there and confiscating coal by the shovelfull. In the absence of direct testimony or proof the Judge refused to issue the warrant and the coal thieving is still going on.

A SHEPHERD BIRD.

The Yakamik Is as Good as a Dog for Caring for a Flock.

The natives of Venezuela and adjoining countries on the north side of the river Amazon often avail themselves of the services of a native crane to care for their poultry, and also, in the place of collies, or shepherd dogs, used by North Americans and Europeans, to guard and herd their domestic animals.

This remarkable bird, which the Indians call yakamik and ornithologists Psophia crepitans is found in a wild state in the great forests that lie between the northern coasts of South America and the Amazon river, particularly in Venezuela and British Guiana. The birds never leave the forests unless shot or captured. They travel about in flocks of from 100 to 200, in search of berries, fruits and insects, upon which they subsist. Their usual gait is a slow and stately march, but they enliven themselves from time to time by leaping up into the air, executing eccentric and fantastic waltzes, and striking the most absurd and preposterous attitudes. If pursued they endeavor to save themselves by running, for their flight is so weak, according to Schombourgk, that when they attempt to fly over a body of water of any considerable width they are often obliged to drop upon it and save themselves by swimming. When alarmed they utter the peculiar cry which has obtained for them their name of trumpeters. The sound is sometimes like that produced by a person endeavoring to shout the syllables "tow, tow, tow, tow, tow, tow," with his mouth shut, or the doleful noise made by children on New Year's with their trumpets. The yakamiks usually deposit their eggs in a hollow in the ground, often at the foot of a tree.

A nest generally contains ten eggs, of a pale green color. The young birds follow their mothers as soon as they are hatched, but do not lose their pretty downy covering until several weeks old. The yakamiks are very readily tamed, and prove valuable servants to the Indians, who domesticate them, and as they are courageous and will protect animals entrusted to their care at every risk to themselves, even dogs are obliged to yield to their authority. They may be trusted with the care of a flock of sheep or domesticated fowls, and every morning will drive the ducks and poultry to their feeding places, and, carefully collecting any stragglers, bring them safely home at night. A yakamik soon learns to know and to obey the voice of its master, follow him, when permitted, wherever he goes, and appears delighted at receiving his caresses. It repines at his absence and welcomes his return, and is extremely jealous of any rival. Should any dog or cat approach, it flies at it with utmost fury, and, attacking it with wings and beak, drives it away.

It presents itself regularly during meals, from which it chases all domesticated animals, and even the negroes who wait on the table, if it is not well acquainted with them; and only asks for a share of the eatables after it has driven away all who might aspire to a favorable notice from the family. It appreciates favors in the same proportion as it is jealous of sharing them with others, and manifests joy and affection by the most extravagant capers and gesticulations. When the animals of which it has charge are shut up for the night, the yakamik roosts upon some shed or tree near at hand to be ready to take its place as keeper as soon as they are set out in the morning. One quality that makes it valuable is its sense of location, which is perfect; however far it may wander with the flocks or herds it guards, it never fails to find its way home at night, driving before it all the creatures intrusted to its care.

It is strange that several species of South American birds of different genera should share with the yakamik its instinct of guarding and taking care of domestic animals. One of these is the crested screamer (Dichelophus sristatus), another the horned chauna (Chauna chavaria), which is often domesticated as a poultry keeper by the natives. —Popular Science News.

A TALK WITH BISMARCK.

Teutonic Blood, He Says, Is the Only Basis of National Success.

A gentleman who was at Friedrichsruhe a few weeks ago has printed an account of his visit. Bismarck, he says, was looking very well, but complained of severe neuralgia in the face. "It was painful," continues the writer, "to see how his eyes and his whole face suddenly became as if petrified, and he had to press his right hand against his face till the spasm was over. Every word he speaks, and especially the first to his servant in the morning, gives him intense pain, and the muscles of the face rest all night; but the pains become less severe during the day."

The conversation was partly in English, partly in German. In the course of it Prince Bismarck said:

"I find that nations succeed only so far as they have Teutonic blood in their veins, and so long as they retain the peculiarities of the Teutonic race. The English were a really great people only when drinking was fashionable among them. The Irish are a feminine race, full of sentiment, but little accustomed to use their understanding.

"I understand, I believe, every nation; but the negroes are the only race to which I feel an antipathy I cannot conquer, for they strike me as caricatures of the whites. The United States, in the life of which they are of essential importance, has enchained my attention all the more. The fact that the social democrats play an important part only in the great cities there, where, however, it has proved possible to push them energetically into the background, is probably a consequence of the thinness of the population. This hothouse plant, not of our civilization, thrives only where people live close together.

"Mr. Bancroft always seemed to me the ideal of an American diplomatist. His scientific composure made the more agreeable impression by contrast with one of his predecessors. The latter had given me a good deal of annoyance through his wife, who thought herself entitled to throw all consideration to the winds. At the diplomatic receptions she always stood in the open space through which my visitors had to pass, like a general before the diplomatic battle array. One chamberlain after another appeared to lead her back to the front, but she repulsed such single attacks till at last an army of chamberlains advanced in order of battle against her and thus induced her to retire."

In showing the cuirass the emperor gave him the prince said that he wore it only when it was absolutely necessary, as it was very inconvenient. He added: "When I last dined in the palace some six or seven officers of my regiment were ordered in their cuirasses to the dinner, which lasted two or three hours. I pitied them all the more, as I said to myself that I had been the cause of what seemed a torment to me."

In answer to the remark that the emperor had dined at Friedrichsruhe with his cuirass on, he said: "Emperors must and may do several things that we must not and may not do."

The great effort it cost the prince to bring out the words in speaking English—perhaps only the result of the long habit of considering them well beforehand—struck the prince's visitor. When he spoke German it was not so noticeable. His command of English, however, is comparatively good. He said:

"My stay in England was my high school in this. I owe my first experience of sickness to my voyage thither, which was very stormy. It was a tormenting thought for me, that I might be thrown to and fro and ground to pieces, as it seemed, between the various currents in the water, thus to go down to Davy Jones and add one more to the victims of the channel. My imagination conjured up all the corpses and relics of ships at the bottom of the sea. For the rest, I used to speak English in my youth, and the following incident of my year of military service has stuck to my memory:

"One day I had to go straight to a hotel to dinner all soiled with dust and dirt and had to sit beside an English family who had arrived that day. My unclrawing-room-like exterior induced them to consider what I was. One lady remarked: 'He can't possibly be an officer, but his hand is not that of a private.' I listened in silence. Suddenly the lady reached out her hand for a mustard pot, but as she could not reach it I gave it her, and said in my best English: 'It's empty, but if you want another, I'll tell the waiter to bring you a full one.'"

The prince's hands, continues the interviewer, though disfigured by some gouty nodules, are still slender and white, with broad nails, and it is to be regretted that he has never had casts of them taken. Nor has he ever really sat to an artist, for, said he: "I am no poseur." In the course of some linguistic remarks, he declared that the German of educated Berliners is the best, because it is freest from dialect.—Berlin Cor. London Standard.

DEFENDS THE SULTAN

Gen. Grumbkoff Says "Abdul Hamid Is a Wise Man."

NEEDS MONEY TO CARRY OUT REFORMS

"If He Could Follow His Own Desires Turkey Would Be a Happy Country, but He Is Fettered by Empty Public Coffers"---Armenian Question.

(Copyright, 1896, by the United Associated Presses.)

Berlin, Oct. 12.—The lull in the excitement over affairs in the East continues, the newspapers having decided to await the developments which are expected to follow the departure of the czar from France before resuming their campaign of agitation. It is understood that the czar will shortly give an audience to Gen. Grumbkoff, the German officer in the Ottoman service, who is the bearer of an autograph letter from the sultan to the kaiser. Gen. Grumbkoff is accompanied by the sultan's ambassador, Ghalib Bey, who will also be received by the kaiser. The mission of Gen. Grumbkoff, according to the semi-official Berlin Post, is one of great political importance. In the meantime an intereiew with Gen. Grumbkoff appears in a Berlin paper, in which the Turkish commissioner vigorously defends the action of the sultan and the leading Turkish officials, contending that no man occupying the Turkish throne would fulfill the demands of the powers unconditionally. The sultan of Turkey, he maintains, must always take into consideration the probable effect of the fulfilment of such demands upon the Mohammedan populace, otherwise there would be great danger of an outbreak of Moslem fanaticism leading to the total annihilation of the Christians within the empire. "Abdul Hamid," the general says, "is a wise man, and in all his actions he invariably looks carefully forward to the probable or possible results. If the sultan could follow his own desires Turkey would be a happy country, but his most excellent aspirations are fettered by empty public coffers. The true reform which is needed in Turkey is financial assistance; perhaps administered under a control similar to the administration of Egypt, but as there is no money there can be no reform."

The Armenian Question.

The pro-Armenian movement in Germany is making little progress. Although the official wet blanket which has been cast over the movement wherever it has existed has not had the effect to quench the flame of agitation altogether, the movement itself has not been seized with any degree of ardor by the public. Doctor Lepsius, the leader of the Armenian agitation, has been summoned to the foreign office and requested to desist from further activity in the matter, he being informed, it is understood, that as the movement was a strongly political, and in no respect a philanthropic, one the government could not countenance it. The Hamburg Nachrichten, the personal organ of Prince Bismarck, in its discussion of the Armenian question, argues that the Armenians are rebels while Germany and Turkey have the most friendly relations. Therefore the German aiders and abettors of the Armenians are liable to punishment under the German criminal code.

Foreign Diplomats Snubbed.

The circumstance of the ignoring of the entire diplomatic corps in the matter of extending invitations to the various functions upon the occasion of the czar's visit to Paris, which caused feelings of intense indignation among the diplomats themselves, is being discussed in official quarters here. At the outset of the entertainment of the czar the diplomatic body only received invitations to the gala opera performance and were not asked to be present on any other of the public ceremonies. After all, or nearly all, of those functions were over the diplomats received invitations to attend the grand military review at Chalons and the attaches of the various embassies and legations only obtained these in consequence of the remonstrance made by Count von Munster, the German ambassador, to the foreign office. It is possible that the officials of the foreign office did not relish the quarter from which the demand for invitations to attend the great military spectacle of the review of the French troops came, for they promptly disclaimed any responsibility for the omission to send invitations and referred the ambassador to the Elysee palace, from which quarter the invitations eventually emanated.

To Return the Czar's Visit.

According to a special dispatch to the Cologne Gazette from St. Petersburg President Faure will not pay a visit to the Russian capital as has been suggested, but Emperor Francis Joseph of Austria will return the czar's visit to Vienna and the emperor and empress of Germany may also visit at St. Petersburg concurrently with the Austrian kaiser.

National Educational Association.

Albany, Oct. 12.—Supt. Skinner of the state department of public instruction, who is president of the National Educational association and chairman of the executive committee of that body, has issued a call for the 36th annual meeting of the association to be held at Milwaukee, Wis., during the first week in July, 1897.

Heavy Gale and Snow in England.

London, Oct. 12.—A heavy northeast gale is prevailing. The Danish steamer Scotia has gone ashore at St. Abbs Head, on the east cost of Scotland. Her crew were rescued. The schooner Carmel has foundered in the Mersey. Six of her crew were drowned. In many places the gale is accompanied with snow.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? Laundry drivers will receive your work.

Great Presidential Free For All Guessing Contest.

First Prize—A handsomely decorated 56 piece tea set.

Second Prize.—A beautiful vace lamp.

Will it be McKinley or Bryan.

The prizes will be given to the person who first names the winning canditate and guesses nearest his exact popular vote and to the person coming next nearest, the second prize. All guesses recorded on cards furnished by us at our store, 138 West Front street, Plainfield, and filed in order received. No string to this contest, you do not have to make a purchase in order to guess, simply apply in person or by mail. If by mail enclose return postage. No guesses received after November second.

...D IN SUMMER

... Alike Find the ... Satisfactory.

"... thousand overcoats have been taken out of pawn during the past week," said a pawnbroker to a Chicago Times-Herald reporter. "The cooler weather has forced us to unlock our cedar chests and undo the bundles which have been packed away in camphor. During the next month, unless the weather becomes warmer, as many more overcoats will be taken from the pawnshops.

"No, it is not because they are poverty-stricken that so many men have overcoats in pawn during the summer. Of course, if a man wants to pawn anything, there is nothing that he should be more likely to 'soak' during the summer months than his unnecessary overcoat. At the same time many of the overcoats are left with us merely that they may be protected against the moths, who thrive during the summer, and to prevent them from accumulating dust as they would while lying in closets. A man can pawn his overcoat for two dollars, and have it with us until he needs it in the fall, and it costs him but 50 cents.

"Of course it is a good deal of trouble for us, but we are able to make it pay us well, and the temptation to a man who is improvident is to borrow more than a nominal sum on his coat, and, of course, he has to pay more interest.

"A great many dress suits are also pawned each summer to preserve them until needed in October. They are worn very little in the summer, and the same reason that leads to the pawning of overcoats operates in their case."

QUAKER OF THE ORIENT.

The Herculean Turkish Porter Whose Place of Business Is on the Street.

The Turkish porter is one of the most interesting objects seen in a tour of the orient. Of Herculean strength and power of endurance, he is usually prompt and obliging, also honest so far as in him lies. He cannot speak the truth, and would not respect himself if he could, for that is a virtue of the Frank.

His place of business, says the Chicago Times-Herald, is on the streets of his native town, where he can be found at all hours of the day, clad in a loose soiled jacket, usually gray, with gray gaiters, Turkish shoes or sandals, the inevitable fez and a neckerchief that makes him look as if he were strangling.

All the burden of conveying large or small articles falls upon him and he will for a gratuity carry a piano as easily as a trunk. He is the most contented of the working fraternity one meets abroad, whether he is found in the streets of Constantinople or in those of Stamboul, and the tourists make much of him because he is interesting, his occasional smoke under the shade of a mulberry tree, or his lazy sips of sherbet, being treats that renew his strength for the hard work by which he must live—if he is not able to sell merchandise. Being sturdy and industrious, the traits of the Turkish porter commend him to the public, hence a picturesque description of him by one traveler who named him the "Quaker of the Orient."

WATER PIPES GUARD CONVICTS.

When Prisoners Cut the Pipes Water Escapes and Guards Are Thereby Alarmed.

A new idea in jail construction has recently been successfully tested in Boston. In brief, the scheme is to construct the cells of hollow pipes and fill them with water. When a pipe is served the water escapes, and by a system of registers in the office of the jail the fact is made known, as well as the particular cell where the pipes have been attacked. No attempt is made to have the pipes particularly hard. Common gas pipe is as good as any and will answer every purpose. The water is kept under a high pressure so that it will be sure to give the alarm when the pipe is severed.

Under the usual system of jail construction it is aimed to make the bars so hard that saws will not affect them; or, at best, so hard that cutting would be a slow progress. But convicts in jails are as clever as the men who construct jail cells, and methods have been discovered for taking the temper out of the hardest steel. Nitric acid will do, and so will common candle. If the flame of the latter is kept for several days close against a bar of chilled steel it will be made so soft that a common steel saw will cut it. Solid steel plates have been eaten with acids and escape made possible. The filling of hollow pipes with water seems to be a good thing.

CAUSTIC IN MOTHS.

Discovery of the Substance Used in Escaping from Cocoons.

A most remarkable entomological discovery has been announced by Oswald Latter, the great naturalist. It is to the effect that the imago of the moth Dicranura vinula secretes a pure caustic potash which it uses to penetrate the tough silken bag or cocoon in which it is inclosed, says the St. Louis Republic.

Caustic potash is, as most everyone knows, a powerful caustic which destroys skin and flesh when brought in contact with it. That it should be secreted or formed in the mouth or internal anatomy of any living creature is so singular and unlikely that the entomologists were at first inclined to disbelieve the story as related by Mr. Latter, in telling of his discovery.

It has long been known that this particular species of moth used some kind of liquid with which to soften the cocoon when he arrived at the age when nature hinted that it was time to get rid of the silken envelope, but Mr. Latter's experiments have for the first time disclosed the nature of that liquid. Prof. Latter made this singular discovery by clipping the ends from cocoons and catching the liquid when it was ejected. This he subjected to chemical analysis.

CERTAIN OF VICTORY

Maj. McKinley Believes His Election Is Now Assured.

SHOWS NO SIGN OF OVER-EXERTION

More Than Thirty Delegations to Visit Canton This Week, with the Possible Addition of Sixteen More.

Still Two Weeks of Activity.

Canton, O., Oct. 12.—Despite the large amount of work done by Major McKinley last week, he does not show the least sign of fatigue, and he is ready for another week of speechmaking and handshaking. To a United Associated Presses reporter this morning he said: "I feel well to-day and expect to be in excellent condition to resume my campaign work this afternoon. I think the next two weeks will be full of activity, and I expect no rest until after the election." The republican nominee is very confident and fully believes that the political contest will result in his election to the presidency. His correspondence is full of encouraging news from all parts of the country, and he heard nothing not of an encouraging nature from the callers during the last week. He and his friends now believe that he will carry Viirginia, West Virginia, Maryland, Kentucky and Michigan. This week will be a lively one. More than thirty delegations are already scheduled, and the list is likely to be increased by the addition of a dozen or fifteen more. The following delegations are expected: To-day, miners of the Monongahela valley; workmen of Rosco, Pa. Tuesday, miners and mechanics of the Lehigh valley; Sandusky county, O., republicans. Wednesday, Cleveland Old Folks Day, McKinley and Hobart clubs of McDonald, Pa., Cumberland, Md.; republican street car employes of Cleveland. Thursday, citizens of Cambridgeboro, Pa., political clubs of Allegheny county, Pa.; colored citizens of Belaire; Erie county, Pa., republican clubs. Friday, veteran McKinley clubs of Bradford; citizens of Bedford, Pa. Saturday, Garfield club of Louisville, Ky.; Chicago republicans; clubs of Huntingdon county, Pa.; republicans of Blair county, Pa.; commerical travelers of Toledo, O.; commercial travelers of Columbus, O.; miners of Perry county, O.; citizens of Ashtabula county, O.; Railroad Sound Money club of Jackson, Mich.; Hocking valley miners; employes of Oliver Bros., Pittsburg; McKinley and Hobart workingmen's clubs of South Fork, Pa.; Old Folks' McMinley club of Westerville, O.; Anti-Wilson society of Baltimore.

OUR GOODS IN DEMAND.

Switzerland Wants Thousands of Tons of Pig Iron and Steel Products.

Washington, Oct. 12.—Consul Eugene Germain writes the department of state that American pig iron, steel and tools are wanted in Switzerland. One of the largest houses in Zurich requests him to let American dealers know that they want 40,000 tons of pig iron for foundry purposes; 55,000 tons of blooms, billets, wire rods, bars and sheets; 3,200 tons of pipes and tubes and 2,000 tons of hardware goods—chains, bolts, nuts, screws, etc.

Honoring Parnell's Memory.

Dublin, Oct. 11.—Yesterday was the fifth anniversary of the funeral of Charles Stewart Parnell, the Irish leader, who died suddenly near Brighton, England, on October 6, 1891, and whose remains were intered in Glasnevin cemetery here. The day was observed by the holding of a procession, which, after marching through the city, proceeded to the cemetery, where a large number of wreaths were placed upon the grave of the statesman.

Boy Burned to Death.

Worcester, Mass., Oct. 12.—The house on the Brown place, two miles from Oxford Centre, was destroyed by an incendiary fire yesterday. Willie Trushaw, 11 years old, son of Nelson Trushaw, was asleep in an attic and was burned to death. His remains were recovered. Eli Dupuis, brother-in-law of the boy, in an attempt to save Willie, fell from the attic window and was badly injured. He severed an artery in the right arm.

Vandalism at Harvard.

Boston, Oct. 12.—Another act of vandalism was discovered at Harvard university yesterday when it was found that a shield of granite on the front of Gray's hall had been covered with blue paint and the motto "Veritas" carved on the face of the granite had been gilded. The act has aroused the indignation of the students who, as a body, must bear the blame. There is no clew to the perpetrators.

Shot Himself Through the Brain.

Niagara Falls, N. Y., Oct. 12.—Anton R. Roell, 77 years old, suffering from cancer of the throat, shot himself through the brain at his home yesterday afternoon, dying instantly. A mirror placed before him served to guide the bullet. He leaves a widow, five daughters and four sons.

"The Ambassador of Christ."

Baltimore, Oct. 12.—Cardinal Gibbons' book, "The Ambassador of Christ," upon which he has been at work for several years, is nearing completion and will soon be published. It discusses topics of vital interest to the clergy, the student, the scholar and the layman.

Valuable Library Gift to Yale.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 12.—The classical library of the noted German scholar, Ernst Curtin, has been purchased by J. Montgomery Sears, Yale, '77, and given to the Yale classical department. The library consists of 3,500 rare volumes.

GOLF.

The tie at golf between Messrs. Mason and Schoonmaker on the Plainfield avenue grounds Friday afternoon, was won by Mr. Mason.

The first round of nine holes at the match play for the eight players, was contested on Saturday and resulted as follows: Richards beat H. Fisk 2 up; A. Fisk beat Mason 2 up; Dumont beat Baker 2 up; Charles Fisk beat Glenny 2 up. In the afternoon Richards won from A. Fisk by 3 ups and Dumont won from Charles Fisk by 2 ups, leaving Richards and Dumont to fight it out in the finals. This was a pretty match, and Richards finally won from Dumont by the hole after playing thirteen. The cup becomes the property of a member if he has three successive victories.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

Rolla O. Heikes, of Dayton, O., the champion trap shooter of this country, was the guest of his old friend, Thomas H. Keller, of East Front street, over Sunday.

A regular meeting of the local branch of the State Game and Propagating Society will be held in the office of the Secretary, Percy C. Ohl, in the Babcock building tomorrow evening, when it is expected the various committees will report on the work accomplished in the way of prsecutions and violations during the past two weeks.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

Louis Thomas, of Dunellen, came home from Princeton College Saturday to play on the Dunellen football team.

CYCLING COMMENT.

Fred Adams, of Netherwood, rode to Dover and Lake Hopatcong yesterday.

The Dog Caused a Fall.

Frank W. Morse, of West Fourth street, met with an unpleasant experience Saturday afternoon while riding his bicycle out Park avenue in the direction of Metuchen. A large dog attacked him, and in his efforts to drive the canine away, he fell, receiving several severe bruises as a result. The owner of the dog was very sorry, and offered to have the dog killed Mr. Morse, although very stiff and sore, was able to be out this morning.

Monte Scott Beaten in a 25-mile Race.

O. B. Hackenberger yesterday defeated Monte Scott of Providence, at Denver in a twenty-five mile track race, the time being 1:16:04 3-5. It is the opinion of many bicycle experts that only for the altitude, which visibly affected Scott, the result might have been different. The first five miles were ridden in 12:16 and ten in 25:33.

Carried Concealed Weapons.

W. Weber, who lives near the Dunellen tanks, was arrested by Constable Richard York on Saturday charged with carrying concealed weapons and drawing a revolver on a fellow-workman. He was arraigned before Justice Storms, at New Market, during the afternoon and fined $11.54, the amount of the fine and costs.

For Municipal Instruction.

Councilman Frost, of Watchung avenue, will leave town tomorrow for Chicago, where he will attend the convention of the American Society of Municipal Improvement, which will be held in that city next week.

Miss Stella Drake, of Newark, was the guest yesterday of ex-Councilman and Mrs. E. H. Bird, of Elm place.

Samuel Proud, of the borough, has been discharged from the hospital, having recovered from a severe illness. Mrs. Proud is still confined at the above institution, and continues to improve.

—A regular meeting of Mizpah Lodge No 1, N. O. of I. O. L, will be held this evening.

—Adam Angerbauer, one of J. A. Smith & Bro's drivers, had one of his feet run over by the grocery wagon on Westervelt avenue, Saturday, and he has since been incapacitated for work.

Approaching Nuptial Event.

Miss Charlotte J. Raymond, a former resident of both this city and Scotch Plains, is to be united in marriage to John P. V. Hurley, Wednesday, October 28th, at 9 a. m. The ceremony is to take place in St. Peter's cathedral, Peterboro, Can., and a reception will follow at the bride and groom's new home, Water street, Peterboro.

Training Garrison to be Removed.

The garrison of cadets that have been stationed in the Salvation Army barracks is to be moved to New York next week. Ensign and Mrs. Brewer, who are now in command, will hold their farewell meeting next Sunday. Their successors have not been announced as yet.

—An inquiry meeting will be held in the parlors of the First Baptist church this evening at 8 o'clock by Dr. Yerkes.

—S. S. Swackhamer has gone to Flemington today to try the cese of Reed against Smith, on contract, before Judge Herr and a jury. Mr. Swackhamer represents the plaintiff, and Harry Stout, of Flemington, the defense.

—In Justice Newcom's court this morning judgment was given plaintiff in the case of Roberts against Mortmer, and the case of Sharkey against Warman was adjourned for two weeks. Summons was issued in the case of DeWitt C. Ivins and Co. against Van Liew, returnable October 16th.

SCHOOL AND CHURCH.

—English scholars are trying to raise money to establish a students' hotel in connection with the British school at Athens.

—Archbishop Machray, of Rupert's Land, Can., and primate of the Anglican church in Canada, is said to be the tallest bishop in the world.

—Dr. Hayes C. French, a San Francisco physician who has recently become an evangelist, has adopted a unique costume for the pulpit. "All my preaching," he says, "is done in knickerbockers and sweater. This is the uniform of the Young Men's Christian Association Cycling club. The triangle on the breast and cap mean spirit, body and mind, the emblem of infinitude."

—Lambeth degrees of doctor of music are granted by the archbishop of Canterbury, in theory, as the representative of the pope. The right to grant degrees irrespective of universities belongs to the pope, who can delegate the power to his legates. Till the Reformation the papal legate in England was usually the archbishop of Canterbury, and after the Reformation the Protestant archbishops continued to grant degrees.

—How German Jews take to higher education is shown by some remarkable statistics of the German universities. Every 10,000 Protestants in the empire send 50 students to the universities, every 10,000 Catholics 32 and every 10,000 Jews 333. In the individual states the figures are even more striking. The proportions for Prussia are: Protestants, 45; Catholics, 27; Jews, 333; for Roman Catholic Bavaria, Protestants, 67; Catholics, 42; Jews, 370; for Wurtemburg, Protestants, 84; Catholics, 53; Jews, 590; for Baden, Protestants, 64; Catholics, 41; Jews, 417; for Saxony, Protestants, 40; Catholics, 23; Jews, 357.

—In Berlin and Charlottenburg schools last year 212 rectors, 2,181 male teachers, 1,189 scientific and 623 technical female teachers were employed. Rectors, after 12 years' service, receive $1,050, with free house rent and fuel; male teachers, after 31 years, receive $950, and schoolmistresses, after 18 years, $450. The deficiency in the school budget for the current year is more than $2,750,000. As the supply of college-bred teachers in the high schools is greater than the demand, many teachers have to find places in the parish schools. Out of 212 of these, 15 are Catholic, four have Catholic sections, while in a few religious instruction is provided for Jews.

WHEN TO EAT.

It Is a Debatable Question, Says Dr. James H. Jackson.

A well-known physician, James H. Jackson, says: It is a debatable question how often food is required to preserve health or aid in resoring it, but the important point is gained when sufficient nourishment is applied to make good the continual waste of tissue, thus keeping the body in repair and maintaining the normal expression of the vital forces.

To fulfill the demands of the system, the blood should be kept in condition to nutrify all the tissues of the body, neither falling below nor rising above a healthful standard of nutritive power. As the process of nutrition, involving the removal of waste and the assimilation of new material, take place more rapidly in some cases than in others, no absolute rule can be laid down as to the frequency of eating, but in general it may be said that nourishment must be adequate to prevent deteriation of the blood. The average man in active life requires daily from 16 to 23 ounces of food, free from water, representing between three or four pounds of the ordinary nutritive substances. Now, scientifically it would seem to be of little consequence when this amount is taken into the system, but practically it does make considerable difference. First, it is necessary to prevent exhaustion of the nutritive elements in the blood, and second to guard against any functional digestive disturbance, thus precluding an abnormal manifestation in the organs of digestion. In other words, if the demands upon the digestive functions are too frequent there is a liability to irritation, exhaustion, inflammation, and the whole train of functional disorders. Overloading the stomach tends to produce the same or similar conditions. Habit largely controls the times of eating, but habit is often formed without regard to any necessity on the part of the organism, and may be arranged with equal facility to conform to longer or shorter intervals as may be desired.

The quality of food has also an important bearing on this subject. Persons who live on stimulating articles of diet, including tea, coffee, animal flesh in considerable quantities, condiments or alcoholic stimulants, seem to require food oftener than those who choose an unstimulating diet. The reason is that regardless of the nutritive material already in the blood a seeming demand exists for an additional quantity which is expressed by a sense of hunger or weakness as the result of reaction from the stimulants taken; and this reaction usually asserts itself more imperatively than the natural desire for food, when there has been no undue stimulation. True hunger is always a call from the tissues of the body for nutritive material, while much of the so-called hunger is merely an expression of irritation of the nerves of the stomach arising from inflammation or irritative conditions as the result of reaction from previous stimulation.

Persons living on stimulating foods, when called upon to forego an accustomed meal, complain of weakness, "goneness" and hunger, to a far greater degree than those who live on an unstimulating diet. As a rule meals recur too frequently, compelling the organs of digestion to undergo the physiological congestion which follows the introduction of food into the stomach so often that after a longer or shorter period a pathological or abnormal congestion is set up which results in lack of secretion or changes the character of the fluid contents of the stomach to such an extent the fermentation and the formation of gas follow. Unquestionably the majority of people would be better in health to take but two meals a day, breakfast at eight or nine o'clock in the morning, and dinner at five or six in the afternoon.—Western Rural.

A ZOOLOGICAL DIVERSION.

Story of an Elephant Who Indulged in Practical Jokes.

The elephant at the Jardin des Plantes, at Paris, used to play his visitors a trick which could not have been thought of but by an animal of such intelligence. His house opened upon an inclosure called the Elephant's park, containing a pond, in which he would lay himself under the water, concealing every part of him except the very end of his trunk—a mere speck, that would hardly be noticed by a stranger to the animal's habits.

A crowd would assemble around the inclosure, and, not seeing him in it, would watch in expectation that he would soon issue from the house.

But, while they were gazing about, a copious sprinkling of water would fall upon them, and ladies and gentlemen, with their fine bonnets and coats, would run for shelter under the trees, looking up at the clear sky and wondering whence such a shower could come.

Immediately afterward, however, they would see the elephant rising slowly from his bath, evincing, as it seemed, an awkward joy at the trick that he had played.

In the course of time his amusement became generally known, and the moment the water began to rise from his trunk the spectators would take flight, at which he appeared exceedingly delighted, getting up as fast as he could to see the bustle he had caused.—Spare Moments.

SENATORIAL SHADOWS.

BEARING OF LOCAL CONTESTS ON CHOICE OF SMITH'S SUCCESSOR.

Senators and Sheriffs to be Elected Next Month Will be an Important Factor —How W. E. Sackett Looks at It.

William E. Sackett, the well-known political writer, had the following in The Herald yesterday morning, concerning the situation in this State:

The contest for the Republican nomination of Senator in Monmouth revealed a rivalry between John Kean, of Elizabeth, and Governor John W. Griggs for the next vacancy in the United States Senate, and it is likely that all of the contests for the nominations will be tinctured by the same rivalry. The State Senatorial conventions have a direct relation to the struggle of 1899 for the chair at Washington which Senator James Smith now occupies. The Senator to be elected this fall will hold over into the Senate of 1899, and help to name the man. It is not to be assumed that Senator Smith is looking upon the Senatorial counties with an indifferent eye, safe as most of them may seem to be for the Republicans. He will doubtless throw his influence in behalf of favorable candidates on the Democratic side, and in the strife at the ballot boxes next month he will probably exert himself to pull as many of them as he can successfully through.

Which, by the way, is a very proper kind of an enterprise for Senator Smith to engage in. He has a perfect right to desire to succeed himself, and to employ all approved opportunities for the gratification of the desire.

It would scarcely be suspected that the Shrievalty contests could have any bearing, direct or indirect, upon the big Senatorial contest. But they will. The Sheriff, with the grand and petty jurors at his beck and call, and the property of luckless debtors at his mercy, is a big power in this county. He exerts an enormous influence. Like the State Senator, he who is elected to be a Sheriff this fall, will still be Sheriff in 1899, and no man seeking the support of a county forgets to pay his respects to this big dignitary of the Court House. His work and influence are always a big factor in determining the choice of the Assemblymen to be elected during his term to represent his county in the lower House, and every aspirant for Senatorial honors may be expected to do his level best to have the several conventions name and the several counties elect a sheriff who would prefer him above all competitors for the shining distinction.

The notable contests between Tice and Church in the recent Middlesex County Convention for its Shrievalty nomination is known now to have had a Senatorial end to it; and each of the rivalries for this particular county nomination will be sure to have its Senatorial sequel.

The imminence of this great struggle of 1896 will serve to lend a dignity and importance to these local contests that otherwise would attract no attention anywhere. The Union County convention especially will be watched with curious eyes by all the practical politicians. That happens to be Mr. Kean's own county, and it was Foster Voorhees's gubernatorial boom that took Union county from Mr. Kean in the gubernatorial convention of last fall and contributed so essentially to Governor Griggs's triumph there. It would be idle to say that Mr. Kean looks with favoring eye upon the apparent certainty of this fair-haired Senator's renomination. He may be presumed to see the advisability of having the Senator from his own county with him at the supreme moment. It might be a fatal weakness in his own campaign to have an unsympathetic statesman in that particular chair in the State Senate.

Those of the eight counties in which new Senators are to be chosen that will be the scenes of the severest strife between the parties are Somerset and Monmouth. Camden, Essex, Gloucester, Salem and Union are assured to the Republicans. Warren cannot be wrested from the Democrats, but there is sure to be a battle royal between the two political armies for the mastery in Monmouth and Somerset.

A Life-like Portrait.

Julian Scott, the well known artist, has just completed a very handsome oil painting of Captain Benjamin Doane, the retired sea captain of the Clyde Line, who is now living with his son-in-law, J. Hervey Doane, of LaGrande avenue. He is dressed in his uniform and carries his sextent in his hand. The likeness is excellent.

—The Young Ladies Missionary society of the First Baptist church will resume their fall and winter meetings this afternoon, when the first meeting will be held from 2 to 5 o'clock.

CLAWSON FOUND GUILTY.

His Counsel Intend to Apply for a New Trial.

Elmer Clawson was found guilty of murder in the first degree in the Somerset county court yesterday. The trial has been in progress since last Tuesday. Clawson is only seventeen. He shot and killed Harry Hodgetts, a farmer, near Plucksmin, on the morning of August 24th. According to the testimony he had planned at the same time to shoot Reuben Abel, station agent on the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad at Bernardsville, but was captured on his way there. The murder was deliberately planned and was admitted by the defendant on the witness stand.

His lawyers, Steele and Meehan, put up a plea of insanity and endeavored to show that the boy inherited it from his ancestors. Throughout the trial the boy has manifested the most stolid indifference. When the jury, after being out an hour and a-half, entered court with the verdict he seemed unmoved. When he was led back to jail he rushed down the steps shouting: "Let her go. I don't care a ——."

Counsel gave notice that they would on October 26th move for a new trial on the ground that the verdict was against the weight of evidence.

MAY RUN MARSH FOR SENATOR

The Democrats Seem to Think He Would Please Good Men.

The Union County Democratic Executive Committee intends to make a vigorous effort to carry the county. They are casting about for a candidate for State Senator who will not be objectionable to the gold Democrats.

Prosecutor Fred C. Marsh, who made a gallant campaign last spring for the Mayoralty of Elizabeth, seems to the committee to be the strongest man who could be named for Senator. Up to last spring he had never been beaten in a political contest. Before he consented to run the Democrats were demoralized, but through the vigorous campaign he inaugurated they were placed in control of the City Council and Board of Education.

Many Foreigners Naturalized.

Law Judge John D. Bartine, of Somerville, told a Press representative Saturday that he had naturalized more foreigners this fall than at other time, outside a presidential year, during the long time that he has been on bench and that the class naturalized were Italians and Slays. The Judge said that he asked one Italian who was governor of New Jersey and that he replied "Mika Corora." Now Michael Corcoran is overseer of Bridgewater township and lives in Raritan where the Italian resides and he undoubtedly looked upon the warm hearted Irish Republican as the greatest man in the state and so answered the Judge.

Favors Appreciated by Reporters.

The following explains itself: Resolved, that the newspaper representatives attending this twenty-ninth annual convention, desire to express to Rev. G. H. Ingram, of the press department, their hearty appreciation for his untiring efforts to supply their needs, and his solicitude for their welfare during the business sessions of the convention. Plainfield Courier-News, Philadelphia Ledger, Plainfield Daily Press, Elizabeth Daily Journal, Newark Advertiser, Newark News.

We Heard the Gong Ringing.

The election last night of Patrick McCarthy, as chief of the Rahway Fire Department was the occasion for a monster demonstration, and during the evening the fire gong was blown almost continuously in honor of the event. Many Plainfielders heard the gong, but did not know where it was or what occasioned its blowing.

Judgment for the Plaintiff.

The case of L. Slauss & Brother against Augustus Spegler, was brought before Judge VanSickle in the Supreme Court at Elizabeth, last Friday, and judgment was rendered in full for the plaintiff. Assemblyman W. R. Cowing represented Slauss, and City Judge DeMeza was the attorney for the defence.

Working for a Crowd.

The City Republican Committee have arranged to have the Independent Fife and Drum Corps make a circuit of the town in a trolley car this evening previous to the meeting in Music Hall. The car will leave the North Avenue station at 7 o'clock.

—Geo. M. Rahlenbeck, of East Sixth street, has just had his house painted and its exterior appearance otherwise improved.

If your children are subject to croup watch for the first symptom of the disease — hoarseness. If Chamberlain's Cough Remedy is given as soon as the child becomes hoarse it will prevent the attack. Even after the croupy cough has appeared the attack can always be prevented by giving this remedy. It is also invaluable for colds and whooping cough. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, Druggist.

ONE MORE AND IT STAYS

PARK CLUB LIKELY TO BECOME OWNERS OF THE WHIST TROPHY.

Defeated the North End Whist Club, of Newark, Last Night in a Game That Was Close Contested at Every Point.

One more victory and the State challenge whist trophy, a handsome siver cup, will become the property of the Park Club. Last night, they defeated the challengers and added the ninth to their string of victories. Their opponents were the crack team from the North End Whist Club, of Newark, and it was only by the finest kind of play that the Park Club players defeated them by a score of 16 to 11. It was probably the best game ever played in the clubhouse of the Park Club, and the trophy still remains in Plainfield.

The Parks gained the lead in the first round when they scored 7 points to their opponents 4. The second round resulted in the visitors scoring 3 points while Plainfield only got 2. The third and last round was favorable for the home team, the score being 7 to 4 in their favor. The total was 16 to 11, in favor of the Parks, of course.

The same team, that has made the Park Club famous in the whist world, represented them last night, Messrs. Rogers, Howell, McCutchen and Townsend. The North End Club's team consisted of Messrs. Cameron, Reynolds, Eagles and Smith. Mr. Bruck, of the Ridgewood Club, acted as umpire.

The terms, by which the cup was offered, provide that it shall become the property of any club winning it ten times. Last night, the Park Club won their ninth victory. The next challenge is from the New Jersey Athletic Club, and that match will be played in about two weeks.

The Parks looked on the North End Club as their most dangerous opponents, and now that they have been defeated, the Park Club is looking forward to becoming the owner of the cup at no distant date. The cup was first offered last year.

Extend the Trolley By All Means.

The more the trolley extension is advocated between this city and Scotch Plains the more the people of the latter place are in favor of it. There is, however, some little objection to the enterprise and there is likely to be unless the railroad company buys off the objectors or else has a commission appointed for the purpose of adjudication. One thing is certain and sure, the extension would in a large degree help the Plainfield merchants, while the Scotch Plains merchants would not suffer to any noticeable extent.

A Reunion and Tea.

A delightful informal tea was given yesterday afternoon by Miss Caroline Hall, daughter of David P. Hall, at her home on Madison avenue. Miss Hall has been abroad for the past three years studying art in Paris, and the occasion was a reunion of old friends. During the afternoon Miss Nella Whiton skillfully rendered several selections on the violin, and Miss Hall gave an admirable French recitation. Mrs. Florence Howe Hall, the mother of Miss Hall, and Miss Macready served tea and chocolate. Miss Middledith assisted in receiving guests.

Jersey's Shore Flooded.

The high tide yesterday was unprecedented. The entire Jersey coast suffered while Asbury Park was almost washed out. At Jersey City the water was very high; it went over the banks and flooded the yards of the Jersey Central railroad for about three quarters of a mile, the water in many places being up to the top of the switches. At Bayonne the water rose to a height four feet above the mean high tide.

Strange Actions at Midnight.

Last evening about 10:30, two strange men were seen coming from a yard on West Front street, nearly opposite Washington avenue. At first they were walking, but in a few minutes both started to run as fast as possible. The fact that both were in their shirt sleeves, attracted considerable attention. The soon disappeared from view, and no one knows where they went or what they were doing.

Paid a Fraternal Visit.

The members of the young men's class of the Cranford M. E. church paid a fraternal visit to the young people of Monroe Avenue chapel last evening. They came by stage, eight in all, accompanied by their teacher, Rev. Mr. Evans. During the evening light refreshments were served. The visitors left for home early.

—The forty hours devotion in St. Mary's church, which has been in progress since Sunday ended at eight o'clock this morning.

—Eleven closed cars are now being used on the street railway, and unless something happens the open cars will not be used until next spring.

YOUNG G. O. P. LEADERS

PLANS FOR INTERESTING YOUNG MEN TO SUPPORT M'KINLEY.

It is Intended to Raise a Flag With Appropriate Ceremonies—A Smoker Also Planned—Glee Club to be Organized.

There is nothing slow about the campaign that the Young Men's Republican Club is planning. They intend, if possible, to gather into their ranks all the young voters of the city. The membership list was increased to nearly two hundred last night and the head pushers of the club are after more recruits.

A meeting was held last night in the Republican Association rooms. The executive committee was selected as follows: First ward, Herbert Case; Second ward, William C. Gilbert, John Keely; Third ward, Roger F. Murray; Fourth ward, Blanchard D. Randolph; North Plainfield, George C. Worth, C. W. Smith. President Wm. N. Runyon appointed the enrollment committee as follows: First ward, Samuel P. Case; Second ward, Alfred E. Holmes; Third ward, Walter Murray; Fourth ward, Thomas King; North Plainfield, Gifford Cooley.

It was decided to raise a flag at some prominent point and President Runyon was instructed to appoint a committee of five or so to select a place and decide on a time for the flag raising. It is probable that the flag will be hung across Park avenue if the required permission can be obtained.

Details for a big smoker for Saturday night were arranged, the programme for which will be announced as soon as completed. The young men expect to also hold a mass meeting at Music Hall shortly.

Will N. Runyon sang some of the new campaign songs and a large male chorus practiced on the chorus parts. They expect to sing at the Republican mass meeting tonight. Some excitement was caused when some of the decorations were pushed near a gas jet and caught fire but the flames were immediately extinguished.

RASORES' OFFICERS.

Mrs. M. E. Kimball to Again Preside Over the Club.

The Rasores Club met this morning as usual at the home of its president, Mrs. M. E. Kimball, of East Fifth street. The election of officers was the principal business of the morning. The former officers were unanimously re-elected to their different positions. They were as follows: President, Mrs. M. E. Kimball; vice-president, Mrs. A. S. Patterson; secretary and treasurer, Mrs. Cordelia Halloway; executive committee, Mrs. G. H. Goddard, Mrs. I. C. Pierson, Mrs. Ruth C. Leonard and Mrs. Laura Gilbert.

It was decided to have Longfellow and his works for the subject for the next three months. As there was no regular subject for discussion, the talk turned to the leading events of the day.

Borough Campaign Committee.

The North Plainfield Republican Campaign Executive committee met last evening and organized by electing Peter A. Emmons, chairman, Frank Bowley, secretary and F. W. Williams, treasurer. Committees will be appointed on public meetings, finance, registration, election and press. If possible a mass meeting will be arranged for next Monday evening at Sangerbund Hall, when some prominent speaker will be present to voice the party's sentiments. The meeting last evening was an enthusiastic one and well attended.

Not as Far Advanced as Hoped For.

The work on the vaults for the City National Bank is not as far advanced as the officials had hoped for. During the intense warm weather toward the latter part of the summer the men in the factory refused to work, and hence the present delay. However, the vaults are completed and the various parts are now being fitted. The vaults are the very latest in improvements and are right up to date.

Star Chamber Proceedings.

Previous to the City Council meeting last evening several of the members held a secret session in the Mayor's office. It is not known positively what matters were discussed, but it is intimated that the charges against the two patrolmen were settled.

A Horse's Mad Plunge.

A young and nervous horse, attached to the delivery wagon of G. Q. Packer, started to run away at the freight house this morning and plunged into some freight cars and wrecked the vehicle. Aleck Cuff, the driver, was thrown from the wagon, but not seriously hurt.

Chosen a Bank Director.

F. S. Runyon, cashier of the First National Bank, has been chosen as one of the directors of the bank.

EASY ANGLING, BUT COSTLY.

Two New Market Men Fined for Illegally Takes Bass From the Pond.

John Otto, the mill owner at New Market, drew off the water from his mill pond yesterday morning and Theodore Roantree and Joseph Winckler, who live nearby, concluded that it would be a splendid opportunity to capture a catch of fish without much patience or expense. After the water had been drawn off it was not much trouble for them to spear a half bushel of bass and a few carp, and this they did with dexterity and rapidity. The fish were taken to the home of the former.

Game Warden Sebring heard of the instance and yesterday afternoon went to New Market with a search warrant and found the coveted fish in possession of Roantree. He immediately put the two fisherman under arrest and took them before Justice Storms on the charge of fishing in violation of the game laws. The justice found them guilty and fined them $20 and costs, which they paid. Roantree is employed as a barkeeper in the lake house.

SUNDAY SCHOOL ASSOCIATION.

To Meet in the Westfield Congregational Church Next Thursday.

The sixteenth annual convention of the Union county Sunday School Association will be held in the Congregational church, at Westfield, Thursday and a large attendance is expected. In the morning at 11:15 there will be an address by Rev. G. H. Payson, of Rahway, on the subject "Christ and the children." An address on "International Sunday-School Work" will be given in the afternoon at 3 o'clock by Captain C. B. Parsons, of Red Bank. At 3:30 Mrs. Alonzo Pettit, of Elizabeth, will conduct a conference on primary work, and at 4:15 Rev. Linn E. Wheeler, of New Brunswick, will deliver an address on "The Secret of Success in Teaching." In the evening at 8:40 W. H. Beach, of Jersey City, will deliver an address. The morning session will be opened at 10 o'clock, the afternoon at 2 o'clock and the evening at 7:30. The programme is an excellent one and contains many things outside of the above mentioned.

A BOY'S TALE OF CRUELTY.

He Says His Father Chained Him to a Rafter in the Garret.

Frank Conrad, of Elizabeth, eleven years old, whose father is employed in the Central Railroad shops, told a tale of cruelty at the county jail yesterday afternoon. It will be investigated. Frank said that he had been chained to a rafter in the garret of his father's home in such a position that he could not sleep, and that his father had stamped on him and his fourteen year-old sister with his foot. He said that his father's cruelty caused him to run away from home and go to the home of his Uncle John. His father, several weeks ago, he says, compelled him to wheel a great pile of ashes out of the yard, and refused to give him anything to eat until he had done the work. When his hands had blistered so that he was unable to finish his work, he says, his father gave him nothing to eat. After that, he says, he was so afraid of his father that he slept under the bed, and ate his meals at his sister-in-law's house.

STRONG BUSINESS COMBINATION.

H. E. Rider's and C. H. Lister's Bicycle Stores to be Joined.

It is probable that this afternoon the necessary papers will be signed for the formation of a company to succeed H. E. Rider and Charles Lister in the bicycle business on an extensive scale. Those interested in the company are B. A. Hegeman, jr., L. S. Pocock, A. D. Thompson and Messrs. Rider and Lister. It is intended that Mr. Lister will combine his store with the one now conducted by Mr. Rider on the opposite side of North avenue. Mr. Lister is an experienced dealer in bicycles and together with the well known enterprise and responsibility of the other members of the company, the combination would be a strong one.

Messrs. Hegeman and Pocock will be directors and Messrs Thompson, Lister and Rider the incorporators.

Planing For a Sociable.

The Epworth League of the First M. E. Church is planing for a sociable on the evening of Friday, Octobar 23. It will be under the charge of the literary committee of which Miss Ida Angleman is chairman. It will be "An evening with the Book of Romans." The will be short sketches of the principal characters and places mentioned and the history of that time reviewed. The sketches will be given by different members of the League. Then the social committee of which Miss Elsie Holmes is chairman, will provide refreshments and a social time.

AN EXTENSION OF TIME.

SEWER ASSESMENT COMMISSIONERS UNABLE TO FINISH IN TIME.

They Will Make Their Report December 8th—City Judge DeMeza Reports the Court Statistics For Past Three Months.

Overcoats were in order at the adjourned meeting of the City Council last evening, owing to the absence of heat. President See and Councilman Barrows, Dumont Ginna, Stebbins and Frost were present, and in the absence of Clerk MacMurray, Stenographer Geo. B. Wean was clerk pro tem. The reading of the minutes was dispensed with. A communication was received from the American Surety company of New York in which they inquired as to whether Contractors Washburn & Washburn and John Marsden had completed their work satisfactory. If so, they were desirous of cancelling the bonds given in each case. The matter was referred to the finance committee for investigation. City Judge DeMeza presented his quarterly report which showed that 229 prisoners had been brought before him, 58 of whom had been fined, 40 committed, 36 discharged, 89 sentence suspended, and there were now six cases untried. There had been received $271 as fines and Sergeant Kiely had received $25—half the fine in the Scott liquor case. For cleaning the court room Mrs. Barry received $6.50 and $3 was spent for stationery.

In regard to the Madison avenue extension Mr. Dumont offered a resolution that inasmuch as the commissioners had been unable to meet on September 3d, that October 29th be set as the date when they should meet to further consider assessments for damages and benefits. The resolution prevailed. Another resolution was offered by Mr. Dumont which was adopted. It provided that the sewer commissioners be given an extension of time to December 8th, owing to the fact that the time had expired when they should make and present their report. Mr. Dumont stated that it was necessary to have more money and offered a resolution that $5,000 be borrowed for the general fund and $2,500 for the fire fund in anticipation of taxes. The resolution was adopted. It was stated by Mr. Dumont that the Watchung avenue extension matter was not yet in shape to be reported and he thought it wise to lay it over for a time. The matter was therefore postponed indefinitely. President See will issue a call for a special meeting when the report is ready. There was no further business to be continued and the meeting adjourned.

A FINE SET OF SLIDES.

The Camera Club Accorded the Privilege of Showing a Valuable Collection.

The Plainfield Camera Club is quite highly honored by a notification that was received at a meeting of the club last night. Word was then received that the set of prize slides for '93, '94 and '95 of the American Amateur Photographers competition would arrive in Plainfield today and the Plainfield Camera Club would have the privilege of showing their friends the handsomest set of amateur slides ever gathered together in this country.

J. Hervey Doane and Otto Arens were appointed a committee to look after the pictures and arrange for an exhibition of the views. Routine business was also transacted at the meeting.

This morning the set of slides was received by J. Hervey Doane. The collection is a fine one and contains a number of slides made by William B. Post, formerly of this city, but now of New York, and include some views in the vicinity of Plainfield.

The date of the exhibition will probably be announced tomorrow, as the club is only entitled to keep the pictures fifteen days. They came here from Philadelphia and go from Plainfield to California.

AN EVENING OF PLEASURE.

Held at the Home of the Misses Ketcham, of East Fifth Street.

Very delightful was the informal gathering last evening at the home of the Misses Ketcham, of East Fifth street, given in honor of their neice, Miss Fanny K. Noble and nephew, Charles Noble, of Mendham.

A progressive conversation party made the first part of the evening pass off so very pleasantly. Prizes for the most entertaining conversation were voted to Miss Noble and Henry Brower. Several piano and violin duets were charmingly rendered by Miss Mary Collier and Charles Davis. Miss Mary A. Luckey recited several selections in her usual delightful manner, while Miss Noble gave a very pleasing vocal selection.

Refreshments, dancing and games made the time fly by unnoticed until the time came to thank the hostesses for the very enjoyable evening and say good night.

WAR PREPARATIONS

Russia Mobilizing Naval Forces at Sebastopol.

GETTING READY FOR AN EMERGENCY

A Gunboat Loaded with Mines, Shells and Torpedoes and a Company of Submarine Engineers Are Held in Readiness To Immediately Embark.

London, Oct. 13.—The Daily Graphic to-day publishes a dispatch from Sebastopol saying that Russia is continuing her preparations for an emergency. The local military and naval forces at Sebastopol, Odessa and Bataum have been mobilized. Gen. Bobrikoff, chief of the war office staff, recently arrived at Sebastopol and was held important conferences with the local commanders. He has inspected the garrison and arsenal, and has picked out a company of submarine engineers who have been ordered to hold themselves in readiness to immediately embark upon a gunboat. This gunboat is already loaded with mines, shells and torpedoes. The interior garrisons in Poland, Taurida and the Caucasus have received orders to be in readiness at a moment's notice to board special trains for ports on the Euxine.

BIG CONFLAGRATION.

Several Large Buildings and Two Stables Burned at Great Barrington.

Great Barrington, Mass., Oct. 13.—The largest fire that ever occurred in this town broke out at 10 p. m. in a tenement house near the New York, New Haven & Hartford railroad station. The fire soon spread to the Kennedy hotel and livery stables and the Miller house stables, situated in the center of the town. A large brick block in Railroad street was also soon in flames. All of these buildings were soon destroyed and the flames spread to the Hollenbeck block and the Miller house. The wind was blowing a gale from the north and it was feared that the fire would cross Railroad street to the south side of that thoroughfare. The excitement is still so great that the cause of the fire cannot be ascertained at this time. There was at one time danger of complete interruption of telegraph and telephonic communication to the outside world.

YOUNG CLAWSON GUILTY.

Convicted at Somerville, N. J., of Murder in the First Degree.

Somerville, N. J., Oct. 13.—Elmer Clawson, the 17-year-old boy who has been on trial for a week in the Somerset court for the murder of farmer Harry Hodgetts, near Pluckemin, was convicted yesterday afternoon of murder in the first degree. On the morning of August 29 last Clawson, while engaged in conversation with Hodgetts, drew a revolver and shot him through the breast. Clawson attempted to escape on a bicycle, but was captured by a posse of farmers and brought to the county jail. An attempt was made to prove the boy insane by medical experts and a great number of witnesses. Clawson's manner in the witness box, however, was fatal to his plea of insanity.

Fall River Mill Affairs.

Fall River, Mass., Oct. 13.—The American Linen mills have resumed after a week's shut down on account of a breakdown. The Robeson mill is still stopped. The Metacomet stopped Saturday for an indefinite period and the Fall River manufactory will stop Saturday for an unknown time. Nothing is known regarding the course of the big mills.

Woman Probably Murdered.

Brooklyn, N. Y., Oct. 13.—The body of an unknown woman, about 45 years old, was found late yesterday afternoon in Wycoff swamp, Canarsie. All appearances point to the probability of the woman having been murdered. Her face and arms were bruised badly. The woman's description exactly fits that of Miss Emily Dickerson, who has been missing from her home for three weeks.

Another Bank Cashier Skips Out.

Columbus, O., Oct. 13.—E. M. Clemens, cashier of the Cedarville state bank, has disappeared and the bank is closed pending an examination. A shortage of $1,000 is already found. He left a letter to his wife saying he was going to Mexico, bat assigning no reason.

Dr. Moore To Be Tried Oct. 19.

Manchester, N. H., Oct. 13.—Dr J. C. Moore, awaiting trial on the charge of illegally over-issuing stock of the Manchester Union Publishing company, has, through his counsel, withdrawn his petition for a change of venue and the trial will take place at Nashua, beginning Oct. 19 next.

Gladstone the Man.

London, Oct. 13.—The Times expresses the belief that the rival claims of Sir William Vernon Harcourt and Mr. Asquith for the succession to the leadership of the liberal party will compel the recall of Mr. Gladstone to try to unite the party.

Bank Clerk Accidentally Shot.

Providence, Oct. 13.—Howard Fuller, a clerk in the Third National bank, was shot in the back yesterday afternoon by the accidental discharge of a revolver which he had knocked from a shelf while putting books in a safe. The wound is a serious one.

Providence Democrats.

Providence, Oct. 13.—The democratic city convention last night renominated mayor Edwin D. McGuinness, city treasurer, D. L. Granger; overseer of the poor, Matthew J. Cummings, and harbor master, John H. Maguire.

Amateur Bowling League.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The Massachusetts Amateur Bowling league voted last night to adopt the 12-inch triangle with a drop gutter of 3 1-2 inches.

PALMER DEFEATS MURPHY.

The Yankee Boy's Pluck Heartily Applauded by Englishmen.

London, Oct. 13.—The fight between "Pedlar" Palmer of London and Johnnie Murphy of Boston for the bantam-weight championship of the world took place last night at the National Sporting club and was won by Palmer. Both men were in excellent condition, and each weighed in at 118½ pounds. Palmer was a good favorite in the betting at odds of 9 to 4. The Englishman forced the fighting from the outset of the battle. He was much the quicker in his deliveries, and he hustled Murphy round the ring in lively style. In the first two rounds Murphy failed to land a single good blow. Nevertheless, he stood up bravely and took punishment pluckily as Palmer rained blows upon him with his right and left. The pluck of the Yankee boy was heartily applauded. In the third round Murphy landed once or twice, but did no apparent damage to his opponent. Murphy started in the fourth round with more advantage, but he was terribly slow. Round after round Palmer rushed Murphy about the ring, but the American did not show that he had been punished much until the end of the twelfth round. Then he went to his corner very tired. Before time was called, however, he pulled himself together and made a splendid fight in the thirteenth round. Despite his pluck he was too terribly battered to recover permanently and Palmer had the battle in hand to the finish. At the end of the twentieth round Palmer was declared the winner on points. Murphy was not knocked out.

CHARGED WITH EMBEZZLEMENT

Edward Waite, a Boston Oil Merchant, Must Account for $3,410.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Edwin Waite of the firm of Waite, Williams & Co., oil merchants, was arrested yesterday afternoon on a warrant charging him with the embezzlement of $3,410. In default of bail he was committed to the city prison. Mr. Waite is 54 years of age, is well known in the oil trade and his arrest caused great surprise to a large number of business friends. The warrant on which he was arrested was sworn out by Royal B. Conant, Walter W. Conant and Florence L. Wheeler, children of the late Mrs. Alvira Conant, who charge Waite with appropriating to his own use $3,000 left by their mother in his hands as trustee for the children. Two years ago Mr. Waite failed and it was then learned that he had invested the money in his business, but as he paid the interest regularly, matters were allowed to remain as they were. Recently, however, attempts have been made to obtain payment of the principal, but as these efforts were unsuccessful a criminal charge was brought.

"CONGRESS OF MOTHERS."

Sponsors of the New Movement Greatly Encouraged and Hope for Much.

Washington, Oct. 13.—The sponors of the "National Congress of Mothers" proposed to be held in this city in February of next year feel encouraged by the sympathy their movement met from several prominent ladies in this district and elsewhere. At their proposed meeting various subjects with the objective point of ennobling the character of the young will be matters of fruitful discussion, and it is expected that the meeting will be initiatory of an enthusiasm in behalf of the welfare of the coming race, that will commend itself to the laudits of mankind throughout the world.

CHARGES AGAINST DOWLING.

Cincinnati Internal Revenue Collector Said To Have Raised Campaign Funds.

Washington, Oct. 13.—United States District Attorney Cleveland at Cincinnati has been instructed by Attorney General Harmon to investigate the charges preferred by the United States civil service commission against Internal Revenue Collector Dowling of Cincinnati of violating the law in collecting money from his employes for campaign purposes. The district attorney, under his general instructions, is empowered, if he is satisfied the charges are sustained by the evidences submitted, to commence proceedings against the collector.

Reception to Miss Willard Postponed.

Woodstown, N. J., Oct. 13.—Miss Emily R. Kirby, president of the Woman's Christian Temperance union, has just announced that the reception, which was proposed to be tendered Miss Willard by the New Jersey W. C. T. U. this evening, has been postponed until a later date on account of Miss Willard's inability to leave England at the time originally fixed for her de

A THRILLING MESSAGE.

Tramp Strikes an Altogether Too Sympathetic Man.

He was waiting for me at the foot of the elevated railway stairs at Chambers street, and as I put my foot on the pavement he stepped up and said:

"What I knows I knows, and I knows a gentleman when I meets one. When I seed you comin' down I sez to myself, sez I: 'Cully, that's a gentleman, and you just a-cost him and tell him your sorrers and troubles!'"

"Well, what is it?" I asked.

"It would take me two long hours to tell you the story, sir," he replied. "And of course you haven't two hours to spare."

"Oh, yes I have. This is my off night and you can talk to me till daylight if you want to. Just go ahead and unbosom yourself."

"If you wanted to give me a nickel and cut it short you could do so."

"But I don't. I want you to begin from the time you were two years old and tell me all that's happened. Don't skip a thing. I shan't mind ten cents after the entertainment. Let's get in a doorway somewhere where we won't be interrupted."

"What ar' ye givin' me!" he asked, as he hung back.

"Straight goods, sir. Your soul is bowed down with woe and grief and trouble. Tell me all and let me sympathize."

"I'll be hanged if I do!"

"But why?"

"Because, sir, as I saw you descending the stairs I sez to myself, sez I: 'Cully, that chap's no gentleman, but a bloke, and don't you go fur to a-cost him and hurt your own character!' That's what I says, sir, and now you go on and be durned to you!"—Detroit Free Press.

Hood's

Sarsaparilla as a blood purifier and building up medicine leads everything ever produced. It is positively the best. Others may make the same claim. But there's this difference: We prove it. Not by antiquity, but by Merit. Not by what we say, but by what Sarsaparilla does. Hood's a record of Cures unequalled in medical history. It positively, perfectly and permanently cures when all other medicines fail. That the keen discrimination of the people recognizes its merit and the cures by Hood's Sarsaparilla, is shown by the fact that they buy Hood's Sarsaparilla in preference and to the exclusion of all others. Hood's Sarsaparilla has a larger sale than all other blood purifiers. It wins confidence everywhere because the statements in its advertising and testimonials are verified by all who take it. No other medicine has ever received such praise, or so many voluntary testimonials of wonderful cures. No other medicine possesses

There are children without food. They cry for it, and are not answered. The pity of it! But often nature cries out in other ways that her children need nourishment. Is your child thin; actually poor in flesh? Does it get no benefit from its food? Then give something which produces flesh and makes rich blood.

IMPUGNS OUR HONOR

Yachting Association's Reply to Gould Arouses Americans.

A BLOW TO INTERNATIONAL SPORT

Committee Disclaim All Intention of Discourtesy and Claim the Niagara Was Searched According to Custom—Other Points Not Discussed.

London, Oct. 13.—Many prominent and wealthy members of the American colony in London are deeply indignant at what they consider to be the discourteous reply of the Yacht Racing association to Howard Gould's complaint that his yacht, the Niagara, was boarded and searched by a committee of the association during his absence, without previous notice to either himself or his captain, in order to inquire into the report that the water tanks on the Niagara were connected by a pipe and could therefore be used to shift ballast while racing. Among those who have taken up arms against the association are several who own or are interested in yachts, and they predict that international yacht racing will suffer a blow from which it will take long years to recover. They deny the assertion contained in the letter that notice of such visits is never given, and point out that this statement is an insinuation that, if such notice were given, American yachtsmen would take advantage of it and conceal what the Englishmen, by their curt reply, apparently consider absolute evidences of dishonesty. They claim that such insinuations impugn American honor and add real bitterness to the royal sport of yacht racing. The letter, signed by Dixon Kemp, secretary of the Yacht Racing association, follows: "I am directed by the council of the Yacht Racing association to acknowledge the receipt of a letter from you, dated the 28th of September. I am to reply that the visit of their committee to Niagara was made in the usual course and solely in consequence of the official measurer having, in May, 1896, in execution of his duty, reported to the council that her watertanks were connected together in such a manner that they might be used as shifting ballast. Notice of such visits is never given. The committee expected to find you on board, but, hearing from your captain that you had left for London only a few minutes before, they requested permission to inspect the tanks, which was readily given. Their declarations confirmed the report of the measurer, and they notified you in writing that the tanks should be disconnected, at the same time expressly disclaiming any imputation that the tanks were actually put in for improper use. The council fail to perceive that any discourtesy was displayed toward you, and certainly none was intended. It is not necessary to enter into any discussion of the other points raised in your letter. As you thought fit to make your grievance public through the press, it is proposed that this reply shall pass through the same channel."

London Newspaper Comment.

London, Oct. 13.—The Daily Graphic commenting in its issue to-day upon the letter of the council of the Yacht Racing association to Howard Gould, will say that the letter should set at rest the lingering doubts as to the courtesy and straightforwardness with which the council acted. It adds that a good many American yachtsmen have yet to learn that if they race here they must submit to the same conditions as the princes, peers and commoners of Europe.

THE CLAIMS COMPROMISED.

Col. D. R. Paige, Who Fled from New York Four Years Ago, Returns.

New York, Oct. 13.—Col. David R. Paige, the failure of whose firm, Paige, Carey & Co., about four years ago, caused the failure of the North River bank, has returned to this city from Buenos Ayres, to which place he fled shortly after the crash. It is said that friends have come to his assistance and that most of the claims against him have been compromised. Lawyer Kellogg, who conducted negotiations for compromise, said this morning that he had settled claims amounting to $650,000, giving 20 per cent. cash and notes secured by claims for $500,000 against the city, for work done on the Croton Aqueduct by Paige, Carey & Co. for 30 per cent. of the balance. Claims now outstanding against Paige, he said, would not amount to more than $65,000, and that he expected to be able to settle them on the same basis. In regard to the North River bank's claim of about $400,000, Mr. Kellogg maintained that it had been compromised before Paige left the United States, a portion of the aqueduct claims, amounting to $400,000 having been turned over to the receiver.

P. J. Tynan To Be Released.

Washington, Oct. 13.—United States Ambassador Eustis at Paris has cabled to the state department that P. J. Tynan, who was arrested at Boulogne and whose extradition was asked for by the British, will be released by the French officials. This confirms the unofficial report already published.

Palmer and Buckner at Detroit.

Detroit, Oct. 13.—Generals Palmer and Buckner, the candidates of the national democracy for president and vice-president, respectively, delivered addresses before an audience of 2,500 persons at the the auditorium here last evening. Both speakers were warmly welcomed.

Thomas B. Reed at Buffalo To-night.

New York, Oct. 13.—The Hon. Thos. B. Reed of Maine will speak in Buffalo this evening.

WORK OF THE GALE

Damage Along New England and New Jersey Coasts.

PLEASURE CRAFT FARED BADLY

The Beaches at Cape May and Atlantic Highlands Washed and Torn by a Tremendous Surf—Houses Undermined and Railroad Traffic Delayed.

Boston, Oct. 13.—That the present gale will prove disastrous to shipping no one has the least doubt, and the reports of the next few days will probably bring intelligence of many wrecks. More or less damage has already been sustained and the storm has wrought havoc among the pleasure craft in this vicinity. The small schooner yachts Marie and Elsie broke adrift from their moorings in the Cow Pasture and were being driven to certain destruction, when the tug boat Fulton gave chase and succeeded in picking up both yachts and towed them to East Boston. The Marie had her bowsprit carried away and the Elsie lost her headgear. The sloop yacht Egeria was driven on Rip Rap Wall last night and one of her sides was smashed in and she is fast going to pieces. Sloop yacht May is ashore at the Cow Pasture, but it is thought she will be gotten off uninjured. Between twenty and thirty yachts have broken from their moorings at South Boston and a large number of them damaged so badly that they will not be worth repairing. Capt. Swim of the tug Florence states that he sighted a two-masted British schooner scurrying before the wind, under bare poles in Dorchester bay, but he was unable to learn her name. He fears she met with disaster. The fishing schooner New England, Capt. Lewis, came into T wharf last evening from Georges with a fare of about 18,000 pounds of mixed fish. Capt. Lewis says he never saw rougher weather than was experienced between Highland Light and the lightship. Just below the lightship two gigantic waves nearly engulfed the schooner, but by easing her off she escaped with only her decks being swept. The New England saw no vessels in distress. The extreme high tide seriously impeded traffic on the ferries.

Destruction at Cape May.

Cape May, N. J., Oct. 13.—Last night's high tide and heavy sea washed the remnant of Beach avenue at South Cape May into the sea. The waves broke against the houses, cutting out the underpinning and sweeping away fences and trolley tracks. St. Peter's chapel, at Cape May Point, has lost part of its support and may drop on the strand at any moment. East Cape May beach was swept by the sea and the trolley roadbed washed out. The board walk in front of this city was damaged, portions of it being washed away. The damage to the shore line from Cape May Point to Sewell's Point is estimated at $10,000.

Damage at Atlantic Highlands.

Atlantic Highlands, N. J., Oct. 13.—The damage by the storm is considerable, private shore property and bulkheads being destroyed. The greatest damage was done at Highland beach, where several valuable buildings were undermined and a great inlet was forced through the beach to the Shrewsbury river, breaking the government railroad to the Sandy Hook proving grounds. The telegraph cable by the railroad bridge was badly damaged. Below, toward Seabright, the railroad tracks were covered several feet deep with sand in some places while in others they were torn from their bed and destroyed. The telegraph and telephone poles were demolished. The amount of the damage cannot as yet be computed.

Exciting Experience on a Train.

Atlantic City, N. J., Oct. 13.—Passengers on the Newfield local train over the West Jersey railroad, bound for this city, had an exciting experience yesterday. The train was trying to cross the Meadows over tracks submerged in three or four feet of water by the storm, and was halted near the tower, where the fatal railroad wreck occured last July, because the fires in the engine were extinguished by the water. Here the train was stalled in the midst of a sea from 10 o'clock in the morning until 5 in the afternoon.

New York M. E. Conference Statistics.

Tonawanda, Pa., Oct. 13.—Bishop Newman made the appointments of the Central New York Methodist Episcopal conference yesterday afternoon, and the session shortly afterward adjourned. There were many changes. The statistical committee reported 36,613 church members and 334 Sunday schools, with 35,457 pupils and 5,205 teachers. Over $50,000 was raised for benevolent purposes during the year.

Young Whitney and Bride Sail for Japan.

Vancouver, B. C., Oct. 13.—The steamer Empress of India sailed for the Orient last evening. She had both a large passenger list and cargo. Among her passengers were H. Payne Whitney, son of the ex-secretary of the United States navy, and his bride, who are enroute to Yokohama on their honeymoon trip.

Three Miners Killed.

Wilkesbarre, Pa., Oct. 13.—Three men named Thomas Mitchell, George Bitieski and John Petruse, rock miners, were instantly killed in the Lehigh shaft yesterday afternoon. They were at work near the foot of the shaft laying a track when a body of rock fell upon them, crushing them beyond recognition.

Cut Down by the Dolphin.

Newport, R. I., Oct. 13.—Friday evening the U. S. S. Dolphin cut down to the water's edge the fishing schooner Mary E. Webb of Gloucester, off this port. She came here for repairs.

WEATHER INDICATIONS.

(Furnished by Weather Observer Neagle.)

Showers this Afternoon and Tonight, Followed by Fair Wednesday; Stationary Temperature.

At 2 o'Clock Leggett's Thermometer Registered 52 Degrees.

Benjamin Smith, a man formerly prominent in New Jersey and also once very wealthy, died a day or two ago in the almshouse at New Brunswick. It is said that his poverty was the result of excessive generosity. How few there are who, having once acquired wealth, bestow it upon others and take upon themselves the miseries of poverty. Mr. Smith ought to have a monument, says as exchange.

TO WAGE A VIGOROUS CAMPAIGN.

Borough Republicans Organize for Preliminary Election Work.

The Borough Republican executive campaign committee held an enthusiastic meeting last evening. W. W. Howland was temporary chairman and called the meeting to order, after which P. A. Emmons was elected permanent chairman, Frank Rowley secretary, and F. W. Williams treasurer. The chairman was then empowered by a motion to appoint committees, and the following were announced:

Press, Charles Sminck, A. V. D. Honeyman, H. N. Spencer; election, N. B. Smalley, P. A. Emmons, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., H. N. Spencer, Albert Runyon, C. B. Pope, Andrew Lutkins, Geo. H. Fairchild, W. C. Smith, J. H. Cooley, Phillip Acker, Geo. Bullman; finance, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., C. W. McCutchen, W. W. Howland, H. A. McGee, W. C. Smith, J. G. MacLaughlin, L. E. Barkalew, J. P. Emmons, Chas. Place, H. K. Carroll; public meetings, J. K. Arnold, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., E. A. Overton, H. N. Spencer, R. M. Fountain, C.S.Sminck, T. S. Armstrong.

THEATRICAL.

There are few companies on the road this season, who have in such a small space of time, made such a tremendous hit and success as have William Jerome's Herald Square Comedians in his "TwentiethCentury" idea of an entertainment, entitled "Town Talk." The performance is strictly up-to date, the management having combined high class vaudeville with roaring farce comedy. By so doing has done away with the old idea of long waits between the acts. From the time the curtain goes up, it does not drop until the end of the performance. The cast is a large and strong one and outside of Mr. Jerome there will be found such people as Miss Maud Nugent, the Mahr Sisters, Daly and Hilton, Barnes and Coakley, W. C. Davis, Master Tommy Meade, Thomas H. Sedwick and others.

—The borough registration board is in session today for the first.

—Unity Lodge, No. 102, Knights of Pythias, meet tomorrow evening as usual.

—The First National Bank directors met this morning and transacted nothing but routine business.

—Minerva Temple, No. 4, Rathbone Sisters, will hold their regular meeting this evening.

—Cars No. 1 and 2 of the street railway, are off duty while they are being supplied with additional motors.

—Engine Company No. 2, of the fire department, held a regular meeting last evening and transacted routine business.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

THE HONEST SHAKERS AND THEIR CURE FOR DYSPEPSIA.

The shopkeeper who cheats us by lying with regard to the quality of his goods, and the grocer who gives us short weight, is a thief. However, their knavery touches nothing but our pocketbook. There is another widespread form of misrepresentation of a far more dangerous and villainous character.

We refer to the false statements and worthless guarantees that frequently accompany medicines. To guarantee a medicine to cure is to brand it as a quack product. If we can guarantee to cure disease, then we can guarantee everlasting life, for in a large majority of cases people die of disease, the proportion of violent or accidental deaths being very small.

The Shakers have always been known as a most upright and honorable people, and their success in the manufacture of medicines has also been well known. It is therefore not surprising to find them pursuing a very original and novel plan for the introduction of their remedy for dyspepsia.

God-fearing people whose motto has always been "Try all things and hold fast that which is good," have put upon the market ten cent sample bottles of their product for sufficient to give it a trial.

The Shaker Digestive Cordial is so prompt in its action that for the trivial sum of ten cents, a person can usually determine as to whether or not it meets the requirements of his case. There are forms of dyspepsia which it won't help, but these are very rare. In most cases the first dose relieves all distress, and an increase of appetite at once follows.

All druggists have it, and the next time you are troubled with indigestion send out and try this popular and successful product. It represents nearly a hundred years of patient investigation and study.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The Midmer Glee Club will sing at East Orange on November 11th.

—A meeting of the Yale Club will be held this evening at the Y. M. C. A. building.

—The Board of Governors of the Crescent Wheelmen will hold a meeting tonight.

—Got on your fall underwear? You should get into that sold by Peck if you want comfort.

—Queen City Lodge, No. 223, I. O. O. F., will celebrate its fifth anniversary on the evening of October 26th.

—While Driver Henry Wierenga, of Engine, No. 2, is off duty, his place is taken by Frank Rand, of No. 2 Company.

—Winfield Scott Post, No. 73, G. A. R., will meet this evening to consider matters pertaining to their coming fair.

—The Dunellen Athletic Club will give an invitation entertainment and dance this evening at Friendship Hall, New Market.

—Voters! go to your respective polling places to day and see that you are registered. If you are not registered you cannot vote.

—The North Plainfield township committee will probably not meet until after election, as there is no important business to be considered.

Resolutions of Condolence.

At the regular monthly meeting of Division No. 4, A. O. H., held October 8th, 1896, the following resolutions on the death of Mrs. Catharine Canary, wife of Brother James Canary, were presented by the committee and adopted:

Whereas, It has pleased our Almighty Father to call from her sphere of usefulness Catharine, wife of our worthy Brother James Canary; and

Whereas, Death, always a sad affliction, is especially so when one just entering the prime of life is suddenly called away, leaving behind her little ones to battle their way through life without a mother's care; therefore be it

Resolved, That we, the members of Division No. 4, A. O. H., while bowing to His divine will, do hereby record our deep grief and sorrow for the untimely death of our worthy brother's wife, and we extend to him our sympathy in his sad affliction hoping and praying that God in His goodness will watch over and comfort the little ones thus suddenly bereft of a mother's care and teachings, and be it

Resolved, That a copy of these resolutions be sent to the bereaved husband; also to the daily papers for publication, and that they be spread in full on the minutes of this society.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

W. S. Emery and son, Ted, have gone to Lafayette today to oversee the construction of the new furnaces for the Edison Electric Light Company. Mr. Emery is the contractor.

The Democratic flag which has been admired by so many of the residents and others during the past ten days, was caught in the gale yesterday and so badly torn and twisted that it had to be taken down.

Ted Emery, who accidentally fell from a scaffold and fractured a rib while at work around his father's building at Lafayette some two weeks ago, has recovered under Dr. Westcott's skilful care, and was able to resume his labors today.

An evening reception and dance was given at Billy Lee's West Side House last evening, but the storm prevented the expected large attendance. Dancing was the main feature of the evening's enjoyment, and the festivities were continued until early this morning.

Quite a serious runaway accident happened at Sbotch Plains, last evening. A lady and her child were driving down Johnston's Drive during the evening, when the breeching on the harness broke, and the horse ran away. The lady and boy were thrown out, and the latter was badly injured about the head. He was taken to Dr. Westcott's office, where the wounds were found to be of such a serious nature that the doctor had to take several stitches in the boy's head.

DUNELLEN.

Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Snell are jubilant during the present storm. It's a boy.

Mr. and Mrs. W. Waldron, of Springdale, and Mr. and Mrs. Peter Rose, of Netherwood, have been recent guests of Mr. and Mrs. N. B. Snell, of West Dunellen.

M. W. Mulford, at one time a resident here and lately engaged in the coal and lumber business, dropped dead yesterday soon after reaching his home in Elizabeth. Heart disease is given as the cause of death.

Robert Craig, one of Delaman's clerks, stepped on a rusty nail, a day or two ago, and sustained an injury from which it was feared that blood-poisoning might result. He is, however, able to be at his place of business.

The Dunellen Gun Club held a regular meeting last evening with a good attendance present. Outside of the routine business the club decided to expend $75 in prizes, to be divided among those making the highest score during the fall shooting.

There was a genuine dog fight in Giles' hardware store yesterday while "Bob" Mattox was selling off the contents of the store. The fight was fierce while it lasted and it had the effect of driving many buyers out. The amount realized from the sale of the stock just about paid the chattel mortgage.

A birthday surprise party was held at the residence of Mrs. R. L. Pierce, Saturday evening. It was gotten up in honor of Elbert Stevens, who is eighteen years of age. Music for the occasion was furnished by Miss Estelle Sofield, and there were games and vocal music. Among the guests present were the Misses Pierce, the Misses Etta and Florence Stevens, and J. Stevens, of Newark, Miss Emma Smalley, Stelle Sofield, Mildred Gaskill, Mattie Moore, Miss VanNise, the Misses VanMiddlesworth, and Messrs. Frank Nelson, Elmer Blackford, Frank VanNise, Rudolph Stiles, Fred Dayton, Nelson Giles, Charles Kelly, John VanNise and Robert L. Pierce.

Services in commemoration of autumn will be held in the Methodist church next Sunday.

Joel Giddis has been visiting his father, who has been seriously indisposed on account of a stroke of paralysis.

Mr. and Mrs. Welrly, of Somerville, spent Sunday with Mr. and Mrs. R. J. Swackhamer, at their Dunellen avenue home.

W. VanMiddlesworth and Jacob Snell rode their wheels to Farmingdale, Monmouth county, on Saturday and remained there until Monday as the guests of Mr. Aaron Butcher, an aunt of Mr. VanMiddlesworth.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Miss Mabel Gillies, of Central avenue, is confined to her home with illness.

G. Thorn, of East Second street, is slowly recovering from his attack of sciatica.

Mrs. Isaac Smalley, of East Front street, has returned from a visit to Philadelphia.

C. B. Cliff, of Rutherford, visited at the home of G. H. Durrant, of Crescent avenue, yesterday.

A little son arrived in the household of Brigadier George French, of East Second street, last week.

Miss Lizzie Long, of Somerville, has been visiting her cousin, Miss Clara Long, of Park avenue.

Miss Wilson, of Brooklyn, returned home yesterday after a pleasant visit with the Misses Boss, of Central avenue.

F. E. Briggs and family, of East Second street, have gone to Albany, Indiana, to spend a few weeks with friends.

Roland Tomlinson, of LaGrande avenue, went to New York today and there he will remain while attending the Columbia Medical.

Rev. Dr. E. M. Rodman, pastor of Grace church, has gone to Perth Amboy today on business in connection with church matters.

Dexter O. Tiffany, of Crescent avenue, is one of the latest purchasers of a Cleveland Steel Special from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Mrs. L. B. Coddington, of Watchung avenue, who has been suffering from typhoid fever for the past six weeks is convalescing, but she is yet confined to the bed.

Mrs. D. H. Boland, of West Seventh street, has just purchased a ladies' Cleveland Steel Special and a boys Crescent from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

Charles W. McCutchen and family will return to their home on Rockview avenue tomorrow, after spending the summer at Camp Pinafore, their summer home in the Adirondacks.

George B. Wean, stenographer and typewriter at the Pond Tool Works, has returned from Norton, Hunterdon county, where he attended the funeral of his sister, Mrs. Stephenson, which occurred on Sunday.

Mr. and Mrs. G. S. Davis, of Three Bridges, Hunterdon county, leave for home today after a brief visit with the family of Winfield Scomp, of West Front street. Mr. Davis is engaged in agricultural pursuits.

After a very pleasant summer outing at Road Ending, this city, J. Howard Wright and family returned to their winter home, 346 Lexington avenue, New York city, this morning.

Cornelius Regan and A. J. Nolan are the delegates from this city who went to Orange today to attend the convention of the Catholic Benevolent Legion. They go as representatives from Plainfield Council, No. 244, C. B. L.

If Troubled with Rheumatism Read This.

Annapolis, Md., Apr. 16, 1894.—I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and found it to be all that is claimed for it. I believe it to be the best preparation for rheumatism and deep seated muscular pains on the market and cheerfully recommend it to the public. Jno. G. Brooks, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., No. 18 Main street.

ALSO READ THIS.

Mechanicsville, St. Mary County, Md. —I sold a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm to a man who had been suffering with rheumatism for several years. It made him a well man. A. J. Mc Gill. For sale at 50c. per bottle by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

A Lucky Chance For the Sick.

Every ailing and suffering person who is wise will instantly accept this generous offer. Coming from the very highest authority, as it does, gives it the greatest weight, and people know when they see a good thing like this. Everybody knows of Dr. Greene, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, of 35 West 14th St. New York City. His successful system of treating patients through letter corespondence is attracting great attention. All you have got to do is this. Write him a letter about your complaint, tell him how you feel, and he will answer it, giving a thorough explanation of your case and telling the surest way to get well.

He gives most careful and explicit attention to every letter, and explains your case so comprehensively, that you understand immediately exactly what ails you, and just what to do for yourself. And for all this he makes no charge. He is the discoverer of that remarkable medicine, Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy. This splendid offer is being taken advantage of by thousands, and they are getting well by his wonderfully successfully treatment. The very best thing you can do, reader, is to write the Docter immediately; it will cost you nothing, and it will surely be the means of making you well and strong. Don't delay until it is too late, but write now.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disasgreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. We Sell Goods Cheaper than any other Store in Town

There Are

Two little words that are frequently used in our every-day life; words of deep meaning—COMMON SENSE are the words, and the common sense of the people tells them that the merchant who buys for cash and sells for cash is in a position to sell you merchandise cheaper than all others, and when you read advertisements that tell of goods worth $1.00, and sold for 50c., your common sense tells you it IS NOT SO.

Ladies' and Children's Coats, Suits and Capes.

We ask an inspection of our assortment of suits, jackets, skirts and capes for ladies. We are in a position to sell you better goods for less money than all others, and make a specialty of making suits and jackets to order for ladies and children. There is a beaufiful line of cloakings in all the latest colorings, and you can make your own selections, and we make them to your order.

UNDERWEAR WEATHER!

You know the sort of underwear we sell. Nothing but the best, and prices all your way.

Autumn and Early Winter Styles Pleas3 the Eye.

Skirts Are Narrower Than of Yore and Sleeves Are Assuming Reasonable Proportions—Natty Wraps for the Intermediate Season.

[Special Chicago Letter.]

The fall and early winter styles are out, and many of them are pleasing and smart-looking to a degree. Some of the new gowns and wraps are immensely chic, and, best of all, so varied in design and material that if one but has the price the matter of selection easily cares for itself.

Skirts are cut considerably narrower than during the summer, and the best dressmakers have set their faces resolutely against an interlining. They take the ground that one is quite unnecessary with skirts less than four and a half yards in circumference; and with heavy-weight material this is surely true. I am sorry to note a tendency toward the train, it being particularly noticeable in models bearing the Paris stamp. In these models the train, or, more properly speaking, the demitrain, is protected from contact from the ground by a heavy ruche of silk, plaited and quilled, as only the French can do it.

STYLISH FALL GOWN.

It may be an interesting item to learn that on the best street gowns the leather binding is no longer used. At best this was cumbersome and very difficult to adjust, save by the hand of the expert. In its place tailors are using a heavy corduroy binding put on to show an eighth of an inch below the bottom of the skirt. It holds the skirt from the feet in the most perfect manner and is in no way like the velvet binding of other days.

It seems to be settled that all the modifications possible are to be introduced in the new sleeve. The one seen most frequently so far is a long, close-fitting one — but not skin-tight — slightly wrinkled below the elbow, with all sorts of puffs and frills set in at the armhole to reconcile the friends of the big sleeve to its gradual passing away. The once-popular coat sleeve is seen on many of the best models.

It seems good for us to realize once more the meaning of symmetry and cut in a sleeve, for it is generally agreed by the knowing ones that the exaggerated designs worn during the past year have, despite their appearance to the contrary, been on the whole easy to arrange. A plait more or less made no difference, and it was usually a matter of some uncertainty to the expert as well as the amateur as to what the ultimate result would really be. Now, however, it will be very different. Sleeves will need be fitted and dressmakers will be asked to observe some rule and regulation in the cut; also in the manner of mounting them into the armhole.

A CHARMING TEA GOWN.

In the matter of fabrics, velvet reigns supreme. No winter wardrobe can be called complete without a velvet gown, and to obtain one will doubtless be the ambition of every well-dressed woman. The French modiste declares it to be the one and only material for very swell occasions, and when garnitured with rare old lace it certainly does make a most regal-looking gown. And that it is generally becoming to the complexion and sets off the figure to splendid advantage takes nothing from its charm.

Silk is also enjoying a vast amount of popularity and will be in still greater demand as the winter advances. The heaviest weaves showing thick cords will be mostly in favor.

Moires and richly brocaded satins with raised flowers of contrasting hues will be used for dresses as well as for trimming on plain silks.

When the pattern is too showy and striking the best dressmakers veil it under net which enhances its beauty to a marked degree. One I saw within the week treated in this manner was a black satin ground with a raised floral design in yellow roses veiled under the finest black net, the shimmer of the yellow against the contrasting black producing a wonderfully beautiful effect.

From reliable quarters comes the rumor that plain cloths will obtain the largest share of favor during the coming autumn and winter months, but I am much mistaken if the fancy silk and wool mixtures and lovely camel's hair cloth, to say nothing of the ever-useful tweed, do not have a persuasive word to say for themselves. A smartly-built gown of gray tweed is difficult to beat for everyday wear, and the same may be said of the new salt-and-pepper mixture with its natty trimming of black braiding.

Speaking of braiding reminds me that the wise woman will employ her idle hours in braiding for herself a tiny bolero, for the braided bolero jacket is quite the proper thing at the present moment. It promises to be an indispensable adjunct of all waists, no matter what the material. It admits of all sorts of ornamentation, but just now preference is given to braiding in rather elaborate patterns and in sharply contrasting colors. Some of the boleros are square at the back, with pointed fronts; others are very short and rounded, and a few are slit up the back and trimmed accordingly. The most charming, I think, are in light colored cloth or delicately tinted velvet with chiffon or mousseline de soie fronts and high, folded crush belts. When made in this fashion they will be worn with separate skirts and will doubtless, in a measure at least, replace the ever-useful blouse.

Every woman who can afford it is going to have a velvet skirt waist this season. Not the ill-fitting ready-made affair bought at the dry goods store, but one fashioned by a first-class tailor, made over a boned lining with perfection written in every seam and curve. The color most sought after for these shirts is blue. In fact there is a perfect craze for blue, either light, medium or dark; and constant is it how and with what one pleases a blue velvet skirt waist is as necessary as a silken lining, and the up-to-date women will observe the unwritten law which says it must be worn with white collars and cuffs.

As the evenings grow shorter and shorter we value the luxurious comfort of the tea gown more and more. It is of all gowns the most capable of much variety, and is really the only one on which a woman can let her fancy for ornamentation run absolutely riot. A successful tea gown does not necessarily mean an expensive one, one of the prettiest ones I have seen being made out of an evening gown grown passe, the worn places nicely hidden by soft lace and dainty ribbon bows. Among the most desirable materials for this ideal garment are crepe de chine, fine cashmere, soft clinging silk, and last, but not least, the lovely printed velveteens that seem made expressly for this purpose and are most suitable for winter wear.

THE LATEST EVENING CLOAK.

The model in the picture shows a handsome and becoming style, and one particularly pleasing if made of velveteen, although in this instance it was fashioned in cashmere with chiffon trimmings.

Despite the fact that sleeves diminish in size, capes are made fuller than ever. Those for dressy wear grow constantly shorter, but for everyday street wear they are cut full and flowing, falling low over the hips, altogether presenting a most comfortable appearance. Little capes of colored velvet, with double ruffles of lace about the edge and lined with delicately tinted satin damask, are wonderfully chic and are close rivals of those of black velvet with collars of honiton lace. By the way, Honiton lace applique is the very newest thing, and narrow strips of Honiton insertion are put on many of the new outer garments in every conceivable manner.

The cape in the picture is one intended solely for evening wear. It is made of cream-colored satin, brocaded in pink roses and trimmed with full frills of cream-colored chiffon.

There is not much change in the autumn jacket from those worn last spring, only the sleeves are much smaller and the skirt is fully two inches longer.

Eton jackets are seen now in great numbers and will be worn until cold weather sets in. The most stylish are made of seal, and the back is so designed as to show the colored belt worn with the skirt. While about the jauntiest thing seen thus far, only the tall, slender woman with an unusually long waist can wear them successfully.

SAUSALITO'S GRAVES.

Remains of a Lost Tribe Found in California Hills.

There is in Sausalito an old Indian burial mound, and every once in awhile that grass-grown tumulus gives up some of its forgotten dead, says the San Francisco Call. It is not pleasant even in Sausalito, where peace and pleasure perches swallow-like on the hillside, to have a rude and savage past sliding down from its sepulchral heap into the busy thoroughfares of the living present.

The place where the former Sausalitans laid themselves away to sleep is in the northern part of the town. A street has been cut through the eastern side of the mound, and many skeletons have been unearthed. Little except the skulls have been found in a state of preservation, the rest of these rude residenters having passed back to the dust of their common grave.

In the perpendicular bank made by the pick and shovel of the workmen was discovered the place where a body had crumbled and disappeared. Like the baker of Pompeii lying in volcanic ashes, this aborigine had left his mold when he had resolved back to earth again.

In this bank may be seen the succeeding starta of shells marking the food periods in the life of the old rancheria. It is the geological commissary history of the tribe. The Indians evidently had lived on the big mound, and the shells and animal bones of their long-ago feasts had been dropped underfoot. They buried their dead there too, underfoot, and as the refuse accumulations of generations lifted the living the departed went lower. The deposits of the centuries widened the space between the quick and the dead.

In the old earthy records can be seen a strata of clam shells, demonstrating that this peculiar bivalve flourished plentifully on the bay shore hard by. The projecting of an ordinary imagination backward through the years will bring to view the early man of Sausalito with a flint spade grubbing in the prehistoric mud for the ingredients of his chowder pot.

Then came a period when another bill of fare prevailed after the clam-bake day had darkened. A mussel stratum shows itself, and the soft shells are thick in the era marked by the abundance of that food. It was the proverbial feast before the famine that evidently came in the next generation, for the succeeding deposit shows earth without any evidences of the tribal menu. Possibly the vegetable and fruit fad struck the Indians, and the perishable nature of their kitchen refuse precluded the leaving of a dietary record. Or more likely the root and berry crop among the hills failed also, as a number of skeletons found in this stratum would leave the archaeologist to believe that the famine was then among the mound people.

The following era was better for the tribe, for the clams came back. They were large, firm, fat fellows, with scalloped shells, so hard that they never crumbled under the succeeding periods that pressed down on them. There are only a few skeletons in this stratum, and the scientist reading the unerring pages of the time may conclude that the deceased died from overeating.

Then came a geological era when the fragments of animal bones appear—when the mammalia of the Coast Range came down to the mound and graced the festive board. In the next period neither shells, bones nor human remains appear. Probably plenty smiled among the berry bushes on the rugged sides of Tamalpais or the reculent grasshopper swarmed bounteously in the wild oats during those summers of the dim long ago. A large number of stone mortars and pestles found here is evidence that the acorn output was manna in the wilderness to the tribe.

However, the ancient people of Sausalito passed down into their mounds and the grass of to-day grows rankly over their dead periods. A grove of buckeye and pepperwood trees send their roots down among the bones, which the street contractor disturbs with his pick and shovel. The other day a newspaper man, standing in sad contemplation over the tumulus of a lost race, saw a modern Sausalitan trundle a wheelbarrow up to the bank and begin to shovel the shells and bones into the affair.

"It makes good chicken feed," he explained. "The stuff makes the hens lay better."

Her Dog as Baggage.

A young lady with a pug dog tied up in a shawl strap attracted considerable attention on a Metropolitan car from Georgetown the other day. The pug was wrapped in a small rug to protect him from the straps, and seemed quite contented to be carried in this new fashion, which left his head and legs free. The conductor glanced inquiringly at the bundle of dog as the young lady tendered her fare with this explanation:

"You see, I'm going away on the train, and I want to take Punch with me. They would put him away off in the baggage car if he were free, so I carry him in my shawl strap. He's baggage this way, and they can't object to him in the passenger car. Why, I have a friend who carried her pet pug all over Europe that way."—Washington Post.

Delicate Dress Goods.

Some gowns are so dainty in the weave, so delicate in tint, that they seem to soil by being looked at—one or two wearings making them unpresentable. NOT USELESS. We make a specialty of cleaning fine fabrics, the more delicate the material, the better the results. Sometimes an accident will ruin a gown, without injuring the texture. We dye them then, sometimes we get a prettier effect than the original color. Fine goods stand redyeing. The finer the material the better the new color. We charge so little for cleaning or dyeing, that even if you are in doubt as to the result, it's worth while to experiment. Want a new evening gown for a dollar or two? REPORTED CUBAN REVERSE

Spanish Officials Claim To Have Inflicted Enormous Loss Upon the Insurgents.

Havana, Oct. 13.—Dispatches received here from official sources in the province of Pinar del Rio say that another battle has been fought between the Spaniards and the insurgents under Antonia Maceo, resulting in another victory for the former. Gen. Echague was in command of the government troops and Maceo led the enemy. The fighting took place at San Diego and the insurgents are announced to have sustained enormous loss. The dispatches also say that the loss of the Spanish troops was considerable, that the fighting continues and that no details are at present obtainable. As these dispatches not only emanate from government sources, but are vetted by the censor, the result of the battle may turn out to be a defeat for the Spaniards, especially in view of the fact that they admit they sustained heavy losses, which they very seldom do. The fact that no details are given is also significant.

Unarmed Men Killed by Troops.

Havana, Oct. 13.—It is officially stated that Major Fondeviela's command has had a fight with the rebels under Valencia near Banos del Boticario, province of Havana. The rebels were defeated with a loss of nineteen killed. The Spanish loss was two wounded. Advices from other than official sources are to the effect that this reported victory is similar to other "engagements" where unarmed men were killed by the troops. There are rumors here of an engagement near Esperanza, province of Santa Clara, between the loyal troops and rebel forces from the east under Rabi or Mayia Rodriguez. The rebel leader Aniceto Hernandez has been condemned to death by a court-martial at Cienfuegos.

CARDINAL SATOLLI'S FAREWELL

He Leaves Highland Falls for New York To Sail for Rome.

Highland Falls, N. Y., Oct. 13.—His eminence, Cardinal Satolli, bade adieu last evening to his host, Rev. C. J. O'Keefe, whose guest he has been for the last three days, and departed for New York. During the forenoon the cardinal drove to West Point, witnessing a cavalry drill by the cadets, and was shown through the various buildings of interest about the post. In the afternoon a number of priest from towns and cities along the Hudson river called upon the cardinal at the local rectory. Among others were Dr. Edward McGlynn of Newburgh and two Italian priests of New York city, one of whom was a nephew of Cardinal Satolli. An elaborate luncheon was served by Father O'Keefe at which several prominent West Point army officers were present.

THE TALBOT SAFE.

Rumors of Her Loss Set at Rest by Her Arrival at Halifax.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 13.—The British cruiser Talbot, concerning the safety of which startling rumors were current in London yesterday, sailed into Halifax harbor last night. She saluted the flag of Vice-Admiral Erskine as she moved to her anchorage. The Talbot sailed from Portsmouth October 3, having been commissioned for British North American and West Indian stations. She is one of the British newest ships of war, and this is the first time she has been in American waters. The news from London that she was reported to have foundered at sea created intense excitement in naval circles here and also among the military.

Treasury Department Approves of Reduced Salaries at the Boston Custom House.

Boston, Oct. 13.—The treasury department has approved the list of reductions in salaries and in the force at the Boston custom house as submitted by Collector Warren at the department's request. The changes will aggregate a saving of $25,000 yearly. Lack of sufficient appropriations to defray the expenses of the custom department is the cause of this action which will affect all the large custom houses in the country.

UNTOLD TORTURES.

Agony Greater Than Any Horrors Portrayed by Dante.

Impure Blood and Disordered Nerves Lead to Organic Disease. Dr. Greene's Nervura, the Star of Hope, that Means Life, Health and Happiness.

How often we hear the expression, "my life is miserable," used among our friends and acquaintances as we pass through life! And why is life miserable? Because the speaker is troubled with dyspepsia, liver or kidney complaint, constipation, neuralgia, rheumatism, nerve weakness, or other equally distressing and harrassing afflictions. What does the trouble arise from? In nine cases out of ten from weak nerves and impure blood. The organs are all right, the machinery in perfect order, but the motive force is lacking in quality and quantity. The blood requires augmentation and vitalization. The nerves demand more strength and vigor. By what means can this be effected? By the use of Dr. Greene's Nervura, the great blood renovater and nerve tonic, the incomparable health producer which never fails. Easy to take, always effective, bringing back appetite, strength and vitality. Get it to-day. Try it and at once begin to get well. Remember that Dr. Greene's Nervura blood and nerve remedy is the prescription and discovery of the well-known Dr. Greene of 35 West 14th St., New York, the most successful specialist in curing nervous and chronic diseases, and hence of necessity is perfectly adapted to cure just these complaints. An added value is the fact that Dr. Greene can be consulted free, personally or by letter.

TENNYSON'S WOMEN.

They Are Some of the Fairest Feminine Creations in Poetry.

Tennyson gave the world pictures of some of the fairest feminine creations in poetry—winsome maidens, demure and trustful; womanly women, loyal and companionable; devoted wives, gentle and faithful; noble matrons, loving and self-sacrificing, serving the best interests of home and country.

Tennyson's conception of woman and her sphere may be regarded as rather old-fashioned. He was evidently not in full sympathy with some of the advanced notions of the modern women. His burlesque of "woman's rights" in "The Princess" has not hurt the cause of the weaker sex. He understood the right relations of the man and the woman, and his utterances in the closing passages of this poem go to the heart of the problem. It is still true that woman's chief place and crowning glory is to be queen of the home. There she may have an unlimited field for usefulness and exert a far-reaching influence for good, if she but realize her opportunities and improve them. In the household woman finds her proper sphere and work:

"Her office there to rear, to teach,
Becoming as is meet and fit
A link among the days, to knit
The generations each with each."

No other poet has done more to glorify the maternal sentiment, or to make the family relation sacred. Woman's work, as he conceived it, is not only training the plastic minds of the young, but spurring the man to more resolute endeavor and grander achievement. Yielding to her subtler forces and gentler agencies, he aspires to a higher plane of being. While "accomplishing his manhood" by repressing the baser and cultivating the finer side of him, she at the same time works out her own salvation, humanly speaking, in the truest sense. In a word, it is by loving and being loved that she reaches the fullest development and renders the world the best service. Conserving and fostering goodness and greatness, ministering to the wants of the lowly, scattering gloom and softening the sting of anguish—this is woman's mission.—Eugene Parsons, in Chautauquan.

Longfellow's Evangeline.

The story of the origin of Longfellow's "Evangeline"—the writing of the poem—is thus told: Hawthorne dined one day with Longfellow, and brought with him a friend from Salem. After dinner the friend said: "I have been trying to persuade Hawthorne to write a story based upon a legend of Acadie and still current there, the legend of the girl, who, in the dispersion of the Arcadians, was separated from her lover and passed her life in waiting and seeking for him, and only found him dying in a hospital when both were old." Longfellow wondered that this legend did not strike the fancy of Hawthorne and said to him: "If you have really made up your mind not to use it for a story, will you give it to me for a poem?" To this Hawthorne assented, and, moreover, promised not to treat the subject in prose till Longfellow had seen what he could do with it in verse. And so we have "Evangeline" in beautiful hexameters, a poem that will hold its place in literature while true affection lasts. Hawthorne rejoiced in this great success of Longfellow and loved to count up the editions, both foreign and American, of this now world-renowned poem.—Chicago News.

REPUBLICAN CLAIMS

"Election of McKinley and Hobart an Accomplished Fact."

FIGURING ON 270 ELECTORAL VOTES

One Hundred and Ten Votes Conceded to Bryan---Six States, with Sixty-Seven Votes, Claimed To Be in the Doubtful Column.

New York, Oct. 13.—The following statement was given out at national republican headquarters last evening after a conference of the entire executive committee: "The election of McKinley and Hobart is an accomplished and assured fact. They will receive 270 electoral votes. Bryan will receive 110, and there are six states having 67 votes which are doubtful, but the probabilities all point to the fact that these 67 votes will go into the republican column and be added to the 270 now assured for McKinley and Hobart. This is the status to-day. We have the election and will hold it. Our present effort in the west is to this end only.
"M. S. QUAY."

FUNERAL OF DR. BENSON.

The Primate's Remains To Repose Near the Ashes of His Predecessors.

Chester, Eng., Oct. 13.—The remains of the Archbishop of Canterbury, Primate of All England and Metropolitan, the Rt. Hon. and Most Rev. Edward Whit Benson, D. D., who died suddenly at divine service in the church at Hawarden Sunday, at which place the archbishop was the guest of Mr. Gladstone, which were removed to the rectory were placed in a coffin last night and were then transported to the church. The burial will take place at the Addington parish church, where lie the remains of the deceased's daughter and five of his predecessors as archbishops of Canterbury. Mr. Gladstone is well, but he is deeply saddened at the death of Dr. Benson, who was an old and dear friend of the veteran statesman.

Sympathy from the Queen.

The queen has sent the following message to the widow of the Archbishop of Canterbury: "I am stunned by the awful news. My heart bleeds for you, but my sorrow is great. I was so fond of the dear, kind, excellent archbishop." The court circular expresses the grief of her majesty and says that she feels that the country has sustained a serious loss by the death of the eminent primate, while she has lost a friend for whom she had a strong regard and affection. The Prince and Princess of Wales, the Duke and Duchess of York, other members of the royal family and all the eminent men in the kingdom have sent messages of sympathy to Mrs. Benson, widow of the archbishop.

"A BACCHANTE" REFUSED.

Boston Public Library Trustees Decide the Statue Is Not Suitable.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Mr. Macmonies' statue of "A Bacchante" which was offered by Mr. McKim, the architect of the Public library, to the trustees of that institution with the design of having it used as the centre piece of the fountain in the central court of the building, was formally rejected by the art commission yesterday, it being voted that the secretary be instructed to inform the trustees of the Public library that, while recognizing the remarkable technical merits of Mr. Macmonies' statue of "A Bacchante" as a work of art, this commission does not regard it as suitable to the Public library building.

Their Minister Too Strict.

New Haven, Conn., Oct. 13.—Rev. E. F. Kidder of Trinity Methodist Episcopal church, this city, has recently delivered a series of sermons and talks against card playing, dancing, tobacco smoking and theatre going. This was not at all to the liking of a majority of his parishioners and the board of trustees of the church society has voted not to extend a further call to Mr. Kidder, who has been pastor of the church since April last.

Killed While Skylarking.

Quarantine, S. I., Oct. 13.—A private, named McHugh, fell from a balcony of the barracks at Fort Wadsworth last evening and was instantly killed. He was skylarking with a comrade on the balcony and fell over the iron railing to the stone floor beneath. McHugh struck first and his comrade fell on top of him. McHugh's comrade was stunned and had both knees hurt.

Sudden Death of a Boston Official.

Boston, Oct. 13.—Alfred F. Noyes of Auburndale, a member of the Metropolitan Sewer commission dropped dead in the Park Square station yesterday, while on his way to take a train for Dedham. Heart disease was the cause. He was 45 years of age.

Bottle Message a Hoax.

Gloucester, Mass., Oct. 13.—The bottle message signed John C. Frazer, asking to have his wife, Mary Frazer of this city, notified of the sinking condition of his vessel, is doubtless a hoax. There is no Mary Frazer here and no one here knows John C. Frazer.

Plot To Slay Christians.

London, Oct. 13.—An Athens dispatch to the Times says that the governor of Mitylene has discovered a plot of Turkish students to bring about a general massacre of Christians and that four of the ringleaders have been arrested.

New Electric Company Incorporated.

Albany, Oct. 13.—The Puritan Electric company of New York city has been incorporated with the secretary of state to manufacture electric apparatus for suppling and using power; capital, $100,000.

PUNTS AND KICKS.

Among those that witnessed Saturday's game were T. H. Keller and his guest, Rolla O. Heikes, the champion trap shooter of the country.

One pleasant feature of last Saturday's game was the entire absence of kicking against the decisions of umpire and referee. It spoke well for the ability and fairness of those officials.

The Y. M. C. A. football team met for practice last night. They will meet again tomorrow night at 8 o'clock at the Y. M. C. A. grounds. All are requested to wear their football suits.

The Alis Football team is preparing for a hard game next Saturday against the Scotch Plains team. The Scotch Plains boys far outweigh them, and the Alis team will have to depend on team work to carry them on to victory. They are practicing every pleasant afternoon, however, and Chas. Denice, the crack quarter back, of the Elizabeth Athletic Club, spends several afternoons every week in coaching them. Then several of the Y. M. C. A. team appear on the field occasionally and give them a little practice.

The schedule of the Y. M. C A. football team for the coming season has finally been completed and Plainfield will see a series of good games. Games have been arranged for every Saturday until Thanksgiving, excepting the day of the Yale-Princeton game, and for Election Day and Thanksgiving Day. All but two of the games will be played in Plainfield. The schedule is as follows:

October 17—Rahway A. C at Plainfield.
October 24—Westfield A. C. at Plainfield.
October 31—South Orange Field Club at South Orange.
November 3—Election Day, Princeton class team at Plainfield.
November 7—Orange Y. M. C. A. at Plainfield.
November 14—Westfield A. C. at Westfield.
November 26—Thanksgiving Day, Rutgers "Scrubs" at Plainfield.

Westfield has again appeared on the gridiron, but the management of the team has been entirely changed. Last year's management, that treated the Plainfield Y. M. C. A. team so shabbily, was no better liked by the players there than here. This year, I. R. Townley, who is well known here through his connection with the Crescent Wheelmen and bicycle racing, has taken charge of the team, and gentlemanly treatment is assured to all. There has long been great rivalry between Plainfield and Westfield on the gridiron, and now a series of games have been arranged. The first of which is to be played here on Saturday, October 24th. Westfield's team is composed of the pick of the players of Westfield, Cranford and Roselle, and promises to give the Plainfield boys a tussle.

WHIST.

Milton C. Work, of the Philadelphia Evening Telegraph, says the following in a recent issue of that paper in referring to the defeat of the Orange Whist Club by the Park Club: "The Plainfield team was Messrs McCutchen, Townsend, Howell and Rogers which is the same four that has represented that club ever since it became an important factor in the whist world. It is a hard team to beat and so the Orange quartette, Messrs Wallace, Huskfield, Rodman and Herring, found it. To keep down as strong a team as that of the Orange Whist Club to a score of 2 for 30 deals is indeed a most note worthy achievement add we think comes near being a record."

CYCLING COMMENT.

Mrs. Clifton Wharton, Jr., of Hillside avenue, has just become the owner of a new ladies Cleveland Swell Special, purchased from the F. L. C. Martin Cycle Company.

According to the figures prepared by E. C. Spooner, the National Circuit bicycle follower, Eddie Bald and Tom Cooper, who completed yesterday, are tied for championship honors, each having 65 points to his credit.

The winnings of some of the professional riders thus far this season are as follows: Gardiner, $1,490; T. Butler, $1,265; Cooper, $1,205; Zeigler, $885; Bald, $1,175; Sanger $995; Kimble, 765; McFarland, $510; Clark, $555.

GOLF.

The Junior Members Cup of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club, which was won by George Richards, last Saturday, will be played for again on May 30th, of next year.

The golfers of the Hillside Tennis and Golf Club will meet a team from the New Brunswick Golf Club Saturday afternoon on the latter's links.

BASKET BALL.

The basket ball season in Plainfield will open shortly with a game between the regular Y. M. C. A. team and the team from the business men's gymnasium class. The date has not been deffnitely chosen, but will be announced shortly.

WITH ROD AND GUN.

A regular meeting of the Independent Gun Club will be held at Rudoloh Spiegel's Hotel, on Monday evening.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—The choir guild of All Saint's P.E. Church, Scotch Plains, will give a musical and literary entertainment next Friday evening in the Fanwood club house.

—In the landlord and tenant case of Bird against Perry, Justice Crosley has rendered his decision in favor of the plaintiff. The defendant vacated the premises today.

—A Scandanavian Club was organized in this city last Saturday night with the following officers: President, A. Jacobsen; vice-president, I. Lassen; secretary, A. Vogelin. They will hold dances every Saturday night, for which Eugene O'Rielly will furnish music.

A COLORED BELLE IN COURT.

Dora Parsons Claims That John Springs Promised to Marry Her.

"The Belle of Paradise Alley" is the title often applied to Miss Dora Parsons, that young colored woman, whose breach of promise case against John Springs came to an end in the City Court this afternoon after keeping City Judge Dellaz and the rest of the court busy for a day and a half.

The case was a remarkable one in several ways. It was the longest that has yet disturbed the equanimity of a city judge. Then the audience was equally remarkable. Paradise Alley and all the other alleys of a similar nature sent their representatives. The colored population turned out almost en masse and crowded the court room. They came in all the gorgeousness of their best gowns while some of the men even went so far as to don dress suits in honor of the occasion.

Now Dora Parsons declared that John Springs had promised to marry her while he declared, with equal emphasis, that he had not. He was represented by Councilman Walter L. Hetfield, while her lawyers were Charles A. Reed and Harry C. Runyon. The defence tried to prove the excellent character of the accused and that the complainant's character was questionable. They produced witnesses to prove that she had previously claimed to be married to another man. Springs admitted that he had taken her around some times, but had never been alone with her or promised to wed her. She continued, however, to stick to her first story. The Judge reserved his decision until Saturday morning.

AFTER THE LAW BREAKERS.

Evidence Said to Have Been Secured Against Saloon Keepers.

The Eliabeth Christian Citizenship Union is still after the scalps of saloon keepers there who persist in selling on Sunday. It was said last night that the Union had been doing good work during the last few months and had positive evidence against twenty-two of the best known liquor dealers.

This evidence, it is said, will be submitted by the Union to the Grand Jury now in session, who will be asked to indict the offenders.

Morris Higgins Dead.

Morris Higgins for many years sexton of St. Mary's church, died this afternoon at 1 o'clock at his home on Plainfield avenue. Last Friday afternoon Mr. Higgins suffered a hemorrhage of the lungs. He was stricken to the bed and grew weaker every day. He was about fifty years of age and leaves a widow and four children.

Corporation Notice.

Notice is hereby given that the Common Council has fixed Thursday, the twenty-ninth day of October, eighteen hundred and ninety-six, at eight o'clock p. m., at the Council Chamber, No. 109 Park avenue, in the city of Plainfield, New Jersey, as the time and place for J. Fred MacDonald, Edward C. Mulford and William M. Sanford, commissioners appointed by the Common Council pursuant to the ordinance entitled "An ordinance to widen Madison avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad Company of New Jersey," approved June 5th, 1893, to meet for further consideration in respect to the assessments for benefits and damages, the former assessments made by said commissioners having been recommitted to said commissioners by the Common Council for that purpose. The street proposed to be widened and laid out is Madison avenue from the southeasterly side line of West Front street to the northeasterly line of the right of way of the Central R. R. Company of New Jersey. The alterations proposed to be made are to widen said Madison avenue, so that the same shall be of the uniform width of twenty-five feet on each side of the center line thereof, which center line is described in said ordinance and shown on map on file in the office of the City Clerk, entitled "Assessment map for the widening of Madison avenue from West Front street to the Central Railroad of New Jersey, City of Plainfield, N.J. dated 1893, made by F. A. Dunham, Civil Engineer."

The lands and real estate intended to be taken for such purpose are all that come within twenty-five feet of either side of said center line between the southeasterly side line of West Front street and the northwesterly line of the right of way of the Central Railroad company of New Jersey, as shown by said map and said ordinance, to which reference is hereby made for more detailed description.

By order of the Common Council,
JAMES T. MACMURRAY,
City Clerk.

RAIN DROPS AND REPUBLICANISM.

Stormy Weather Interferes With the G. O. P. Meetings.

COL. POPE ELOQUENT AND FORCIBLE.

The Tenor of His Remarks Were Such as to Strike the Popular Fancy of His Audience, and He Was Frequently Greeted With Enthusiastic Applause.

"This campaign will be a stormy one," predicted a well known politician, but he didn't mean it in the same sense as the Republicans of this city have experienced. Rain has been the steady accompaniment for every move they have made. The mass meeting, which was held at Music Hall, last night, was no exception, and rain fell almost all the evening.

No one can expect to get a big crowd out in a storm, but the Republicans took extra pains to inform the people that there was to be a meeting. The Independent Fife and Drum Corps was placed in a special car and a circuit made of the city, while colored fire and fireworks aided in stirring up the general excitement. The trolley parade finally ended in front of Music Hall, the band marched in and the crowd gathered. The hall was fairly well filled, not only with the recognized McKinley faces, but some of the Bryan supporters were visible here and there, coming to hear what the Republicans had to say for themselves.

The campaign glee club made its first appearance under the direction of William N. Runyon before the meeting opened and gave several selections that were loudly applauded. Assemblyman W. R. Codington called the meeting to order and introduced the chairman, Col. Mason W. Tyler.

The usual chairman's remarks followed. Col. Tyler spoke of the importance of the standard, something which, he said, was fundamental and could be relied upod. The list of the other officers of the meeting was read. They were as follows:

Vice-Presidents, William Rockwell, C. H. Rugg, Isaiah L. McVoy, D. S. Roberts, Israel C. Pierson, H. E. Bowen, H. S. Thatcher, J. Frank Hubbard, Jacob Kirkner, Spencer Conway, William Mayhew, S. C. Peck, E. E. Anthony, James Clawson, Hon. Charles A. Reed, Charles Matthews and Charles Place; secretaries, Walter F. Murray, Eugene Moore, H. E. Clark and Robert Guttridge.

Then Col. Charles H. Pope, of Missouri, was introduced as the speaker of the evening. His speech was one of oratory and argument, and he seemed to catch the popular fancy so that his remarks were frequently interrupted by loud and continued applause. After the glee club was heard again the platform was resigned to Col. Pope

He told of a reeent visit to Philadelphia and of there going to Independence Hall and seeing the original of the Constitution, which is on exhibition. The platform which was made at Chicago assailed this Constitution, so he declared, and he was glad to be with a party that stood by it.

This country is at a crisis, he said, where only careful thought can preserve the honor and integrity of the Nation. They would be dragged in the dust if the infamous Chicago platform is carried out. He referred to the great conspiracy at the time of the Civil War, which was foiled by Lincoln and the other patriotic men of the country, and then declared that a new conspiracy for power and plunder was being started to build up a new Confederacy. The true heart of all patriots are standing together, he said, to preserve the honor and integrity of the Nation. It is cheering to find, he went on, that the brains and intelligence of the old Democracy are lined up against this revolution. "All honor to the old Democracy," he exclaimed. "All honor to the fearless old Democratic journalists and the Democratic journals, for they are nearly all with us. On their shields shall be engraved in golden letters, 'Principle above party.'"

He then discussed the character of the two men who have been nominated for the Presidency. William McKinley, he declared, was mentally, morally and politically great enough for the American people. McKinley, he said, shouldered a musket and went to the defence of his country at seventeen years when the Popocratic candidate was in his swaddling clothes, cutting his teeth on a 16 to 1 silver rattle.

Of Bryan, he admitted that he is clean in mind and morals, but he criticised him politically. Bryan was, he stated, everything by turns and nothing long. He was inconsistent.

He next spoke of the issues. He

COUNTY SOLONS AT ODDS

MIDDLESEX AND SOMERSET FREEHOLDERS DISPUTE OVER A BRIDGE.

Each County Claims that the Other Should Pay for the Construction—Litigation Likely to Grow Out of it.

There is likely to be litigation between Middlesex and Somerset counties, growing out of the construction of a bridge over Green Brook, at Bound Brook. The Freeholders of Middlesex County have already considered the matter, but as yet have taken no decisive action. The bridge to be rebuilt has long been out of repair, and to reconstruct it the county will be put to an expense of about $1,000. The question was raised as to whether the bridge was a line one between Somerset and Middlesex counties. The bridge is over an artificial waterway that enters the Raritan river below Bound Brook at right angles to the course of that stream. This artificial water way was constructed by the Central Railroad of New Jersey several years ago, and took the place of the old Green Brook, which extended in a diagonal course from the the river. The old Green Brook marked the boundary between the two counties, but the latest surveying and investigation shows that the waterway does not mark the line, and the new bridge to be constructed will be wholly within Middlesex county, thus throwing the entire expense upon Middlesex.

Two years ago the two counties joined in the construction of another bridge over another portion of the artificial waterway. At that time Somerset county claimed this artificial waterway as the boundary line between the two counties, and the bridge erected was accordingly regarded as a line bridge, and Middlesex county, without hesitation, paid one half of the cost of the construction.

This former claim of Somerset county has now been proven incorrect. The bridge was not a line bridge, but was wholly within Somerset county. Middlesex county should not have paid one cent of the cost of construction. Middlesex will, therefore, demand of Somerset county that the latter repay one half of the cost of the former bridge. If the demand is not acceded to a suit will be instituted in the courts to compel Somerset county to return the money.

A Misstatement of Facts.

The item published in The News last night stating that the condition of Harrison street to be in a bad way and fast going to rack and ruin, is entirely contradictory to the facts, and an unjust reflection on the borough administration. Last year, Harrison street was partially macadamized, but the funds for this purpose were exhausted before the last two hundred feet of the street, between Greenbrook road and the bridge over Stony brook, was completed, and it was necessary to stop work. Now, however, the street commissioner has a gang of men at work finishing up the work on the street, and in a few days it will be in fine shape. A large culvert is also being built to drain off the surplus water which has always gathered at the corner of Greenbrook road and Harrison street, and when all the work is finished the thoroughfare will need no further repairs for a long time.

Borough Republican Delegates.

The Republicans of North Plainfield held their primary in the public school building last evening, for the purpose of selecting five delegates to go to Somerville to nominate candidates for Senate and Assembly. Mayor B. A. Hegeman, Jr., called the meeting to order. Ex-Mayor Charles Place was chosen chairman and H. B. Reed, secretary. The delegates selected were W. W. Howland, B. A. Hegeman, Jr., N. B. Smalley, P. A. Emmons, from the borough, and J. Worth Coddington from the township. The delegates were empowered to fill vacancies.

Small Damage For a Life.

The jury in the $10,000 suit for damages brought by Daisy L. Bogart against the Pennsylvania Railroad for the killing of her brother, Harry, by a train at Wood avenue crossing, Linden, October 31, 1895, came into court yesterday morning after being out all night with a verdict of $1,868.25 for the plaintiff. The family of Gustave Haefner, who was also killed, settled with the railroad company for $5,000, while the coachman, who was severely hurt, received $1,500.

New Chair at Princeton College.

Mrs. Elliott F. Shepard, of New York, whose husband was a brother of A. D. Shepard, of "The Gables," Fanwood, has offered to Princeton Theological Seminary the gift of $1,500 annually during her life to establish an instructorship in the Old Testament department. The gift will be accepted, and the new chair will be named the Elliott F. Shepard instructorship.

WISDOM IS THE GOAL SOUGHT FOR

Organization of Educational Department of the Y. M. C. A.

DR. RICHARDS HOLDS UP EXAMPLES.

All Men of Lasting Greatness are Those Who Were Filled With Intelligence—The Y. M. C. A. Doing Their Part for Obtaining Education

Politics and rain combined to keep many away from the opening of the educational department of the Y. M. C. A. last night, but there was a good attendance, nevertheless. Stephen Cahoone, chairman of the educational committee, presided. Opening prayer was offered by Rev. W. C. O'Donnell. An interesting address was delivered by Rev. W. R. Richards, D. D., who spoke in part as follows:

"One of the first questions that one of us would have been able to answer if we were asked was who was the wisest man? We would have answered, Solomon. It is interesting to take the books of the Bible which come to us with the name of that man, either written by him or under the inspiration of his example and influence in Israel and see what they have to say about wisdom—the books of Proverbs, Ecclesiastes and Job. The one thing to be had more precious than rubies is a good education.

"The forefathers in our own land made it their principle in every little hamlet, before they had comfortable homes for themselves, almost as soon as they laid foundations for the church of God, to select a place for a school. That great ruler, Alfred the Great, was not only a learned man himself, but he also appreciated intelligence in his people, and he took great pains to afford facilities for learning to his people.

"Wisdom should be sought for itself. It is true that Solomon said that riches and honors were in his hands, but that was not all that we should seek her for. Man glories in exercising the strength of his body, and in the same way one rejoices in exercising his mind. Every artist and artisan should rejoice in his work. Stradivarius delighted in making violins, which have been unrivalled for years. Milton's 'Paradise Lost,' though not rewarded in money, was a delight to its author. Everyone should make his life work not a mere drudge for the pay that is given for it, but rather a constant source of delight to himself and others."

The first sessions of the classes will be held as follows: Mechanical course, Monday, October 19th; bookkeeping, Wednesday, October 21st; stenography, Monday, October 19th; Spanish, Tuesday, October 20th; German, Friday, October 23d.

Yale Club Officers.

The annual meeting of the Plainfield Yale Club was held last evening at the Y. M. C. A. building. It was decided to hold the regular alumni dinner this year and the president was instructed to take charge of it. It will probably be held in December. Henry L. McGee and Henry B. Lovell were elected to membership, making forty three members in all. Officers were then elected as follows: President, A. H. Atterbury; vice-president, Herbert L. Moody; secretary and treasurer, Arthur Lovell; executive committee, John Leal, Rev. W. R. Richards and S. St. John McCutchen.

Struck Quicksand.

The Board of Freeholders of Union county are having trouble in building a culvert on South avenue near Clinton avenue. The culvert is over 80 feet long, and the presence of quicksand in large quantities makes it difficult to get a foundation to work on. The culvert on Clinton avenue has been completed.

NO SILVER LINING IN THEIR CLOUD.

Palmer and Buckner Democrats Argue For Gold.

A. H. ATTERBURY PRINCIPAL SPEAKER

He Says the Free Silver Advocates Fail to Tell How the Price of Silver Will be Increased or How Workingman Will Get Better Wages.

The National Democratic Club resumed their meetings last evening, and a fairly good-sized audience was in attendance in the rooms on Muhlenberg place. The meeting was addressed by the club's president, A. H. Atterbury. Many arguments, he said, had been advanced recently showing the fallacy of the free silver policy which would cause a depression generally in business and would affect wages. Continuing, Mr. Atterbury spoke in part as follows:

"Facts prove to us that tampering with the currency makes business poor and creates an uncertainty. Bryan and his followers tell us that the greater number of silver dollars we have the better it is. But you cannot clothe yourself with dollars, neither can you eat dollars. It is when you can exchange them that you get the advantage of the money. Allowing that wages were increased in Plainfield, you would not be able to buy any more flour than there is in this city. Silver is now worth one-half what it was twenty years ago. Bryan tells you that under his plan the price of silver will go up, but he doesn't tell you how it will go up. He also tells you it will make higher prices, and in that respect he tells the truth. However, he doesn't tell you that wages will be higher. I read carefully the account given in The Daily Press of the silver meeting held Saturday evening, and I failed to see one argument in favor of free silver. The speakers declared against monopolies, but do you know that the silver trust is the worst of all. It is controlled absolutely by a dozen or fifteen men, who secured the passage of the Bland act, which saddled on the country an immense amount of silver."

Mr. Atterbury then read extracts from Macauley's works, showing the condition of affairs many years ago under the rule of the free coinage of silver, showing how business was depressed and people were driven to desperation. The speaker cited England, Austria and several other gold standard countries as being among the strongest nations of the world

The last part of the hour was devoted to a discussion of various questions asked by those present. Dexter O. Tiffany and C. P. Bull were among the sound money men present who spoke regarding the present great issues, and they as well as Mr. Atterbury answered several questions on the money question. It was announced that Dexter O. Tiffany would be the speaker on Thursday evening. The meeting then adjourned.

Serious Charges Being Investigated.

The Grand Jury at the Union County Court, Elizabeth, will have two Plainfield cases to consider. One is that against Ernest Luccio for the abduction of Louise Giles, which comes up today. The other is against Lawrence Wallace, better known as "Larry" Wallace for attempting to wreck a train on the Jersey Central. As will be remembered, a pile of ties was discovered on the tracks near Terrill road, and the evidence pointed toward Wallace as the would-be train wrecker. The crime is a serious one and should he be convicted he may have to serve a long term. The extreme penalty is forty years. This case will be considered by the grand jury in a few days.

Praise and Song.

A praise service will be held at the Mary E. Wilson Memorial chapel, Washingtonville, Sunday evening. A chorus of sixteen voices, under the leadership of H. O. Newman, will assist in the musical portion of the exercises. Rev. Dr. Gibbs, of Millington, is expected to preach.

From the Soudan.

Fredrick W. Perry, of North Plainfield, will address the Christian Alliance meeting Thursday evening at 7:45 at the rooms of the W. C. T. U. on Watchung avenue. Matthew Francis, from the Soudan, and the little native boy, Sammy, are expected to be present.

UNABLE TO CONVERSE

A. M. RUNYON SUFFERS A PARALYTIC STROKE OF HIS VOCAL ORGANS.

It Will be Several Days Before the Attending Physician Can Tell Whether or Not He Will Recover His Health

A. M. Runyon, the undertaker, was taken with a light stroke of paralysis while in his office yesterday afternoon. He was taken to his home on Madison avenue and Dr. T. H. Tomlinson was summoned. Upon examination it was discovered that only the nerves governing the vocal organs were effected. Prompt remedies were applied and by nightfall Mr. Runyon was somewhat more comfortable.

Today, Dr. Tomlinson says the only noticeable change is a very slight one for the better and that it will be several days before it can be determined whether he will recover or whether the paralysis will extend. Last July, while at Poland Springs, Mr. Runyon noticed the first premonitions of the trouble which came upon him so suddenly yesterday. On Monday, August 31, the symptoms again appeared and Dr. Tomlinson was consulted. He prescribed and the paralytic symptoms disappeared, only to manifest themselves decidedly and threateningly yesterday. It is the physician's belief that the trouble is the result of the severe nervous shock which Mr. Runyon suffered in the railroad collision three years ago near Greenville, when a Long Branch express ran into the 11:30 Somerville train in which he and his son, E. E. Runyon, were passengers.

REGISTRATION FIGURES.

Indications Are That There Will be a Heavy Vote This Year.

Yesterday was the first day of registration and a few names were added to the lists which the Boards of Election had not already secured in their house-to-house canvass. There is still one day more for registering, Tuesday, Oct. 27, from 1 to 9 o'clock p. m. The 1895 registration, published in the table below, is the total number of names on the poll lists, and it is probable that the last day of registration this year will bring the total up to a number greater than that of a year ago. The registration by wards was as follows:

	1896	1895
First ward, First district	568	562
First ward, Second district	197	184
Second ward, First district	628	636

LINER HITS FERRYBOAT.

A Sharp Knock in the Fog on North River With No Great Damage.

The New Jersey Central ferryboat Central, which left Jersey City in the fog at 9 o'clock yesterday morning, was hit in midstream by the Atlantic transport steamship Europe bound out for London. The Europe struck the Central on the port side. Engines had been reversed on both vessels, and the impact was not severe.

The heavy guard of the ferryboat and a part of her upper rail were broken. About 150 passengers were jarred a good deal and somewhat startled, but nobody was hurt. A number of Plainfield commuters were on the ferryboat.

Milkman on a Rampage.

A milkman came over the mountain this morning to serve his customers as usual. When he completed his duties he visited several saloons until finally he reached Park avenue in a sad state of inebriation. Patrolman McCue landed him in the lockup and this afternoon he was taken before City Judge DeMeza. He had not quite recovered from the effects of his overindulgence and was profuse in his promise to behave in the future. He appeared quite harmless and the Judge suspended sentence. As he departed he thanked everybody for their kindness and promised, should they ever come where he was, that he would make things square. He gave his name as Daniel Moore and said he was fifty-three years of age.

Dissension in the Republican Caucus.

The Republicans of Warren township met in the Mt. Bethel Hall yesterday afternoon at 2 o'clock to elect delegates to the County convention which is to be held at Somerville on Saturday next. George Sage was the chairman and some 200 persons were present. From the start it was evident that there would be some dissensions from what is known as the old Republican regime. Two sets of tickets were placed in the field and the following were elected: John Wendell, Isiah Cortell, Reuben Codington, Andrew Flammer and A. D. Martin.

—The Union County Medical Association will hold its quarterly meeting in the Y. M. A. building this afternoon.

SCENIC BEAUTIES OF DEVONSHIRE.

Miss Caroline Fitz Randolph Describes a Pleasure Trip.

SEEN FROM THE TOP OF A COACH.

A Bracing Air and a Clear Sky Made a Strong Impression of the Thanksgiving Season of This Country—First a View of the Tossing Sea and Then the Mountains.

The many friends of Miss Caroline Fitz Randolph will be interested to learn through The Press that she has returned to Berlin, for a second year of study. She went thither a year ago with a Wellesley chum and graduate, and with another young lady (whose home is also in this State) and worked on until July last on special courses of music and German language and literature. She spent the month of July in the Isle of Wight, and during August and September she sojourned at Oxford and visited in London, in Devonshire and in Nottinghamshire—the last named county having been, three centuries ago and more, the home of the Fitz-Randolph family. From a letter descriptive of her trip to Devon we are permitted to copy the following passages:

Collingwood Villa,

Ilfracombe, Devonshire.

The which same high-sounding name of a place stands for a lodging house, which has, however, the great advantage of being perched on a hillside opposite a beautiful bay and commanding a wide view of the Bristol channel. The channel is a good broad arm of the sea, salt and strong, and full of great waves and white-caps. Across it on a clear day, one sees dimly the Welsh hills—a faint line on the horizon.

We came down here from Oxford, and find clean rooms, plenty of good will and romantic surroundings. The Devonshire Coast is many times as beautiful as its reputation has led us to believe it; and very heartily glad I am that we came, and that I have seen this most charming part of England.

Besides its beauty, Devonshire is famous for its fine cattle, its delicious cream and its equally delicious cider. The weather has been rainy, as it was of late in Oxford, except for two grand days of which I am about to tell you; but all the time you must imagine an air like our late October, with very bracing, strong winds. Indeed, the cider and some roast goose we had at Lynton, and the "feel of the air" made a strong impression of Thanksgiving season on our American senses.

To give you an account of our expedition and of the finest two days I have had in England, I may premise that on Saturday afternoon, after I had "done" my two hours of music, we sallied forth and boarded the coach for Lynton—twenty miles distant to the east, along the coast. No railroad is within a score of miles of that charming village, and so the coaches are not gilded and ornamental but plain, mail-carrying, freight laiden affairs, with four strapping horses and one "relay" on the road. Therefore, being sensible turnouts, they are reasonably cheap; and we paid nine shillings for our return tickets, good for forty miles of riding up and down these beautiful Devonshire hills, and along the ruggedest coast. The weather was perfect, with a bright sun shining, and plenty of fleecy clouds hurrying across the blue. The hills are higher than our Plainfield mountains, in the main running from five hundred to a thousand feet above the sea; and they rise steeply from the narrow valleys, being cut into single peaks, and have many rapid streams which hurry down rocky glens and gorges to the channels. The roads—which are centuries old, and perfectly kept—lead straight up the sides and over the tops of the hills, and then drop down to the valleys again. They seem often to be inclined across the forty-five degrees-angle; and the grades are so long and so steep that they seemed to us inexperienced people quite impossible for any horses. And there is never a "thank-you-mam" obstruction in all England, so far as I can make out. But the horses are used to it, and plucky, and strong of lung, and they go at the hills with a will, galloping up the first twenty or thirty yards of the steepest, and then settling down to work, with heads well bent and great muscles standing out. Going down the hills was rather scary at first; but they have all manner of break-and-boot contrivances, and the horses are sure footed. That was a grand ride! The country changes with every hill you cross and with every curve in the road. There are thickly-wooded,

RACE FOR PRESIDENT

Major McKinley Still Receiving Delegations of Visitors.

MR. BRYAN TALKING IN THE WEST

Wednesday of Next Week Will Be "Illinois Day" at Canton, When Several Large Delegations from the Prairie State Are Scheduled To Arrive.

Canton, O., Oct. 14.—It is expected that Wednesday, October 21, which has been designated as Illionois Day by Cantonians, will be the most notable day of the present campaign in this city. Between eight and ten thousand people, it is believed, will make the journey from different points in Illinois and extensive preparations for their entertainment are being made by the citizens' reception committee. The visitors will bring a carload of horses for their own use and many uniformed clubs will accompany the party. Sandusky county, O., sent a big crowd of its inhabitants to call on Major McKinley yesterday afternoon. They came in sections by different routes and when they had all congregated at the tabernacle there were about 1,000 in the party. After the singing of several campaign songs by an uncommonly good glee club, an address by R. D. Dewey, an attorney of Clyde, and a short response by Major McKinley, a procession was formed and the more enthusiastic members of the party, headed by a band of music, marched through the rain and mud to the McKinley residence. There they presented to Mrs. McKinley a beautiful collection of roses, the gift of ladies of Sandusky county.

MR. BRYAN'S TOUR.

Thirteen Speeches and 200 Miles of Travel His Campaign Record in Minnesota.

Duluth, Minn., Oct. 14.—Thirteen speeches and 200 miles of roundabout travel throughout Minnesota with a little slice of Wisconsin included, was W. J. Bryan's campainging record of yesterday. Anoka, Elk River, Big Lake, St. Cloud, Rices, Little Falls, Staples, Aitken, Carlton and West Superior were the places where the nominee's special train stopped long enough to enable him to make addresses. West Superior, Wis., with 10,000 and St. Cloud, Minn., with 5,000 people, gave the largest audiences of the day, excepting, of course, the figures of the Duluth reception. Yesterday's trip was taken by the democratic candidate for the special purpose of aiding representative Charles A. Towne in his fight for re-election to congress. Duluth is Mr. Towne's home, and his local supporters, with several more from other parts of his district, who came in on excursion trains, turned out last night to do honor to the Nebraska man. Two big meetings were held, at only one of which Mr. Bryan spoke.

LOSS ABOUT $300,000.

Thirty Business Places Wiped Out by the Fire at Great Barrington.

Great Barrington, Mass., Oct. 14.—The loss by the fire which began here Monday night and finally gotten under control about 4 o'clock in the morning with the aid of rain is now placed at about $300,000. In all thirty business places were wiped out and sixteen families were rendered homeless, but fortunately no serious injuries to firemen, occupants of buildings or spectators have been reported. Owing to the storm it has been impossible to get a complete and accurate account of all losses and insurance. The ruins will be cleared up at once and temporary quarters built for merchants who were burned out. The fire broke out again at 7:30 o'clock last night near the Sumner block. The department responded quickly and had the fire under control in a short time.

Situation in Madagascar Serious.

Marseilles, Oct. 14.—Mail advices received here from Tamatave, Madagascar, say that the rebellion is general throughout the island. Some of the French settlers have been killed on the open roads and Antalaha, near Diego Saurez, has been wiped out, all the whites being killed. Trade between the interior and the coast is suspended.

Gold Standard Ticket.

Indianapolis, Oct. 14.—The state board of election commissioners acted further yesterday afternoon on the petition of the national democracy for a place on the ballots under that name. It was unanimously decided to give the party a column on the ballots under the head of "Gold Standard Ticket." No protest was entered to this decision.

Appointment of Gen. Bragg.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Gen. Edward S. Bragg of Wisconsin has been appointed by Attorney-General Harmon special assistant to the United States district attorney for the eastern district of Wisconsin. Gen. Bragg was a prominent candidate for the nomination for president before the national democratic convention at Indianapolis.

Bicycle Rider Killed.

Danbury, Conn., Oct. 14.—Dewitt C. Bunyea, a young man employed in North Salem, was returning from Brewster on his bicycle Monday night, when near Harlem railway station, in descending a hill collided with a coach. He was thrown from his wheel and badly injured and lived but a few hours.

To Run Fifty-four Hours a Week.

Waltham, Mass., Oct. 14.—The following notice is posted in the American Waltham watch factory: "On and after October 15 and until further notice the factory will run fifty-four hours a week." The factory has been running on half time all summer and employs 2,000 hands.

PARIS AGAIN SPOKEN

Crippled American Liner Sighted 900 Miles from New York.

HAD BEEN OUT THEN 84 HOURS

Made a Little Over Nine Knots an Hour. May Not Arrive at Southampton Before Next Tuesday---Was Probably Delayed by the Storm.

New York, Oct. 14.—The steamship Paris, which is limping towards Southampton under her port screw, the other having been fractured, was spoken by the Red Star liner Kensington, from Antwerp to this port, at midnight Saturday night. When the Paris was abeam of the Kensington she signalled: "We are the Paris, American line." The Kensington passed the Paris in latitude 44.38, longitude 54.18. She was then just eighty-four hours out of port and had proceeded about 900 miles in that time. Her position was due south of Cape Race and St. Johns, N. F., and due east of Halifax and Sable island. The loss of half of the propelling power of the vessel should reduce her speed to about fifteen knots per hour, but a computation based on the distance traveled and the time shows she has made a little over nine knots per hour. The Paris has undoubtedly met and weathered the gale that has been devastating our coast and that probably accounts for the poor time she has made. The vessel has yet to go 2,100 miles. At the rate of nine miles per hour it would take her until next Tuesday to steam from where she was sighted by the Kensington to Southampton. Steamship men, however, believe the Paris will increase her speed several knots if the weather moderates, and will get into Southampton by Sunday.

Queenstown, Oct. 14.—The White Star line steamer Teutonic, Capt. Cameron, from New York, Oct. 7, arrived here at 10:30 o'clock last night. She reports that on Oct. 8 she passed the American line steamer Paris. The latter was apparently stopped. Those on the Teuntonic saw the Paris lowering a boat, but the American liner displayed no signals. The Teutonic also reports that Louis Sternberg, a second cabin passenger, and Belle St. Ennes, a steerage passenger, died on the voyage.

THE GOLDEN EAGLE KNIGHTS.

Representatives in Convention at Reading from All Parts of the Country.

Reading, Pa., Oct. 14.—The annual session of the supreme castle of the Knights of the Golden Eagle assembled here yesterday, representatives being present from all parts of the United States. The report of grand keeper of records W. Culbertson of Philadelphia shows that the membership Dec. 31, 1895, was 59,224. Receipts, $476,763.65; paid for relief, $180,868.72; amount expended, including investments, $463,140.56; amount on hand and invested, $836,943.92; total increase over previous year, $68,256.96. During the year the success of Temple degree has been gratifying. There has been an increase of 59 temples and 3,483 members, making a total of 162 temples and 8,396 members.

SAID KHALID MUST BE GOOD.

Germany Will Not Protect Him If He Continues His Intrigues

London, Oct. 14.—The Berlin correspondent of the Times reports that a semi-official note issued there says that should Said Kahlid, who seized the throne of Zanzibar after the death of the sultan, was deposed by the British after the bombardment of the city, and who was recently conveyed to German East Africa on a German warship, intrigue again to obtain the throne of Zanzibar, Germany will expel him from her territory.

The Gould Yachting Trouble.

London, Oct. 14.—The Pall Mall Gazette, referring to the letter of the Yacht Racing association in reply to the protest of Howard Gould against the examination of his yacht Niagara without his knowledge or consent, says: "The point is, that after the scandals in connection with the America's cup, the Yacht Racing association should have taken every care to avoid the slightest semblance of friction, and they might have served Mr. Gould with a more handsome apology."

Convicted of Malfeasance in Office.

Camden, N. J., Oct. 14.—The trial of ex-city treasurer F. F. Michellon, on the second of thirteen indictments found against him, resulted yesterday in a verdict of guilty of willful neglect. The grade of crime is malfeasance in office. The specific charge was that Michellon, as city treasurer, failed to make an entry on his books of $3,765 which he received from the receiver of taxes on November 27 last.

Liberal Party Leadership.

London, Oct. 14.—It is rumored in political circles that Sir William Vernon Harcourt has intimated his wish to resign the leadership of the liberal party in the house of commons, and that he has written a letter to Mr. Gladstone to show that no ignoble ambition has guided his action, which is also said to have been determined upon on account of failing eyesigh.

Stole Bicycle Parts.

Hartford, Oct. 14.—William B. Tift, shipping clerk of the Pope Manufacturing company was fined $14 and sent to jail for ten days yesterday for stealing bicycle parts. His wife claimed that he was insane.

Assistant Secretary Hamlin on Duty.

Washington, Oct. 14.—Assistant Secretary Hamlin of the treasury department has returned from a week's absence spent in Massachusetts.

KINGS DAUGTERS AND SONS.

Second Annual Convention of Connecticut Chapter at Hartford Adjourns.

Hartford, Oct. 14.—The second annual convention of the Kings Daughters and Sons of Connecticut, which opened at the Fourth church yesterday afternoon, adjourned at noon to-day, having held three sessions. The Rev. H. H. Kelsey delivered an address of welcome and reports of county secretaries were made. Mrs. Mary Lowe Dickinson, general secretary of the order, delivered an address on "The Progress, Plans and Possibilities of the Order." A collation was served by the Kings Daughters' circles of Hartford. Last evening there were addresses by Mrs. D. Melanethan James of New Haven, state secretary, and Mrs. Isabella Charles Davis of New York, corresponding secretary of the order. The Rev. Joseph H. Twichell of this city conducted devotional exercises. Mrs. D. Melanethan James presided at the meeting yesterday afternoon and Miss Helen Rathburn of this city was recording secretary. Mrs. James reported a total membership of 3,005 in the order in this state with 17[illegible] circles and two chapters. Over 300 delegates were in attendance at the convention.

CONNECTICUT REFORMATORY.

Agitation for Its Location in Hartford Sure To Cause Litigation.

Hartford, Oct. 14.—Whatever the result of the agitation over the location of the Connecticut reformatory in this city, it is certain that considerable litigation will ensue. W. C. Case has been retained by the directors as counsel with a fee of $500. The lower board of the common council has rescinded its action refusing a building permit and instructed the building inspector to grant one. If the upper board does not concur a writ of mandamus will be sued out. The directors propose to demand the state appropriation of the treasurer, the comptroller having refused to pay the balance unexpended—$19,000.

EVIDENCE NOT SUFFICIENT.

Why the Extradition of P. J. Tynan Was Refused by the French Government.

Paris, Oct. 14.—The minister of justice, M. Darlan, at a cabinet council yesterday submitted reasons for refusing the extradition asked for by Great Britain of P. J. Tynan, the alleged Irish-American dynamiter, now in custody at Boulogne-sur-Mer. He said that the evidence that Tynan is the so-called "Number One" was insufficient, that, even were it so, there is not sufficient proof that Tynan was one of the parties connected with the Phoenix park murders. He also said that the case was covered by the ten-years' limit. Tynan will be released as soon as the decisions are submitted to the officials at the British embassy.

VERDICT A SURPRISE.

Referee of a Fatal Prize Fight Convicted of Manslaughter in Second Degree.

New York, Oct. 14.—William Jones, the referee in a recent glove fight between a youth named Henry Rodriguez and another named Shagner, and in which the former was knocked down and his skull fractured causing death, was yesterday found guilty of manslaughter in the second degree. He was recommended to the mercy of the court. This is the first case of this kind ever tried in New York, and the verdict was a surprise.

Clemency for Convict McCormick.

Albany, Oct. 14.—Frank McCormick of New York city has had his term of imprisonment so shortened by Gov. Morton that it will expire in July next. McCormick was convicted in May, 1891, of manslaughter in the first degree for the killing of Edward Gillespie in New York city. He was sentenced for a term of imprisonment of fifteen years. Former Recorder Smyth and District Attorney Fellows, who appeared in the trial, recommended the exercise of executive clemency and Gov. Morton reduced the sentence seven years and six months.

Senator Frye Speaks at Paterson.

Paterson, N. J., Oct. 14.—Republican vice-presidential candidate Garret A. Hobart presided at a crowded meeting at Appolo hall last night at which Senator Frye of Maine was the speaker. The principal topic discussed by Mr. Hobart at the opening of the meeting was the money question. Mrs. Hobart with a number of ladies occupied seats on the platform. At the conclusion of Mr. Hobart's address he was presented with a large floral piece which required three men to lift.

To Kill Thistles

It is not necessary to kill all the seeds of the thistles in order to exterminate these undesirable weeds. You can so cultivate the ground that they will not thrive; and at last will disappear altogether. It might be better to kill the seeds, but we cannot do it. It would be the wisest course to destroy all the germs, or seeds, of consumption, could we do so. But this cannot be done. So we must keep the tissues of the lungs, the soil, in such a condition that the germs will not thrive the

DIET OF SCHOOL CHILDREN.

Articles Which Should Form the Daily Regimen.

Every successful farmer and everyone who cares for young animals knows very well that the food given them during the first portion of their lives has much to do with building up healthy, hardy, strong constitutions for future usefulness, but until very recently few people have seemed to be aware that the diet of school children is one of the most important items for them to consider.

Boys are more easily fed than girls, their romping and exercise generally giving them much better appetites; but even boys, when they are very studious, are apt to get a little run down and lose their digestive vitality. Then they neglect their food, and come home sometimes with the luncheon in their baskets, and, in answer to inquiries, declare they were not hungry and positively could not eat anything.

When a child comes home with its midday luncheon in a basket, its physical condition needs looking after. It is often said that girls have an inordinate appetite for sweets, and that boys are much more easily satisfied. Perhaps this may be so in certain localities, but the average boy is likely to be quite as fond of sweet things as his sister. Many a youngster eats bread and butter when he prefers cake, because he has learned that he must eat or he cannot play. It is this feeling that keeps him in better condition than the girl in the same household. If the girl would take as much exercise in proportion, her appetite would be quite as good. However this may be, a great deal of pains ought to be taken to provide relishable, wholesome and dainty luncheons for school children. Fruit should always be included. There is scarcely a season of the year when one may not have apples, and these are, of all fruits, the most healthful.

An excellent meal can be made out of sandwiches, apples and boiled eggs. Sardine sandwiches are very relishable, and as sardines are not at all expensive, they should be used, if the children like them. If milk is plenty, a bottle or can of it is an excellent addition to the midday diet for school children. Cookies, crackers and sweetmeats are to be used sparingly, and every effort should be made to encourage children in cultivating a taste for plain and simple food. —N. Y. Ledger.

Convict Commits Suicide.

Columbus, O., Oct. 14.—Joseph Smith, a burglar serving a term in the state prison here, committed suicide last night by cutting his throat. His parents live on North Second street, Philadelphia. So desperate was the stroke that the head was almost severed from the body.

Probably Assassinated in His Cell.

Tangier, Oct. 14.—Djemaie, formerly grand vizier, who has been confined in prison for the last two years on the charge of conspiring in favor of Muley Mohammed, has been found dead in his cell and with his clothing stained with blood. It is supposed that he was assassinated.

CHANG'S LIBERAL VIEWS.

Feels the Need of Foreign Aid and Would Welcome It.

It is claimed that notwithstanding Li Hung Chang has shown some liberality of views toward modern improvement and education, he is at heart a hater of foreigners and has an abiding faith in Chinese institutions and methods of government, says Century. He is, it is true, a great admirer of Confucian philosophy, and remembering the enduring history of his people we can hardly wonder at his devotion to the institutions which have made that history possible.

When we call to mind the experience China has had with certain western nations, it might not be considered strange if his attachment to foreigners was not very ardent; but in all his public life his conduct shows that he feels the need of foreign aid and is disposed to give it proper welcome, and of all Chinese statesmen he is the most liberal-minded and free from prejudice. He is far from claiming that the present system of government is perfect. He has, in fact, urged upon the authorities at Peking two important changes which look to a reform of the most serious defects in the system, to-wit, the withdrawal from the viceroys of provinces of powers which should be exercised only by the imperial government and such a change in the method of admission to the public service as will liberalize the examinations and make fitness rather than scholarship the test. There are other changes which he would gladly bring about if he had the power; but, as he confessed to Marquis Ito: "China is hampered by antiquated customs which prevent desirable reforms."

STRICKEN GUAYAQUIL.

Many People Homeless and Destitute as a Result of the Recent Great Fire.

New York, Oct. 14.—The Central and South American Telegraph company has subscribed $1,000 toward a fund for the relief of the sufferers from the recent conflagration in Guayaquil, Ecuador. James A. Scrymser, president of the company, gives the following account of the condition of affairs in the stricken city: "The City of Guayaquil, Ecuador, was devastated by a fearful fire at midnight on the 5th of October. More than half the city was burned in the general conflagration, including the richest part of the city, with the most important business houses and public institution. It is stated by residents that the loss will aggregate 100,000,000 of sucres, say nearly fifty millions of dollars in American gold, and the people, homeless and destitute, number fully thirty thousand, many of them encamped in the adjacent fields. Guayaquil is the commercial centre of Ecuador and has large business interests with the United States.

SEVERE FIGHTING IN CUBA.

More Rebel Reverses Reported by Spanish Officials at Havana.

Havana, Oct. 14.—Gen. Jimenez Castellanos has reported to the captain-general that he has raised the siege of Cascorro, Camaguey, routing the rebels after sixteen engagagements on October 4 and 5. The rebel forces numbered 5,000 men under the command of Maximo Gomez, Calexto Garcia and other leaders. The Spanish troops numbered 1,800 infantry and 300 cavalry. They had two pieces of artillery. On October 6 the troops entered Cascorro and began to repair the damage caused by the fire of the rebels. The insurgents fired 219 grapeshot during the thirteen days of the siege. On October 7 the Spanish forces had an engagement with the rebels on the Desmayo estate. The fighting lasted four hours and resulted in the rout of the rebels. The rebel losses are unknown, but are believed to have been heavy. The Spaniards lost five killed, including two officers. Three officers and fifty-one privates were wounded.

MR. BISBEE INDIGNANT.

Owner of the Tug Dauntless Says He Is Not the Ferocious Filibuster He Is Pictured.

Jacksonville, Fla., Oct. 14.—W. A. Bisbee, owner of the tug Dauntless, said to-day that statements about his tug going on a filibustering expedition were entirely erroneous. "The Dauntless," said Mr. Bisbee, "is at present engaged in legitimate business, and, if necessary, can be brought to Jacksonville in forty-eight hours, if the government officials insist, but, of course, I will demand indemnity for loss of time if the tug is brought here. I am not the ferocious filibuster that some of the newspapers make me out to be, and, while I am heartily in sympathy with the Cuban cause, I am a law abiding citizen, and regret to see so much buncombe publicity given my tug and myself. The Dauntless is not taking any chances, and there are too many of Uncle Sam's ships of war around for me to jeopardize my boat, which is now attending strictly to business."

EX-GOV. FULLER'S FUNERAL.

State Officials, Delegations from Lodges and Many Others Present.

Brattleboro, Vt., Oct. 14.—The funeral of ex-Gov. Levi K. Fuller was held at the Baptist church yesterday. Private services were held at his late residence after which the Fuller Battery escorted the body to the church, where it remained in state until 2:30 o'clock. The services at the church were under the honors of Beauseant Commandery, Knights Templars. There were present Gov. Josiah Grout and his staff and state officers, a joint committee of five senators and nine representatives and a special committee of five senators from the state legislature, heads of the branch houses of the Estey Organ company, and other members of the music trade, the employes of the Estey factories in Brattleboro, the Fuller Battery, delegations from the orders of Odd Fellows and Red Men and a large numbers of the citizens of Brattleboro. The floral tributes were numerous and magnificent.

DEMOCRATIC CLAIMS

Chairman Jones Figures Out 279 Electoral Votes for Bryan.

CONCEDES TO MAJ. M'KINLEY ONLY 81

Places Five States, Including New York and Ohio, with a Total of 87 Electoral Votes, in the Doubtful Column.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Senator Jones of the democratic national committee says the table of the probable electoral vote as given out yesterday by Senator Quay as altogether wrong. The chairman pointed out that of all the states classed by Senator Quay as doubtful only Tennessee and Virginia have not completed fusion of the democrats, populists and silver republicans. The senator also stated that of the states classed for Major McKinley there was complete fusion of all the silver forces in the following: Illinois, Indiana, Iowa, Kansas, Kentucky, Michigan, Minnesota, North Dakota, Ohio, West Virginia and Wisconsin. In thirty-two states altogether complete fusion had been affected of all the forces opposed to the gold standard. Chairman Jones then gave to the United Associated Presses reporter the following table, showing the votes of the respective candidates in the electoral college as figured out at democratic headquarters. States conceded to McKinley: Connecticut, 6; Maine, 6; Massachusetts, 15; New Hampshire, 4; New Jersey, 10; Pennsylvania, 32; Rhode Island, 4; Vermont, 4. Total, 81. Claimed as certain for Bryan: Alabama, 11; Arkansas, 8; California, 9; Colorodo, 4; Florida, 4; Georgia, 13; Idaho, 3; Illinois, 24; Indiana, 15; Kansas, 10; Kentucky, 13; Louisiana, 8; Maryland, 8; Michigan, 14; Minnesota, 9; Mississippi, 9; Missouri, 17; Montana, 3; Nebraska, 8; Nevada, 3; North Carolina, 11; North Dakota, 3; Oregon, 4; South Carolina, 9; South Dakota, 4; Tennessee, 12; Texas, 15; Utah, 3; Virginia, 12; Washington, 4; West Virginia, 6; Wyoming, 3. Total, 279. States classified as doubtful: Delaware, 3; Iowa, 13; New York, 36; Ohio, 23; Wisconsin, 12. Total, 87.

THE DAMAGES GROW.

Reports of Destruction Wrought by the Gale Still Coming In.

Boston, Oct. 14.—There have been no additional casualties reported from the effects of the storm, and now that the gale has spent its fury the outward bound fleet is making preparations for its departure as soon as the weather becomes clearer and the sea subsides. The reports received thus far of disasters are gratifying, in that they are free from accounts of loss of life.

The Storm at Nantucket.

Nantucket, Mass., Oct. 14.—The storm yesterday was the worst of the year. The wind blew steadily eighty miles an hour and at times went over 100 miles. Wires of all descriptions, roofs and fences suffered, small boats were damaged, wharves and bulkheads washed out and the Nantucket Central railroad received its usual amount of damage.

Washed Overboard During a Gale.

Halifax, N. S., Oct. 14.—It is reported from the British cruiser Talbot that the captain's cook is missing. He disappeared suddenly and is supposed to have been swept overboard in the gale experienced on the passage from Portsmouth, during which two boats were lost.

Great Damage at Marblehead.

Marblehead, Mass., Oct. 14.—The damage caused by the storm here is greater than for several years. Hundreds of people have visited the Neck to witness the heavy surf. Pilot boat No. 5, the Hesper, is here and Captain Giles has the life saving crew ready for any emergency.

Life Saving Station Wrecked.

Cohasset, Mass., Oct. 14.—The new life saving station at Pleasant beach, which was being built by the Massachusetts Humane society to take the place of the one destroyed by an incendiary fire some time ago, has been blown down and completely wrecked by the gale.

Cobb's Island Submerged.

Cape Charles, Va., Oct. 14.—A special messenger from Cobb's island last night brought information that the island was entirely submerged at high tide. The hotel was entirely demolished and partly washed to sea. All buildings save three were demolished or washed away.

Harrison To Stump Indiana.

Chicago, Oct. 14.—Executive Committeeman Durbin has returned from Indianapolis to the republican national headquarters and reports the result of his conferences with ex-President Harrison relative to that statesman stumping his native state for McKinley. Mr. Durbin was successful in arranging a schedule of thirty-six speeches for the ex-president, not including numerous short talks which he will make from the special train that will take the party through the state. He will make two tours of two days' each.

Two Outlaws Killed.

Fort Thomas, Ark., Oct. 14.—In a fight between a posse headed by marshal Heck Thomas and the Green gang of outlaws at Oolagh, I. T., Monday nigh, two of the outlaws were killed and the others were captured. The dead men are Jim Green and his brother, and they were members of one of the worst gangs of desperadoes in Indian Territory.

Exports of Breadstuffs.

Washington, Oct. 14.—The chief of the bureau of statistics reports that the total value of breadstuffs for the nine months ended September 30, 1896, was $115,424,088, against $85,325,340 for the same months in 1895.

THE RIGHT TO TAX MONEY.

The question of the right to tax the moneys of a resident of New Jersey on deposit in a New York bank, after the death of the depositor in New Jersey, has given rise to an emphatic difference of opinion in the Court of Appeals. One John F. Hondayer of Trenton, N. J., died in that city last year, having on deposit upward of $70,000 with the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company of New York. The money thus deposited belonged partly to him individually and partly as trustee, but the account was in his name as trustee. The Surrogate held that the deposit was taxable under the Transfer Tax act. The Appellate Division reversed that officer, and declared that the deposits were not property within the State, under a proper construction of the Statute, but that upon receiving them the trust company merely became indebted to the depositor for the amount which it had received from him. On Tuesday the Court of Appeals, in turn, reversed the Supreme Court, a majority of the Judges saying, through Judge Vann, that they "are of the opinion that a deposit of money in a bank, although technically a debt, is still money for all practical purposes, and as such is taxable under the Transfer Tax act." Judges Gray and Haight dissent on the ground that when Mr. Hondayer made the deposits they became the property of the trust company, and the relation thus created was simply that of debtor and creditor.

At the Republican Convention for the Sixth Congressional District of New Jersey, including East Orange and Newark, which was held in Newark yesterday afternoon, Representative Parker was unanimously renominated.

New Jersey and Delaware, neighboring States, have usually voted on the same side in State and Presidential elections since the close of the Civil War. Once only since 1864 has New Jersey been carried by the Republicans in a Presidential year. That was in 1872, and in the same election Delaware was lost to the Democrats. This year both States are claimed with confidence for McKinley. Both chose Republican Governors at the last election for that office.

Did Not Mean the Evangelist.

To the Editor of The Daily Press:—I understand that the report of my speech on Saturday last, in this city, has conveyed the thought that my reference to Mr. Moody was intended for the evangelist. This is not correct. I distinctly said a Republican political speaker by the name of Moody had said some weeks ago in this city that "Jim Martine would sell his soul for a political job." I said he was a falsifier and did not know me; that the citizens of Plainfield knew I was prompted from principle in my political earnestness, and "I did not believe a man who would make such a statement had a soul worth saving."

Respectfully,
J. E. Martine.

Plainfield Man Got the Contract.

On Monday evening last a contract for grading, macadamizing, curbing and guttering on one of the public streets of the borough of Hasbrouck Heights, Bergen county, was awarded to David Bowden, of this city, the work to be under the supervision of F. A. Dunham, C. E.

Many political speakers, clergymen, singers and others who use the voice excessively, rely upon One Minute Cough Cure to prevent huskiness and laryngitis. Its value as a preventive is only equalled by its power to afford instaneous relief. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

The Darlington, Wis., Journal says editorially of a popular patent medicine: "We know from experienee that Chamberlain's Colic, Cholera and Diarrhoea Remedy is all that is claimed for it, as on two occasions it stopped excruciating pains and possibly saved us from an untimely grave. We would not rest easy over night without it in the house." This remedy undoubtably saves more pain and suffering than any other medicine in the world. Every family should keep it in the house, for it is sure to be needed sooner or later. For sale by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

THE SCENIC BEAUTIES.

ferny, mossy glens, and slopes very much like those of the Hudson Highlands at Garrisons—only, instead of the fair river at the bottom, there is the sea roaring over rocks at the foot of the cliffs—and then, mile upon mile of heather and rusty bracken-carpeting, bare round hill tops with never a tree or bush; and, after that, rolling stretches of the greenest pasture land, marked out in quaint shapes by the hedgerows, and full of cattle and sheep, grazing. There, on top of the coach we could see well over the country; and when one's imagination seemed most inland, a sudden turn on a high bit of road would bring us in sight of the sea again, stretching away to the north.

We reached Lynton about dusk, and found it a pretty old village on the very top of a steep wooded mountain. We went to a hotel mentioned by Baedeker, and found it delightful; small, but with all possible comforts. There we ate a good dinner, after our three hour's ride, and slept a long night. Next morning we got a light "trap," with a strong, homely horse and a good driver, and started off on a nine-mile drive to Malmsmead, a hamlet of four houses at the entrance to the valley where the famous robber Doones lived two centuries ago, and which Blackmore romanced about in his quaint "Lorna Doone." That drive was lovelier than the coach ride, if possible. We followed a stream called the East Lyn in its windings around the hills, to the place where another stream joins it in a most picturesque glen, with much cascading and foam and spray. That they call "Watersmeet." From there we followed the other stream—the "Brendon Water," leaving it sometimes to cross a hill, but finding it again. At Malmsmead we left the "trap," and took a rug, a basket of sandwiches and a couple of copies of Lorne Doone, and marched away for three miles along the "Bagworthy Water," through a delightful valley. We found the ruins of the house where a daughter of the Doones really did live, and where Blackmore put Lorna, and there we sat and ate our luncheon, and then read for two hours in the warm sunshine with heather-covered hills all around shutting off the wind. We were quite alone. I had my doubts about our going off so—and the valley was the most deserted place I have ever seen—but all the natives laughed, and said that they had no railroads to bring rough characters, and that a tramp had never been seen in the country, and so sure enough, quite safe we were. We reached Malmsmead again between four and five, and found that one of the farmer's daughters had spread out tea for us—bread and butter, jam, cream, and tea itself—and very delicious at that. Then we drove home by another way, past Plovers' Barrows farm where John Ridd lived, and past Oare Church, where he married Lorna, and past Nicholas Snowe's farm—all the names are just as Blackmore wrote them, and much of his novel is history—and so, suddenly back to the sea, which we followed to Lynton. It was the most beautiful day that I have had in the whole year, and I think it will take a long time to jog it out of my memory.

This morning we came in the coach back to Ilfracombe and music work. Tomorrow, if it is clear, (which doesn't seem too probable) we want to go on an hour's journey with the little steamer toward the west, to Clovelly, which is an old fishing village, and very quaint, according to all accounts. Charles Kingsley has to do with it in "Westward Ho!"

HINTS TO ADVERTISERS.

All sorts of men must advertise,
From patriarchs to lads;
The baker always needs his puffs,
The carpenter his adz.

The length of each advertisement
Needs cogitation solemn;
The angler only needs a line,
But the general wants a column.

The tenor of their ads, besides,
Needs long deliberations;
The old maid seeks "Help Wanted, Male,"
The playwright, situations.

The printing, too, requires some care,
As one cannot deny:
The baby likes his in small caps,
The housewife uses pie.

So each and all must advertise,
Each find his missing link,
The babe, the maid, the boy, the man,
Babtized in printer's ink.

NEWS OF THE SUBURBS.

THINGS THAT INTEREST SCOTCH PLAINS AND DUNELLEN.

Brief and Terse Observations Gathered by Alert Press Reporters to be Perused at the Supper Table at Your Leisure

SCOTCH PLAINS.

Turton & Co. are making a fine display in their store.

Tax Assessor Norman C. Dunn is busy making out his tax bills. Some of them are of long standing and the interest and costs alone will nearly equal the original bill.

Work on the new Terrill road bridge over the Central Railroad tracks is progressing favorably. Within a week it is thought that the heavy iron girders will be in position.

"Politics don't make one bit of difference in my business," said a Scotch Plains merchant yesterday. I'm here to sell, and until the street cars come—which won't be this year—I shall continue on my old ratio of business.

Whether or not the Democratic flag which was so badly wrecked by the storm on Saturday, will again be put up, it is hard to say. It was so badly torn that it can hardly be put out again so as to make a presentable appearance.

DUNELLEN.

Bicycling is bad here in town and so are the roads.

Miss Mamie VanPelt has returned to her Manasquan home after a brief visit with Mrs. Jane Apgar.

H. Giles, having satisfied the chattel mortgage against his stock, is about to reopen and thoroughly restock his store.

Baker Paul Reusch was again operated on by Drs. Ard and Long, Saturday afternoon. The patient is recovering rapidly.

Miss Florence A. Howard, of Greenpoint, L. I., has been spending a few days with her uncle and aunt, Mr. and Mrs. A. W. Warden.

John Scott, of Plainfield, has opened a wholesale liquor store on the main street, he having secured a license from the county court at New Brunswick.

T. J. Romayn, assistant agent at the Dunellen depot, who has been relieved from duty while attending the death-bed scenes and funeral of his brother, returned to his charge yesterday.

The post office has had its share of handling political documents during the past week or ten days. Literature has been sent in in large quantities, and the clerks have had much extra work in sorting it.

The board of registration met in the W. C. T. U. rooms yesterday and went over the original registry lists. Only a few names were added, however. The total vote in the borough will probably not exceed 300.

The town hall will be ready for occupancy on or about Nov. 15th. Work on the interior of the building has been stopped temporarily on account of a necessary wait for the patent lathing which is to adorn the interior of the building.

An entertainment will be given in the Baptist church at New Market this evening by O. C. Gilbert and sons, of Philadelphia, who were formerly slaves in Maryland. The entertainment is given under the auspices of the Christian Endeavor society.

The first reception of the Dunellen Athletic Association was held in Friendship Hall, New Market, last evening, and it was largely attended. Prof. O'Reilly, of Plainfield, furnished the music for dancing. The association will give a series of dances during the winter.

Mrs. J. B. Wright, of Brunswick, Ga., will sail from New York for home on Friday. Mrs. Wright was yesterday notified by mail that the recent storm and hurricane had carried out to sea a handsome steam launch owned by her, and that damage to the extent of about $3,000 had been done to her property and outbuildings.

—A team of horses left untied in front of Caspar's Hotel, on East Front street, at 1 o'clock today, walked away from the curb and were nearly run into by a trolley car. Some people are under the impression that they can leave their horses wherever they choose, untied and unattended, but this is a mistake, as there is a city ordinance making it a misdemeanor to leave horses untied on the public highways.

PARTICULAR MENTION.

Mr. DeForest, of Troy, called on Plainfield friends yesterday.

Frank W. Cleaver, of Coddington avenue, is recovering from a serious illness.

Samuel Boss, of Central avenue and Fifth street, will leave for Nebraska on Monday next, to be gone for about two months.

Rev. Dr. A. H. Lewis, of Central avenue, will leave town tomorrow to take up his new line of work.

Mrs. Abbott, of Crescent avenue, is watching at the bedside of her brother, who is very ill at his home in Bayonne.

Dr. Cady, of Brooklyn, has taken up his residence at 927 Central avenue. Mr. Cady is a dentist and has a large business in the city.

Crane & Clark, the men's furnishers, have just received a large stock of men and boys sweaters, cardigan jackets and underwear, which they offer at a very low figure.

F. B. Thorn, who fractured his leg while alighting from a passenger car at Clinton avenue a few weeks ago, has so far recovered from the injuries as to go out again, and today for the first time he was able to go to New York.

If Troubled with Rheumatism Read This.

Annapolis, Md., Apr. 16, 1894.—I have used Chamberlain's Pain Balm for rheumatism and found it to be all that is claimed for it. I believe it to be the best preparation for rheumatism and deep seated muscular pains on the market and cheerfully recommend it to the public. Jno. G. Brooks, dealer in boots, shoes, etc., No. 18 Main street.

ALSO READ THIS.

Mechanicsville, St. Mary County, Md. —I sold a bottle of Chamberlain's Pain Balm to a man who had been suffering with rheumatism for several years. It made him a well man. A. J. McGill. For sale at 50c. per bottle by T. S. Armstrong, druggist.

Tetter, eczema and all similar skin troubles are cured by the use of DeWitt's Witch Hazel Salve. It soothes at once, and restores the tissues to their natural condition, and never fails to cure piles. L. W. Randolph 143 West Front street.

EARLY INTELLIGENCE.

—Have you heard about J. Linn Edsall's "new methods?"

—The "new methods" at J. Linn Edsall's has doubled up the trade there.

—The "new methods" at J. Linn Edsall's means a great saving to the buyer.

George Babcock, of West Eighth street, has been confined at home with illness.

—Goodwill Lodge, No. 101, K. of P., of Scotch Plains, will meet tomorrow evening.

—The North Plainfield Board of Education will meet Monday evening October 26th.

—What does the "new methods" at J. Linn Edsall's mean? Lower prices on every article in the store.

—The much talked about and advertised "new methods" at J. Linn Edsall's is what does the business.

Chronic constipation is a painful, disagreeable and life-shortening difficulty. It deranges the system, causes sickheadache, bad breath, and poisons the blood. It can be readily overcome by DeWitts' Little Early Risers. These little pills are great regulators. L. W. Randolph, 143 West Front street.

Rheumatism Cured in a Day.

"Mystic Cure" for Rheumatism and Neuralgia radically cures in 1 to 3 days. Its action upon the system is remarkable and mysterious. It removes at once the cause and the disease immediately disappears. The first dose greatly benefits; 75 cents. Sold by T. S. Armstrong, druggist, Plainfield, corner Park and North ave.

PLAINFIELD'S BUSIEST STORE.

We Sell Goods Cheaper than any other Store in Town

There Are

Two little words that are frequently used in our every-day life; words of deep meaning—COMMON SENSE are the words, and the common sense of the people tells them that the merchant who buys for cash and sells for cash is in a position to sell you merchandise cheaper than all others, and when you read advertisements that tell of goods worth $1.00, and sold for 50c., your common sense tells you it IS NOT SO.

Ladies' and Children's Coats, Suits and Capes.
